Order of Publication

Office of the Board of County School Commissioners of Garrett County.

Oakland Md., February 18, 1916.

To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county, Maryland.

Gentlemen:—

In compliance with the provisions of Section 125, Chapter 17, Article 77 of the Annotated Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, we herewith submit to your honorable body the estimated amounts and itemized statements of cost necessary to maintain the following High Schools in Garrett County, Maryland, for the scholastic year 1916-1617:

N. B.—The estimate submitted March 2, 1915, of costs necessary to maintain high schools in Garrett County, Maryland, for the scholastic year 1915-1916, embraced $1,100 00 for a proposed State high school of the second group to be established at Kitzmiller; however, in view of the fact that the proposed high school was not approved as such by the State Superintendent of Schools, the county high school was continued, the difference in cost between the proposed State high school of the second group and the county high school which was continued, was transferred or credited to the general public school fund of the county.

By order of the Board of County Schoo Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland February 18, 1916.

4-35 F. E. RATHBUN, Secretary.

This levy is made in accordance with said Chapter 386, section 123, of the Acts of 1916. Said Section 123 reads as follows:

Each High School in the first group in the counties of Maryland shall receive State aid on the basis of cost of instructions and in the following manner: The sum of six hundred dollars on account of the principal, and the sum of three hundred dollars on account of each of the first three assistants for regular high school work; the sum of four hundred dollars on account of each of two special teachers who shall spend not less than two-fifths of their time in the high school receiving said amounts; and the sum of one hundred dollars on account of each additional teacher; provided the total amount does not exceed the sum of twenty five hundred dollars. In this article the term special teacher shall be construed to mean a teacher of commercial, manual training or domestic science or agricultural branches. Each high school in the counties of Maryland of the second group shall receive State aid on the basis of the cost of instruction and in the following manner: The sum of six hundred dollars on account of the principal; the sum of four hundred dollars on account of one assistant teacher employed for regular high school work, and the sum of four hundred dollars on account of the instructor of special subjects to be designated by the County School Board; provided that if an instructor in manual training or agricultural work be required to divide his or her time among not more than two schools of this group, one hundred and fifty dollars shall be allowed on account of each of such scoools; provided also, that the amount to be received by each of the four high schools of Baltimore City shall be equal to the maximum amount received on account of any high school in the counties of the State; provided further, that the Board of County School Commissioners of each county shall submit annually to the County Commissioners of their respective counties, at least thirty days prior to the date for making the usual county levy for school purposes a list of all high schools of the county, including those not entitled to State aid, as well as those classified in this article, and an itemized statement of the cost of maintaining the same, and the said Board of County Commissioners shall make a separate levy for high schools, publish the same once a week for three successive weeks prior to the date of making the said levy, in one or more county papers.

By order of the Board.

W. G. MEYERS, Clerk.

NOTICE

I have given up the Ford Automobile agency, and anyone contemplating the purchase of a Ford will do well to see me before my stock ie gone or wait for the big Ford sale which will be advertised later. I have just received 16 new cars—five Roadsters and 11 Touring, to be sold in the next two weeks. This is your opportunity—not mine.

THE REPUBLICAN.

THE NEW CITY COUNCIL WAS ORGANIZED MONDAY NIGHT

Henry Lauer Made Its President and Arthur Lawton Elected Clerk.

Two of the three recently elected members of the City Council, Messrs. Samuel Aronhalt and Harry West, along with the holdover members, Messrs. Henry Lauer, J. B. Cheuvront and George Little, organized the new council at the regular meeting of that body on Monday night by the election of Mr. Lauer as its President and Mr. Arthur Lawton, Clerk of the body.

Mr. D. E. Bolden, the third member chosen at the election early in March, did not qualify owing to the fact that he is now and will remain a member of the Board of Supervisors of Elections until May 1st and hence would disqualify himself as such by becoming a member of Council.

The new members of the governoring body of the corporation qualified as such before Mayor Giessman, to whom the oath of office had been administered by Clerk of the Circuit Court Tower earlier in the day, succeeding Mr. A. T. Matthews as Mayor, whose term expired with the swearing in of the new officer.

Immediately after the organization of Council had been affected Mayor Giessman submitted his appointments and these were confirmed at once, being as follows: Night watchman, Patrick Maroney, who will go on duty at nine o'clock in the evening and remain on duty until six o'clock every morning; and Mr. J. C. Renninger, attorney to Council.

Council elected the following, in addition to Mr. Lawton, its clerk: Mr. James D. Hamill, tax collector; Mr. Thomas Little, treasurer; Mr. Harry Lowenstein, water superintendent. These officers were elected by acclamation being the only applicants for the respective positions. Upon the election of Mr. Lowenstein as water superintendent he was highly commended by President Lauer of Council for the splendid work he has done since he was placed in charge of the water system. By his methods and mechanical ability a deficit has been turned into an asset of many hundreds of dollars and the fact that at all times a bountiful supply of water is at hand is owing to the efficiency of the superintendent and a matter of satisfaction to the residents of Oakland.

It was determined by Council that ordinances relating to gambling and the curfew are to be put in force. The latter will be stictly enforced after May 1st, when the signal will be given at 9,30 o'clock by the fire whistle when all coming under the provisions of the law are expected to obey it in every particular.

An order was passed directing that the old town lockup on Third street be torn down and the lot cleared of all rubbish and put in a sanitary and presentable condition.

Mr. Lawson L. Loar, by counsel, asked that he be allowed the privilege of extending a water main from the city water works to his country residence near town, he (Mr. Loar) to bear all expenses for the same and to pay for water consumed. Order passed

An order was passed directing that draft for $25 be issued Councilman Cheuvront for services rendered as Town Clerk during the past eight months, after which an adjournment was had.

New Road Machinery Arrives.

At the last meeting of the County Commissioners that body purchased from the manufacturers new road machinery, including a ten ton steam roller and stone crusher and three road scrapers, all of which have arrived in Oakland and were unloaded from the cars yesterday. The need of a stone crusher has been felt for a number of years by the Commissioners and its purchase just at this time when work on new roads is about to begin will be doubly appreciated. Being mounted on trucks it can be taken to any point in the county where needed.

SENATOR H. J. SPEICHER IS CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Will Seek Republican Nomination in Sixth District.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 31.—Senator Harvey J. Speicher, of Garrett, to-night announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination in the Sixth Congressional district. The candidate says he has decided to enter the fight after serious consideration extending over several months and after he has been urged by a number of prominent Republicans of the district.

Senator Speicher says that for 24 years Allegany county has had the Congressman from the district and that before that time Washington, Frederick and Montgomery had the Congressman for a number of terms and that Garrett is the only county of the district that has never had a representative in Congress.

In further pointing out his own qualifications Senator Speicher added: "I am allied with no faction or clique in our party. I have a record of eight years in the state Senate of faithful and diligent and, I hope, effective service for my county and state to the best of my ability. I have done my duty through four sessions at Annapolis, and I know the people of my own county are satisfied with what I have done.

"I shall begin my campaign next week, when the session ends. I shall visit every section of the district and as far as I can endeavor to see the voters so that they may be able to form an opinion as to my ability to represent them at Washington."

"If elected, I shall devote my whole time and energy to my work. I shall represent the whole district and no particular section or individual shall be favored over the others."

SCHOOLS CLOSE TODAY

The school year insofar as Garrett county's elementary branches are concerned will close at noon today when the scholastic year ends as directed by the Board of School Commissioners of the county when the schools opened last September.

During the week closing examinations were conducted in every school of the county when uniform questions for the grades were submitted to the students and upon the answers returned to their respective teachers depend their advancement to the next higher grade.

With the closing of the grammar school in Oakland today at noon the High School, which was forced to close on account of the partial wrecking of the high school building by the recent storm, convened in the grammar school building where classes will be conducted until the close of the term early in June of the present year.

Printing Material Advances Again.

Under date of the 1st inst. this office was in receipt of the following notice from one of the jobbers from whom is purchased much of the material used in printing in The Republican's several departments:

"The continued advance in the price of all grades of paper has made it impossible for us to issue a price list or even keep you posted as to prices. The situation is growing more serious each day, the mills at this time having withdrawn all prices and are accepting orders subject to their ability to secure raw materials, and to be billed at market price at the time of shipment."

Sheriff's Sale Postponed.

The sheriff's sale of the Col. John T. McGraw summer home at Deer Park, which was advertised to take place on the premises last Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, has been postponed until a date to be fixed later by the parties interested. The sale was called by the officer, Former Sheriff Scott, and a bid was made, but by direction of others who hold prior claims on the real estate the sheriff withdrew the sale and announced its postponement. Those who were present at Deer Park on Saturday from out of the county were Messrs. George M. Hayes and H. M. Wolf, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Mr. George Heckmer, of Grafton, W. Va., who is Col. McGraw's private secretary.

A Trio of Swift Ones.

Lem Saucepan went to a specialist in Turnip Ridge last Saturday to have a raindrop removed from his eye, which flew in while he was admiring the new face on the town clock Wednesday.

Bill Mutton had his nose blown off with dynamite while blasting stumps on his sheep ranch last Wednesday. What worries Bill most is that he has nothing left to rest his specs on.

Bob Spook's turkeys, which have been roosting in his wife's hen-house, have the chickenpox.

MEETING FOR POTATO GROWERS ANNOUNCED

To be Held at First National Bank, Saturday, April 8th, at 1 O'clock.

The First National Bank of Oakland has arranged with Prof. C. E. Temple, from the Government Experiment Station, to give practical instructions in the raising of seed potatoes, on Saturday, the 8th inst, in rooms of the bank building.

Prof. Temple is an expert in this line, and will cover the ground thoroughly, giving the best methods in selecting seed, preparing the ground, what fertilizer to use, how to cultivate, how to dig and when, and also how to prevent blight and other diseases.

The meeting will be held in the bank building where a room has been prepared, and everyone in Garrett county is most cordially invited to attend this meeting.

Prof. Temple will be at the bank building all day Saturday, and will be very glad to meet all that will come, and to talk over any matter of interest before the regular meeting at one o'clock.

The bank has also arranged to furnish seed to anyone at first cost—seed that is pure and true to name, and a large dealer in Baltimore has agreed to buy all seed potatoes raised.

Do not miss this opportunity to hear this lecture. Garrett county has a great source of wealth in the raising of seed potatoes.

To Give Trees Away.

As a practical feature in connection with the celebration of Arbor Day in all of the public schools throughout the state, and for the good which it is said comes to every child through the planting and caring for a tree, the Harrison Nurseries of Berlin, Md., have offered to donate to each teacher and pupil in all the schools a fruit tree. State Senator Orlando B. Harrison is at the head of these nurseries.

MESSRS. J. M. DAVIS & SONS

Will Dissolve Partnership and Expect to Retire From Business.

Messrs. J. M. Davis & Sons, the Oakland hardware dealers have dissolved partnership by mutual consent and will retire from the hardware business.

The name of Davis has been associated with the mercantile business of Oakland ever since it was a town of any consequence and the retirement from active pursuits of this firm will be a source of regret to many.

The firm will offer their entire stock for sale at reduced prices, retail as well as wholesale or in bulk. After they have disposed of their heavy stock which at this season of the year, is quite large, they will offer their store room for rent.

The reduced price sale will begin on Monday, the 10th inst., and while the old firm regrets to take this step conditions are such that they deem it advisable.

Special Election In West Virginia.

Governor Henry D. Hatfield of West Virginia, has issued his proclamation setting Tuesday, the 9th day of May, as the day upon which a special election is to be held in the Second District of West Virginia for the purpose of electing a successor to the late Congressman William G. Brown. Former Senator Sam B. Montgomery, of Kingwood, is a Republican candidate for the nomination, and Col. Wm. G. Lavelle, of Tunnelton, is the only Democratic candidate thus far.

Champs End Season With Many Scalps

The Coney Champs have just closed after a successful basketball season. The Champs played 28 games, losing only 4. But one game was lost on the Coney floor, that one being lost to the Oakland Collegians, and was the first game lost on the home floor for three years. The other games were lost to Davis and Elkins College and two to Keyser. Each member of the team received as his share of the spoils $61.94.

The Champs played some of the best teams in Marylnad and other states.

SPLENDID NEIGHBORS ARE THOSE GRANTSVILLE FOLKS

Helping Hands Always Lovingly Extended in Times of Sickness and Trouble—An Appreciation of Their Kindness.

BY SARAH ROBERTA GETTY.

Those of us who have read Mary Wilkins Freeman's "Neighborhood Tales" have been charmed with them, but when it comes to real, bona fide, neighborliness little old Grantsville is right on the map, and most especially is this true during illness. Not that one need be ill to be convinced of the kindness of one's neighbors here, as you get daily evidence of it. Should you want to give a party or dinner, every housewife's china and silver are at your disposal immediately, together with offers of assistance. Should complications arise in making your new frock or in other sewing, some one will always help you adjust the difficult problem. Should your new receipe fail, depend upon it one of the neighbors will have a time honored one in its stead. These are but a few of their good qualities,

But when sickness visits your family then it is that you realize that there are people who obey the divine injunction, "Love your neighbor as yourself," and without these ministering angels in human form, life would indeed be a dreary waste.

In case of fever there are always willing hands to soothe and allay the pain until a nurse arrives, and often all through the siege. Should you have grip, hot water bottles and mustard plasters appear as if by magic. If an old-fashioned case of nerves, somebody chafes your hands and smoothes your brow and makes you "comfy" in so many ways you forget you ever had any nerves. If, as occasionally happens, you get a baby, the neighbors have it dressed spick and span, weigh it, give it a dose of catnip or "cambrick" tea and put the dear little thing to sleep before you can say "Jack Robinson!" In the bright lexicon of the village there is no such word as "midwife." Taking care of babies is a community privilege and accepted as such.

And the meals you get when you're sick! yum! yum! they more than compensate you for your aches and pains. You may believe it or not, but there are at least seventeen varieties of broths, all of them delicious, and the milk, cream, eggs, fruit, jelly, ice-cream, toast, custards and so on through the list—well, I'll warrant that half the people who read this will want to come to Grantsville just to get sick, and its worth it. But maybe you don't want the measles, or the mumps, or the whooping cough, or a baby, or the grippe or any of these things? Well then, gentle reader, just try getting a case of nervous prostration in the middle of your spring cleaning! Now, of course, nobody would deliberately get sick even with good neighbors, but you see this is the way it happens: You get all your rooms torn up and things go wrong and you get nervous because there's usually going to be a wedding, or a reunion, or its your turn to entertain the club, or maybe the minister is coming to dinner. Any of these upsetting things may happen you, and as I said, you just get to hurrying and trying to do three days' work in one, and something happens and there you are!

But, bless your dear heart, while there's a neighbor there's hope, in Grantsville, and pretty soon the word goes around and, forgetful of their own cares and worries, tender hands help you up from the debris of wall paper remnants, stepladders and furniture, and get you to bed with hot and cold compresses where they will do the most good, and they lower the blinds, and tip-toe out leaving you in agony of mind regarding the unfinished tasks that loom so darkly on your domestic horizon. But you needn't worry, for presently there comes to your ears a symphony of heavenly sounds in which the scraping of furniture across the floor and the hurried beating of carpet mingle with the rhythmic music of the hammer and tacks and the clinking of your best china in capable hands, and you, you just snuggle shamelessly into the cool sheets, and simultaneously with the heavenly noises the cobwebs are cleared away from your brain and the tired lines go out of your face, and presently you feel the big tears of relief running down your face and you murmur: "Dear Lord, how I do love these neighbors of mine," (as well you should) and then you go to sleep, while downstairs the work goes merrily on, because, you see, the reputation of the village is at stake.

A fanciful picture, do you ask? Oh! no; just a little glimpse of real life, a little drop of the milk of human kindness which is found in every breast. You have them, please God they will always exist, for they give you what money cannot buy—Love—and living among them daily, you think of the Master's words: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye did it unto Me."

On May 1st next the Republicans of the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland will nominate their candidate for Congress. The responsibility of choosing their standard-bearer is placed upon the individual Republicans of the District, and it is to them I am addressing this appeal for support.

I shall not at this time go thoroughly into the important issues confronting the people of our country or my individual ideas of what should be done to make for progress, protection, prosperity and preparedness; not only against war, but for peace and for commercial expansion and supremacy.

Individual ideas, no matter how strongly buttressed in times like these, must be put through the great melting pot of intelligent and serious conference. The Republicans of the nation will meet in convention at Chicago on June 7th next to nominate the party's standard-bearer for President and Vice President of the United States and to adopt the platform upon which they and, in fact, all the party's candidates must stand and seek the support of the States and the Nation.

My ideas are based upon conditions as I now see them. These conditions may change by the time our party's platform is built and our candidates placed before the people upon its planks—a platform which I believe will bring victory to our party and substantial and lasting prosperity to our people.

As to my subscribing to that platform and doing my utmost to carry out its pledges, if elected I point to and stand squarely upon my record in the Senate of Maryland during the sessions of 1910, 1912, 1914 and 1916, and to my stewardship as my party's floor leader in the Senate in 1914 and 1916, an honor which my colleagues bestowed upon me unanimously.

In the State Senate I have stood for all constructive and humanitarian legislation, irrespective of where such legislation originated. If nominated and elected to the Congress of the United States I shall stand then, as I have always stood, for the greatest good for the people of my District, our State and the Nation.

My duties at Annapolis will preclude my making a lengthy canvass, as the Assembly will not adjourn until less than a month before the primaries. In the brief time left me I shall endeavor to personally meet all the voters of the Sixth Maryland District. Meanwhile I am addressing myself to them and seeking their support for the Republican nomination for Congress from the District.

FREDERICK N. ZIHLMAN.

SENATOR ZIHLMAN'S RECORD

Served in the State Senate during the sessions of 1910-12-14-16 and executed the duties of Republican Senate Floor Leader during the sessions of 1914 and 1916, after having been elected unanimously by his colleagues both times.

During his four sessions Senator Zihlman has worked for and supported much constructive and humanitarian legislation, among which were the Public Utilities Act, Workman's Compensation Law, Ten-Hour Law for Women, Corrupt Practices Act, Uniform Election Laws, Direct Primaries, Penal Reform measures, Good Roads, Health laws, Child Labor Law, State Care of the Insane, Reduction of Legislative Expenses, the Miners' and Operators' Co-Operative Relief Law and many other equally important measures.

ALTAMONT

Miss Dessie Lohr, of Oakland, is visiting at Mrs. Sarah Wilburn's this week.

Mr. C. H. Merrill was automobiling Sunday.

Grandma Rexroad was called to Swanton Sunday to attend the funeral of her grandson.

Miss Irene Friend spent Sunday at A. M. Jeffery's.

The entertainment given at Wilson school house on Saturday evening was a perfect success in every respect. Although the house was over crowded, the best of order prevailed and the audience was kept entertained for three hours. The plays and funny farces brought roars of laughter, as also did the number of splendid readings which were given. Very fine music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Frank DeWitt and daughter. The efficient teacher, Miss Naomi Lohr, and pupils of the community certainly deserve great credit for the interest taken and the able rendition of the program making up the entertainment.

Mrs. Mary West, of Piedmont, W. Va., visited at the home of Mrs. Geo. Walters over Sunday.

HUTTON

Miss Margaret Feeney, of Edgewood, and Mrs. Martin Pendergast, of Hutton, were Oakland visitors Tuesday of last week.

Mr. Jos. T. Pendergast returned to Akron one day last week, after a month's visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael W. Pendergast.

It is rumored that the Tioga Tanning Co., contemplates enlarging its plant at Hutton in the near future.

Mr. Whipp, of Crellin, accompanied by the Misses Dent, of that place, were Hutton visitors Sunday.

The Car that Satisfies Every Automobile Desire

$665 F. O. B. FLINT

The 1916 Dort sells for $665, yet it has the appearance and looks of a considerably more expensive car.

Electric starting, electric lighting, demountable rims, extra rim, gasoline gauge and speedometer on dash—and all those little conveniences that make motoring a pleasure are yours if you own a Dort.

There is plenty of seat and leg room, too, in the 1916 Dort, both in the driver's compartment and in the tonneau. You never feel cramped in a Dort. In short, the 1916 Dort is a car that satisfies every automobile desire at a price well within the reach of most families

THIRD AIR RAID ON BRITAIN
KAISER'S FLAG IN MALANCOURT
VERDUN NOOSE IS TIGHTENED

After the Occupation of Vaux Crown Prince Sends Fresh Division Into Action, But Attack Is Stopped and Then Thrown Back---Battle Goes On Furiously

FIVE ZEPPELINS MAKE RAID ON ENGLISH SEA COAST

London.—Malancourt, a strongly fortified village nine miles northwest of Verdun, was captured by the Germans when the Crown Prince resumed his furious assaults on both sides of the River Meuse. An attack from three sides by massed German legions drove the French out of the village, an important highway communication point, but the French still hold redoubts commanding the highways. The battle continued all night.

The German War Office announced that not only the village but French defensive positions on both sides of it were captured and that the Germans took 328 prisoners.

The French hold on the village of Bethincourt, two miles east of Malancourt was seriously threatened by the capture of Malancourt. It appears certain that the next great German attack on the west bank of the Meuse will be directed against Bethincourt.

South of Malancourt the Crown Prince met with defeat in a renewal of his efforts to clear the French out of Avocourt wood. Two German attacks, the French War Office stated, were repulsed. The Germans also failed in attacks against French works near Haudiamont, southeast of Verdun.

In an aerial fight in the region of Arras and Bapaume the British lost three biplanes. Two of their occupants were dead. Lieutenant Immelmann thus accounted for his thirteenth enemy aeroplane, Berlin stated.

The city of Verdun was set ablaze in three parts. The village of Belleville, northeast of Verdun, was also fired by German shells.

The French attempted to relieve the pressure on Verdun by attacking the German front between Rheims and the Argonne, using poisonous gas. A German artillery officer declared the attack was stopped wholly by artillery. In four hours, he said, his guns fired 2,000 shells, indicating something of the nature of the bombardment the French had to face around Verdun.

Five Zeppelins raided the East Coast of England and dropped 80 or more bombs.

London.—For the third time in as many days, a Zeppelin fleet ravaged England. The southeastern counties, which have been the special object of attack recently, the northern counties and even points in Scotland were visited.

German official statements received here say that in the first of their raids the Zeppelins passed over this city, dropping bombs in the district between the Tower bridge and the docks and on military camps. The British official reports make no mention of an attack on London.

While the results of the night's raid were not available, the partial toll from the attacks of Friday and Saturday nights stood at 69 killed and 166 wounded. Churches, dwellings and business houses were wrecked, but the military authorities in an official statement denied any material damage was done.

The regret with which the British public received news of Friday night's devastation was tempered by the knowledge that it had cost one of the enemy's precious Zeppelins. So the shock at the knowledge that raiding had been resumed was lessened when it became known that for the first time a British airman has been able to cope successfully with the great German airships.

Lieutenant Alfred Brandon, R. F. C., ascended alone to fight one of the Zeppelins. By skillful maneuvering he was able to get above it and to drop several bombs upon it, some of which are believed to have taken effect. It may have been Brandon's efforts which brought the L-15 wallowing downward into the Thames estuary, where it sank.

The Zeppelin L-15 was literally surrounded by British craft when brought down in the Thames estuary and did not have much time to escape, according to a young lieutenant of one of the British aeroplanes.

STOPPED BY FRENCH FIRE.

London.—The Germans to the northwest of Verdun in an infantry attack launched with huge effectives have gained additional ground against the French north of Malancourt and have even penetrated the northwest corner of the village.

The attempts of the Teutons to carry their advance further, however, were stopped by the French fire, as also were three counter attacks against the position in the Avoncourt Wood, south of Malancourt, which had previously been taken from them by a French infantry attack. The German official communication says that the advance of the Germans north of Malancourt was over a front of more than a mile.

During the German offensive on Malancourt the French heavy guns from the Argonne were directing their fire on the Malancourt and Avocourt woods.

Aside from the infantry attacks and counter attacks in this region a heavy bombardment has been in progress from Avocourt northeastward to Bethincourt, a distance of five miles. There has also been a continuation of the sporadic outbursts of artillery fire to the north and east of Verdun, while in the Vosges Mountains the French batteries have been keeping up their usual bombardment of German organizations.

In the Black Sea littoral the Russians are still making progress against the Turks.

HIS LOAN COUPONS WAR GIFT.

American Donates $14.06 Interest to Allies' Charities.

Paris.—The Temps received 73 francs 75 centimes in coupons, from bonds of the Anglo-French loan. The money came from "an American citizen," who wrote anonymously, requesting that the amount should either be paid into the French Treasury or disposed of in any other manner "to serve civilization, so nobly defended by the Allies." The Temps paid the sum into the Servian relief fund.

LOST 11 ON MINNEAPOLIS.

Rest of Torpedoed British Ship's Crew Safe at Malta.

London.—It is announced that 11 persons were killed when the British steamship Minneapolis, formerly in the New York-London service, was sunk last week in the Mediterranean by an enemy torpedo.

A Lloyd's dispatch from Malta, dated March 24, says: "The crew of the Minneapolis, which was torpedoed, have arrived here, with the exception of 11 men, who were lost."

ATTACKS AND COUNTER-ATTACKS

London.—After having pushed back the French lines along the westerly bend of the salient in the Malancourt region, northwest of Verdun, the Germans have desisted for the present from further efforts to advance there.

Farther to the west, however, the Crown Prince's infantry has again been counter-attacking in the Avocourt wood, several assaults having been launched in efforts to retake the positions recently lost to the French. Paris declares, however, that the attempts were fruitless.

Fighting is still going on between the British and Germans along the British end of the French line, particularly near St. Eloi, where German grenade throwers have succeeded in retaking a portion of a mine crater held by the British.

From Petrograd it is reported that the Russian offensive maneuvers along the Dvinsk-Riga front, although apparently local in character and unimportant as compared with more sweeping spectacular movements which have marked warfare on the eastern front, have already rendered the carefully constructed positions of Field Marshal von Hindenburg less secure and will, it is thought, determine the course of the coming spring campaign.

Berlin says the big offensive of the Russians in the region of Postavy has ceased and that the Russians also have given up their attacks around Lake Narocz.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

The Germans are carrying on strong offensive operations northeast and northwest of Verdun. About four and one-half miles northeast of the fortress they penetrated the Caillette wood, just outside Fort Douaumont, after a violent bombardment. The French have now entirely evacuated the village of Vaux, and have drawn their lines south of the town, but in its immediate outskirts.

Aircraft have been very active around Verdun. The French brought down three German machines, but Berlin asserts that the aerial combats have resulted in their favor.

After capturing the village of Malancourt, the Germans were subjected to an intense artillery fire by the French and made no attempt to debouch.

Violent artillery duels have been in progress between the Belgians and Germans in the region of Dixmude.

There has been a noticeable decrease in the infantry fighting on the Russian front, owing to the soggy ground due to the spring thaw.

Torpedoing of the Russian hospital ship Portugal was official announced. The vesel was sunk while wounded soldiers were on board.

WORK ON APPALACHIAN HIGHWAY TO BEGIN

First Link To Be Built From Elkins Toward Oakland.

W. E. G. Hitchins, of Frostburg, an officer of the National Old Trails Association, has recently been appointed vice-president of the Appalachian Highway Association. He will represent the State of Maryland in this organization, which was formed to promote the early completion of the proposed Appalachian Highway, which is to extend from Maine to Louisiana. It is one of the newest propositions of the great through routes to attract public attention. The project was launched at the Southern Appalachian Good Roads convention held in Bluefield, W. Va., last October. The route selected begins at Calais, Maine, and runs via Bangor, Maine, Montpelier, Vermont, Lake George and Albany, New York, Williamsport, Pa., Oakland, Md., Elkins and Bluefield, W. Va., Bristol, Tenn., Asheville, N. C., Birmingham, Ala, to New Orleans. The route follows the chain of the Appalachian Mountains, and it is claimed that the highway will be the most beautiful, from a scenic standpoint, to be found anywhere in America.

A link of this road, 22 miles long, will be built this spring at a cost of $220,000, from Elkins, W. Va., in the direction of Oakland. Elkins being on the main line of the Appalachian Highway, this new link, whenever completed to Oakland, will place this town in close touch with a great north and south motor route as well as being on one of the famous Old Trails road running east and west.

ROOSEVELT IN THE OPEN

All Pretense Dropped By Progressives Amalgamation With G. O. P. Certain.

Local politicians in all three camps are talking of nothing but the luncheon Robert Bacon gave on Friday to Colonel Roosevelt, Ex-Senator Elihu Root, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts and General Leonard Wood.

Democratic leaders looked upon the occurrence with frank amazement and prophesied that it meant the amalgamation of the Republicans and Progressives. Republican leaders, especially the Old Guard, who are not in the confidence of Mr. Root, tried hard to extract encouragement out of the situation from the angle that the Colonel was prepared to flop back to the Grand Old Party. The Progressives were unrestrainedly jubilant.

About the headquarters of the Progressive organization in the Forty-second Street Building, all pretense that Colonel Roosevelt was not in the open for the Republican nomination for President was dropped. The leaders freely declared that the Progressive National Convention at Chicago would be merely a formal matter, and that their idol would dominate the Republican convention on the same day. Progressive headquarters confidently looks forward to an official announcement to that effect either from Oyster Bay or from the Republican organization within a few days.

Republican leaders were extremely cautious in commenting on the luncheon. Before giving their views, most of them said they preferred to wait for the developments of the next few days. It seemed the general opinion among them, however, that William Barnes, ancient foe of T. R. and Republican boss in the State, was not in the counsels of those who participated in the luncheon, and that a fight to dethrone him had finally started within the Republican organization. Mr. Barnes was not visible either at Republican headquarters or at the Republican Club all day, but those who met him admitted that he was gloomy. Reached on telephone, all Mr. Barnes would say was: "I have no comment to make. Thank you for calling me. Good-bye."

Former Secretary of War, Henry L. Stimson, who is a close friend of both Root and Roosevelt, was the only one who would put his opinion into words for quotation. He said:

"The voices of the little group of irreconcilables who promptly seek to attach their own interpretation to yesterday's meeting do not carry far among the great mass of Republican voters. What yesterday's meeting does mean, in my opinion, is that Mr. Roosevelt is willing to sink past differences and irritations in a desire to present a united front of Americanism in the next campaign. It means that Mr. Root's great speech of February 15 has gone home. It means, in my opinion; that the best qualified statesman to represent this country in this crisis will be nominated by the Republicans next June and elected in November—and that man is Elihu Root."

Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the Republican National Committee, was among those entirely in the dark regarding the conference, and when asked for his opinion he said he had no comment to make at this time.—New York Sun.

MOVED, That the State House be boarded up and no more sessions of the Legislature be held for ten years. Do we hear a second to the motion?

THE MARYLAND statesmen will be kept busy for the next month or more explaining to their dearly beloved constituents why this or that bill failed of passage.

WE HAVE not heard of any Marylander wearing sackcloth and sitting in ashes as a result of the adjournment of the State Legislature. What it has accomplished will be written in the tax bills the dear people are about to receive.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE

Days for different members of the family seem to be rapidly increasing. Today "Father" comes into his own. Originally there was only "Mother's Day," certainly a pretty idea, as "mother" takes a wonderful part in the work and duty and love of the world. She is not only conducting the internal economy of the family but for some time has been active outside, trying to correct corrupt politics, laboring for the welfare of children and pleading for the peace of mankind. The hand that rocks the cradle of the world may be a small and pretty one, but it is of great strength.

"Father" has been somewhat eclipsed in some of these movements; nevertheless, it is beginning to be recognized that in them he also had a share. Therefore, as justice eventually moves in all the spheres of life his value is beginning to be recognized. Accordingly, today is specifically "Fathers' Day." There will be a program of exercises this evening at one of the large hotels and some other proceedings appropriate to the occasion elsewhere, and although, as it seems, "Mother" will be most conspicuous in the solemn ceremonies, "Father" will be also unobtrusively present. He may not fully share the distinction and honors, but he will at any rate brighten a little corner somewhere on the platform.

There may be other "days" in the future for "Grandmother" and "Grandfather," but the subject should not be pressed prematurely. It is enough to know that "Father" is being recalled to memory and recognized. He may never have reflected upon the matter before, but if he reads the speeches today, or listens to them, he will be brought to understand his share in "efficient parenthood."—Monday's Baltimore News.

GRANTSVILLE.

Samuel Wiland, of New Germany, died of cancer of the stomach last Monday, after an illness of over a year. He was 61 years old and leaves a wife and six children, most of whom are married. Funeral services at Methodist church on Wednesday closing with interment in New Germany cemetery.

Mrs. Jacob Becket, of the Cove, has been quite ill the past few weeks with heart trouble.

Gus Wm. Zeller has been spending a few days as the guest of his son, Charles, who spent Sunday in Frostburg.

Miss Beulah Bender entertained about 16 guests at her home at National Hotel Thursday night, games being the diversion. Refreshments were served.

One of the largest butcherings ever held about here took place at Jacob Folk's on Tuesday, when he, with the assistance of skilled helpers, killed and dressed 1 beef, 2 calves and 23 hogs, a large portion of which was taken to Frostburg on Wednesday for sale.

The sugar season is not as good as in former years.

A number of Frostburg people were in Grantsville Sunday.

An elaborate school entertainment will be held here April 7th and 8th.

Notice to Trespassers.

All persons are hereby warned not to trespass upon my property adjoining the town of Deer Park for the purpose of hunting or fishing. All such will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

SENATORS SING AS THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY CLOSES

Sessions Immediately Preceding Adjournment Are Comparatively Tame

ANNAPOLIS, MD., APRIL 4.—The General Assembly of 1916 is now but a memory. At 3:21 this morning the speaker's gavel fell in the House for the last time, while a hearty cheer rang through the chamber, but the Senate did not conclude its labors until 5:04 o'clock. During the last minutes following an executive session the senators grouped around President Campbell and sang Auld Lang Syne.

The ending was tame in both houses. Excepting for a few minutes when presentations were made to the presiding and floor officers, the legislators worked steadily and without emotion, their sole efforts being to wind up the current business and get home.

This afternoon the members of the Assembly are scattered throughout the state. Many of the city people left immediately after adjournment, while the county people for the most part got away before noon.

A few members will remain here for several days to watch bills which they are anxious to see receive the Executive signature or veto. The ceremonies winding up the Assembly were perhaps the most orderly seen in Annapolis in many years. The crowd was smaller than in previous years and was kept in order in the corridors by a company of Baltimore police in charge of Marshal Carter and Deputy Marshal House.

A force of headquarters detectives were also present, headed by Lieutenants Bradley and Porter, who have been in the State House for over a week. Incidently, the presence of the bluecoats and plainclothes men resulted in a lack of pillaging of committee rooms, which has occurred at many past sessions.

In the two chambers the members behaved decorously and seriously. The House chamber near the adjournment hour is usually a mass of waste paper, but Speaker Laird kept his forces in check as well as a strict schoolmaster could have managed a class full of boys.

Today is clean-up day throughout the legislative chambers of the State-house.

In the executive offices a score of lawyers, headed by Attorney General Ritchie and Secretary of State Simmons, are already going over the great mass of bills which must be signed during the next two weeks.

The revenue bills proposed by the administration that were passed will bring in not less than $500,000 a year, according to the Governor, and in the latter's estimation, $400,000 of this increase will cover the increased appropriations.

Another point most pleasing to the Governor was the economical standard set by this Assembly. The Executive stated that the total legislative appropriations of the session will be covered by $125,000 to $130,000 and this in face of a maximum expense of $150,000 set by the Goodnow Efficiency Commission. The session of 1914 cost the State $218,000. This means a saving in this session of nearly $100,000 over two years ago.

Taking the program as a whole, the State, while it has probably legislated so that greater efficiency may be attained in the administration of its affairs has, in reality, added to its administrative expenses and created more offices than it abolished. Indeed, it is rather hard to discover where any of the faithful have lost out in the economy program.

The administration measures which went through and which were pointed out by the Governor today as strong accomplishments are headed by the constitutional amendment proposing a budget system for making all appropriations by the chief executive. Another is the bill abolishing continuing appropriations. Other measures that succeeded and which were of especial interest to the Governor were the creating the conservation commission and transfering the duties of many existing state offices to this body; the Penal Reform bill abolishing contract labor and creating the Board of Prison Control, the consolidation bill bringing together a number of existing state social and labor offices under the reorganized Bureau of Labor and Statistics; establishment of a law department and abolition of the offices of most of the existing special counsels to state boards; the bill placing the tobacco inspector, the Live Stock Sanitary Board and all other boards having to do with the agricultural interests of the state, under the Maryland Agricultural College measure; transfer of the duties of the state vaccine agent to the State Board of Health; reorganization of the educational interests of the state under the educational survey measure; establishment of a uniform system of accounting and uniform fiscal year; eatablishment of a uniform period for collection of state taxes; the bill transferring the duties of the state fire marshall to the insurance commissioner's office; reduction of the States Roads Commission from seven to three members; regulation of the printing of state reports and general state printing; creation of a special $2,000,000 loan to cover the existing treasury deficit, abolition of the envelope system and establishment of a registration day before the primaries; reorganization of the State Board of Aid and Charities, and the placing of all state appropriations on a per capita basis, creation of a $3,000,000 general loan, including a large amount for new road building.

In addition to these the Governor pointed out that the measures producing a new annual revenue of at least $500,000 passed, including the following: New motor vehicle bill increasing fees for automobiles and motor-cycles, a new traders' license law, a collateral inheritance tax, a direct inheritance tax, an increase in the liquor licenses, franchise tax, omnibus traders' law and the creation of a moving-picture censor board.

The only measure of importance defeated that carried an administration label was the home rule bill, to carry out the amentment ratified by the voters at the last election. The Governor today was inclined to believe that the bill was too drastic to suit many of the county people.

Another bill of statewide interest passed was the Mother's Pension bill, and another measure conceived by Dr. George Walker, chairman of the late State Vice Commission, prohibiting the separation of a mother and child until the infant is six months old. Both bills went through when it was thought neither had a ghost of a chance.

That the Senate is more progressive than the House was indicated by the passage through the upper body of the woman suffrage amendment, the initiative and referendum amendment and the home-rule bills, all of which met death in the House.

The newspapers last week put Delegate Fox, chairman of the Garrett county delegatism in a very unfavorable position.

Mr. Fox introduced in the House, House Bill No. 847, repealing an act incorporating the village of Friendsville. In the enacting clause of the law these words occurred: "An Act prohibiting the sale of spirituous or fermented liquors or lager beer in Election District No. 2 of Garrett county." This was the last clause of the enacting section. The new matter in the bill conferred upon the Mayor and Town Council a right to pass ordinances such as may be necessary to complete the construction and repair of sidewalks in the village of Friendsville.

The newspaper man reported the bill as repealing the law repealing the law prohibiting the sale of fermented or spirituous liquors or lager beer in Election District No. 2 of Garrett county. I am glad to say that Mr. Fox's record as a temperance man, both by voice in promoting temperance and by his vote in enacting into law prohibition measures, is A No. One.

He most ably assisted Senator Speicher in securing the passage of the Anti-Shipment law and his recordon the side of temperance, justice and humanity is beyond question.

Mr. Fox, as a delegate from Garrett county, made a most favorable impression upon the members of the House by his courteous actions, gentlemanly manners and his stand for right and justice for all the people of the State. His work in behalf of Garrett county was of the very best character as the results will show.

The paragraph published in the newspapers could not but help create an ungoverable opinion upon the minds of those who did not know Mr. Fox but those who know him and are acquainted with his past life would not suspect for a single moment that Mr. Fox would propose such a bill as the newspapers stated.

The bill providing for $4,000 for the benefit of the public schools for Garrett county and introduced by Senator Speicher in the Senate was pushed by him to its final passage on Monday and there is no question about the bill receiving the approval of the Governor.

Mr. Rudisill was called upon by Speaker Laird to make the closing prayer of the Session of 1916. President Campbell of the Senate designated Mr. Rudisill as the "emergency man" of the Senate.

The Speicher Anti-Shipment bill has passed both houses and will receive the signature of Governor Harrington.

Senator Speicher received the congratulations of both Republicans and Democrats over the announcement of his candidacy for Congress. Mr. Speicher received the assurance of a prominent member of the House from Frederick county of his support for the nomination.

Senator Speicher is to be congratulated in securing the passage of his bill to authorize the Treasurer of the State to pay the Garrett County School Board $4000 a year for two years, for school purposes. This bill was killed in the House and only through Senator Speicher's efforts was the defeat turned into victory.

Mr. Shartzer's bill appropriating $2,000 for a free bed in the Home Sanitorium, Oakland, was lost on the third reading in the House on Friday night.

Delegate Fox's bill confering upon the Mayor and Conncil of Friendsville the right to compel the repairing and building of side walks in that village passed the Senate Monday afternoon.

Senator Speicher's bill incorporating the village of Accident passed the House Monday night.

The bill to erect a High School building at Oakland was also among the last bills considered. The electors of the county will vote on the subject next November.

Ex-Senator W. McCulloh Brown was active during the session of the legislature looking after bills in the interest of State-Forestry.

The Governor has approved a number of the Garrett county bill which passed the legislature.

The dog law, which caused so much trouble and which could not be enforced was repealed and has the Governor's signature. The bills from Deer Park and Loch Lynn have also the Governor's approval.

Less bills were presented during the session of 1916 than were presented in the session of 1914. The expenses were also greatly reduced.

The minority (Republican) members of the legislature were a fine body of men and acquitted themselves splendidly. They were loyal to the cause of temperance and on the right side of great moral questions. They made a record of much credit to the Republican party and to themselves.

Monday evening Governor Harrington sent to the Senate the name of L. A. Rudisill for re-appointment as a Justice of the Peace for the Seventh District.

The Committee on Executive nominations reported favorably and Mr. Rudisill was confirmed.

NO ADDITIONAL JUDGE.

The bill by Delegate Keedy, of Washington county, proposing an amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of an additional Associate Judge for the Fourth Judicial Circuit, comprising Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties, passed the House, and went to the Senate, where it was referred to the Committee on Judicial Proceedings. It is said Chief Judge Boyd made some legal objection to the passage of the bill at this time, and the bill was allowed to remain in the committee.

THE DEATH RECORD.

REBECCA S. FIKE.

Rebecca S. Fike, nee Rudolph, was born Jan. 17th, 1841, and departed this life March 29th, 1916, aged 75 years, 2 months and 22 days. She was united in marriage to Eld. Aaron Fike March 29th, 1860. To this union were born six sons and 5 daughters all of whom grew to manhood and womanhood. One daughter preceded the mother seven years to the spirit world. Three sons, Phineas L. of Montana; Eura T. and Lorenzo H., of Oakland, are elders in the church of the Brethren; and A. R., of Terra Alta, W. Va., is a deacon. There are about one hundred grand children and great-grand-children.

Aunt Rebecca, as she was familiarly known, was a faithful member of the Lutheran church until 1860, since which time she had been a consistent member of the church of the Brethren. She was a loving, faithful wife. The duties of the home often devolved solely upon her while her husband was out on preaching tours. She was an untiring, uncomplaining, self-sacrificing mother. For the last 5 months she had lovingly cared for father who had been seriously ill. She was only seriously ill about one hour. Death was due to heart failure which occurred on the 56th anniversary of her wedding.

EURA T. FIKE.

SAMUEL WILAND.

Samuel Wiland died on March 27, 1916, after an illness extending over a period of two years, aged 61 years, 2 months and 29 days. The primary cause of his death was cancer of the stomach.

Mr. Wiland was born near Grantsville, this county, Dec. 28, 1854, and resided in this community all his life. He united with the Methodist Episcopal church at the age of twelve years and was always a devout christian and an earnest church worker, taking an active part in Sunday school, prayer meetings and other church work. He was superintendent and class leader of the Sunday school as long as he was able to attend to this work.

He was united in marriage to Henrietta Broadwater on Nov. 20, 1886. To this union were born ten children, all of whom survive. He leaves to mourn his departure, besides his widow and children, four brothers and five sisters and a great number of relatives and friends.

Mr. Wiland will be greatly missed in his community. He was a loving husband and devoted father; as a neighbor was good, kind and obliging, and when he died, as far as he knew, he had not an enemy in the world.

Interment was made at New Germany where brief services were held by his pastor, Rev. Carder.

May the comfort of God's grace be with the friends. And may the sweet memory of a good husband and father be a constant inspiration on life's way.
A FRIEND.

LEO L. HAENDEL.

Leo Laurence Haendel, aged 25 years, died at the home of his parents, Mr and Mrs. George Haendel, at Piqua, Ohio, last Friday night after an illness of two years of a complication of diseases. The deceased married Miss Margaret Ross, of Oakland, a sister of Mr. A. G. Ross and daughter of Mrs. M. J. Ross, of Oakland, and is survived by his widow and an infant child. From a Piqua paper of last Saturday the following is taken: "He was popular in Piqua. For about two years he was chauffeur on one of Frank Robbins & Sons' taxicabs and his uniform courtesy and friendly nature won for him hosts of friends who will be grieved to learn of his passing." The funeral of the deceased occurred on Monday with interment at Piqua.

Mr. Gilmor S. Hamill, of Oakland, has been appointed administrator of the personal estate of the late Congressman William G. Brown by the Orphans Court for this county. Mr. Brown was the owner of considerable stock in Garrett county banks and the appointment by the court of Mr. Hamill as his administrator was made for the purpose of transferring or disposing of it to other parties.

Mr. Cyrus DeWitt, of near Oakland, who had public sale of his personal property on last Saturday, also disposed of his farm containing thirty-five acres, the purchaser being Mr. Robert Hoye, of near McHenry, who has moved upon the property. Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt will leave Oakland in a few days for a point in Ohio where they will reside permanently.

The management of the Maryland Theatre has been more or less concerned by persistent reports eminating from some unreliable source that the house would be closed at an early date and is emphatic in his denial that such a move is in contemplation. The house has been liberally patronized during the winter just past and indications point to a splendid business as soon as the spring opens and better weather conditions prevail.

W. S. Shrout and family, including their thirteen year old black crow, "Quiller," are moving from Gorman, Md., to Burlington, where they will reside in the future. "Quiller" is a wonderful bird, an ordinary black crow raised in the Shrout family and taught to say a great many words much plainer than the socalled "talk" of the ordinary parrot. Mr. Shrout had "Quiller" at I. M. Long's store on Friday and the bird attracted a great deal of attention.—Keyser Echo.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of Friendsville, will conduct at the M. E. Parsonage, Saturday evening, April 8, at 7:30, a measuring contest after which refreshments will be served. By order of the society. C. W. STEPHAN, Pastor. 5-2t

On account of the heavy rains and continuous wet weather which has been prevailing in the George's Creek region of Allegany and Garrett counties, all the mines in that section are more or less flooded. In some of the mines the water rose to such an extent on Monday that the electric pumps used to clear the water from the workings were submerged and work was discontinued.

Mayor Glessman's first official act was to issue a proclamation urgently requesting the citizens of Oakland to contribute to the fund now being raised for the relief of the 3,000,000 destitute in the war zones of Europe. The Mayor's proclamation will be found elsewhere in this paper today. The cause espoused is a splendid one and we bespeak a liberal response by the people of Oakland who are always ready and willing to help those in distrees.

Mr. James R. Combs, who established the Piedmont Independent more than twenty-five years ago and who operated it under many physical disadvantages, has sold the paper to Mr. George T. Goshorn, of Piedmont, who will issue the paper, beginning next week, as the Tri-Towns Telegram. Mr. Combs, prior to engaging in the newspaper business, was a fireman on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and in a wreck on the 17-Mile Grade he lost both legs and his right arm, but notwithstanding these handicaps he has been successful in the management of the paper, Mr. Goshorn, until recently, was postmaster at Piedmont and has had some experience as a newspaper man.

GOLDSBOROUGH THE MAN WHO FILLS ALL THE REQUIREMENTS DEMANDED BY THE PEOPLE

That the hope of the Republican party for success in the general election, in Maryland at least, depends largely upon the choice of a man as a candidate for the United States Senate who has the respect of all persons irrespective of party affiliation, is daily growing more pronounced. And that the man who fills all the requirements demanded by the voters of all parties is former Governor Phillips Lee Goldsborough, is also becoming more apparent.

Of all the men who have held public office in Maryland in many years, Mr. Goldsborough enjoys the distinction of having had less criticism of his administration than is the lot of most public servants. During his term as Governor and since he has entered the race for the Senatorial toga, he has been commended on all sides for his fairness and impartiality, not alone by members of his own party, but also by those who are and have been of opposite political faith since they cast their first ballot.

In this connection, George W. Habersett, a prominent citizen of Baltimore and a former member of the Park Board of the Convention City, in indorsing Mr. Goldsborough's candidacy, said: "The ability and integrity displayed by Mr. Goldsborough throughout his entire political career and particularly during his term of office as Governor commends him especially to me and should commend him to all the voters of Maryland as their choice for the United States Senate.

EX-GOVERNOR GOLDSBOROUGH

"Mr. Goldsborough stands head and shoulders above any other candidate in the race as far as these necessary requisites are concerned and for that reason I am in favor of him being nominated by the Republicans and will do all I can to help him."

The work of organizing the Goldsborough forces throughout the State goes on merrily. In Cecil county, the Goldsborough followers made great headway this week, and the chances of Dr. France were considerably lessened when William R. Logan cast his lot with the former Governor and announced he would support him in the primaries.

Cecil is the home county of Dr. France. Despite this fact, the voters in the county are not much enthused over the "native son" proposition and many are the offers of assistance from voters of that section that have been given Mr. Goldsborough.

The announcement of Mr. Logan that he was a Goldsborough supporter came as a distinct surpise, as it was believed that he was strongly in favor of Dr. France. He is a member of the State Central Committee of Cecil and with his assistance pledged to Mr. Goldsborough, three members of the State Central Committee are now working earnestly in his interest.

Almost nightly in Baltimore City one or more clubs are formed to support Mr. Goldsborough. Men who are looked upon as "ward workers" and who have heretofore been found in the ranks of the "old organization" are daily lining up with Mr. Goldsborough.

On Tuesday night, the Ninth ward workers met at the home of William A. Bryan, who is one of the foremost figures in the organized labor movement in Maryland and was formerly president of the Baltimore Federation of Labor, at 1430 Fillmore street, and adopted resolutions indorsing Mr. Goldsborough.

"The Ninth ward will be for Goldsborough in the primary election," said Mr. Bryan, "and the men who will work over here in his campaign are the ones who can get out the votes. Owing to the fact that I have been active for years in labor legislation, I frequently came in contact with Mr. Goldsborough when he was Chief Executive of the State and I was attracted to work in his behalf because he had always been eminently fair to the organized labor movement. I believe that the election of Phillips Lee Goldsborough will be a step forward towards shaping national labor measures with success."

Between meetings in Baltimore City, Mr. Goldsborough is spending the most of his time touring the counties. Last Monday he was in Talbot and Harford counties.

At Belair a conference of Republicans of Harford county was held in the law offices of Henry A. Whitaker. The call for conference was issued by General Edward M. Allen, chairman of the local State Central Committee, who presided over the meeting. The following were selected as delegates to the Republican State Convention: Harry G. Emmord, of Perryman; Richard Dallam, of Bel-Air; Samuel M. Kirkwood, of near Whitehall, and James W. Davis, of Rock. Henry A. Whittaker, of Belair, was indorsed as delegate to the national convention.

In Easton Mr. Goldsborough met many of the leading Republicans. He said he did not ask any of them for their suppor' as he understood they were pledged to Dr. France. He intends, however, to make his fight among the rank and file of the Republican voters in the county. While in Easton he was in close consultation with State's Attorney Charles J. Butler.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Amusements.

The question of amusements is an interesting one. In discussing the so called popular ones of the time, I shall not say anything to wound the feelings of those who may not agree with me nor would I intimate that they are worse than others who do not indulge in them. Let us look at the dance of modern society.

I do not say that the dance is sinful in itself, nor that there may be some who can indulge with no evil effects, but I want to look at it from the standpoint of the christian. Is it proper for christians to engage in it? Let us, first of all, know what we mean by the dance. "It means a leaping or stepping with motions of the body adjusted to the measure of a tune; a lively brisk exercise in which the movements of the person are regulated by art, in figures and by the sound of instruments." So says Webster. Worcester defines it as "a graceful movement of the figure, accompanied by measured steps in accord with music, the act of moving with regulated and graceful steps." Surely there is no harm in this. No one can claim that the mere act of dancing is sinful in itself.

To take some wine is not always sinful, but when so much is taken as to produce drunkenness, or a weak brother is led astray, then the harmless act becomes an offense. The same act may have no moral character, or it may be commendable, or it may be wrong, even a crime, according to the motive which prompts it (E. G.) the act of killing. There may be no moral character in the act of dancing as when children dance in the glee of play. Or it may be commendable as when David danced before the Lord; or it may be wrong as is so often the case with the fashionable amusement. And let me say here, that, I know of no town of its size, that has less of it than our own town. It is said to be innocent. This is doubtful to say the least. The way to judge of amusements is to try them by their effects on our nerves and spirits the next day. Amusement ought to be recreation, something that refreshes and turns us out anew; that rests mind and body by change and gives cheerfulness and alacrity for return to duty. The dance might do this but it does not. Were it confined for an hour or two of exercise to the parlor or open air, it would be shorn of objections, but as it is carried on now almost universally, with large crowds, insufficient or indelicate attire, freedom of intercourse that would not be tolerated under other circumstances; revelry and excitement, entire worldliness and forgetfulness of God, it is evil. I am talking, of course, of the dance, as many members of society, leaders too, including many professing christians practice. Now I believe in amusements. I love good healthy, mind invigorating ones. Perhaps some one says if you discard the dance you destroy one of the chief sources of amusement, and we must have it. Then why not dance separately. Oh, that would destroy its fascination, deprive it of its seductive power and render it so tame that you would not care for it. One of the ill omens of the christian age is to see it wasting energy to devise ways and means by which to amuse itself. Bad indeed when christians consent to waste time and talents on the Pagan question of what, when, how and how much in the art of amusement. If the desire of people is merely to be amused and not edified, into what a whirlpool are we drifting? We shall give the dance a fair trial and acquit or convict it on testimony that both from without and within the church.

Shall we say it is no worse than some other things? That is true. There is gossip, as contemptible a thing as exists, that smuts the reputation and plays havoc with the character of innocent persons, smacks its chops and thinks it has done a splendid thing. Hypocrisy—despised by an honest person and condemned of God—yet mixtured by many a professing christian. Worse it anything than the dance.

Slander too, is vile and to be detested by God and man, but does it follow that it is right for christians to engage in popular dances of the modern society? The question is, of two evils choose neither. Again it is said, if you take this away, you make religion gloomy and repulsive, and so young people will despise it. There may be, there is force in this, if the only aim of life is to be amused, if we are under no obligations to remember our Creator in the days of our youth; if it is right to put off all thoughts of God, judgment and salvation until our joints are too stiff to dance or death arrests our course.

But if it is our duty to seek first the Kingdom of God; to give diligence to make our calling and election sure; if it is wise and christian to cultivate habits of self denial in the days of our youth; if we are required to glorify God in our bodies and spirits and prepare for eternal issues through the belief of the truth and sanctification of the spirit; then there is no force whatever in such reasoning.

We are to glorify God in all our actions and we cannot glorify Him by doing what endangers or destroys health, if carried too far.

We must do it in our enjoyments, which must never be in excess, by rising above things of time and the pleasures of sense to contemplate heavenly things.

I have met this plea: some churches are not so strict as others, are more genial, more in conformity to the dictates of fashionable society, so the young people may be driven away from the strict church. Suppose we admit this to be true. Then what. Just this, the person who loves the dance more than the Saviour, hasn't made an entire surrender to Christ or His service.

If their love for the dance keeps them out of the church, they are as well out, and if the church must give up her principles at the demands of worldly professors she might as well be blotted out of existence. It is not admission to the church that saves souls, but faith in Christ which produces "holiness of life without which no man can see the Lord." "She that liveth in pleasure (a life of dissipation and luxury) is (spiritually) dead (in sin) while she liveth." The conditions of the christian life is denying ourselves, taking up the cross and following Jesus. A conformity to the world is a violation of the conditions imposed by Christ.

"Its a little thing"—Then why not let it go? It is no where to be found in the catalogue of christian duty, and is condemned by the majority of all earnest laboring and praying christians, it brings sorrow to many hearts; has brought much trouble to the church and has caused the ruin of scores.

Why not then just give it up for the sake of others and the church. Paul's principle of not eating meat if it caused a weak brother to offend, is a safe one to apply here as well as to many other things.

For the present this is enough, so I pause here.

Yours truly,
JOANNES.

Billy Sunday's Powers of Describing Sin Draws Sinners to Hear Him. They Love Him—But They Also Love Their Sins and Keep Right On.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Every professing Christian of every sect ought to want to see Billy Sunday make good, but the facts seem to be against him. Most decidedly in Baltimore.

He is a howling success at drawing a crowd and he is a good prohibition lecturer, but further than this he is a failure.

The majority of those who go to the tabernacle go as they would to a circus. A large proportion of those who strike the trail do it for a joke they, say they are joking with a joker, and to such an extent has joking been carried that ministers whose places it is to take the cards and visit the converts have shied from doing so. This has made Billy so mad that he has threatened to quit.

Billy draws a crowd because he enlarges on the details of sinner's lives. The average sinner is delighted to hear his every thought and act portrayed. Even the ministers are now threatening to mob Billy for showing them up in all their details.

Billy shows up the rich man and finally winds up with something largely in his praise—then the rich man says, "I like that!" Thus he said, "Rockefeller is firm square with God and is the Job of our times." That immediately settles every rich man for Billy.

Billy will give a sermon on motherhood. Every old mother who reads it will feel that she will become more and more a cherubim for every child she has, and every young woman, not married, will feel an inspiration to enter upon the cares of life as quickly as possible. Of course, then the women want to hear him. One report stated that there were 24 women to one man present oftimes.

When Billy speaks "to women only" he sets forth what is called "rich, racy and rare," The women, like the rich men, like to hear their thoughts and acts portrayed. There is so much of this portrayal given that the poor sinners forget all about the hell they must shun and the heaven they must seek and plunge that much more into the joys and sorrows of terrestial life. Of course, these women want to hear him and they hang around whole days at a time to do so.

When Billy sermonizes "to men only" the same minute detail is undertaken. Innocent young men and boys receive in these sermons eye openers that start them on paths heretofore unexplored, and old young men jolly themselves with the endorsement they receive and plunge down to Highlan town all the more. Many of them are so grateful that they strike the trail. They go to hear Billy at every chance.

Gentlemen drinkers and bum drinkers are, alike, absorbed by Billy's description of their weakness. Like the young men, some of them strike the trail in acknowledgment of their appreciation, but they go their way in the great majority of cases fortified to pursue the old tenor of their way.

Justice Supplee, of Baltimore, has just called attention to the fact that the records of his central district shows an increase in drunks and disorderlies since Billy has arrived. He calls for an explanation of that which seems to him to be a puzzle of puzzles. The explanation is, as I say, found in the fact that Billy Sunday is actually propagating intemperance and vice.

A very few sincere converts, made by the music chiefly, are forthcoming at the Sunday meetings; but they are handed over to the churches, where they patronize the shouting, singing, oyster suppers, strawberry and ice cream festivals and are soon lost to sight—they remain in the churches as partakers of what Billy calls their "hypocrisy," or, fooled and disappointed, they drop back into the world.

In company with one of the Hearst papers I last year searched the whole country to find converts who had stuck for over a year and who were worthy of being classed as truly Christians. By a stretch, I might say we found one.

As a Christian, I was hoping to see Billy furnish the nucleus for a revived Christianity, but Baltimore is proving that Billy is not delivering the goods. The papers of the city are deluged with letters from the people corroborative of all that I have given in the above. It is very sad.

STEYER

All our farmers are busily engaged in making maple sugar, and some of them have been furnishing the young people some fine entertainment by giving "sugar boilings."

Several of our young folks attended the school entertainment at Gormania Thursday night. All report a fine time.

Misses Maude Moon and Edna Harvey were pleasant callers in town last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Phillips were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fields Sunday afternoon.

Misses Mayme Fields and Myrtle Wilson spent Sunday with Misses Almah and Edna Harvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Tucker, Miss Lyda Steyer, Myrtle Wilson and Mayme Fields attended prayer meeting at Mrs. Harvey's Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilmoth spent Sunday at Wallman, the new lumber town.

We are sorry to note the absence from our town of Mr. Leslie Phillips who has gone to Parsons to attend school.

Isaac Lewis preached a very interesting sermon at our school house Sunday night.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown a girl, last Saturday.

And Virgil Steyer has also been wearing a broad smile since the arrival of their big boy.

Two burials have taken place in the Steyer cemetery during the past week, one that of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Riding of Glade Run and the other, Mrs. Lichliter, of Dodson.

Bankruptcy Matters.

A petition in bankruptcy was filed at the office of Deputy Federal Clerk A. C. Nadenbousch, at Martinsburg, W. Va., by the Cumberland Sash and Door Company, of Cumberland, against William A. Liller, a prominent lumber dealer and building contractor, of Keyser. It is said the claims against Contractor Liller aggregate $30,000. It is also said that he will fight the proceedings, on the ground that he is not insolvent.

SUNDAY'S APPEAL TO THE MEN

Moves Thousands to Tears By His Earnest Plea.

BIG TABERNACLE THRONGED

NEARLY 1,000 PERSONS HIT THE TRAIL.

Nine hundred and seventy-three hit the trail at the services at the tabernacle and outside meetings Sunday. Eight hundred and forty went forward at the tabernacle, 691 being men and boys, and professed conversion at the meetings of the afternoon and evening. This brought the grand total of trail-hitters to 13,572.

Forty-one thousand people attended the tabernacle services, bringing the total of attendance for the campaign to 926,500.

Baltimore.—"I draw a circle about you now, and if you don't instantly step out, God will take it that you do not intend to step out, and it will be war through eternity!"

Billy Sunday uttered this cry to 27,000 men who made up his afternoon and evening congregations Sunday, following the sermon he preached at both services on the text "Choose ye this day whom you will serve," and up the sawdust trail surged 691 converts. These, with 149 persons who had hit the trail at the forenoon service, made the day's total for the tabernacle 840.

The sermon to men only was one of the most dramatic that Sunday has delivered here, in that it was burdened with a warning as imperative as that which John the Baptist uttered in the wilderness, calling upon unbelievers to repeat, turn from wickedness and seek the true God.

Makes Them Sit Up.

"This may be the funeral sermon for some of you!" Sunday thundered—and men sat bolt upright, eyes wide with emotion whipped to white heat; scores wept openly and turned again to gaze, fairly fascinated, at the man who was flaying their sins as had no other preacher who ever called upon Baltimore to turn to Christ.

When the evangelist saw the effect of his sermon at night, saw the converts pushing forward in numbers that bade fair to set a new record, his face lighted up with joy which he could hardly contain. After the first rush of hand-shaking was over he sprang about the platform in uncontrollable exuberance, took hold the pulpit and swang upon it as though he were practicing in a gymnasium; threw himself face downward on the carpet to reach the hands of some belated trail-hitters, sprang upon the press table, grabbed two outstretched palms at once and said excitedly: "This has been a great day in old Baltimore, boys, a great day!"

Women Not Allowed.

Although there was nothing in the sermon proper for a mixed audience to hear—and in this respect it was vastly different from the much-talked-of "Devil's Boomerang" sermon—women were excluded, Ma Sunday, who attended the evening service, being the sole representative of her sex.

For a few minutes Ma's distinction was disputed by two women who slipped into the tabernacle through one of the back doors. They were accompanied by two men, and were just determined to stick, whether or no. A police sergeant discoveerd them after a while and hurried to find Captain Hurley. The captain sent him back with orders to eject the intruders. The ejectment was accomplished without disturbance.

A little before this one of the ushers thought he caught sight of a woman's head about midway of the first section. He hurried down to make an investigation and discovered that the head belonged to a long-haired boy.

Straight-Out Doctrine.

The most distinctive feature of the sermon of the afternoon and evening was that it was the first straight-out doctrinal talk given at a meeting for men only. It contained no particular excoriation of the liquor traffic, no statistic dealing with the social evil. It flayed not the dance, nor gambling nor politics; was singularly free from what Sunday's critics would call vulgarities. Yet, although it was by no means "Sundayesque," it brought more persons up the sawdust aisles even than did the recently preached sermon on "Amusements," when the congregations were half again as large.

Varying the usual program, the evening service was launched with a call for "sentence" prayers by members of the congregation. A man arose at the general invitation, uttered a brief prayer; two other men stood up when he concluded and launched into prayers simultaneously. Homer Rodeheaver made the last prayer.

Obligated To Conversion.

The keynote of the whole sermon, which was the shortest that Sunday has delivered on any Sunday night in his campaign here, was that men were under an unavoidable obligation to become Christians. He told a long story of one Valentine Burke, inmate of a penitentiary, whom "God winged" through the account of a Moody sermon in a St. Louis newspaper, and who afterward became a noted worker in the Lord's vineyard. He poured the vials of his wrath upon Ingersoll, and described graphically the death of Ingersoll's brother and of the funeral oration, tragic in its hopelessness, made by the famous infidel himself.

"After all," he said, "Ingersoll was nothing but a mouthful of sweetened wind and a painted echo. His doctrine developed more jailbirds than did any other influence of his time. I'd rather be an old hag in a gutter than a man of the mental brilliancy of Bob Ingersoll if I had to have his doctrine. Ingersoll said he did not know what would become of him after death. He knows now, for he has been dead these many years."

Step From That Circle.

He led up to his trail-hitting invitation, with its reference to the ring, by this:

"When the rebels were fighting in the war against Rome, when the Emperor sent his ambassador to demand a surreneder, the rebel leader said, 'We will give an answer at sunset.' The ambassador drew a circle around the rebel leader with the point of his sword and said: 'If you do not immediately step from that circle we will take your answer to be 'No,' and that means war, war, war!'"

And Sunday concluded with:

"It was never easier to take the stand for Christ. If you don't yield, God have mercy on you!"

Quit Sin Or Campaign.

Sunday's hardest raps so far at the worldliness of Baltimore came when he was calling for trail-hitters in the afternoon. His audience of 9,000 people consisted for the most part of women, and these fairly gasped when he threw his verbal hooks into the Monumental City, declared that its church members had better either cast out the sins that were holding them away from true lives of Christianity or else "quit."

"If the church of God isn't willing to take its stand for the things that are right, we'll just about have to quit and be done with this campaign," he said with bitterness. "I'm not going to stand here and wear myself out pleading with you. I'm not going to nag you, not going to beg you. If I were you, I'd either get right with God or quit; that's all.

"There's something wrong with Baltimore somewhere. Preachers tell me they've never been in a city where the church was so tangeld up with the things of the world; that they have such a hard time here they often try to get transferred to other charges. Either get right with God or let's quit. I want to know what you're going to do. If you're not willing to purify the church, to cast out those things that are worldly and that are holding the church back—why, then, I'm through."

"Shame On Baltimore!"

A little before he had flared up in a criticism of the tardiness of Baltimoreans in coming forward with larger collections at the tabernacle.

"We've had nearly 1,000,000 people at the tabernacle meetings here," he said, "and in the five weeks we haven't raised $35,000. And yet in New York 12,000 people paid the other night just $151,000 for the privilege of seeing two pugs stand up in the prize ring and pound each other for 40 minutes."

"Shame on Baltimore!" cried a woman's voice.

SUNDAY SAYINGS

Away with the hellish idea that the preacher has to do just so and so and you can live like the devil.

There's too much joining the church and too little joining Jesus Christ. The church doesn't need new members half as much as she needs the old bunch made over. Whosoever, will, let him come; whosoever won't, let him go to the devil.

I was offered $175,000 to pose for the movies, but I refused. I won't commercialize religion.

Any man can give an excuse for not being a Christian, but no man can give a reason.

The reason many of you men have not hit the trail is because you are not men enough.

You will need the church for a hiding place when the devil forecloses the mortgage on your soul.

The saloon has no right to exist. It has not a leg to stand on.

The stage of today is worse than in the days of paganism.

A good moral show is a financial loss to its backers. An obscene show puts the S. R. O. sign out every performance.

A leg show makes the most money, especially the ones that have women, who don't wear enough clothes to make a tail for a kite.

Religion in Baltimore is loosing its grip. It has taken us five weeks to raise less than $35,000. A prizefight in New York took in $151,000 in 40 minutes.

Phillips Lee Goldsborough

REQUESTS THE SUPPORT OF

ALL REPUBLICANS

AS THEIR CANDIDATE FOR

UNITED STATES SENATOR

At the primaries to be held Monday, May 1, 1916.

Mr. Goldsborough is the candidate who is best qualified by ability and experience and by the fact that he is known to be the man who will represent all the people of his state and will effectively support their every interest. He is the man to whom all will be proud to point as Maryland's representative in the highest Legislative body in the world.

See what the four corners and the middle of the state say about him.

WESTERN MARYLAND.

Col. W. Bladen Lowndes, son of former Governor Lowndes.

"What I am most concerned about is that we shall name for Senator, a man in whom the people have confidence. He must be a known quantity and a known quality. He must be known by the real test of public life. He must be conspicuous for his ability as a statesman and needs be of recognized personal power as a thinker and speaker. Such a man is Phillips Lee Goldsborough and I am not convinced that there is now available any other man in the state whom we can elect."

Benjamin Armstrong Richmond, Cumberland.

"I believe that the results in the general election depend upon the wisdom of the Republicans in nominating Phillips Lee Goldsborough for Senator. I do not think there is another man in the state who can be elected to that office on the Republican ticket and I do not think there is a Democrat in the state who can defeat him."

SOUTHERN MARYLAND.

Senator John E. Mudd, of Charles county.

"Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the ablest man within the Republican ranks in Maryland. The record he achieved as chief executive of the state is one of which Republicans can feel justly proud. I feel confident he will receive the support of the Independents. He is the man of the hour in the coming Senatorial primary."

Thomas Parran, of Calvert county.

"The public record of Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the best asset of our party and one that appeals to all classes of voters. It will elect him the next United States Senator. I cannot believe that the voters of Maryland will repudiate at the coming primary, the splendid administration that has just been given us by Governor Goldsborough."

NORTHERN MARYLAND.

Senator Richard S. Snader, of Carroll county.

"Mr. Goldsborough is an individual possessed of executive ability high above the average of public men in governmental affairs. As governor he demonstrated he exercises his abilities with an eye solely to the building up of the state. I feel sure we can put Carroll county in the Goldsborough column in the primary."

Clarence Oldfield, of Howard county.

"After careful thought and frequent interviews with Republicans in Howard county, I arrived at the positive conclusion that Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the best qualified candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator."

EASTERN SHORE.

Senator Henry M. McCullough, of Cecil county.

"No Marylander has a record of accomplishments that can surpass that of Phillips Lee Goldsborough, who, unaided by fortune, has won success in his political career, entirely through his well directed efforts to serve the people of his state and country."

Wilbur F. Turner, of Wicomico county.

"Mr. Goldsborough is the strongest man in the Republican ranks. His administration demonstrated he knows the wants of the people and is able to secure for them what they need. This applies particularly to the counties and I am for him."

BALTIMORE CITY.

Col. Edward C. Carrington.

"Former Governor Goldsborough has been twice elected by the people of Maryland to high office in a state-wide vote. As between Mr. Goldsborough and his opponent, I would feel that I was guilty of bad citizenship if I did not vote for Mr. Goldsborough."

Dr. Howard A. Kelly, noted surgeon and sturdy Democrat.

"Mr. Goldsborough was the model governor of Maryland and we have never had a better one. His appointments in Baltimore City,—Magistrates, Police Commissioners and members of the Liquor License Board, gave us, without exception, the best officials we ever had in these positions."

AMERICANS KILL 30 VILLISTAS IN RUNNING FIGHT

Col. G. A. Dodd's 400 Cavalrymen Travel 55 Miles in 17 Hours to Win Battle

BANDIT CHIEFTAIN WOUNDED

Four United States Cavalry Men Wounded — Outlaws Celebrating Guerrero Slaughter Routed at San Geronimo Ranch.

General Funston, in reporting the battle of Guerrero to the War Department, Washington, transmitted these words from General Pershing's dispatch to Army Headquarters.

El Paso, Tex.—Winding like a spirit army through the arroyos of the upper Santa Maria Valley, the sand of the foothills stilling the hoof-beats of their horses and their accoutrements muffled to give absolute silence to their progress, 400 troopers under Colonel G. A. Dodd fell upon the main body of Francisco Villa's bandits at San Geronimo Ranch in the early morning.

They had marched all night, covering fifty-five miles in seventeen hours. Men and horses were dust-covered and wearied to the point of utter exhaustion. But after a brief and wary rest at the last turn in the tortuous trail leading to where Villa's men, all unsuspicious of their presence, were celebrating their massacre of 172 Carranzistas at Guerrero the day previously, the troops sprang into their saddles for a charge.

Americans Kill Thirty Bandits.

From accounts reaching here, they were able to make their way almost into the Villa camp before the alarm was given. Many of the Mexicans were asleep. Resistance was of the briefest. Seizing what arms they could, the bandits leaped upon their horses, firing from the saddle as they rode away. At least thirty bandits were killed, and two machine guns, a number of horses, rifles, ammunition and equipment were left behind. Only four American privates were slightly wounded and none was killed.

THIRTY DEAD IN WRECK.

20th Century and Two Express Trains in Collision.

Amherst, Ohio.—A double wreck on the New York Central lines a few miles west of this point resulted in the death of 30 persons and injury to a score or more others.

The list of identified dead is as follows: Dora Roseberg, Toronto; rpAel Heltai, manager Hungarian Theatrical Co., New York; Walter Easton, Philadelphia; Raisin Obdah, Indianapolis; Marcinca Binnoe, Indiana Harbor, Ind.; Rev. Gustaf Walyi, Detroit; Fred Weazer, Detroit; J. Risey; J. H. Hearn, Gallipolis Ohio; D. Fruchtman, Toronto; B. E. Aish, Olmstead Falls, O.; R. Thomas, Philadelphia; Byorgi Ojinel, Indianapolis; Edward Larcy, St. Louis; Bruce Bromley, Hillsville Pa.; Jennie Dr ymar Haddas, Cleveland; Charles Nelson, Chicago.

Dense fog obscured the signal set by the first section of the eastbound Pittsburgh-Baltimore-Buffalo Limited, when it stopped to get water, causing another section of that train to crash into it. A short time later, before sleepy signalmen could flag it, Twentieth Century Limited, westbound, crashed into the wreckage, which had piled up on the westbound track.

WORLD'S NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM

PITTSBURGH.—Steel mills of the country have not only achieved a record in the production of steel in the first quarter of the year, but they have also taken in new business in a volume that breaks all records.

BALTIMORE, Md. — Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel Company, has purchased the Baltimore Sheet and Tin Plate Company the $3,000,000 enterprise recently promoted by J. E. Aldred.

MEXICO CITY.—Gen. Gonzales gave out a statement in which he threatened to force merchants to reduce prices.

LONDON.—An Army Council notice says that "all hay or oat or wheat straw, threshed or unthreshed, now standing on farm or other premises in bulk in Great Britain" is requisitioned by the War Department for use by the Allies in France.

NEW YORK.—An old sardine can, containing $7,800, most of the bribe paid by Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, confessed poisoner, to Eugene Oliver Kane, who embalmed the body of Waite's father-in-law, was dug out of the sand on the shore of Gardiner's Bay. Of the $9,000 paid to Kane $1,200 was missing.

PERSHING'S LINES CLOSELY GUARDED

Bandits Gathering in Force in Chihuahua Desert

MENACE U. S. SUPPLY TRAINS

Report That a Force of Villistas Gathered to Attack American Line of Communications Near Ascension—Encircling Area to Bar Escape.

Columbus, N. M.—Army men here were considerably disturbed by numerous warning from confidential sources that Villa adherents were gathering in the Chihuahua desert, both north and south of Ascension and near the motor trail leading from Columbus to Casas Grandes, for the purpose of attempting to cut the line of communication of the American punitive expedition in Mexico.

While latest reports regarding the whereabouts of the Villistas are conflicting, they all agree that Gen. Pershing's forces are keeping up a night and day search for them.

The first news regarding the disposition of troops came out in a special telegram. As the message had the "censored and passed" the officers recognized it as authentic.

"There are now over 12,000 United States troops in Mexico, probably close to 13,000," said an officer, "and this message accounts for only 2,500 of them. We know that there are 2,000 more, possibly 3,000, guarding the line of communication south from Columbus to Madera. Where the other 7,000 or 8,000 men are, nobody on the outside has been permitted to learn."

The Carranza Government is mobilizing troops close to the United States border in the States of Chihuahua and Sonora.

It is estimated that 10,000 Mexican troops are mobilized in Chihuahua within twenty miles of the border. There are said to be 15,000 troops in Northern Sonora.

Gen. Funston put credence in a rumor that Col. Cano, a Carranza officer, had joined Villa's band.

Carranza Garrison Routed.

El Paso, Tex.—All communication by rail and wire between Gen. Pershing's new base at Madera, Chihuahua, and his advance forces pursuing Villa was cut, supposedly by Villistas, who destroyed trackings and cut wires south of Madera.

No supplies can be shipped or troops moved by rail south of Madera until the break is repaired.

Villa was shot in the leg during an attack on the town of Guerrero, dispatches to Juarez said. He routed the Carranza garrison of 50 men and captured the place, it is reported.

Advices report detachments of the American troops south of Villa and his band. This information gives the location of the hunted outlaw on the headwaters of the Santa Maria river, some distance North of Guerrero.

Unofficial information reaching General Funston stated that Villa had killed every one of the Guerrero garrison, the strength of which was placed at 172 men. Villa, the advices set forth, then moved northward to the headwaters of the Santa Maria River.

Military men made no secret of their belief that Villa had slipped through the cordon of American troops and Carranza forces pursuing him, south of Namiquipa.

If his whereabouts are known to General Pershing, the American commander, he is keeping the location a profound secret. No news from the advance base or from the scouts operating south of here after Villa was made public by the censor.

The American army at the front is well supplied with food, and transport trains are arriving regularly from the border at Columbus with food and other necessities. Other trains are carrying the supplies south to the troops in the field, and returning drivers of transports report that there is no shortage of rations anywhere among the men.

EXPORT COMBINES FAVORED.

Trade Commission Finds Sentiment for System Like German.

Washington.—The Federal Trade Commission's report on its investigation of foreign trade conditions, undertaken because of abnormal commercial developments incident to the war is ready.

There is a general sentiment in favor of export combinations similar to those which have given Germany's manufacturers so great a share of the world's commerce.

WOOER SHOOTS HIS RIVAL.

Kills High School Classmate in Girl's Presence.

Scottsburg, Ind.—In the presence of Miss Grace Huffman, a high school student, Harry Robinson, 24, shot and killed Ancil Phillips, 17, a rival for the girl's favor, at Miss Huffman's home in Lexington, a village eight miles from here.

Robinson had been paying attention to Miss Huffman for two years, but recently she had permitted Phillips, who was a classmate, to call upon her.

Dr. JOSEPH IRWIN FRANCE

Some Reasons Why Republicans Almost Unanimously Have Declared for Dr. France.

He is the Candidate of no one faction of his party.

He is appealing directly to the rank and file.

He is acceptable to all Republicans.

He is acceptable to the Progressives.

He has the ability to represent the State fittingly in the Senate.

He has the support of the State Wide Press.

He believes the Republican Party should be the MAJORITY Party in Maryland.

His Candidacy, just as did Mr. Weller's, represents an effort to nominate proved men free from previous political alignments. Mr. Weller received the greatest number of votes ever given a Republican Candidate. It is the policy that will build up the party.

His candidacy represents the nation wide movement to nominate candidates upon whom all opponents of the Democratic Party can unite enthusiastically so that the breach of 1912 may be permanently healed.

His Headquarters are at 304 Maryland Trust Building, Baltimore, where he will be glad to meet or hear from all Republicans.

PROCLAMATION.

MAYOR'S OFFICE.

WHEREAS, The Commission for Relief in Belgium, through its National Committee named by President Woodrow Wilson, states that the need for food and clothing for the 3,000,000 destitute in the war occupied zones of Belgium and Northern France continues:

WHEREAS, the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution in co-operation with the Commission for Relief in Belgium, have agreed to celebrate April 8th as a national "Flag (Tag) Day" in commemoration of King Albert's Birthday, and

WHEREAS, the great humanitarian work of this Commission is strictly neutral, being approved by the civil and military authorities of the Belligerent Powers.

I, GEORGE GIESSMAN, Mayor of Oakland, therefore urgently request that all of our citizens respond liberally to this appeal, so that we may do our share in relieveing the dire distress of these helpless and innocent victims of the war across the seas.

Signed: GEORGE GIESSMAN.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

As news has been a little scarce there has been no letter from here for the past two weeks.

We are glad to learn through the Pittsburgh Advocate that the Summer School of Missions for the Womans Home and Foreign Missionary Societies is to have its first session Aug. 21-28, just at the close of the Moody Bible Conference.

We are hoping for and expecting better days for the Park.

If the management could fit up a public park which nature has almost completed, just west of the ball park, which is splendidly wooded with young sturdy white oak trees, and just sloping enough for natural drainage for the surface, and with an occasional opening between the trees for croquette and tennis grounds and plenty of sawdust in easy reach for walks. Then the water from Crystal spring could be brought in pipes at small expense and have it in both the Oak and the ball park. Then invite excursions from all parts of the country, as at other times when thousands came and greatly enjoyed [illegible], as well as the bathing in the Lake and ball playing. I hope this statement will merit more than a casual reading.

Mr. Scot White has purchased through M. M. Schrock the Rufus Haymond cottage near our public school house.

Mr. E. W. Kelso has engaged the Levi Echard cottage for a year.

Mr. Riley Schell has rented one of the Atkinson cottages on D street for one year.

Rev. J. P. Filson, of Lonaconing, is to be here next Saturday and expects to occupy the Pollock cottage near the M. E. church.

Miss Finnell came last week and has again opened up Allen Hurst.

Mrs. Kneiss is covering her cottage with shingles and is also adding a second story to part of it.

J. L. Echard is putting a new tin shingle roof on his cottage.

Our M. E. Sunday school is having a competitive trip from here to Jerusalem which is increasing the attendance as well as a more careful and thorough study of the lessons.

Our Epworth League has chosen captains, who are Miss Hellice Rathbun and Miss Louise Chance. The plan is to use the baseball score as merits. This put new life and energy into the meeting last Sunday night.

Rev. Flanagan is holding a special service for the boys and girls every Saturday afternoon, preparing them for decision day on Easter Sunday. He also preached a splendid sermon last Sunday night, especially to the attendants of our different schools.

Capt. J. A. Hayden and L. A. Rudisill returned from Annapolis yesterday, having completed their work there.

PARADISE

A few warm days have revived the birds of Paradise.

On account of disagreeable weather the spelling-bee Monday night was not an overcrowded affair.

Albert Groves is agent for a churn with two cranks. We would advise anti-suffragetts to secure one, and no more envy "wife's opportunities."

Benj. Harrison Wiley, chief inspector, visited the Glendale section Saturday evening and reports all records neatly and correctly kept and the people very entertaining. He further states that no matter what others may say, he believes Alice May Die.

John Fitzwater left Oakland to visit his mother late Saturday evening, but owing to extreme darkness he became bewildered and finally arrived at the home of "Pop" O'Brien, as usual.

S. H. Kimmell and wife visited friends at Hubbart Sunday.

Our Sunday school started with the present quarter and the usual good attendance has been noted.

Gilmor DeWitt don't have time to talk about the weather; too busy rocking the cradle.

Nay Harvey has recently located in our midst. KID.

Grand total	$6,543 00

N. B.—The estimate summitted March 2, 1915, of costs necessary to maintain high schools in Garrett County, Maryland, for the scholastic year 1915-1916, embraced $1,100 00 for a proposed State high school of the second group to be established at Kitzmiller; however, in view of the fact that the proposed high school was not approved as such by the State Superintendent of Schools, the county high school was continued, the difference in cost between the proposed State high school of the second group and the county high school which was continued, was transferred or credited to the general public school fund of the county.

By order of the Board of County Schoo Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland February 18, 1916.

4-3t F. E. RATHBUN, Secretary.

This levy is made in accordance with said Chapter 386, section 128, of the Acts of 1910. Said Section 128 reads as follows:

Each High school in the first group in the counties of Maryland shall receive State aid on the basis of cost of instuctions and in the following manner: The sum of six hundred dollars on account of the principal, and the sum of three hundred dollars on account of each of the first three assistants for regular high school work; the sum of four hundred dollars on account of each of two special teachers who shall spend not less than two-fifths of their time in the high school receiving said amounts; and the sum of one hundred dollars on account of each additional teacher; provided the total amount does not exceed the sum of twenty five hundred dollars. In this article the term special teacher shall be construed to mean a teacher of commercial, manual training or domestic science or agricultural branches. Each high school in the counties of Maryland of the second group shall receive State aid on the basis of the cost of instruction and in the following manner: The sum of six hundred dollars on account of the principal; the sum of four hundred dollars on account of one assistant teacher employed for regular high school work, and the sum of four hundred dollars on account of the instructor of special subjects to be designated by the County School Board; provided that if an instructor in manual training or agricultural work be required to divide his or her time among not more than four schools of this group, one hundred and fifty dollars shall be allowed on account of each of such scoools; provided also, that the amount to be received by each of the four high schools of Baltimore City shall be equal to the maximum amount received on account of any high school in the counties of the State; provided further, that the Board of County School Commissioners of each county shall submit annually to the County Commissioners of their respective counties, at least thirty days prior to the date for making the usual county levy for school purposes a list of all high schools of the county, including those not entitled to State aid, as well as those classified in this article, and an itemized statement of the cost of maintaining the same, and the said Board of County Commissioners shall make a separate levy for high schools, publish the same once a week for three successive weeks prior to the date of making the said levy, in one or more county papers.

By order of the Board.

W. G. MEYERS, Clerk.

Adv. J. P. TREACY.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 41. OAKLAND, MARYLAND THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1916. NUMBER 7

FIVE ASPIRANTS ARE IN THE FIELD FOR CONGRESS

State Senator Speicher of Garrett, Last of Republicans to Qualify.

State Senator Harvey J. Speicher, of Garrett county, filed his papers on last Thursday with the various Board of Election Supervisors ot the Sixth Congressional District as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress, the local man bringing the total number of candidates up to five.

Those who previously filed papers with the various Board of Election Supervisors throughout the District are State Senator Frederick N. Zihlman, of Allegany county; Gist Blair, of Montgomery county; Leo Weinberg and State Senator George L. Kaulman, of Frederick county, making five aspirants in all. The time for filing papers having ended Monday night the list will therefore not be augmented.

In the Democratic ranks a surprise was worked early Monday morning when Mr. George Stern, of Frostburg, where he is engaged in the mercantile business and a former mayor of that town, filed nomination papers for Representative. Mr. Henry Dorsey Etchison, of Frederick, up to Monday, was the only avowed candidate and it was thought by the leaders of the party that he would receive the nomination without a contest. With the entrance of Mr. Stern into the campaign, a change has occurred and it will require a vote of the members of the Democratic party to determine who their candidate shall be.

Public Sale of Deer Park Property.

In another column of this paper today the advertisement of Mr. W. McCulloh Brown appears wherein he gives notice of a public sale of a dwelling and nine acres of land to occur on the premises in the town of Deer Park on Monday, May 1st, at 11 o'clock.

SCHOOL TERM TO BE EXTENDED

Teachers Required to Give Instruction 180 Actual Days.

Garrett county will hereafter have 180 actual days of school in the elementary school system of the county. The Legislature, at its recent session, removed the clause from the state school law that permitted this county to have seven and one-half months of school and yet requiring the other counties of the state to have nine months.

The Legislature took this step upon the recommendation of the General Education Board of New York City, which recently made a survey of the public school system of the State and submitted its findings with recommend dations for the school system's improvement to the Legislature.

Garrett county has not been able to take its place in the educational system of the state or nation owing to the shortness of the term of the elementary schools, but now that the school year has been lengthened it is believed that the children will be able to make a better showing and to equip themselves better for their life's work.

This addition to the length of the school year of this county, amounting in fact to about two months, will increase the county levy for schools this year over former average appropriations about $10,000.

What Love Is.

Love is a journey into a new country, and like any other journey, its length depends entirely on what the country has to show. There should be woods with silent undergrowth, where comfort lives; bright rivers of vitality; clean cities built on foundations of fine tradition and splendid with the towers of learning and religion; green fields where simple thought and senses play like young cattle, and mountains so high that as one climbs one breathes quickening air not known to ordinary men—so high that by day the earth lies clear beneath like an open map, and by night the stars are just beyond arm's length above. In such a country a man can live forever.—The New Republic.

GARRETT COUNTY VISITED BY GOV. GOLDSBOROUGH

Former Chief Executive of State Spent Last Friday in This Section.

Former Governor Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Republican candidate for United States Senator from Maryland, who addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting of the residents of Allegany county at the Maryland theatre in Cumberland on last Thursday night and was given a splendid ovation, spent Friday in Garrett county, arriving in Oakland shortly after noon in an automobile, and was accompanied by Messrs. W. W. Brown, editor of the Cumberland News, and Tasker G. Lowndes, youngest son of the late Governor Lloyd Lowndes, of Cumberland.

The Governor's party came to Oakland by way of Grantsville, Keyser's Ridge and Accident, stopping at the points en route where they met a large number of friends and well-wishers.

The party remained in Oakland until nearly four o'clock calling upon a number of the residents and business men of the community, the Governor expressing himself as being well satisfied with the words of encouragement he had received. The run was made from Oakland to Hagerstown the same evening where the Governor conferred with a number of Washington county party men and workers.

Appointed Referee in Bankrputcy.

Mr. Stuart F. Hamill, of Oakland, has been notified by the United States District Court for the District of Maryland, that he has been appointed referee in bankruptcy for Garrett county and that all matters relative to bankruptcy proceedings having their origin in Garrett county will be referred to him and not sent to Cumberland as has been the case for a long term of years, which has had a tendency to increase the costs in such matters. Mr. Hamill was appointed and commissioned by Judge Rose, of Baltimore, and will enter upon the discharge of his duties at once.

Exchanges.

The ladies of the Lutheran church will conduct an exchange at the store of Messrs. Shaffer & Bush on Second street Saturday afternoon, April 15th, beginning at two o'clock. They will have on sale bread, pastry, cakes, candy, etc., and solicit the patronage of the public generally.

On Saturday, April 22nd, the ladies of St. Paul's M. E. church will also conduct an exchange at Sturgiss' Pharmacy where they will offer for sale cake, bread, pies, rolls, candy and Easter eggs. They solicit your patronage.

New Chief For Piedmont.

The Piedmont mayor and city council have appointed a new chief of police for Piedmont to succeed Chief Kaufman. The new chief is Marshall Dawson, of Kitzmiller, Md. This is the third chief of police for Piedmont within the last year.

MANGLED REMAINS OF JOHN RICE BROUGHT HOME

Alleged To Have Committed Suicide By Throwing Himself In Front of Train.

The mangled remains of John Rice, son of the late ex-Union soldier, John Rice, whose death is still fresh in the memory of Oakland people, and of Mrs. Mary Rice, his surviving widow, were brought to the family home in Oakland Friday evening from Rowlesburg, West Va., where the body had been prepared for burial after the young man is alleged to have committed suicide early in the day by launching himself headlong before a west bound freight train going down Cranberry grade, the wheels of the locomotive decapitating him as well as severing one of his arms.

The crew and passengers on train No. 6, due in Oakland at a few minutes after ten o'clock Friday, morning which was ascending the grade at the time, were witnesses of the horrible occurrence and brought the news to Oakland, confirming a telegram received a few minutes prior of the affair, which occurred at a small station of the grade known as Amblersburg, located midway between Terra Alta and Rowlesburg, at which point the unfortunate man had been loitering for several hours and acting in a queer manner.

For the past year he had been employed at the logging camp of Mr. F. O. Glotfelty at Bond, Kentucky, as a blacksmith, and left that point more than two weeks ago for the purpose of making a visit to his home here.

His funeral took place Sunday afternoon from the home of his mother on Green street with interment in the Catholic cemetery.

BARN BURNED WITH STOCK

Structure on Farm of M. H. Frankhouser Consumed Thursday Night.

Last Thursday night between the hours of 11 and 12 o'clock the large and comparatively new barn on the farm of Mr. M. H. Frankhouser, in District No. 6, and a few miles from Cranesville, Preston county, was burned to the ground, along with its contents, consisting of four horses, a number of young cattle and a large amount of provender and farming implements.

At the time of the fire Mr. Frankhouser, who in addition to being a farmer, is also one of Garrett county's leading public school teachers, was conducting the closing exercises of the school located near his home which he successfully taught during the past winter. Nearly every resident of his section of the county was also in attendance and hence the fire had gained much headway before it was discovered, and made it impossible to save any of the stock or other property inside the building.

While it is not definitely known what caused the fire suspicious circumstances surround its origin and an effort will be made to apprehend the one suspected of setting the building on fire.

Mr. Frankhouser carried a small insurance upon the property but the amount will in no way recompense him for the loss sustained.

POTATO GROWERS MEETING WAS A SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR

Representative Agriculturalists From Many Sections of County Attend.

Although the severe snow storm last Friday night had made most of the roads impassible, and a number of people were unable to get to Oakland, between fifty and sixty persons interested in the development of the potato in large quantities in Garrett county met in a room of the First National Bank to hear the lecture by Prof. Temple, who had been engaged by the First National Bank to come to Oakland, and show just what the possibilities were in the raising of potatoes in large quantities, and of the right kind.

Mr. R. E. Sliger, cashier of the bank, was made chairman of the meeting, and in introducing Prof. Temple said that the bank had long realized that one of the things that would make the farms of Garrett pay was the raising of potatoes, particulary for seed; and that the bank was ready and willing to do all it could to finance the matter which was sure to be a success.

The bank had arranged to buy any amount of seed potatoes that the farmers were willing to plant, and would sell them at the actual first cost. In addition to this, money would be advanced to buy planters and sprayers where the amount planted justified the purchase.

Prof. Temple talked for over two hours, going over the subject in a very thorough manner, showing the way to select seed, the proper way to prepare the seed bed, the way to cultivate and to harvest the crop. He said that the potato grown in Garrett county could not be surpassed, if equalled anywhere, and that where it had been grown alongside of the Maine potato, it was superior.

One of the most interesting things said at the meeting was that it was possible to prevent blight which had caused the failure of the potato crop last year.

Arrangements have been made with Prof. Temple to come to Oakland again in the near future and to make monthly visits after the seed have been planted, in order to see that every thing is done to get the best crop possible. In addition to this, bulletins will be sent out to all interested, either from the bank, or from the experiment station.

In order that the bank may know just how many potatoes to buy, it is necessary that every one that is willing to try some send in the amount they want. It is hoped that a car load of six hundred bushels may be used the first year. This will plant sixty acres. Please write the bank as soon as possible, saying how many you can use.

PIPE ORGAN FOR CHURCH.

Lutherans Will Install Instrument In the Oakland Church at an Early Date.

A meeting of the official board of St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church, held on Monday evening of this week, authorized the purchase of a pipe organ and its installation in the auditorium of the edifice.

The purchase of the instrument has been under consideration by the authorities of the church for the past year or more, and with this end in view measurments have been made, designs submitted and the probable cost of the organ estimated by manufacturers.

As the instrument will have to be specially built it will be several weeks before it can be completed and installed.

Cannot Again Wed Within Six Months.

Persons who obtain decrees of divorce in West Virginia and who better look up the law in the premises before taking a hasty second plunge into the matrimonial sea, or they may find themselves facing the charge of bigamy. The new divorce laws as passed by the last session of the state legislature provide that divorcees who remarry after obtaining their decrees are amendable as if they were living together without marriage, as the law specifies that such marriages are void and illegal.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Amusements.

It is claimed that dancing is healthy and invigorating, makes one graceful and promotes ease of manners.

If it is healthy as carried on in halls and in society in general then the physicians do not know their business for the majority of the profession pronounce this assumption as false. Then it is healthy to whirl round and round jump up and down in a heated room, or impure atmosphere, kick the dust out of the carpet from 9 to two or three in the morning and excited and exhausted plunge suddenly into a cold atmosphere, to seek home and lay your aching, throbbing head on the pillow for a few hours rest, then spend the day in listlessness with mental and bodily stupor. If that is healthy, the Doctors are not on their job. It might be healthy and harmless in its hygenic effect, if it were in the open air, at rational hours of the day, and for a reasonable length of time and its participantes were so attired as to permit the freest play of lungs and circulation of blood.

Open a gymnasium, carpet its floors, close its windows and begin exercise at 9 to continue to 12, 2 or 3 a. m. with an interval for a feed and all this in an atmosphere of a reasonable sized room, made all the worse by fires and perfumes and guests whose dress must repress respiration and ease of movement.

After this is over the heated and excited gymnasts rush out into an atmosphere with the sensitive parts of the body exposed—from lack of sufficient clothing—to rheumatism, colds, catarrh and neuralgia. What would you think of such a gym. You would burn it. Yet here is a fair representation of the modern dance.

The erect form and the manly elastic step of the youth who is conscious of a right purpose and a high aim to attain is better than the prancing tread of the flop who waxes his mustache, wears the latest style clothes, but whose highest ambition is for the achievement of the ball room.

Or compare the natural grace of a pure girl, taught by a good mother, and having a native sense of delicacy, with the affectation, brazenness, and simpering of a pert miss who is fresh from the hands of a dancing master, and you can easily detect the lack of force in the plea that children should be sent to a dancing school to learn grace and manners.

Yet some anxious for Bible proof tell you it says, there is a time to dance, and that is convincing, therefore it is perfectly proper.

Would you be willing to use it as they did then?

If so you must dance in prayer meetings, or church or to express religious joy. Moreover, gentlemen, you must dance by yourselves, likewise the ladies. You can easily designate the boy girls by tying a handkerchief around the arm.

But says one, there is no thus says the Lord about it, any more than there is about going out to lunch. We must decide according to what we think right and proper. My conscience must decide for me. But conscience may dictate a doubtful or a wrong thing. It is safe to say that a conscience educated in the principles of God's word will condemn the modern sin, as leading to sin, if not actually sinful. Of course the Bible does not say in so many words, "Thou shalt not dance," but do you not know that a slavish adherence to the letter of the Bible is not keeping it in reality? If we demand a precept for every duty, and refuse obedience except when it is enjoined, then we make the scriptures a servant and put the law of God under subjection to us.

We are to obey it in spirit. The Bible is a compact of principles. Precepts are the examples under principles and by these, we will be judged. By the manner in which we have conformed to these in the spirit of Christ, will our works be tried of what sort they are.

"As he thinketh in his heart so is he" and this is considered unanswerable. Then if one thinks it is right to follow the modern dance he can do so and do no harm. Then too, if we think it is right to break the Sabbath, we can, with impunity. Then it is right for the heathen mother to throw her child to the crocodiles.

Dr. Lyman Bucher in his renowned tract on dancing, after summing up all the passages in the Bible which allude to the subject, he says: "From the proceeding quotations, it will appear,

(1) That dancing was a religious act, both of true and idol worship.

(2) It was practiced exclusively on joyful occasions, such as national festivals and great victories.

(3) It was usually in day time, in the open air, in highways, fields or groves.

(4) The men who perverted it from its sacred use to purposes of amusement were deemed infamous.

(5) No instances of dancing are found on record in the Bible in which the sexes united in the exercise, either as an act of worship or amusement.

(6) There is no instant on record of social dancing for amusement, except the "vain fellows" devoid of shame; of irreligious families described by Job, which produced increased impurity and ended in destruction; or of Herodias which terminated in the rash vow of Herod and the murder of John the Baptist.

If social life consists merely in assembling a lot of people who move about in rythmic style to music, or in Kelerdoscopic grace, then this may be true. But society "consists in the contact of soul with soul and in commerce of mutual thought, feeling and experience."

Fashion has decreed to class it among social entertainments, and thence it is allowed to go under this disguise.

When stripped of its guise, it is seen to be a sham for an exercise of a social nature.

A lady, a participant too at a party, said, "I wish there was not so much dancing as there is, it seems impossible to get acquainted with each other." She saw the mask that makes the dance a social amusement. You can spend an entire evening at a dance and not say fifty words consecutively.

The poet who said, "For manners are not idle, but the fruit of loyal nature, and noble mind," gave a sufficient answer to this plea. Though I have touched on this point let me here quote the words of a gentleman, who has had experience, who moves in the best circles of society, and whose veracity cannot be called in question. He says, "It is argued that it gives ease and grace of movement; but it kindles lust in the heart." The transforming power of the religion of Jesus gives the grace of a true gentleman. It gives accomplishment of manners that cannot be obtained from the hand of a dancing master. Tell me, does it enhance the intellectual status of society? Does it improve the intellect? With the rush of and absortion in material interests, little time is left for and meager care is bestowed on the interior culture of ourselves. Books, art, literature have but a small chance. Think of what a confession is made every time it is said, we can't get the evening to go off well without the dance! It is an admission of mental vacuity, that there is an echoing cranial room for knowledge.

Would it be better to have courses of lectures, or reading circles and libraries that you may spend a portion of your time and money in replenishing the mind that you may have something to think and talk about when you assemble and then you will not need to resort to whirling each other off in the dance to break the awkardness of silence. Do you gain anything by it? Other things may be—indeed are worse but does that make the dance innocent? Still the question will not down. Is it right for Christians to dance the dances of modern society?

Yours in the spirit of kindnes,
JOANNES.

A Bad Case of Billyitis.

To the Editor of The Republican

I wonder if Mr. Francis Buck Livesy, of West Friendship, Md., is really the wonderful being he portrays himself to be in an article in The Republican of April 6th, 1916. He knows that Billy Sunday is a failure in everything except his ability to draw a crowd and make a temperance lecture. He knows that a majority go to the tabernacle to have fun like at a circus, others as a joke, and hints that some enjoy having their carnal passions portrayed. He knows that a great majority of the converts are fooled and disappointed and go back into the world, and that Billy is actually propagating intemperance and vice.

It takes a prodigious mind to be able to search out all the secret recesses of the hearts, minds and souls of others whereby he can assume the right to and does condemn the whole thing as a mith and a humbug. Notwithstanding all this he is bound to confess one weak point, and that is, he has not been able thus far to convince Billy and his 16,000 Baltimore converts that they have no sense and that nobody but he and his kind have.

Mr. Livesy acknowledged this in a letter he wrote me last February in which he says he went to Billy in good faith and tried to show him how his converts could be made into the proper kind of christians, and admits that he failed.

I will suggest that when you make another trip over the country for the purpose of finding out the religious standing of converts, that you conduct your examinations with a little more care.

If the person you are investigating happens to be a young lady, find out how early she gets in of evenings, if a single man, how long he stays out of nights, if a married lady, whether she ever looks sour, and if a married man, smell his breath, and I think by the time you get all this done, you will be qualified to teach Billy how to make permanent christians out of all his converts.

Now, Mr. Livesy, I want to say that we do not need your pessimistic nonsense. Not one word of cheer or comfort or encouragement comes from your pen, but all is sadness and gloom and despair.

If you will take the trouble to come up here, I can show you lots of people here and throughout this county who have lived up to their conversions and christian faith for many years. What we all need is something that will bring joy and gladness; that will build up, not tear down; that will help us look upward, not downward. Then why not join in and help, and if there are any imperfections, try to remedy them and not stand off and criticise.

Suppose we do backslide and fall from grace sometimes, as David and others have done? That does not destroy the principle of regeneration by faith as a doctrine but the conversion or new birth sows the seed of righteousness and helps to build up christian character. David's character was that of loyalty and fidelity to God, so he repented when he did wrong. We cannot always tell by what was done yesterday or the day before or today what a person's religious character is. Therefore the trip made by you did no good except to give you something to talk about. Your insinuations about the women are particularly cruel and my guess is that you are better off where you are than you would be here under similar circumstances. The good people who are carrying on the revival are showing their faith by their works while you criticise and find fault with and hinder others.

If revivals are evil, they will come to grief without your assistance, and if they are a benefit to the world in helping to save it from sin, you and all the powers of darkness cannot stop them.

Let the good work go on.

Dr. JOSEPH IRWIN FRANCE

Some Reasons Why Republicans Almost Unanimously Have Declared for Dr. France.

He is the Candidate of no one faction of his party.

He is appealing directly to the rank and file.

He is acceptable to all Republicans.

He is acceptable to the Progressives.

He has the ability to represent the State fittingly in the Senate.

He has the support of the State Wide Press.

He believes the Republican Party should be the MAJORITY Party in Maryland.

His Candidacy, just as did Mr. Weller's, represents an effort to nominate proved men free from previous political alignments. Mr. Weller received the greatest number of votes ever given a Republican Candidate. It is the policy that will build up the party.

His candidacy represents the nation wide movement to nominate candidates upon whom all opponents of the Democratic Party can unite enthusiastically so that the breach of 1912 may be permanently healed.

His Headquarters are at 304 Maryland Trust Building, Baltimore where he will be glad to meet or hear from all Republicans.

BITTINGER.

Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Marvin entertained the members of the choir at their home last week. The affair was given in honor of Miss Lillie Cutter, who has labored very faithfully with the choir during her stay at Bittinger. It was a complete surprise to Miss Cutter, who was spending the evening in the Marvin home, when the unexpected guests arrived. The party was royally entertained by several readings by Miss Cutter and a number of selections on the piano by Mrs. Marvin. Later some clean, wholesome games were played after which refreshments were served. About mid-night, after singing a few favorite selections and thanking Miss Cutter for her interest and helpfulness in the choir, as well as Rev. and Mrs. Marvin for their kindness and hospitality, all depared, assuring them that they had spent a pleasant evening.

An ice cream social was held in the school house last Saturday evening, the proceeds of which are to go towards helping to pay the debt on the Jennings church.

The Ladies' Missionary Society met at Mrs. F. B. Wiley's this week. This is a new organization for our town, but we believe that it will prove to be very helpful to all.

Miss Lillie Cutter is starting a subscripition school next week, which she will continue about five weeks.

Peter Opel has moved his sawmill to Charles Wiley's farm where he is doing some custom sawing.

March came in a roaring, and roared most of the time she was with us, but she went out very calm and peaceful.

Rev. Marvin held communion services at the Lutheran Church last Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

The European war seems to have knocked the starch out of American paper, and many a country weekly and city daily is found moping about with a complexion of one afflicted with what the old lady called, "yaller janders." But that does not signify that the well fed journalist has now become "a torpid liver."

The villagers are now enjoying the novelty of sitting around a glowing fire, on the tenth of April, while the wind is howling outside and the earth is hidden beneath a blanket of snow a foot deep.

Church services were interrupted last Sunday by the very stormy condition of the weather.

Peter G. Stark, one of the aged residents of this neighborhood, is reported as being critically ill.

The village schools closed last Thursday, after a very satisfactory term, and Prof. Jasper Fike returned to his home, near Friendsville, while Miss Lillian V. Cutter remains to conduct a private school for a few weeks longer.

Miss Huldah Stark has been visiting relatives at Chaffee and Blaine, West Virginia, for a couple of weeks.

The Stork visited the home of Charles Buckle, a day or two ago and the young father is making some deep researches, in order to discover how many yards of hickory sapling is required to bring up a son in the way he should go toward the making of a good citizen.

Phillips Lee Goldsborough

REQUESTS THE SUPPORT OF

ALL REPUBLICANS

AS THEIR CANDIDATE FOR

UNITED STATES SENATOR

At the primaries to be held Monday, May 1, 1916.

Mr. Goldsborough is the candidate who is best qualified by ability and experience and by the fact that he is known to be the man who will represent all the people of his state and will effectively support their every interest. He is the man to whom all will be proud to point as Maryland's representative in the highest Legislative body in the world.

See what the four corners and the middle of the state say about him.

WESTERN MARYLAND.

Col. W. Bladen Lowndes, son of former Governor Lowndes.

"What I am most concerned about is that we shall name for Senator, a man in whom the people have confidence. He must be a known quantity and a known quality. He must be known by the real test of public life. He must be conspicuous for his ability as a statesman and needs be of recognized personal power as a thinker and speaker. Such a man is Phillips Lee Goldsborough and I am not convinced that there is now available any other man in the state whom we can elect."

Benjamin Armstrong Richmond, Cumberland.

"I believe that the results in the general election depend upon the wisdom of the Republicans in nominating Phillips Lee Goldsborough for Senator. I do not think there is another man in the state who can be elected to that office on the Republican ticket and I do not think there is a Democrat in the state who can defeat him."

SOUTHERN MARYLAND.

Senator John E. Mudd, of Charles county.

"Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the ablest man within the Republican ranks in Maryland. The record he achieved as chief executive of the state is one of which Republicans can feel justly proud. I feel confident he will receive the support of the Independents. He is the man of the hour in the coming Senatorial primary."

Thomas Parran, of Calvert county.

"The public record of Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the best asset of our party and one that appeals to all classes of voters. It will elect him the next United States Senator. I cannot believe that the voters of Maryland will repudiate at the coming primary, the splendid [administration that has just been given us by Governor Goldsborough."

NORTHERN MARYLAND.

Senator Richard S. Snader, of Carroll county.

"Mr. Goldsborough is an individual possessed of executive ability high above the average of public men in governmental affairs. As governor he demonstrated he exercises his abilities with an eye solely to the building up of the state. I feel sure we can put Carroll county in the Goldsborough column in the primary."

Clarence Oldfield, of Howard county.

"After careful thought and frequent interviews with Republicans in Howard county, I arrived at the positive conclusion that Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the best qualified candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator."

EASTERN SHORE.

Senator Henry M. McCullough, of Cecil county.

"No Marylander has a record of accomplishments that can surpass that of Phillips Lee Goldsborough, who, unaided by fortune, has won success in his political career, entirely through his well directed efforts to serve the people of his state and country."

Wilbur F. Turner, of Wicomico county.

"Mr. Goldsborough is the strongest man in the Republican ranks. His administration demonstrated he knows the wants of the people and is able to secure for them what they need. This applies particularly to the counties and I am for him."

BALTIMORE CITY.

Col. Edward C. Carrington.

"Former Governor Goldsborough has been twice elected by the people of Maryland to high office in a state-wide vote. As between Mr. Goldsborough and his opponent, I would feel that I was guilty of bad citizenship if I did not vote for Mr. Goldsborough."

Dr. Howard A. Kelly, noted surgeon and sturdy Democrat.

"Mr. Goldsborough was the model governor of Maryland and we have never had a better one. His appointments in Baltimore City,—Magistrates, Police Commissioners and members of the Liquor License Board, gave us, without exception, the best officials we ever had in these positions."

John B. Ramsay, vice-pres., Merchants-Mechanis Nat'l Bank.

"Upon the success of Mr. Goldsborough in the Primary, depends the success of the Republican party in the general election."

Mr. A. S. Teats Goes After Billy Sunday's Detractors.

The following article was prepared by Mr. A. S. Teats and sent to the Baltimore Sun for publication, a portion of which appeared, and is here published in its entirety:

To the Editor of The Sun.

It seems to me that the article written by M. E. Sloan, of Washington, and published in the Sun under date of March 29th, 1916, is one of the most vile, subtle, uncharitable and cruel attacks on Christianity as represented by Billy Sunday and others, that I ever read.

I am not posing as a defender of Billy Sunday but in that article he is branded as a heretic, falsifier and perverter of real Christianity.

I wonder if our friend Sloan really knows what it means to be a real Christian?

I suppose according to his own ideal, he is a real Christian; that is he does just as Christ did as a human being, and that he has refrained from doing the things that Christ refrained from doing. Christ went about doing good, gave words of cheer and comfort to the down trodden, blessed the little children, and wept with them that wept. He never went to a dance nor any other place for amusement, and never coveted anybody's money or property, etc. I haven't the remotest idea that our friend or any other human being ever lived up to such a standard as that. Then why all this prattle about real Christianity. And the very fact that we can not, throws us upon the mercy of God for salvation which we can obtain only by repentance and faith.

Suppose there is no special harm in a decent civil dance, yet we are all bound to admit that we could have spent the same time we spent there in doing something more profitable, and the same thing is true of every other form of worldly pleasure.

I fully believe that most of this knocking comes from fear that worldly pleasure and worldly gain will be interfered with. Read the 19th chapter of Acts and see how quickly Demetrius became a knocker when he found that Paul's preachings was injuring his business. If a business is doing more harm than good in a community, it ought to be injured. I deny that Billy Sunday sneered at theology and this I say not in defense of him but in defense of the truth. He did say in substance that theology without repentance and faith would not bring salvation and that is the truth. Man in his best estate is foolishness with God; is a cipher brought against infinity. It is allright and a good thing to be a great scholar so that we may be better qualified to help others, but there is no way by which we may be saved except by repentance and faith in Christ.

It is easy to find evil in anything, however good it may be if we are looking for it, and our friend tells us he has been studying Billy Sunday ever since he began and then comes out with this broad statement: that he is unable to find the Gospel preached at all. Now, my dear reader, what is your guess on it? Was he looking for good or evil? Our friend goes on to say that no one speaking by the spirit of God can possibly be so impudent, etc. St. Paul tells us that the Spirit beareth witness with our spirits that we are the children of God. In the face of this great declaration, I want to ask you sternly how do you know, sir, what is going on between the Spirit of God and a human soul other than your own? And where did you get the authority you assume in making such a statement as that? How do you know that there is more false religion making under the name of Christ than there is real Christianity?

The most laughable feature of the article is that Mr. Rodeheaver was to have a little fun with the children one day by showing them some magic tricks which is often done at home. But in the estimation of our friend, this was a horrible thing to do and what a wonder it is that the world did not come to an end instantly where that was done if it was done at all.

WHAT GARRETT COUNTY LEGISLATORS DID THIS WINTER

A Resume of the Bills Introduced and What Became of Them at Annapolis

The Republican publishes the following list of bills introduced in the recent session of the Legislature of Maryland by the Garrett county delegation. The numbers are taken from the official file as placed in the bill rooms of both branches of the Legislature.

We publish this list as a matter of general public interest to the citizens of the whole county. A close reading of this article will show that Garrett county is moving right along to the very front in the rank of the Progressive, up-to-date counties of Maryland, and that our people are providing for themselves and their children the best things of this life.

The village of Accident is incorporated and June next will have its mayor and village council.

Grantsville and Loch Lynn Heights are empowered to issue bonds for water works and sewerage.

The village authorities of Deer Park are pleased that their actions of a few years ago, to secure a "Park," are confirmed and legalized.

The charter of Friendsville has been improved and as a result the town will have better side walks.

Mountain Lake Park will be better able to collect its taxes.

Oakland was left out in the cold. Its bill to amend the charter was received too late to get through the closing hours of the legislature.

Bloomington, doubtless, will secure a B. & O. agent and enjoy the privilege of better shipping facilities, as it ought to have and deserves.

Next November Garrett county will vote on the question of issuing bonds for the county high school building in Oakland and for school buildings at other points. The new building is an absolute necessity and is for the best interests of the county.

Commencing with the Senate, we find that Senator Speicher offered the following bills:

No. 5. Repealing the Shartzer dog tax bill of 1914. Passed both houses.

No. 8. Anti shipment bill, prohibiting the shipment of more than one quart of liquor at one time into Garrett county. Passed both houses.

No. 9. State-wide prohibition bill, providing for a vote of the whole state on the question "shall Maryland be dry or wet?" The wets of the State put up a hard and persistent fight against a state wide vote and won out by a small majority. However, the wet territory, counties and cities, will vote next November and decide the questions for their county or city. The dry territory will remain dry and the vote next November will largely increase the dry territory. The Senator did not get all he asked for and worked earnestly for. While the dry territory has no vote, the wet territory all over the State is forced to vote on the question next November. The fight is on. This amended bill passed both houses by good majorities.

No. 67. Appropriating $20,000 for flood protection at Kitzmiller and Friendsville. Two years ago the Senator put this bill through the Senate but it was lost in the House. This year the Senate Finance Committee killed it.

No. 87. Appropriating $4000 to the Garrett County School Fund for school purposes. A similar bill had been killed in the House.

Senator Speicher was urged by many letters from Garrett county to get this bill through. Not to do so would be a disaster. The Senator got busy and kept busy until he had the appropriation put through both houses and the $4,000 saved to the county.

No. 111. Authorizing the mayor and council of Deer Park to purchase two acres of ground for a village park. Passed both houses.

No. 112. Sanctioning a purchase made some years ago by the mayor and council of Deer Park of a piece of ground in the village for park purposes. Passed both houses.

No. 211. By request a bill to repeal Section 3, Article 49, of the Code of public laws. Lost in the Senate.

No. 220. To direct the State Road Commission to complete the State road system by building several miles of road from Oakland to the West Virginia state line. This bill was incorporated in the appropriations made for the State Road budget and about $71,000 allotted to complete the road as requested.

No. 449, By request: To authorize the Board of Public Works to sell Lake Brown. Passed both houses.

No. 549. Authorizing the town of Grantsville to issue bonds for water works and a sewerage system. Passed both houses.

Bills offered in the House of Delegates —by Mr. Fox:

No. 32. Extending the term of the clerk of the County Commissioners from two to four, years to go into effect 1918. Passed both houses.

No. 66. Appropriating $10,000 to Kitzmiller and $10,000 to Friendsville, from the state treasury, for flood protection. Unfavorable report and killed.

No. 77. Paying a bounty of $20.00 for a wolf or panther scalp, $3.00 for a wild cat scalp; $1.00 for a fox scalp and 50 cents for a weasel scalp. Passed both houses.

No. 166. Allowing application to be made for registration before election officers of each election district, by those declaring intention to become citizens of the state. Lost in the house.

No. 576. Permitting fishing in the Youghiogheny river, by non-residents, without taking out lisence. Passed house, but killed in Fisheries Committee, of Senate during the last hours of the session.

No. 578. Requiring B. & O. R. R. Company to maintain a station, with an agent at Bloomington. Passed both houses.

No. 653. Regulating the conduct of pool and billiard rooms; requiring them to close at 11 p. m. and not permit minors under 16 to witness the playing of games. Passed both houses.

Incorporating the village of Accident. Passed both houses.

Total of eight bills, five of which passed both houses.

Bills offered by Mr. Hayden.

No. 31. Appropriating $4,000 for school purposes. Lost in the house on the third reading.

No. 65. Amending the boundary lines of Loch Lynn Heights. Passed both houses.

No. 76. Making it unlawful to kill deer in Garrett county before Oct. 31, 1922. Passed both houses.

No. 551. Changing the date of holding the elections of Loch Lynn Heights to March. Passed both houses.

No. 452. Authorizing the mayor and council of Loch Lynn Heights to borrow $1500 for sewerage purposes. Passed both houses.

No. 617. Conferring upon the Treasurer of Mountain Lake Park the power the treasurer of Garrett county has to sell properties, etc., for taxes. Passed both houses.

No. 902. Authorizing the County Commissioners to issue bonds to build a high school building in Oakland, subject to a vote next November. Passed both houses.

No. —. Amending the charter of Oakland. Passed to third reading last night of the legislature.

Total number of bills, eight. Passed six.

No. 17. Repealing law exempting $500 of furniture from taxation. Killed in the House.

No. 55. Unlawful to manufacture liquor in Garrett county. The object of this bill was to close the Miller distillery at Accident. The bill, as drawn, was conflicting. It passed both houses but was vetoed by the Governor as being unconstitutional. A close reading of the bill shows that it is defective.

No. 56. Repealing chapter 814 of the acts of 1914, creating a Tax Commission. Killed in the House.

No. 96. An act to repeal Chapter 580 of 1914, forbidding ministers paying fees to porters and others for bringing wedding parties to them. Killed in the Senate. Several counties asked for the same law and the bills passed both houses.

No. 113. An act requiring hotels and restaurants using oleomargarine, to post signs in their dining room, stating this fact. Killed in the House.

N. 171. To amend the Constitution of the State, conferring upon the County Commissioners the right to condemn lands for road purposes. Killed in the House.

No. 299. To create a board of Game Wardens, for Garrett county. Killed by the local delegation, to whom it was referred.

No. 394. To amend Article 1, section 2, of the State Constitution. Killed in the House.

No. 355. To enact to amend Article 15 of the Declaration of Rights. Killed in House.

No. 559. An act to appropriate $4,000 for maintaining a free bed in Dr. Hinebaugh's hospital, in Oakland for two years. Killed in the House on the third reading.

No. 560. An act to repeal Chapter 841 of the Acts of 1914, to abolish the office of State Tax Commissioner. Killed in the House.

No. 593. To require the County Commissioners to work the county roads before the first day of July in each year. Killed in the Senate.

No. 594. A bill regarding public printing. Killed in the House.

No. 595. To appoint an Auditor for Garrett county. Killed in the Senate.

No. 743. Regarding the declaration of intentions for registration. Killed in the House.

No. 745. An act for the further protection of game. Not certain about the passage of this bill.

Total bills, 16; passed one which was vetoed by Governor, as unconstitutional.

The three important county-wide bills, far reaching in their effects, are the pool room bill; the $4,000 for the school fund and the anti-shipment law. After June thirty-first next the large shipment of liquors into Garrett county will cease, and Oakland as headquarters for West Virginia bootleggers will be no more. Not more than one quart of liquor can be shipped into the county at one time, by an individual. This law will add greatly to the decrease in the use of liquors in Garrett county.

The bill introduced in the House to add another judge in this judicial district was killed in the Senate. It was opposed by the majority of judges now on the bench.

None of the laws enacted will go into effect until June first.

NORTH GLADE

Mrs. Louis Beckman, who had the misfortune of having her leg broken a week or so ago, is doing as well as could be expected.

Mumps still abound in this community, there being a number of cases.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Wilt and some of the family have been having a serious time with measles.

Mrs. John Friend was buried at Glendale on Sunday, quite a number being present, notwithstanding the storm.

Revs. Marvin and McAmic failed to reach their appointments here on Sunday.

Easter services will be held at the Lutheran and Methodist churches on Easter morning and evening.

C. G. Brobst has sold his farm to Mr. West, of Hartmansville, W. Va. We are sorry that Mr. B. has decided to leave us.

Our spelling "bee" on the 6th inst. was a delightful success, Masters C. W. Merrill and Maynard Moon being the champion spellers.

Our school closed very successfully and with a large general average, although on account of so much sickness the attendance was not what it otherwise would have been.

G. W. Moon attended the potato meeting at Oakland on Saturday and speaks very favorably of Mr. Temple and the work in which he is engaged.

Now let us have and up to date road from the Twin cities of the near east right through North Glade connecting the state road at Thayerville.

SHORT RUN.

The weather man is giving us a variety of weather, January being represented at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harvey entertained a number of our young folks at their home on last Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. J. C. Myers, who boarded at their home during the past winter, and was returning to his home at Friendsville at the close of his school at Dodson. Games and music furnished the entertainment of the evening, and everyone reported a jolly time. Delicious refreshments were served.

The following parties from Kitzmiller were visiting sugar camps here last week. Mrs. V. E. Rafter, Mr. Wm. R. Davis and Masters Alva and Mark Bender, Holmes Miller, Frank Rafter and Robert Marville.

Mrs. O. V. Fortney is visiting her parents here for a few days and will move soon to her new home at Bloomington.

Miss Bertha Towson, of Dodson, was the guest of Miss Isabel Harvey one night last week.

Those who attended the entertainment at Dodson Thursday evening reported a very nice time.

The young people of this place were entertained at a party at Mr. Daniel Wilson's on Saturday evening, April 1. Games and music afforded the amusement of the evening, and two prize contests were held, and three prizes awarded, the prize winners being Miss Ruth Wilson, Miss Orpah McKenzie and Mr. Robert Harvey. We feel certain that Mr. Enlow would have captured a prize, in the art contest, but his "deer" was so very life-like that it actually ran away before the judges gave their decision, and is still at large. A reward has been offered. Refreshments were served and Sunday drove the guests home.

HARVESTER.

GORTNER

The robin red-breast and blue birds have again made their appearance, gently reminding us that ever welcome spring is here.

The entertainment rendered by the Swan Meadow school last Tuesday night under the management of Mr. Kolb, was a decided success. A large crowd was present notwithstanding the inclement weather.

The Swan Meadow school closed Thursday after being very successfully taught by Mr. Wm. Kolb. During his short stay at this place Mr. Kolb made a host of friends, and he leaves with the best wishes of every pupil and patron of the school as he enters upon his new work.

The stork was a very welcome visitor in our midst recently leaving a little daughter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Yoder. Both mother and babe are doing nicely.

Miss Mattie Browning, who had the misfortune of being kicked by a horse while returning from Fair Sweep, we are glad to say is nearly well again.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sanders of Fairmont, are visiting home folks at Gortner.

Misses Mary and Dora Lichty have returned home from Delaware where they spent the winter.

Mrs. R. C. Rush, of Accident, spent several days recently with her daughter, Mrs. Hervey Smouse.

Mrs. Fahey, of Grafton, moved her furniture last week to the house on her farm near Gortner. Mr. O'Conner who formerly lived on the farm, has moved his family near Washington, D. C., where he has secured employment.

Miss Effie Wamsley, a student in the High School at Oakland, spent several days of the past week with her parents.

Mr. Wm. Spoerline, of Accident, who recently purchased the store from P. P. Gortner is moving his household furniture in the house formerly occupied by Mr. Gauer. Mr. Spoerline will take charge of the store about the 15th of April.

GUARD

Mrs. Dorsey Guard has gone to Friendsville for a few weeks' visit.

James Guard's new barn is going up rapidly and will be a fine one when completed.

Jasper Hileman has moved to his farm near Selbysport.

Martin Garlets mourns the loss of a friend. After feeding his dog the animal jumped out of the window and hanged itself, almost breaking poor Martin's heart.

Harvey Camp has moved to this neighborhood where he has an eight years' job, making ties and props.

Work is plenty at this time; everything is booming.

Mrs. George Coleman, of Guard, and Mrs. Sallie Coleman of Rockwood, took dinner with Mrs. Will E. Wass on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Guard and two children, Mrs. James Guard and Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Groves and daughter Elsie took Sunday dinner with Mrs. Will E. Wass.

Mr. and Mrs. George Coleman will move away from here soon. Mr. Coleman, who had been operating the Guard grist mill built up a large custom trade and the people are all sorry to see him leave. He is a splendid miller and an honest man. A new miller is coming from West Virginia to take Mr. Coleman's place.

Mrs. Mary Riley was visiting her husband at Somerset a short time ago, where they intend to make their home in the near future.

We had a heavy thunder storm last Sunday.

Thieves made a raid on Mrs. Spielman's cellar recently and made way with a large quantity of canned fruit, sausage, pudding, pickles, etc.

The stork made Harry Groves step high by fetching him and Mrs. Groves a baby girl. Clyde Shupe is feeling proud over the arrival of a bouncing boy at his home.

Will Wass has his coal mine in operation now and is busy hauling coal.

Mrs. Grace Plasket has returned home after three months' nursing of her sick sisters, who have recovered.

Mrs. Dick Liston spent a week with Mrs. Polen who was very ill but is now improving.

A meeting of the Board of County School Commissioners was held on Thursday last at which routine business was transacted. Mr. Yost, of Grantsville, the retiring member of the Board, was present and returned to his home in company with Messrs. J. O. Getty and J. J. Bender, of Grantsville. Mr. Yost's retirement is sincerely regretted by many in every portion of the county, his place being filled by Mr. Thomas J. Johnson, of near Grantsville, who will go into office some time early in May.

County Superintendent of Schools F. E. Rathbun, and president of the Board of School Commissioners R. E. Sliger, in company with Mr. C. E. Bender, motored to Grantsville last Friday afternoon. Returning the party was caught in a terrific snow storm which raged that night and did not reach here until after two o'clock Saturday morning. The occasion of their visit to the City on the Pike was for the purpose of attending the closing exercises of the public school of that place, Capt. R. R. Sanner, formerly of Oakland, and principal of the Grantsville school more than fifty years ago, being in charge of the school there at the present time, a record probably never equalled in the history of public education.

O. H. S. NOTES.

News From The Oakland Temple Of Learning.

Obituary—Died March 22, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the old Oakland High School. This building had stood the severe equinoctial storms for thirty-nine years, but at last was called away. Over one hundred pupils were without a school until the Grammar school, after the last term, opened its doors to the shelterless seekers of knowledge. The loss of this building is greatly lamented by all who knew it. "Mihi crede, ista non est nosterculpa sed tempestatis." —Apologies to Cicero.

The High School has resumed its studies again in the Grammar School building after nearly two week's suspension due to the terrific storm which partly unroofed and otherwise damaged the High School building.

Donald Sincell was in Cumberland last week.

The following students of the Oakland High School have made not less than eighty per cent. in each subject studied and not less than ninety-five per cent. in deportment for the school month ending March 23:

Third Year Class—Mildred Dixon, Ada Glotfelty, Cecelia Hart, Pauline Jones, Carrie Mann, Carol Miller, Katherine Porter, Edwana Peddicord, Winifred Weimer, Charles Garrett, Julius Littman, Felix Robinson, and Gerald Tanner.

Post Graduate—Ross Isenberg.

Baltimore.—Hell, a region of terror inestimable, an eternal home for the sinners after they leave this earth, was painted in realistic fashion by Rev. Billy Sunday in his sermon to 12,000 men Sunday.

"What will be the end if you obey not the gospels of God," was the text Sunday selected for the sermon, and Sunday answered the text in the one word, "Hell."

"I believe in hell and heaven: I live and try to avoid hell and get to heaven; I die and I go to heaven. You believe death is an eternal sleep; you say there is no hell. All right. You die—and you find out I was right. Where do you head is then?"

This was the way Sunday summed up in the sermon his opinion of those who refute the doctrine of eternal punishment for the unrepentant sinner.

Sunday's defense of the doctrine of that region where Satan rules supreme was an eloquent one. It was replete with appropriate stories of famous men and incidents of those who, in life, boasted their disbelief in a hell for the sinner and who, at death, spent their last hours in agony—agony brought on by visions of the suffering they would undergo for eternity.

Billy also touched on the question of whether or not hell was literally a place of fire. "When God said fire," he declared, "He may have meant it literally; He may have meant it as typifying the greatest suffering that man knows. In any case, He meant it as a place of terror. And I don't want to go there to find out if God meant fire literally. It doesn't make any difference if there is really fire there if you once get there; you're going to suffer. It doesn't make any difference to me whether or not the streets of heaven are literally paved with gold. I know heaven is a grand place and I want to get there."

In the audience was a delegation of about 3,000 Knights of Pythians, some of them in uniform. When, at the conclusion of his sermon, Sunday issued his invitation for trail-hitters, more than 100 of these, led by their flag-bearer, waving Old Glory, came down the saw dust path.

264 Hit Trail.

Among the trail-hitters also was one of the most prominent insurance men of Baltimore and several other well-known merchants and professional men.

The greater part of the audience last night was composed of delegations from various stores, factories, lodges and churches. Many requests for an appearance of the Sunday sextet came from these delegations, and the choristers finally answered the call.

"Know thyself a man," was the text the evangelist selected for his afternoon sermon. And this text gave him his best opportunity to show his contempt, his disgust for those who are called 'men by brevet"—those made notorious by T. R.'s denunciation of them as "mollycoddles."

On the platform, about the streets in his home—wherever he goes, in fact—the most noticeable characteristic of Sunday is manliness. The bitterest critics of the evangelist cannot find anything sham about his contempt for the male of the "mollycoddle" type; it is one charge, at least, to which Sunday has never been subjected by his critics.

Therefore, Billy's attack on those who are men by name and courtesy only, was bound to be virile; bound to have in it all of the interest, the instruction that Sunday could put there.

The sermon which Sunday delivered to a mixed audience of about 10,000 in the tabernacle in the morning, was one replete with typical Sunday epigrams. It was thought then that Sunday had reached his height in this respect. But he proved that he hadn't in the afternoon.

The brief, pithy, paragraphs with which he punctuated his address to the men were probably the best that Sunday has used in Baltimore. They made points that stuck in the minds of those who heard them; many of them drew laughs, but, after the laughs, they commanded serious consideration. They were, in practically every case, perfectly apropos, clearly illustrative.

"Every man is some boy's hero, and if every man lived right no boys would go wrong," he said in the course of a plea to the older men to set the example for the younger men and the boys.

"Don't look for cushions if you want to have your face in the Hall of Fame," was his remark at the conclusion of a plea to men to be courageous when "hitting the hard spots" of life; not to avoid them, but to "buck up" and fight hard and win.

"A prudent man won't swallow a potato bug and then take paris green to kill that bug," was the way he pointed another part of his sermon.

Paragraphs such as these kept the audience intensely interested from the beginning of the sermon to the end.

The afternoon audience of 10,000 men responded to the sermon with rounds of spontaneous applause and cheers through the sermon and with 268 trail-hitters at the conclusion of the address.

When Sunday issued his invitation for trail-hitters in the afternoon the first man to respond was the flag-bearer for the delegation of 1,000 members of the Junior Order United American Mechanics. This man carried with him down the aisle the big silk, American flag, and it was the signal for cheers from all sections of the house.

This delegation sent quite a number of trail-hitters down the saw dust paths. A large number of students from the various colleges and high schools about the city was also on hand in a section reserved, and, when Sunday made a special plea to them to take their stand for Christ, about 25 hit the trail in a body.

Threw Down Gauntlet.

Rev. William Sunday threw down the gauntlet to those who use that statement that tabernacle crowds are only curiosity-seekers, the basis of their criticism of the evangelist.

"Down from your curiosity!" he cried, jumping on his pulpit chair. "Do you want to know why the great majority of people here don't hit the trail? They're too proud to admit that anything vile has come into their lives! They're too proud to admit that they have done anything for God to forgive! But, let me warn them, that unless they are forgiven by God they will rot in hell for eternity!"

Then Billy pointed his attack especially for the church members. "Do you know that, after I had spoken in this way here in another sermon, an old deacon, leaving the tabernacle, scratched his chin whiskers, and whined: "I wonder what he means!" And another old deacon answered: 'I didn't quite understand him; but, of course, he didn't mean us officials!' The old sinners! That't it! You're too proud to admit you're an old sinner:"

Billy let up on the deacons and turned to society.

"You're afraid!" he cried. "You're afraid of what your rotten social gang will say. You're more afraid of the sneers and scorn of some old two-legged devil than you are of the frown of God Almighty! You'd rather slap God in the face than slap the face of some old society dame!"

Next, it was the turn of the scoffers. "If they were as low down in stature as they are in character," he cried, "they could kiss a rat without bending their knees!"

"Down from curiosity! Down from pride! Down from fear of man!" he cried in conclusion. "I hate a coward, I especially hate the religious coward."

Women Hear Plain Words.

In sensational and violent terms, Billy Sunday launched his indictment of crimes against maternity to 43,000 women at the tabernacle. At times the discourse became so brutally frank that the audienced winced as if under a lash, but on the whole the most emotional appeals and the most intense brought forth only laughter and applause. There were but 256 trail-hitters out of those 43,000—107 in the afternoon and 149 in the evening—and the casual and perfunctory way in which the handshaking was accomplished indicated that the sermon had failed to have its desired effect—in that respect.

The tabernacle was packed to its utmost limits, crowds even standing in the open doors on the outside. Two large overflow meetings were held in the afternoon. Miss Saxe addressing 1,000 women in the lunchroom and Ma Sunday making a stump speech from a box on the outside to 3,000 more. At 11 o'clock in the morning the building was three-quarters filled, and by 12 o'clock it was packed to suffocation.

ASK any experienced grain man which method of planting insures the best crop yield and he will unfailingly answer "Drilling."

Broadcasting wastes a lot of seed—it can't help it—because the seed is only half covered and is subject to losses caused by wind, water, and birds.

"Empire, Jr."—drilled seed all sprouts at the same time and ripens at the same time. Any farmer knows that this sort of a field of grain will turn out the best yield.

The Republican--Garrett Co.'s Paper.

SENATOR HARVEY J. SPEICHER.

State Senator, Harvey J. Speicher, of Garrett County, has announced that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Sixth District.

In making the announcement he said: "After serious consideration, extending over a period of several months, I have decided to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress. A large number of influential Republicans from Western Maryland have been urging me to do this for some time, and after consulting with my friends I have made up my mind to go into this fight and when I go into a fight, I go in to win, no matter what obstacles may stand in my way.

"For twenty-four years, Allegany county has had the Congressman from our District. Before that, Allegany had the place for several terms; and Washington county, in the person of the late Judge McComas, had the Congressman for twelve years, and Frederick and Montgomery counties have both been represented in Congress, leaving Garrett the only county in the District that has never had a representative in Congress, and a large proportion of the Republicans in Western Maryland believe that Garrett, the one certain and sure Republican county in the District, should have her turn, now that all the usual political signs point to a great Republican National victory next November.

"I am allied with no faction or clique in our party. I have a record of eight years in the State Senate, of faithful, diligent and I hope, effective service, for my County and State. To the best of my ability I have done my duty through four sessions at Annapolis, and I know the people of my own county are satisfied with what I have done.

"I shall begin my campaign immediately. I shall visit every section of the District, and, so far as I can, endeavor to see the voters so that they may be able to form an opinion of my ability to represent them at Washington, and I confidently hope that the opinion formed of me will be so favorable that I shall be nominated on May first.

"If elected I shall devote my whole time and energy to my work. I shall represent the whole District, and no particular section or individual shall be favored over the others, and I hope and believe I have the ability to do the work in a manner that will be satisfactory to the people."

GERMAN POUNDING OF VERDUN SALIENT WINS BETHINCOURT FRENCH HAND GRENADE VICTORY

Allies Recapture Additional Lines of Trenches Recently Lost to Germans---Curtain of Fire and Rapid-fire Guns Brought in Play---Repulse Teutonic Assault

FLOODS HAMPER BRITISH ADVANCE ON THE TIGRIS

London.—The Bethincourt salient, which for weeks had projected like a wedge into the German lines northwest of Verdun, has been evacuated by the French.

The evacuation was carried out under cover of darkness and without interference, and the French, through the move, have been enabled to straighten out their line, which now runs from the corner of the Avocourt Wood to the south of the crossing of the Bethin-Courtesnes and Bethincourt-Chattancourt roads.

Violent attacks delivered by the Germans against the new positions found the French line unwavering, and all of them were repulsed, except between the Avocourt Wood and the Forges Brook, where the Germans succeeded in entering the French trenches but were almost immediately driven out.

Northeast of Verdun, around Pepper Hill and on the Douaumont-Vaux sector the Germans heavily bombarded French positions, but were unable to launch an infantry attack in the face of the fire of the French guns. The capture of 150 meters of German trenches southwest of Douaumont is reported by Paris.

On the rest of the lines in France and Belgium artillery duels alone have been in progress.

The offensive of the Russians against the Germans in northwest Russia has simmered down to mutual bombardments and bombing attacks by the German and Russian aviators. Artillery actions in the Lake Narocz region continue, and an infantry attack by the Germans at that point was repulsed by the Russian fire.

Considerable fighting between the Turks and the Russians has taken place in the Black Sea littoral, with the Turks the aggressors.

LAUNCH ATTACK AT BRITISH.

London.—Not only have the Germans been engaged in heavy fighting with the French around Verdun, but they have launched a strong attack against the new British positions near St. Eloi, which lies a few miles south of Ypres, in an endeavor to regain six hundred yards of trenches which the British won from them ten days ago.

French infantry stormed a section of German trenches south of Fort Douaumont, and in hand-to-hand fighting in underground passages drove the foe back about 200 yards along a front about 500 yards wide. The assault followed a period of intense preparatory artillery fire and was protected from counter-attack by the famous curtain of fire.

They succeeded also by their curtain of fire in preventing an assault on the Cote du Poivre, to the east of the Meuse, which the Germans had subjected to a long and intense bombardment.

There have been gains on both German and French sides. The Germans captured the village of Haucourt, which lies in the Avocourt-Bethincourt sector to the northwest of Verdun. This is considered by the Germans as an important strategic point, for while the French held it the Germans could not cross the Forges Brook.

London.—The region northwest of Verdun around Haucourt and between Bethincourt and Hill 265 is still the scene of sanguinary encounters between the French and the Germans.

Continuing their vigorous counter attacks on the trenches taken from them by the Germans between Bethincourt and Hill 265, he French, with the use of hand grenades, have recaptured additional portions of their lost ground and in addition made progress in communicating trenches.

Around Haucourt the Germans launched a violent attack against the French, previously having prepared the way by a heavy bombardment lasting several hours. The French, however, through the use of their curtain of fire and rapid fire guns, put down the attack and forced the Germans to retreat, leaving numerous dead on the ground as they made their way back to their trenches.

On the remainder of the front in France and in Belgium artillery engagements alone have been in progress.

On the eastern front there has been a continuation of the lively artillery engagements in the lake region south of Dvinsk, especially about Lake Narocz, where the Russians succeeded in occupying portions of German trenches. The artillery on both sides also has been busy around Riga and Friedrichstadt and in east Galicia.

The Austrians have recaptured from the Italians a ridge north of Monte Cristobel and in the operation made a number of prisoners and captured two machine guns. Attacks by the Italians in large force north of the Sugana Valley were repulsed, according to Vienna.

BRITISH REPULSE TURKS.

London.—For the moment the infantry of both sides is quiet everywhere along the western front in France. On the much disputed sectors around Verdun the only activity has been an intermittent bombardment in the region of Douaumont and Vaux.

This rather unprecedented calm follows a successful offensive undertaken by the French, in which they recaptured some of their lost ground and drove the Germans back.

On the eastern line in Russia the Germans have taken up the offensive and are heavily attacking with infantry and artillery the Russian positions. Unofficial advices from Petrograd say however, that the Germans nowhere have been able to penetrate the Russian line in frontal attacks.

The Italians and Austrians are continuing their operations along the Austro-Italian front, but no important changes in positions have occurred.

The British in Mesopotamia have captured an important Turkish position at Umm-il-Henna, on the Tigris River, twenty miles below Kut-el-Amara. This victory is considered in London as giving hope for the early relief of the British forces who have been besieged in Kut-el-Amara since last December. The Russians also are successfully operating against the Turks in the Caucasus and Persian regions.

Berlin reports the loss during March of fourteen German aeroplanes and of forty-four British and French machines. Thirty-eight of the latter were brought to earth in air combats according to Berlin.

Ambassador Page has forwarded from London to Washington metal found in the cross-channel steamer Sussex, recently damaged by an explosion, which killed a number of persons and wounded several Americans. The Embassy in London is credited with the belief that the metal came from a German torpedo.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

Persistent attempts by the German Crown Prince to reduce the salent in the French lines at Verdun are resulting in steady progress.

According to information received at the Russian Embassy in Rome the Turks succeeded in getting important reinforcements to Trebizond and Sivas on the Black Sea. They are said to number 80 or 90 battalions, with artillery.

A big battle on the Yser front may be expected shortly. A correspondent states that he has reliable information that the Germans are making extensive preparation for a decisive

The entire French salient at Bethincourt is now in a precarious position and the forces holding it, estimated at not less than three army corps, 120,000 men, are believed to face the necessity of withdrawal.

The German losses before Verdun up to the present time have reached the huge total of 200,000 men, one of the greatest battle losses in the whole range of warfare, according to estimates made public at Paris from a semi-official source.

Flood conditions along the Tigris River are again hampering the British relieving force.

SOLDIERS AND POLICE FIGHT.

Many Hurt in Riots in Winnipeg When Military Resents Arrest.

Winnipeg.—Four soldiers and one civilian are in a serious condition and a number of persons are nursing bruises as a result of clashes between soldiers and city police, resulting from the arrest of a soldier.

News of the riot, which on Saturday night continued for nearly seven hours, was suppressed by the military authorities. More than 50 soldiers were arrested.

HOME-MADE ARMY GLASSES.

Binoculars for Officers Hereafter to Be Procured in America.

Washington.—Dependence of the United States Army upon European makers of field glasses may be terminated for all time by the war. General Funston has called for 1092 field glasses, and the War Department has found it possible to procure satisfactory lenses of domestic make. All orders for the glasses will be placed with American manufacturers, in view of the urgency of the demand.

State Central Committee Endorses Senator Zihlman

Allegany County Candidate Gets Flattering Resolutions.

FREDERICK N. ZIHLMAN.

WHEREAS: The Republican party has shown itself in the recent campaign to be a virile militant power for the cause of good government in Maryland, and although unsuccessful in its splendid efforts to elect its state ticket, it nevertheless did succeed in electing to public office throughout the state a large number of its members, men of known integrity and efficiency, than at any election since 1896, and

WHEREAS: By standing for the reforms and advanced legislation advocated by a large majority of our people, the representative of Allegany County in the state senate, Hon. Frederick N. Zihlman, has contributed largely to the splendid position of our party before the people of the State, and

WHEREAS: The Republican party of Maryland will play a most important part in the selection and election of the party's candidate for president of presidential election, and

WHEREAS: The counties of the Sixth congressional district should, and will contribute largely to the success of the party in this state, by the selection of a candidate for the high office of representative in the halls of congress, who is known to be in full sympathy with the policies of the party, and who has demonstrated his strength with the people of the state

Therefore, be it resolved: That we, the Republican state central committee of Allegany County, in meeting assembled, do hereby unanimously declare in favor of the nomination and election to congress of Honorable Frederick N. Zihlman, as representative from the Sixth Congressional district, and we desire to call to the attention of the Republicans of the five counties thereof, the splendid showing made by him as the congressional standard bearer of the party in 1914, when he reduced the plurality of Mr. Lewis of 6,287 in 1912, to 742 in 1914.

We further call attention to his services to the people of the state during his term as a member of the state senate in behalf of all humane and forward looking measures considered by that body, that he stood for and advocated all measures of our state and its interests, and opposed those measures which would in any degree lower the standard of citizenship or made for inefficiency in public service. We further call the attention of the Republicans of the Sixth congressional district to his untiring efforts in behalf of the party and its candidates and we hereby testify to the splendid assistance and support he gave to the members of this committee, making possible the magnificent victory in Allegany County on November 2nd, due largely to his splendid leadership.

We further pledge ourselves to give our unqualified support to the Honorable Frederick N. Zihlman, as one who will appear to all classes of the Republican party throughout the district, and whose record and services will bring him and his party a deserved victory in the coming congressional election, and we call upon the voters of said district to rally to his support, and make him their standard bearer in 1916, believing thereby the best interests of the party will be served, and its senatorial and national ticket strengthened in this section of Maryland, and that by his selection a most faithful and efficient servant will be rewarded.

GRANTSVILLE.

At the municipal election on Monday former Mayor H. C. Bonig was re-elected by a majority of five votes. Michael Nathan being the other candidate. The new councilmen are Wm. Wright and Wm. Winterberg. A rousing ovation was tendered the successful candidates by the "tin pan brigade" in the hands of the Boy Scouts.

Samuel C. Loechel, who sold his farm to William Gnagey recently, held a sale of his household goods, farm implements and live stock on Thursday last. Everything brought good prices. Free lunch was served to about 1,000 persons.

Rev. E. E. Oney, pastor of Salisbury charge, of which the Grantsville congregation is a part, will be married in the early summer to Miss Charlotte Boyer, of Salisbury, the engagement having been announced by the bride's mother a few weeks ago. Rev. Oney is a friend and fellow-graduate of Rev. Beidleman, of Frostburg, both having been ordained last summer. He is well liked in the community as is also his fiancee, who is prominent in church work.

Dr. Riley, of Cumberland, was a Grantsville visitor Tuesday.

Dr. H. T. Robinson, of Cumberland, spent Sunday at the National.

Mrs. Michael Harden, of Frostburg, was a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Lewis Gingerich, last week.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MRS. MARY FRUSH.

Mrs. Mary Frush, nee Boger, born in what is called the Cove settlement, of Garrett county, Md., December 10, 1834, departed this life March 17, 1916, aged 87 years, 3 months and 7 days. On February 26, 1854, she was united in marriage to William Frush, of Garrett county, who preceded her a little over seven years ago. Since the death of her husband she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs Sarah Shillinburg. To this union were born eleven children, four of whom have preceded her to the spirit world. She leaves to mourn their loss seven children, forty-two grandchildren, twenty-two great grandchildren, one half brother and one half sister.

While in her early years she joined the German Baptist Brethren church, of which faith she remained steadfast until death.

In March, 1856, she with her husband moved from Maryland to West Virginia on the farm which is now owned by Lewis Stemple. Then in September, 1869, they left the farm and moved to Brookside, where they purchased the wheat mills, which still go by the name of "Frush Mills."

The children still living are Frank Frush, of Ft. Worth, Texas; John Frush, of Brookside; Mrs. Tobias Fike, of Ladiesburg, Md.; Mrs. Julia Hahn, of Detour, Md.; Mrs. Herman Allender, of Limeboro, Md.; Mrs. John Wotring, of Brookside, and Mrs. Sarah Shillingburg, of near Brookside.

Mrs. Frush was well known throughout this community and was loved by all who knew her. And while her place on earth is vacant, we know that her long Cnristian life and excellent social qualities have been the cause of making many other lives happy. And though it is sad for one so much needed to be called away, it is a great comfort to the remaining ones to know that she is not lost but gone before, and if they all follow in her footpaths here below, it will lead them where they shall meet ne'er to sever, and eternal joys be forever theirs.

Her funeral was preached on Monday, March 20th, at the Maple Springs church, by Elder Jonas Fike, from Psalms 17-15, assisted by Rev. E. T. Fike. After which interment was made in the Maple Springs cemetery. Six of her grandsons acted as pall-bearers, namely, Roy, Page and Harley Shillinburg, Carl and Loren Wotring and Frank Frush, Jr.

MRS. ANN BERGNER.

The remains of Mrs. Ann Bergner, wife of George Bergner, and daughter of Mrs. Mary Rice, of Oakland, were brought here from Parkersburg, W. Va., where her death occurred after a month's illness, on Monday morning, the funeral taking place Tuesday morning from St. Peter's Catholic church. Mrs. Bergner and her husband have been living in Parkersburg for about one year where the latter was engaged in the music business. Besides her husband the deceased is survived by twin children two years old, her mother and a number of brothers and sisters.

MRS. MELISSA BECKMAN.

The death of Mrs. Melissa Beckman, relict of the late Henry Beckman of Garrett county, occurred Sunday afternoon shortly after one o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Boette, on Oak street, in Parkersburg, West Va. She was a woman of sweet and gentle nature, a devoted mother and kind neighbor, and her death is deeply regretted by a large circle of relatives and friends. Since the death of her husband Mrs. Beckman has resided in Parkersburg with her daughter.

Wreck On Grade.

A freight wreck in which two or three cars on an eastbound freight train were derailed and thrown across all tracks at Bond Junction, delayed traffic on the B. & O. Railroad more than four hours yesterday.

M. E. Revival Services.

A revival to continue for the period of two weeks was begun in St Paul's M. E. church on Sunday evening last. Rev. J. H. Howard, pastor, who will be assisted by members of his congregation. Services will be conducted every night during the period with the exception of Saturday.

Recital.

On Friday evening, May 5th, Miss Helen Virginia Nesbitt will give a recital at the Maryland Theatre under the adspices of the Pastor's Aid Society of the Lutheran church. Miss Nesbitt is a reader of unusual ability. She gave a most excellent entertainment at the high school several weeks ago, and those who heard her upon that occasion will welcome this opportunity to hear her again.

How Finger Nails Grow.

No two finger nails on a person's hands grow at the same rate. The nail on the middle finger grows faster than any other, while the thumb nail is the slowest growing nail. As a rule, too, the nails on the right hand grow faster than those on the left. The state of one's health, too, affects the rate of growth. The nails on invalids' hands grow considerably faster than on the hands of a healthy person. Taken on the average, the rate of growth is an eighth of an inch a month, or from an inch to an inch and a half a year.

N. B.—The estimate submitted March 2, 1915, of costs necessary to maintain high schools in Garrett County, Maryland, for the scholastic year 1915-1916, embraced $1,100 00 for a proposed State high school of the second group to be established at Kitzmiller; however, in view of the fact that the proposed high school was not approved as such by the State Superintendent of Schools, the county high school was continued, the difference in cost between the proposed State high school of the second group and the county high school which was continued, was transferred or credited to the general public school fund of the county.

By order of the Board of County Schoo Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland February 18, 1916.

4-3t F. E. RATHBUN, Secretary.

This levy is made in accordance with said Chapter 356, section 125, of the Acts of 1910. Said Section 125 reads as follows:

Each High School in the first group in the counties of Maryland shall receive State aid on the basis of cost of instructions and in the following manner: The sum of six hundred dollars on account of the principal, and the sum of three hundred dollars on account of each of the first three assistants for regular high school work; the sum of four hundred dollars on account of each of two special teachers who shall spend not less than two-fifths of their time in the high school receiving said amounts; and the sum of one hundred dollars on account of each additional teacher; provided the total amount does not exceed the sum of twenty five hundred dollars. In this article the term special teacher shall be construed to mean a teacher of commercial, manual training or domestic science or agricultural branches. Each high school in the counties of Maryland of the second group shall receive State aid on the basis of the cost of instruction and in the following manner: The sum of six hundred dollars on account of the principal; the sum of four hundred dollars on account of one assistant teacher employed for regular high school work, and the sum of four hundred dollars on account of the Instructor of special subjects to be designated by the County School Board; provided that if an instructor in manual training or agricultural work be required to divide his or her time among not more than four schools of this group, one hundred and fifty dollars shall be allowed on account of each of such scoools; provided also, that the amount to be received by each of the four high schools of Baltimore City shall be equal to the maximum amount received on account of any high school in the counties of the State; provided further, that the Board of County School Commissioners of each county shall submit annually to the County Commissioners of their respective counties, at least thirty days prior to the date for making the usual county levy for school purposes a list of all high schools of the county, including those not entitled to State aid, as well as those classified in this article, and an itemized statement of the cost of maintaining the same, and the Board of County Commissioners shall make a separate levy for high schools, publish the same once a week for three successive weeks prior to the date of making the said levy, in one or more county papers.

By order of the Board,
W. G. MEYERS, Clerk.

VOLUME 41. OAKLAND, MARYLAND THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1916. NUMBER 8

CHARLES C. MOODY DEAD

His Lifeless Body Found in Bloomington Store Room Saturday Morning.

The lifeless body of Charles C. Moody, aged fifty-six years, son of the late William Moody, a one-time prominent merchant of Bloomington, this county, was found lying on the counter of his store room in Bloomington early Saturday morning, his death evidently having occurred but a short time before the discovery was made.

For a number of years the deceased had slept in the store room where he conducted business in a small way and usually arose and opened the building about six o'clock in the morning, being regular in this respect. On Saturday it was noticed by passers-by that the store was still closed and knowing the condition of Mr. Moody's health, he having been a sufferer for five or six years as the result of tuberculosis, it was deemed expedient by the residents of the town to force entrance into the building, which was done and his body was found upon the counter as above stated.

Mr. Moody was never married and is survived by a sister, Mrs. Brown, who resides in Baltimore, she being his only known relative.

By the terms of the will of the deceased, which was also found in the store room, he left all his property to a friend, whose home is in Washington, D. C. The estate consists of $9,000 in cash and the Bloomington property, which is valued at about $3500.

The funeral of Mr. Moody occurred on Monday, with interment at Westernport, Md., where his remains were deposited by the side of his father, whose death was caused about five years ago when he was struck and run down by a train on the Western Maryland Railroad near Luke, Allegany county.

Notice to Trespassers.

All persons are hereby warned not to trespass upon my property adjoining the town of Deer Park for the purpose of hunting or fishing. All such will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

THE COUNTY TAX RATE IS SLIGHTLY HIGHER

An Addition of Two Cents On The Hundred Dollars, or $1.19.

With the Board of County Commissioners the problem of keeping the tax rate down and at the same time providing sufficient funds for the maintenance of public schools, the building of new roads and other necessary expenses of county government, was a task which faced the board when it went into session last Monday morning for the purpose of making the levy for the coming year.

Under a law passed by the recent session of the Legislature it was made mandatory upon the public officials to keep the schools open for a period of one hundred and eighty days of actual teaching, or nine full months of twenty days each. To accomplish this and provide for the necessary funds a levy of 30 cents was necessary which produces the sum of $45,000 for this purpose alone.

In addition to the heavy school levy the sum of more than $20,000 is provided for in the new levy for new roads. Of this amount $10,000 is required to complete paying for the Oakland-Gortner road and an additional sum has been levied to complete the Shoemaker road from the Weber property to the limits of Mountain Lake Park, thus giving the people of the Park an improved road, to connect with the State system leading east.

The Commissioners have been diligent and endeavored to keep the tax rate as low as it was last year, but demands made upon the Board from almost every section of the county for road improvement and road maintenance and the additional sum for school purposes, which was raised from about $31,000 last year, has resulted in increasing the rate from $1.17 to $1.19.

The Commissioners are to be congratulated for the good showing they have made and we predict that little fault will be found with them for the splendid work they have accomplished.

Notice To The Public.

It has been called to my attention that a number of persons in various parts of the county are using in their respective places of business punch boards, for which prizes are given for certain numbers punched out. This is a violation of the law and the practice must be discontinued at once. Accordingly those making use of said boards are hereby warned to remove and destroy them at once.

I wish also to call attention to the fact that the law introduced in the recent session of the legislature to permit the sale on Sunday of tobacco, cigars, soft drinks, gasoline and other articles did not pass and that Section 437, of Article 27, of the Code of Public General Laws prohibiting sales on Sunday is still in full effect and will be enforced in accordance with the terms of the same.

E. R. JONES,
State's Attorney.

School Trustees Elected.

In compliance with the request of the Board of County School Commissioners that the patrons of each school meet on last Thursday at the various school buildings in the county and after organization proceed with the election of trustees for the several schools, more than eighty persons attended a meeting for that purpose in the grammar school building in Oakland last Thursday afternoon where Dr. A. Moore, was made chairman of the meeting, and Mr. James C. Peddicord its secretary. After nominations had been made the balloting proceeded and resulted in the election of the following: Messrs. James D. Hamill, Wade H. Hinebaugh and J. M. Falkenstein. The names of those selected along with the minutes of the meeting will be transmitted to the School Commissioners for their approval.

Bible Class Social.

On Friday evening an enthusiastic crowd of about sixty were to be found in the rooms over the People's Store sharing in the fun of the first "Ladies' Night" given by the adult bible class of the Methodist church in Mountain Lake Park. Ladies, wives preferred, were the tickets of admission for the men and a merry party resulted. Mr. P. B. Gough, the genial president, was master of ceremonies and introduced Mr. Wright as the first speaker who elicited great applause by announcing the return of the pastor for another year for he said, "No matter what Conference does it will be Flan again." Mr. Flanagan came back with a fitting story and then Captain Hayden, just back from the strenuous days at Annapolis, spoke of the high moral tone of the Legislative body giving as the reason that the men of the churches in groups like this bible class were insisting that only clean men should represent them. The men served cake—not their own baking—coffee—their own brew, the President's make—and ice-cream and altogether it was a very pleasant affair. The class meets every Sunday morning at ten o'clock.

CLAUDE BROWN PARALYZED.

Well Known Young Man of Oakland Stricken Suddenly Monday Night.

Monday evening of this week Mr. Claude Brown, a well known young man of Oakland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Brown, was suddenly stricken with paralysis, which affected his entire left side and for a time rendered him unconscious. This morning reports are that he has regained the use of the affected leg and his speech is not impaired. He is still in a serious condition, however.

O. H. S. NOTES.

News From The Oakland Temple Of Learning.

Mr. R. E. Sliger, president of the School Commissioners, presented to the High School a National Banker's Directory containing maps of all the states and principal cities, population of all the banking towns, and the names of the officers of the different banks and their correspondents; also a map of Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia, showing different counties

The senior class was entertained at the homes of Mrs. G. A. Porter, Thursday evening, and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bender Friday evening.

The two literary societies, Yorkist and Lancastrian, are planning to observe the birthday of William Shakespeare.

The junior class is making elaborate preparations to entertain the senior class and their friends by giving a lawn fete at the home of Miss Lillian Helbig on May 12.

The juniors have chosen red and white for their class colors.

Presbyterian Services.

In the Presbyterian church services will be held as follows: Friday evening, preparatory services; communion Sunday morning and services in the evening.

Eight of the forty new type Mallett engines purchased some months ago by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for service between Cumberland and Grafton, have been received at the Company's shops at Cumberland and are in service over the division of the road passing through Oakland. It is expected that the remaining number of engines will be received by the railroad authorities within the next few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Glotfelty and children, who have been in Bond, Ky., for several months past where Mr. Glotfelty was engaged in logging operations for the Bond-Foley Lumber Company, returned to their home in Oakland Tuesday morning and will reside here in the future, Mr. Glotfelty having sold his live stock and other property at Bond to the lumbering concern. Mr. Glotfelty expects to devote his attention this summer to his productive farm near McHenry which is now being operated by his brother, Mr. Garfield Glotfelty.

OAKLAND THE MECCA OF OFFICE SEEKERS

Garrett County Visited By Numerous Political Aspirants During Week.

Within the past week Oakland has been the Mecca toward which political seekers after office have turned their faces and as a result the emotions of many have been "stirred" to a more or less degree of activity. In fact some have been "stirred" to such an extent that they have been losing sleep and wondering what it means.

The vanguard was led by Dr. Joseph Irwin France, who came to Oakland last Friday morning, after having entered the county by way of the Pike on Thursday, spending the night at Grantsville. In Oakland Dr. France met quite a large number of people and was most cordially received by them. He returned east Friday afternoon by automobile.

Tuesday Oakland had within her borders all at one time three of the five Republican aspirants for Congress and two political agents in the interest of Hon. William Cabell Bruce, Democratic Senatorial candidate.

State Senator F. N. Zihlman followed the Pike to Oakland from Cumberland, stopping enroute at various points where he was warmly welcomed by his friends to whom he extended the glad hand. He was accompanied by Mr. Lloyd L. Shaffer, who returned to Cumberland the same evening, the Senator remaining in Oakland visiting acquaintances until yesterday morning when he returned east on the morning accommodation.

Shortly after Senator Zihlman's arrival Mr. Leo Weinberg, of Frederick, came in on the afternoon accommodation and spent about three hours in town when he made arrangements for a mass meeting to be held in the Maryland Theatre next Monday evening. He gave it out that he was willing and wanted to "stir the emotions" of an audience and thought the best plan would be to get his auditors together when it would not require so much reiteration.

Mr. Gist Blair was the third and last arrival in town. He spent yesterday here trying to fix up some political fences and will remain in town part of today, when he expects to leave for the east.

Mr. Bruce's claims upon the Democratic voters was urged by his son and by Mr. A. C. McComas, of Baltimore, who also came to Oakland by way of the Pike, Tuesday afternoon. They remained in Oakland until yesterday morning.

O. O. F. REUNION.

Members From Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland to be at Park.

Through the efforts of Mr. A. T. White, of Mountain Lake Park, a member of the Odd Fellows' lodge at that point, assisted by delegates from other Western Maryland lodges who are in session as a Grand Lodge in Baltimore this week, Mountain Lake Park was selected as the place for holding the next grand reunion of the Lodges of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland. The date for the reunion has not yet been fixed, but it will take place some time during the coming summer.

The attention of our readers is directed to the election notice which will govern the primary election to be held on Monday, May 1st, as well as the facsimile ballots to be voted upon that day, and which will be found published on other pages of this paper today. Under the provisions of the law governing primary elections two ballots will be prepared and delivered to the proper authorities by the election board, one, printed on pink paper, for the Republican voters, and the other, printed on white paper, for Democratic voters. Under the provisions of an amendment adopted by the legislature during the past winter, the envelope system is done away with, and voting will proceed as under the general law governing elections.

BITTINGER.

Uncle "Si," The Squash Hollow philosopher, asserts that all the grown up male residents of District Six are afraid the United States will become involved in the World Wide War, and they all want to go to Congress in order to escape conscription.

The spring-time communion was observed in the Lutheran church in this village last Sunday morning.

Lewis Berkey, of North Glade, visited his family here on Saturday and Sunday morning.

C. E. Ellithorp received a large shipment of fertilizer last week and distributed it among his customers.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beitzell are rejoicing over the recent arrival of their first born.

Makers of maple sugar in this section are of the opinion that the season is at an end, and report a very short crop.

Special Easter service, with an appropriate program, will be held in the Lutheran church next Sunday evening at 7.30.

GRANTSVILLE.

A most delightful entertainment was given at the Broadwater Hall on April 7th and 8th by the pupils of Grantsville school. The two nights program was a splendid one and worth many times the admission fee of 25c. There were drills, exercises, recitations, songs and a drama for each evening. Supt. Rathbun, Prof. C. E. Bender and R. E. Sliger, president of the Garrett county school board, of Oakland, were present on Friday night and gave short addresses. The proceeds are for the purpose of helping build a portico at the school.

Mrs. Gus Wm. Zeller and brother, Russell Broadwater, of Frostburg, spent Wednesday in Grantsville with relatives.

Miss Ethel Broadwater is the guest of friends in Frostburg and Cumberland this week.

Mrs. Joe A. Beachy is a patient in the University Hospital, Baltimore.

A party of Cumberland gentlemen held a chicken roast at U. M. Stanton's on Tuesday a number of Grantsville citizens were also present.

NEW GERMANY

Communion will be held at Trinity Reformed church Sunday, May the 14th.

Mrs. C. J. Otto and Mrs. Stephen Broadwater called on Mrs. Henry Swauger Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Swauger being very ill.

Edith Durst has returned to her home after teaching school at Bloomington.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Alexander have been with his parents at Flatwoods for a few days.

Jennie Brown spent Friday with Gretchen Otto.

Grace Warnick has returned to her home at Eairview, Md., having taught the Dorsey school this winter.

There will be an entertainment held at the Crowe school house Saturday night, April twenty-second.

Ora Crowe was a business caller at this place last week.

Reveries.

To the Editor of The Republican:

A list of the Garrett county teachers for the past year has just come to my attention. After an absence of nearly five years from the fraternity I was amazed to find exactly ninety names which are still familiar to me. I was also pleased to find seventeen former pupils on the list.

Much has been said of the nobility of the profession, but little of the reward. Teachers are doubtless supposed to get most of their reward in the next world.

Yet one of the joys of life is this to look back over the years and say, "Somewhere, sometime I gave that person an inspiration which has perhaps, led on to better things."

In fancy I often stand in the little schoolhouses which must be closed and silent now. The stern march of time has left many changes there. To the four winds of the heavens, they must be scattered. Those sturdy and carefree youngsters of yesterday must now be facing the stern but broader world of today.

But wherever they are, my fondest memories and benedictions go with them.

Dr. JOSEPH IRWIN FRANCE

He is the Candidate of no one faction of his party.

He is appealing directly to the rank and file.

He is acceptable to all Republicans.

He is acceptable to the Progressives.

He has the ability to represent the State fittingly in the Senate.

He has the support of the State Wide Press.

He believes the Republican Party should be the MAJORITY Party in Maryland.

His Candidacy, just as did Mr. Weller's, represents an effort to nominate proved men free from previous political alignments. Mr. Weller received the greatest number of votes ever given a Republican Candidate. It is the policy that will build up the party.

His candidacy represents the nation wide movement to nominate candidates upon whom all opponents of the Democratic Party can unite enthusiastically so that the breach of 1912 may be permanently healed.

His Headquarters are at 304 Maryland Trust Building, Baltimore where he will be glad to meet or hear from all Republicans.

Phillips Lee Goldsborough

REQUESTS THE SUPPORT OF

ALL REPUBLICANS

AS THEIR CANDIDATE FOR

UNITED STATES SENATOR

At the primaries to be held Monday, May 1, 1916.

Mr. Goldsborough is the candidate who is best qualified by ability and experience and by the fact that he is known to be the man who will represent all the people of his state and will effectively support their every interest. He is the man to whom all will be proud to point as Maryland's representative in the highest Legislative body in the world.

See what the four corners and the middle of the state say about him.

WESTERN MARYLAND.

Col. W. Bladen Lowndes, son of former Governor Lowndes.

"What I am most concerned about is that we shall name for Senator, a man in whom the people have confidence. He must be a known quantity and a known quality. He must be known by the real test of public life. He must be conspicuous for his ability as a statesman and needs be of recognized personal power as a thinker and speaker. Such a man is Phillips Lee Goldsborough and I am not convinced that there is now available any other man in the state whom we can elect."

Benjamin Armstrong Richmond, Cumberland.

"I believe that the results in the general election depend upon the wisdom of the Republicans in nominating Phillips Lee Goldsborough for Senator. I do not think there is another man in the state who can be elected to that office on the Republican ticket and I do not think there is a Democrat in the state who can defeat him."

SOUTHERN MARYLAND.

Senator John E. Mudd, of Charles county.

"Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the ablest man within the Republican ranks in Maryland. The record he achieved as chief executive of the state is one of which Republicans can feel justly proud. I feel confident he will receive the support of the Independents. He is the man of the hour in the coming Senatorial primary."

Thomas Parran, of Calvert county.

"The public record of Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the best asset of our party and one that appeals to all classes of voters. It will elect him the next United States Senator. I cannot believe that the voters of Maryland will repudiate at the coming primary, the splendid administration that has just been given us by Governor Goldsborough."

NORTHERN MARYLAND.

Senator Richard S. Snader, of Carroll county.

"Mr. Goldsborough is an individual possessed of executive ability high above the average of public men in governmental affairs. As governor he demonstrated he exercises his abilities with an eye solely to the building up of the state. I feel sure we can put Carroll county in the Goldsborough column in the primary."

Clarence Oldfield, of Howard county.

"After careful thought and frequent interviews with Republicans in Howard county, I arrived at the positive conclusion that Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the best qualified candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator."

EASTERN SHORE.

Senator Henry M. McCullough, of Cecil county.

"No Marylander has a record of accomplishments that can surpass that of Phillips Lee Goldsborough, who, unaided by fortune, has won success in his political career, entirely through his well directed efforts to serve the people of his state and country."

Wilbur F. Turner, of Wicomico county.

"Mr. Goldsborough is the strongest man in the Republican ranks. His administration demonstrated he knows the wants of the people and is able to secure for them what they need. This applies particularly to the counties and I am for him."

BALTIMORE CITY.

Col. Edward C. Carrington.

"Former Governor Goldsborough has been twice elected by the people of Maryland to high office in a state-wide vote. As between Mr. Goldsborough and his opponent, I would feel that I was guilty of bad citizenship if I did not vote for Mr. Goldsborough."

Dr. Howard A. Kelly, noted surgeon and sturdy Democrat.

"Mr. Goldsborough was the model governor of Maryland and we have never had a better one. His appointments in Baltimore City,—Magistrates, Police Commissioners and members of the Liquor License Board, gave us, without exception, the best officials we ever had in these positions."

John B. Ramsay, vice-pres., Merchants-Mechanis Nat'l Bank.

THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1916

MONEY IN BRAINS.

The Board of County Commissioners, in levying $45,000 in this year's annual levy for the public school system of the county, has taken a decided step forward for the betterment of our present and future citizenship. This amount of money permits all the schools of the county to have 180 actual days of school as opposed to about 140 as now prevails. Nor does this extension of term apply only to the town schools, but to all the rural schools as well, which can make the required average daily attendance of twelve children which the new school law of the state names as the lowest number at which a school may be continuously open. Nor will this average be difficult for any school community to maintain, for with the compulsory school attendance law in effect, which was passed at the recent session of the Legislature, any school may be kept open the full term.

The County Commissioners have handled the county's finances most admirably; for with this additional expense in the school system, amounting to about $12,000 the county levy has been raised only two cents. The progressive citizens will commend the Commissioners for assisting in this progressive step at such a small advance in the county tax rate. They will commend the Commissioners further for their meeting the requirements of the new state school law in granting the exact amount asked for by the Board of School Commissioners, which is thoroughly alive to the educational needs of our county and which always spends its money judiciously. The progressive citizen feels that now the county will not have to apologize for its school system, for it will soon take rank among the best of the nation, and this could never be with the 140-day annual term, for if one day's schooling in the life of a child is of any value, two days are worth twice as much and 180 days schooling in the year is worth 180 times as much as one day. The lengthened term, which is the standard length throughout the county, will provide a better teaching force, for teachers will prepare themselves more thoroughly for the work that will hereafter offer better returns and more lengthly employment.

All citizens will be glad of this opportunity to help the children of our county, who will soon be at the head of affairs here among us, while we older folks shall be obliged to take places less active. The tax-payer in making these sacrifices, through the county officials, are setting up a high ideal for the children in thus supporting the school system that creates intelligence and which in turn better fits the boys and girls to grapple with the problems of life.

There is no better investment for the people to make than an investment in brains and intelligence, and the improved conditions in the school system permits parents to do better that which so many of them desire to do, and in many instances is the only heritage they can give or leave their children—a good sound helpful education, which is always conductive to a more enlightened manhood and womanhood.

GARRETT COUNTY owes to Senator Speicher a debt she can repay by giving to him a rousing majority at the primary election polls on May 1st.

THE HARD and persistent work of Senator Speicher in the interests of his Garrett county constituents at Annapolis during the past six years has placed his home county at the forefront in many ways. At the recent session of the Legislature, even after the measure appropriating $8,000 for public school purposes had been lost in the House, Senator Speicher by his earnest work, succeeded in having it passed through both Houses and it has now been signed by Governor Harrington, making it possible for this fund to be drawn upon by the local school authorities for public educational purposes, thus relieving the tax payers of the county from paying this amount in direct taxes to the public school fund.

THE campaign conducted by former Governor Phillips Lee Goldsborough, for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate, has been such an energetic one that already his supporters are predicting his election on May 1. Every ward in Baltimore City and every county throughout the state is linked by the Goldsborough chain of organizations and interest in his candidacy has grown so within the past week that there now exists a firm belief that he will win.

Chief among the reasons why the Republican voters are enrolling under the Goldsborough banner, is because the former Governor is the better known of the two candidates. Until about two months ago, the name of Dr. France was practically unknown outside the medical profession.

On the other hand, Mr. Goldsborough has been in the public eye for many years. His administration as Governor was one of the most capable and constructive ever given Maryland and especially commends him to the rank and file. His record, political and personal, is an open book. He is a man who has carved out his own career, through his own ability and through that rugged honesty and square dealing which has won friends and has attached them to him.

EDITORALLY the Frostburg Mining Journal of last Thursday said of Garrett county's candidate for Congressional honors:

Senator Harvey J. Speicher, of Accident, Garrett county, who recently announced as a candidate for Congressional honors in the Sixth district, made a swing around the circle and spent Thursday in Frostburg interviewing Republicans with reference to his candidacy and seemed greatly pleased as a result of his canvass. Mr. Speicher is a genial, affable gentleman of ability, and decidedly popular in his home county.

With Senator Speicher as the candidate for Congress his election is almost certain. He is not only popular at home but holds a high place in the esteem of people all over the State. As Senator from Garrett county he occupied a place of prominence in his party's councils at Annapolis during the past six years and was a factor to be reckoned with in legislation of county and State-wide importance. As a member of the more important House of Representatives at Washington, Senator Speicher will be in the forefront in all matters wherein his constituents are interested and the Sixth Congressional District will retain the place of prominence in the National body which has been occupied by it ever since the advent of the Hon. Milton G. Urner, of Frederick, as its Representative more than thirty years ago.

WITH THE possibility of electing a Republican president becoming more prononunced each day, the real interest of the Republican voters of Maryland should be centered on the election of a United States Senator and Congressman from this state to uphold the hands of the Republican president. In regard to the election of a man to represent the party in the United States Senate, extreme care should be taken to nominate the most available man in the Republican ranks.

The mere desire of a man to become a United States Senator does not make him available for that office. Availability, in regard to an aspirant for political office, means that the candidate should be held in such esteem by the sovereign people that they are willing to elect him to the office he seeks. He must be a known quantity. He must have the proper training to fit him for Senatorial duties. He must be regarded by the people as one who will be able to perform the duties of the high office in an acceptable manner.

Such a man is Phillips Lee Goldsborough, former Governor of Maryland. Mr. Goldsborough is a Republican by birth and tradition, and the charge of being a renegade in politics could never be brought against him. One of his strong characteristics is his loyalty to his principles, his party and his friends.

Mr. Goldsborough is a pillar of his party who is thoroughly seasoned and tried out. He has served the Republicans of Maryland faithfully, has done his work conscientiously in the various offices he has held, and is the logical man in the Republican ranks of Maryland, by virtue of achievements and ability, to represent Maryland in the United States Senate.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mr. John W. Ruhl, of Clarksburg, W. Va., was a week end visitor at the Park.

Dr. and Mrs. Logan Carr, of New York city, opened their cottage Friday.

Mrs. Bussell, of Parkersburg, W. Va., returned to the Park Saturday evening, with her daughter, Miss Finnell and is getting "Allenhurst" ready for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Sperry, of Martinsburg, W. Va., reached the Park Tuesday to spend a few days.

Mrs. Campbell, spent the winter with Virginia friends and relatives. She returned to the Park Monday and is having her house papered and painted. George Dawson is the contractor.

Mrs. Wingate, after spending the winter in Baltimore, returned to the Park last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Sharp, of New Philadelphia, Ohio, will reach the Park on the 21st inst.

Miss Rachel Weems has returned to the Park and opened her cottage for the summer.

E. W. Kelso and family will be Park residents, having rented Mrs. Levi Echard's house. They will occupy it in a few days.

Mr. Harvey Cuppett, of Terra Alta, W. Va., called on his parents at this place Tuesday.

Mrs. N. C. Haymond has returned from Florida and is at her home in the Park.

Miss Bell Pritchard has returned to the Park and has her bungalow opened. Miss Pritchard spent the winter in Mannington, W. Va.

Mrs. Schrock and Mrs. Zeck are visiting in the vicinity of Bittinger and are enjoying a good time.

Rev. Wilson has rented the Sperry cottage for the summer. A Mr. Fraley, of Baltimore, has rented the Pollock cottage.

Mrs. Laughlin, who wintered with relatives in Fairmont, W. Va., is now enjoying life in her Park cottage.

Mrs. Constantine, of Washington, D. C., spent Tuesday in the Park looking at cottages. She expects, with her family, to spend the summer vacation in the Park.

Special meetings are being held in the Methodist church this week. Rev. Dr. Wright is assisting Pastor Flanigan.

Mr. Rudisill, the Superintendent, will be in the Association office daily from 5 p. m. to 9 p. m., during April. Mr. Rudisill will put men to work cleaning up the Park next Monday. Many property owners are cleaning up about their premises, taking Billy Sunday's advice to "brighten up your own corner,"

Daily, strange faces are seen on our streets. Houses are being rented for the summer. Many improvements are taking place. Painters and paper hangers are at work and soon carpenters will be busy remodeling houses. There will be many surprises to the Park visitors this summer and they will be convinced that the Park is not dead or dying. The fact that so many persons have already opened their cottages is proof that "something is going on."

Dr. Robert H. Riley, Deputy State Health Officer, visited the Park Wednesday and looked over the sanitary conditions. His visit was appreciated.

LA TENA'S BIG WILD ANIMAL CIRCUS SHOW

(Biddeford Daily Journal.)

La Tena's big wild animal circus which arrived in this city at 4:30 o'clock this morning from Dover, N. H. gave its first performance at Piper's Field this afternoon at 2 o'clock and proved a big success in the line of circuis entertainments. The show is bright and clean and overflowing with genuine arts of worth-while quality and was pleasing to young and old alike, with its excellent program of novel numbers, more than one of which would have done credit to a much more pretentious show. Everything about the show was clean and well regulated, the costuming and staging of the various acts was beyond reproach and the entire outfit proved one of quality and considerable merit.

Both in the quality of the program and in the show, La Tena's circus proved a genuine credit to the show business as a whole. At Oakland, May 2nd, 1916. Advertisement.

CHANGE FOR G. O. P. TO REDEEM DISTRICT

M. G. Urner Says Victory Depends On Wise Nomination.

COUNTY ENTITLED TO HONOR

Former Congressman Gives Strong Endorsement to Candidacy of Lee Weinberg. Who Seeks Office—Has Marked Ability.

Strong endorsement of the candidacy of Leo Weinberg, the Frederick attorney, who is seeking Congressional honors in this district, is given by Hon. M. G. Urner, one of the two men to represent this county in the lower body of congress since the Civil War. When asked his views as to the Congressional campaign in the Sixth district, Mr. Urner said to a News representative:

"I think the Republicans have an exceptionally good chance to redeem the district at the next election and will doubtless do so if a wise choice is made in the selection of a candidate. So far three counties have candidates aspiring for the nomination. This county has consistently supported the candidate and given him her large Republican vote, although we have not had a candidate for thirty-six years. In fact this great county with all its wealth, intelligence and population has only had two representatives in Congress since the Civil War, Judge Richie, who was elected in 1870, and myself elected in 1878 and 1880. It certainly is time this county's claim is recognized.

"We have a candidate who would represent the district with credit. I refer to Mr. Leo Weinberg. He is a young man of marked ability. Liberally educated, with oratorical powers of a high order, with great industry, a most successful trial lawyer, he is well equipped to represent this district in the House of Representatives with credit to himself and his constituents." From Frederick News, March 29, 1916.

Political advertisement authorized by Leo Weinberg, candidate.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

The Modern Dance.

Have its advocates ever considered the character of those who corroborate their testimony? Is it done by the devoted and consecrated followers of Jesus? Hardly! up from the spiritualistic clubs and free love circles comes the corroborating testimony. Out from the windows of the dance houses we hear, "its all right." From the innermost chambers of the house of the strange woman comes the same. It comes from the dens of infamy, from midnight haunts and from the darkness of heathenism.

I am not comparing dancing Christians with these classes. By no means. I am simply showing that their testimony must be corroborated by a class of persons with whom they would not under any circumstances appear in advocating any other cause. There is one argument that ought to settle it for every church member and that is the church condemns it. The communion table and the dance are as opposite as things can well be.

When you were converted was it hard to give it up? You were willing to give up anything for Christ. It seemed inspired then. You really preferred the church to a party, conscience condemned it then, how does it approve it now when conscience is governed by the principles of God's word: it will condemn every form of sin. Suppose you do not go to public balls, yet in the social dance familiarities are allowed that would under other conditions be considered insulting. It is a fact that in the dance familiarities are allowed which are a violation of the spirit of the seventh commandment. If the world can carry the dance too far and the private dance can in any way be the first step thereto, are we keeping ourselves unspotted from the world if in any wise we countenance it?

How can Christians lend their influence to lead others on to worldly things. Paul's principle of eating meat is binding on us. If his eating meat,—though he could do it without harm—should make a weaker brother stumble, he wouldn't eat any.

If our indulgence in things will cause another to go astray or injure them we will desist for their sakes. We must abstain from all appearance of evil. We must not use our liberty lest the weaker brother, for whom Christ died, should perish.

But it does you no good; it is the amusement of the world and as such tends to worldly mindedness; to the loss of spirituality and hence is unworthy of and inconsistent with the Christian profession.

If it has been the means of leading one astray that settles the whole matter for the christian. If a thing hinders growth in grace the christian has no right to trifle with it.

Suppose one is under conviction of sin, would he go to the dance for relief? Not unless he wished to stifle his convictions.

Come with me to a sick room. There lies a young lady. She had been under conviction. She was asked to attend a dance. Friends insisted. Well, she said she would go if she were damned for it. Now she is in despair, going down to death in an agony of horror. Let us enter another room. A pale emancipated face meets us. Sorrow is depicted on every lineament. Despair is visible. Marks of dissipation are evident. The flickering light of a lamp casts a weird luster about. A faint voice comes from that bed. O, what a history it tells. A life of dissipation, revelry, debauchery, loss of friends, honor and good name and soul.

It would have made a stout heart quail to hear her bitter lamentations and terrible denunciations on the innocent amusement called the dance. In the real whirl of the dance she learned her first lesson, and its fascinations led her farther and farther until at last, after a few years of a sad and sorrowful life she is brought face to face with death and with her last breath she regrets her past, wishes she had never indulged, urges the young to shun the fascinating evils and leaves her dying testimony against it as one of the most fascinating, yet dangerous evils of the day. Shun the very appearance of evil and whatsoever you do, do it for the glory of God.

Now let me give you some reasons why Christians ought not to engage in this so called amusement. I do so because I believe it tends to destroy spiritual life, is antagonistic to holiness of life; hinders growth in grace and tends to break down the distinction between the church and the world. To say the least it has the appearance of evil; it grieves many good Christians and has provoked the condemnation of church courts. The word of God says, "Abstain from the very appearence of evil." This command we must obey. One thing is sure, in abstaining from it there can be no sin.

It is purely an amusement of the world. It neither results from, nor does it strengthen our faith in Christ, and yet we are told that "Whatsoever is not of faith is sin," that is when we do anything that we are not certain is right, it is then wrong to us. No church makes it a duty, all they do is to tolerate it. It is worldly in its origin, character, association and tendencies, hence when we find a relish for it we should forsake it, remembering the command, "Be not conformed to this world," and "friendship with the world is enmity to God." A love for it shows a relish for the world and leads to excesses which destroys love for Christ. The dance and devoted piety do not go together. The more you love and practice the dance the greater will be the declension in your religious life. As surely as things freeze when the thermometer registers zero so surely will dancing freeze religious sentiments out of the soul. As surely as the wind that fills the sails will drive the ship over the water, so surely will this evil drive its votaries away from allegiance to Christ.

This is the duty of a Christian first, last and always to maintain allegiance to his Master.

Think of these things, and be true to thy Lord and Master that your crown may be bright.

JOANNES.

LUTHERANS PLAN 400TH REFORMATION ANNIVERSARY

All Protestant Church Bodies Will Join In Historic Event.

Headquarters have been established in The Hornor Building, Philadelphia, to make arrangements for a nation-wide celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of the Reformation in 1917, and to get in communication with the 76,000,000 Lutherans the world over. For more than a year the joint committee has been working on plans, and subcommittees are now putting the main feature into final form.

An anniversary medal showing Luther nailing the famous ninety-five theses on the church door at Wittenberg and bearing appropriate inscriptions is being designed and will be ready for distribution by October 1916. A motion picture film depiciting the principal activities of Luther and Reformation scenes will in all probability be used to visualize the events of the places and the movement. A group of scholars has been at work for more than a year translating the writings of Luther and a well known American writer will issue a popular life of the Reformer. The "Luther Play" is filling engagements in many centers with great success and further engagements are being booked for 1917. Services of worship will be held by individual congregations with special speakers and music, and in addition celebration festivals will be conducted in many centers. These may extend over a period of several days, depending on the size of the community. Chorus singing by massed church choirs and singing societies will be featured and the wealth of Reformation hymns and oratorios will be used extensively.

All Protestant bodies will observe the event. It will be as in 1863 when the entire Protestant world commemorated the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of the leader of the Reformation, Martin Luther. The council of Church Boards of Education, representing seventeen denominations has opened a central office in New York to conduct a campaign of education during 1917, for the purpose of increasing the financial support and the efficiency of the church colleges.

It is intended to make the celebration commemorative of the great historic event of the sixteenth century with the emphasis upon the principles which have contributed so largely to the world's progress. The religious factor will be the leading feature of the celebration but other phases of historic interest will receive attention. The aim will be a constructive celebration looking forward as much as backward. Above all it is hoped a spiritual impetus will result which shall benefit the entire world. Special Reformation literature, books, and monographs will be produced and a booking agency for lectures is established. A department of the headquarters is provided for reference and information purposes and correspondence is invited on matters relating to the Reformation period or to a proper and constructive celebration of the event.

Five Synods of national character are represented in the executive committee—the general synod, the general council, the United Synod of the South, the Joint Synod of Ohio, and the Iowa Synod. The members of the committees are drawn from every section of the country.

The Rev. Prof. T. E. Schmauk, D. D., of the Mt. Airy Seminary, Philadelphia, is chairman of the general and the executive committees. Mr. E. Clarence Miller, banker of Philadelphia, is chairman of the finance committee which is underwriting the expenses of the office and committee activities. The executive secretary, the Rev. Howard R. Gould, was called from Madison, Wis., where he was University pastor for his denomination at the University of Wisconsin, and pastor of Luther Memorial Church. During the summer of 1915 Mr. Gould engaged in religious and social welfare work in prison camps in Europe under the direction of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A.

A Drill You Will Like — An Empire, Jr.

HAVE you ever thought of increasing your crop yield by planting with an Empire, Jr. drill? It can be done.

Empire, Jr. drilled grain stands a better chance of producing a bumper crop than broadcasted seed. It takes less seed too, and will do a much better job in a wet field than a seeder. Grain put in with an Empire, Jr. drill will all come up at the same time and all ripen at once. This is an advantage that cannot be expected from seed broadcasted.

The Empire, Jr. light draft grain drills have been largely responsible for the big crop yields in the Red River Valley and other celebrated wheat districts. Without the Empire, Jr. drill those farmers would have no better crop than you. Call in some day soon and we will show you why the Empire, Jr. drill produces bigger yields.

The Republican--Garrett Co.'s Paper.

SENATOR HARVEY J. SPEICHER.

State Senator, Harvey J. Speicher, of Garrett County, has announced that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Sixth District.

In making the announcement he said: "After serious consideration, extending over a period of several months, I have decided to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress. A large number of influential Republicans from Western Maryland have been urging me to do this for some time, and after consulting with my friends I have made up my mind to go into this fight and when I go into a fight, I go in to win, no matter what obstacles may stand in my way.

"For twenty-four years, Allegany county has had the Congressman from our District. Before that, Allegany had the place for several terms; and Washington county, in the person of the late Judge McComas, had the Congressman for twelve years, and Frederick and Montgomery counties have both been represented in Congress, leaving Garrett the only county in the District that has never had a representative in Congress, and a large proportion of the Republicans in Western Maryland believe that Garrett, the one certain and sure Republican county in the District, should have her turn, now that all the usual political signs point to a great Republican National victory next November.

"I am allied with no faction or clique in our party. I have a record of eight years in the State Senate, of faithful, diligent and I hope, effective service, for my County and State. To the best of my ability I have done my duty through four sessions at Annapolis, and I know the people of my own county are satisfied with what I have done.

"I shall begin my campaign immediately. I shall visit every section of the District, and, so far as I can, endeavor to see the voters so that they may be able to form an opinion of my ability to represent them at Washington, and I confidently hope that the opinion formed of me will be so favorable that I shall be nominated on May first.

"If elected I shall devote my whole time and energy to my work. I shall represent the whole District, and no particular section or individual shall be favored over the others, and I hope and believe I have the ability to do the work in a manner that will be satisfactory to the people."

"Tom" Parran Says Governor Goldsborough Was "Double-Crossed" By Some of the So-Called Leaders of the Party

That former Governor Philips Lee Goldsborough, candidate for the Republican nomination for the United States Senate, has been given the "double-cross" by some of the so-called leaders in the Republican party, is the charge made by Thomas Parran, a close personal friend of the former chief executive of the state and one of his staunchest supporters in his fight for the Senatorial toga.

Incidentally, Mr. Parran brings to light that Mr. Goldsborough was promised that he would have no opposition for the nomination for Senator, in the event that he prevented a big split in the Republican ranks by not entering the gubernatorial fight last summer.

The charge of Mr. Parran was an open one and was made at one of the first meetings at which he spoke in the interests of Mr. Goldsborough. It was engendered over a remark of one of the voters at the meeting that "Governor Goldsborough should not have been opposed by anyone in the Senatorial contest."

"And if Mr. Goldsborough had been given a square deal, he would not be," thundered Mr. Parran.

"You all know," he continued, "that Governor Goldsborough was importuned by thousands of Republicans to be a candidate to succeed himself as Governor. Before he would announce that he would be a candidate, he studied conditions and pondered long and earnestly over what would become of the Republican party if he would inject himself into the contest.

"Governor Goldsborough carefully studied existing conditions and finally he announced that he would not be a candidate. In arriving at this decision he was quoted in the newspapers as follows:

" 'Four years ago I was unanimously nominated for the office of Governor of Maryland by the Republican party, and subsequently elected. Many citizens have suggested that I again be a candidate for that office. A most painstaking survey of party conditions in the state clearly shows that there is no possible chance of securing such nomination by even a close approach to practical unanimity, and, therefore, I have determined not to contest for this honor in a bitter primary fight.

"I am most mindful and deeply appreciative of the public honors which have been bestowed upon me and I trust my friends, and the public generally, will believe that every public duty which I have been called upon to perform, has been met with fidelity and such measure of ability as I was capable of giving.

"My appreciation of the loyal support of my party is beyond expression, and knowing that its unity and power will be impaired by a heated primary contest, I am therefore unwilling to take any steps which may tend to injure its chances in the coming election.'

"And all this time he was studying conditions these so-called leaders were running to me and begging me to ask him to refrain from becoming a candidate.

" 'For God's sake,' they pleaded, 'don't let Mr. Goldsborough come into this fight for Governor and we will be with you in case that you ever run for any other office. Let him aspire next year for the nomination for Senator and we will not oppose him.' I do not need to mention names, you know them.

"But what have they done? Instead of keeping their word with Mr. Goldsborough, the cry went up, 'anyone to beat Goldsborough!' And they trotted out Dr. France, a man who has never done anything for the Republican party that was worth mentioning. But they won't beat the former Governor, as the people know that when he was in office he gave them a 'square deal' in return."

And judging from the shouts of approval from the 400 voters, Mr. Goldsborough will get that "square deal."

Residents of Montgomery county are incensed over articles appearing in one of the county papers in which it was virtually stated that Mr. Goldsborough did not have many friends in that section. One of his staunch admirers took the paper in question to task and voiced the opinion of thousands of voters of Montgomery in a letter to the editor. He was Edward W. Byrn, of Silver Springs, who wrote:

"In your issue of March, 31, an article, 'Dr. France Will Win,' has greatly puzzled and given much distress to your many friends. In your editorial column you apparently seek to be fair, but the article referred to puzzles and amazes the friends of ex-Governor Goldsborough. It certainly is a very unfair statement, prejudicially affecting the interest of Governor Goldsborough, doing him great injustice, and certainly not expressive of any sentiment in Montgomery county.

"It must be remembered that this is a direct election, in which the people themselves speak, and it seems unfair to prejudice the election by any assumption of facts before the people have registered their verdict.

"The voters of the State of Maryland are an intelligent and patriotic electorate, and they know full well what qualifications are required in a United States Senator and they are likely to vote their convictions in spite of any pre-arranged plans of a prejudiced party.

"First, they know he should be a trained lawyer, because this is the highest legislative body of the country, which is concerned in making laws and passing upon the great internal and international legal issues now presenting themselves. Governor Goldsborough is an accomplished lawyer.

"Second, he should be a sound Republican and familiar with the politics and policies of his party. Governor Goldsborough has been in political life since he was a very young man. He knows the great fundamentals of his party and is, I believe, broad enough to recognize and adopt progressive ideals wherever founded in patriotism and the general welfare.

"Third, he should be a man of experience and broad qualifications. Few men of his years have had so varied and extended an education in public life as Governor Goldsborough; first as state's attorney in defense of its laws, then as comptroller in the regulation and administration of state finances, next as collector of internal revenue for Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia and Eastern Shore counties of Virginia. Finally as Governor of the state, he so administered its executive functions as to have commanded alike the admiration and approval of both parties. It is not in the range of possibility to please everybody, and especially disappointed office seekers.

"Fourth, he should be a man widely and favorably known. Governor Goldsborough is known from one end of the state to the other, was mentioned in the press for the office of vice-president at one time. He enjoys the confidence and friendship of most of the public men of the state and few men have a larger acquaintance and a more cordial appreciation among its people.

"Fifth, he should be a man of clean character and personal popularity. Governor Goldsborough is an honest, conscientious man, a true Maryland gentleman, approachable to all and throughout his entire life he has been irreproachably clean, manly and upright.

"Sixth, he should be a good speaker. On his feet before the public, Governor Goldsborough has few superiors as an orator; clear-cut, analytical and forceful, he always compels an earnest attention, and, should he be elected to the Senate, the people of Maryland will hear from him and be proud of him.

"Seventh, he should be a man who can appeal to and get Democratic votes. His election as Governor proved Mr. Goldsborough can do this, and in a state like Maryland, with a normally large Democratic majority, only such a man can win. It must be remembered that every Democratic vote transferred to a Republican counts two and Governor Goldsborough is one of the few men who may in this way hope to win. Governor Goldsborough should, and will, win by the voice of the people."

GARRETT COUNTIAN HEADS THE POTATO GROWERS ASSOCIATION

The Western Maryland Association Formed at Large Meeting in Frostburg.

Frostburg, Md., April 15.—A permanent organization was formed at the meeting of the potato growers of this section in the Shea building yesterday. It will be known as the Western Maryland Potato Growers Association and will be incorporated. It will have for its main objects the encouragement of better and economical methods of potato culture, to secure better results in grading, packing, marketing and advertising Western Maryland seed potatoes and to develop the local market and find new markets for seed potatoes of local culture. Another object will be to secure pure seed at as low a price as is consistent with the best quality.

The citizens National Bank, Frank Watts, president, which is back of the movement, will hold a number of conferences during the year with the potato growers and will offer substantial aid to the movement until the association becomes self supporting.

C. W. Bassett, Assistant Chief of Bureau of Markets and Rural organization of United States Agricultural Department. C. B. Jessie, of same bureau and Prof. F. B. Bomberger of Maryland Agricultural College were present. John W. McGill, county agent, introduced the men at the meeting and interesting addresses were heard on most everything pertaining to starting and getting results. The address by C. W. Bassett was especially interesting. He owns farms in his native state of Michigan and has had a wide experience over the United States. He stated a new table market was coming in demand and was started by a farmer who was laughed at upon his first venture. The potatoes are packed in tissue paper the same as oranges, one box containing 3 pound some 2 pound. This was advertised and one big railroad in the west uses eight and a half tons a day on its dining car tables and the large hotels of New York City buy them.

The officers elected were: H. P. Miller, Grantsville, president; James Morgan, Frostburg, vice president; H. B. Avery, Barrellsville, secretary; Frank Watts, treasurer; directors for three years James A. Morgan, H. B. Avery, Robert Tennant of Vale Summit, two years, H. P. Miller, B. F. State Central Committee Endorses Senator Zihlman

Allegany County Candidate Gets Flattering Resolutions.

FREDERICK N. ZIHLMAN.

WHEREAS: The Republican party has shown itself in the recent campaign to be a virile militant power for the cause of good government in Maryland, and although unsuccessful in its splendid efforts to elect its state ticket, it nevertheless did succeed in electing to public office throughout the state a large number of its members, men of known integrity and efficiency, than at any election since 1896, and

WHEREAS: By standing for the reforms and advanced legislation advocated by a large majority of our people, the representative of Allegany County in the state senate, Hon. Frederick N. Zihlman, has contributed largely to the splendid position of our party before the people of the State, and

WHEREAS: The Republican party of Maryland will play a most important part in the selection and election of the party's candidate for president of presidential election, and

WHEREAS: The counties of the Sixth congressional district should, and will contribute largely to the success of the party in this state, by the selection of a candidate for the high office of representative in the halls of congress, who is known to be in full sympathy with the policies of the party, and who has demonstrated his strength with the people of the state

Therefore, be it resolved: That we, the Republican state central committee of Allegany County, in meeting assembled, do hereby unanimously declare in favor of the nomination and election to congress of Honorable Frederick N. Zihlman, as representative from the Sixth Congressional district, and we desire to call to the attention of the Republicans of the five counties thereof, the splendid showing made by him as the congressional standard bearer of the party in 1914, when he reduced the plurality of Mr. Lewis of 6,287 in 1912, to 742 in 1914.

We further call attention to his services to the people of the state during his term as a member of the state senate in behalf of all humane and forward looking measures considered by that body, that he stood for and advocated all measures of our state and its interests, and opposed those measures which would in any degree lower the standard of citizenship or made for inefficiency in public service. We further call the attention of the Republicans of the Sixth congressional district to his untiring efforts in behalf of the party and its candidates and we hereby testify to the splendid assistance and support he gave to the members of this committee, making possible the magnificent victory in Allegany County on November 2nd, due largely to his splendid leadership.

We further pledge ourselves to give our unqualified support to the Honorable Frederick N. Zihlman, as one who will appear to all classes of the Republican party throughout the district, and whose record and services will bring him and his party a deserved victory in the coming congressional election, and we call upon the voters of said district to rally to his support, and make him their standard bearer in 1916, believing thereby the best interests of the party will be served, and its senatorial and national ticket strengthened in this section of Maryland, and that by his selection a most faithful and efficient servant will be rewarded.

Any Cobwebs In Your Brain?

By MOSS.

"THE newspapers! Sir, they are the most villainous, abominable, infernal—Not that I ever read them! No; I make it a rule never to look into a newspaper!"

'Tis sad, but true, that a few such wonderful "critics" still exist today. Thus they rant of newspaper advertisements:

"The advertisements! Sir, they are the most villainous, abominable, infernal— Not that I ever read them! No; I make it a rule never to look at the advertisements."

Honestly, folks, isn't it too bad that the fool killer germ hasn't been invented yet?

You certainly know that this is the age of PUBLICITY.

You certainly know that our careful and successful merchants spend thousands of dollars each month in JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING.

You certainly know that it is a PART OF THEIR BUSINESS; that it PAYS THEM, PAYS US, PAYS YOU.

Surely there are no cobwebs in your brain.

Please laugh at foolish "critics" if you happen to stumble across any.

This newspaper prints only what it believes to be HONEST ADVERTISEMENTS, accepted in GOOD FAITH from TRUSTWORTHY SOURCES.

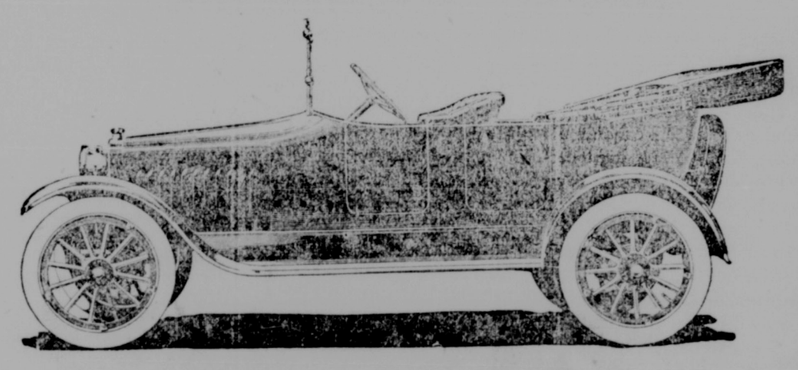
SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people



Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $5,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle the question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

C. F. ZITTEL, Dramatic Editor, New York Journal.

For a Demonstration of this wonderful car, call at Liller's Barber shop or Kelly's Livery, Oakland.

O. H. S. NOTES.

News From The Oakland Temple Of Learning.

Miss Julia Rowan entertained the Seniors Monday evening at Hinebaugh's restaurant. The dining room was beautifully decorated with the class colors, purple and cream, and the class flower, cream rose. The use of a Victrola added to the evening's enjoyment.

Mary and Joseph Foley were absent last week.

Edward and Robert Scott, Victor Harvey, Gerald Tanner and Oliver Smouse spent the Easter holidays at their respective homes.

Engine Weighs Half Million.

Evidencing the superior equipment being added to the rolling stock of the Baltimore and Ohio. Sunday a new locomotive, No. 7111, one of the powerful doubletype in use in the mountain region of the Third Division, passed through here. The engine has a listed weight of over a half million pounds or to be exact 260 tons, and was hauling 109 cars.

Last week a similar type of engine, No. 7109, went over the second division with a load of 110 cars. For several years the Baltimore and Ohio has been adding heavy engines to the third division, but the older series were of only 240 tons weight.

Appeal Session.

Owing to the fact that a number of persons were unable to appear before the Mayor and City Council at its regular appeal session held last Friday, an additional session for this purpose will be held at the Council Chamber tomorrow (Friday) evening from 7 until 9:30 o'clock.

A FIRST CLASS ENTERTAINMENT

Miss Nesbitt Will Again Appear to Delight An Oakland Audience.

On Friday evening, May 5, Miss Helen Virginia Nesbitt will give a recital at the Maryland Theatre.

A few weeks ago Miss Nesbitt gave an entertainment at the High School which thoroughly delighted her audience. Two of the readings given at the High School will be repeated May 5, by special request. Miss Nesbitt has an unusually large fund of selections, from which her programs are composed.

A Grafton paper says of Miss Nesbitt: "She covered an extensive range of subjects ranging from lightest humor to the deepest pathos and was equally good in either."

A Pittsburgh paper says: "Miss Nesbitt is a young woman of striking personality and her recitations always delight and please her hearers." Miss Nesbitt is a graduate of Byron W. King's School of Oratory, Pittsburgh, and of the schools: College of Music and Dramatic Art of Cincinnati, and American Academy of Dramatic Art, New York.

The following local talent will assist in the program: Mrs. J. Gordon Mealy, Misses Eleanor Hinebaugh, Bess Hinebaugh, Louise Hagans, Mr. Felix Robinson and the Orchestra.

Tickets will be on sale at Gonder's Pharmacy on Saturday.

B. & O. to Widen Bridge.

Messrs Kefauver and McLaran, contractors for the work to widen the B. & O. bridge at Bloomington, have about completed all the preliminaries to an extensive piece of work for that community during this summer and fall. The railroad track for the hauling of materials to the site of improvements has been completed and is in operation. Huge timbers for the cribbing of the river are being placed on the ground. Suitable buildings for the accommodation of the employees have been completed and are now occupied by seventy-five or a hundred men.

J. M. DAVIS & SONS DISPOSE OF THEIR STOCK

Was Sold In Bulk To Mr. Charles N. McIntire, of Thomas, W. Va.

With the selling of their stock of goods in bulk on Tuesday of this week the old and well known firm of Messrs. J. M. Davis & Sons, the senior member of which has been continuously engaged in business in Oakland for more than sixty years, passed out of existence and the new owner of the business, Mr. Charles N. McIntire, of Thomas, West Va., an experienced hardware dealer, has taken charge and will become one of Oakland's permanent residents.

As above stated Mr. John M. Davis, the senior member of the retiring firm has been identified with the business life of Oakland for more than half a century, first associating himself with the late James R. Bishop and later forming a co-partnership with the late S. L. Townshend, which continued for many years. Some thirty-two years ago the firm of J. M. Davis & Son was established and a hardware store opened in the old Republican building on Liberty street. Later the goods were removed to the present store building, which was greatly enlarged and in which the business grew and was firmly established through the efforts and ability of the individual members of the concern. Several years ago Mr. John W. Davis, youngest son of Mr. John M. Davis was taken into the firm and the name was changed to J. M. Davis & Sons. But on account of advancing years coupled with infirmities due thereto and the expressed wish of the head of the concern that matters be closed up, it was determined three weeks ago to offer the stock for sale as a whole or at retail.

Seeing the possibilities and the opening afforded by the retirement from business of the well known house, Mr. McIntire made an investigation and after coming to Oakland and looking the ground over one day last week, he returned to Oakland Monday and on Tuesday closed the deal and is now engaged in making an inventory of the stock of goods and fixtures preparatory to reopening the store which was closed immediately after the agreement was reached.

Mr. McIntire has been successfully engaged in business at Thomas for a number of years and is well known by many Garrett countains, especially those who reside in the southern section of the county and whose business often took them to Thomas. He will conduct the business personally and is an affable gentleman who will make an effort to treat everyone with that courtesy due them.

Mr. John W. Davis will follow agricultural pursuits for the present. All have the best wishes of the Republican for success.

All persons are hereby warned not to trespass upon my property adjoining the town of Deer Park for the purpose of hunting or fishing. All such will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

CUMBERLAND KNIGHTS IN OAKLAND

Will Attend First Service at Church of Former Cumberland Pastor.

Members of the Cumberland Council, Knights of Columbus, to the number of about eighty, will come to Oakland on Sunday afternoon next, leaving here at about one o'clock, in automobiles, and dressed in full fourth degree uniform, to take part in the first vesper service to be held in St. Peter's Catholic Church of which Rev. James E. Connell, a former Cumberlander, is pastor. This will be the first vesper service ever held in the church, and for the occasion the Knights of Columbus picked choir, under the direction of William D. Paisley, will have charge of the music.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MRS. EMILINE HOGUE.

Died, at the home of her son, Mr. J. L. Hogue, at Akron, Ohio, on Wednesday, April 19th, 1916, at the advanced age of 74 years, from paralysis and other ailments, Mrs. Emiline Hogue, relict of the late J. L. Hogue, Sr., a former resident of near Deer Park, this county.

The remains of Mrs. Hogue were brought to Deer Park on last Friday and were interred beside those of her former husband, after services conducted by Rev. Jones of the Loch Lynn Baptist church, of which church the deceased had been a life-long member.

Mrs. Hogue is survived by six sons and five daughters, many of whom reside in this county. She was the mother of Mr. Lee Hogue, of near Oakland.

EDMUMD F. SAVAGE.

One of the oldest residents of Midland, Allegany county, in the person of Edmund F. Savage, died in that town on Tuesday morning, at the home of his son, Mr. John Savage. The deceased was aged 80 years and was born at Selbysport, Garrett county, where he lived practically all his life, removing to Midland eight years ago. Death was due to the infirmities of old age.

He is survived by the following children: Frank Savage, of Rosemont, W. Va.; George Savage, of Frostburg; C. E. Savage, of Keyser, W. Va.; John Savage, of Midland; Mrs. Charles Beveridge, of Midland; Miss Kate Savage, of Midland; Mrs. George Wolf, of Keyser; Mrs. Alex Wilson, of Midland.

LENORA FERGUSON.

Sunday evening, April 23rd, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Ferguson. The deceased was in her 16th year, and was the only child of the home.

Lenora was born in Mt. Lake Park, October 3rd, 1900, and with her parents and an older sister, Vera, moved to Fairmont, W. Va., about 9 years ago. Two years later the sister died and was buried in the Oakland cemetary. Lenora being the only child left in the home the fond love of the parents was lavished upon her, and every advantage for her mental and moral development that could be provided was bestowed upon her. At the time of her death she was a freshman in the Fairmont High School, and was loved and appreciated by both teachers and students. She was peculiarly gifted in music, of which she was passionately fond. She was a student of both piano and violin and was a very beautiful performer on both of these instruments, and in addition to the instruction received from one of the best local musicians she was carrying a correspondence course with the Sherwood School of Music. She was of a quiet, lovable disposition and was mature in thought beyond her years. She had for years been a member of the First Presbyterian Sunday school of Fairmont, and was to have been received into the communion of that church on Easter Sunday, the day of her death. Her last illness was of but eleven days' duration, and the whole community was shocked when it was known that she had passed to her Heavenly home. All that skillful physicians and loving hands could do was done for her, but all in vain. Many were the expressions of personal loss because of her death, while the floral tributes presented by friends were numerous and beautiful. Services were conducted in the home in Fairmont Monday evening by Rev. Stoetzer of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. Goodwin of the First M. E. church. On Tuesday morning the remains were brought to Oakland, accompanied by the stricken parents and a number of the friends of the family, where interment was made. Rev. J. B. Workman, pastor of Diamond St. M. E. Church, Fairmont, came with the family and conducted the service at the grave, he having officiated at the funeral of the older sister while yet pastor of St. Paul's church in Oakland. A large company of the friends and relatives of the family met the funeral party at the Oakland depot and were present at the interment.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson have the profound sympathy of their many friends here as well as in Fairmont.

Asserts Speicher Is Strong Man In The Contest.

To the Editor of The Republican:

The political story published in the Evening Times last evening, while no marked as a political advertisement by any one of the candidates, was evidently a Zihlman story designed to create the impression that he and not Mr. Speicher was the strong man in the contest. While all other candidates are summarily disposed of in a paragraph, the writer devotes nearly a whole column in the story to prove that Speicher is out of the running. The story from its very argument proves that Mr. Speicher is Mr. Zihlman's chief opponent in Allegany county. The man on the street, the man with his ear to the ground, the politicial situation at once recognized man with only casual interest in the fact that Mr. Zihlman's opponent here is Mr. Speicher. The fight in Allegany county is between Speicher and Zihlman. This is again a fight between the "wets" and the "drys," the drys are with Speicher to a man, the wets are scattered among Blair, Zihlman and Weinberg. Not much is heard here of Mr. Kauffman. Mr. Speicher will get the dry votes and with the wet votes divided, the writer of yesterday's story surely has his dates mixed when he fails to note that the fight here is actually between these two candidates. The man who overlooks the rapid growth and centralizing of the dry sentiment in the Sixth district surely must be wandering in the dark. It is the great question. The counties will go dry in the November election and many of the voters, already enough to nominate Mr. Speicher, will rally to him on May 1.

VOTER.

(Published by authority of the candidate.

SOME time ago a Cumberland paper came out with the announcement that Mr. John J. Stump, of Cumberland, had been appointed political agent in Allegany county for Mr. Gist Blair. Mr. Stump is the leading whiskey dealer in the Queen City and as such naturally opposes dry legislation, hence he is against Senator Speicher. Occupying the position in business circles that he does it is natural to presume that Mr. Stump will throw his influence in favor of a wet candidate, and being the political agent of a candidate opposing Senator Speicher he will just as naturally endeavor to carry Allegany county for his favorite.

KITZMILLER

Mr, John Marvel, who has been teaching school as principal in Grafton since last September, came home on last Monday suffering with typhoid fever.

Miss Esther Marvel, bookkeeper for No. 3 Fork Coal Co., at Chaffee, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Wright Davis, at Luke over Sunday.

Miss Ivia Murry, who has accepted a position in a department store at Woran, Ohio, left for that place las week.

Mrs. Edward Hamill was in Piedmont shopping one day last week.

Mrs. John Rollings was a visitor at Bloomington one day last week.

Mr. Harshbarger has secured employment at Luke and is moving his family to that place.

Mr. Emert Pyles who has been working at Austin, W. Va., has returned home.

Mr. William Price, coporal in Co. D. 16th Inft., who has been in New Mexico since the uprising, has written to his mother that he is enjoying good health, but that they had been shorton rations and tobacco.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will hold a bazaar and supper in H. L. Price store room, three nights beginning April 30, May 1-2. All are invited to attend.

Mrs. Hallie Paugh made a flying trip to Oakland one day last week.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Junkins, wife of Mr. Okie Junkins, was held in the First M. E. church on Monday of last week. Interment was made in the Davis cemetery near Swanton.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Amusements.

The modern dance is opposed to the nature of the church, and hence it is antagonistic to the principles of church membership. The church is a body called out from the world; to be separate from it. There must be a difference between the church and the world and this distinction between Christians and non Christians, the dance tends to obliterate. We are to be a peculiar—(i. e. purchased) people zealous of good works.

The spirit of conformity to the world is wrong and produces indifference. When mingling in the world's amusements wherein are we different from the enemies of God?

Our influence is in a wrong direction. What effect shall our example have on the non Christians who are always present. Will it increase their estimation of the reality of religion and of our consistency with our profession. Or can we approach them on the subject of personal religion and ask them to give themselves to Christ and His service. Could you go from your closest communion with God to engage in the dance, without experiencing compunctions of conscience or can you ask God's blessing on the dance? If not then you may rersonably doubt its innocency. However much you may love it you are obliged to abstain for your own spiritual growth and for the sake of others who, by your example, may be led astray. Paul's rule of eating meat is applicable to this. If our performance of an act, in itself sinful gives offence to a brother, it becomes sinful so far as we are concerned. That is, if it leads weaker souls to neglect their duty to God, you should be willing to give it up.

There is one argument that should settle the matter so far as professing Christians are concerned and that is, the church condemns it. Believers profess to have consecrated themselves to Christ and His service.

Would you be willing that death ho uld seize you in the dance hall, or that the Master should find you in the mazes of the dance, when He comes? Do the scenes of the dance satisfy the longings of your soul? Can you glorify the Master by it?

If it is proper for church members, then there can be no harm in the officers and ministers indulging too. Wouldn't it be a spectacle to see the preacher and officers with their wives, and the Missionary society whirling in the dance! The universal verdict would be he isn't fit to preach, nor they to rule in the house of God. Close up the church and in blazing characters write over the church door, that terrible word. "Ichabod"—"the glory is departed." You would naturally be shocked at such a spectacle. Then I ask are you too, not in danger of dishonoring the name of your Master and bringing reproach on his cause when you join with the world in advocating its favorite amusement. Would you be willing to go from the dance to the judgment seat of Christ?

Any practice in which you cannot ask God's protection must be wrong. When you come home from the ball in the "wee small hours" would you be willing to give thanks for the pleasure you have had? If not it must be of doubtful propriety to say the least.

It tends to destroy your influence for good. You may think you can in this way win you companions to Christ, by relaxing this high ideal of your religion, and making it more genial, but as a matter of fact you become confirmed to their ways. Did you ever know of a convicted soul sending for a dancing church member to show them the way of life? Or was there ever a dying person who sent for such a one, to pray with and point them to Jesus? Thousands of godly persons will testify that the practice works injury to the unconverted and increases the danger of their being lost.

It checks the influence of revivals and sinks awakened souls into the mire of indifference. It leads to dissipation and levity of manners, which unfit the mind for contemplation of religious topics. Read Rom. 12:2 and Col. 3:17, 2. 3.

Should we not strive to live as Christ did when on earth? Does it make its votaries more upright? Does it make better Christians? Did it ever convert a sinner from the error of his ways? We do not claim this. It is only an amusement. Then why leave perfectly legitimate ones to tamper with the dangerous ones.

It wasts time, interrupts useful study; leads to the indulgence of vanity and tends to dissipation. It is conforming to the world; hinders or destroys Christians influences; diverts the mind from serious thought: excites passion and is a training school for vice, and as one said "blunt the moral sensibility and represses forudent judgment and is voluptuous and demoralizing."

Not a shaft has been directed specially at the round dances, because delicacy, decency and modesty lift up their voices in condemnation of and denounce them as lascivious, disgraceful and infamous.

Anxious for a Bible proof we find it says. "There's a time to dance." If there's a time for it, it must be the proper thing. Would you be willing to use it in the same way as they did in Bible times? Then you must dance at church, or to express your religious joy. Gentlemen must dance by themselves. Likewise the ladies.—No fun in that! But someone says. Show me a precept in the Bible that I oppose.

It does not say in so many words "thou shall not dance," but do you not know that a slavish adherence to the letter of the Bible is not keeping it? If we demand a precipt for every duty, and refuse ofedience except when it is enjoined, then we make the scriptures a servant and put the law of God in subjection to us. We are to obey it in spirit. The Bible is a compact of principles.

Precepts are as examples under principles and by these, we will be judged. By the manner in which we have conformed to these, in the Spirit of Christ, will our work be tried of what sort it is. In Bible times it was a religious act, practiced exclusively on joyful occasions, as a rule it was performed by maidens only and in open air, in highways or groves. No instance of promiscuous dancing are recorded in the Bible either as an act of worship or amusement, except that of vain fellows devoid of shame or of irreligious families as mentioned in Job. However the end was by no means what would be desired now. It was distinction.

Phillips Lee Goldsborough

REQUESTS THE SUPPORT OF

ALL REPUBLICANS

AS THEIR CANDIDATE FOR

UNITED STATES SENATOR

At the primaries to be held Monday, May 1, 1916.

Mr. Goldsborough is the candidate who is best qualified by ability and experience and by the fact that he is known to be the man who will represent all the people of his state and will effectively support their every interest. He is the man to whom all will be proud to point as Maryland's representative in the highest Legislative body in the world.

See what the four corners and the middle of the state say about him.

WESTERN MARYLAND.

Col. W. Bladen Lowndes, son of former Governor Lowndes.

"What I am most concerned about is that we shall name for Senator, a man in whom the people have confidence. He must be a known quantity and a known quality. He must be known by the real test of public life. He must be conspicuous for his ability as a statesman and needs be of recognized personal power as a thinker and speaker. Such a man is Phillips Lee Goldsborough and I am not convinced that there is now available any other man in the state whom we can elect."

Benjamin Armstrong Richmond, Cumberland.

"I believe that the results in the general election depend upon the wisdom of the Republicans in nominating Phillips Lee Goldsborough for Senator. I do not think there is another man in the state who can be elected to that office on the Republican ticket and I do not think there is a Democrat in the state who can defeat him."

SOUTHERN MARYLAND.

Senator John E. Mudd, of Charles county.

"Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the ablest man within the Republican ranks in Maryland. The record he achieved as chief executive of the state is one of which Republicans can feel justly proud. I feel confident he will receive the support of the Independents. He is the man of the hour in the coming Senatorial primary."

Thomas Parran, of Calvert county.

"The public record of Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the best asset of our party and one that appeals to all classes of voters. It will elect him the next United States Senator. I cannot believe that the voters of Maryland will repudiate at the coming primary, the splendid administration that has just been given us by Governor Goldsborough."

NORTHERN MARYLAND.

Senator Richard S. Snader, of Carroll county.

"Mr. Goldsborough is an individual possessed of executive ability high above the average of public men in governmental affairs. As governor he demonstrated he exercises his abilities with an eye solely to the building up of the state. I feel sure we can put Carroll county in the Goldsborough column in the primary."

Clarence Oldfield, of Howard county.

"After careful thought and frequent interviews with Republicans in Howard county, I arrived at the positive conclusion that Phillips Lee Goldsborough is the best qualified candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator."

EASTERN SHORE.

Senator Henry M. McCullough, of Cecil county.

"No Marylander has a record of accomplishments that can surpass that of Phillips Lee Goldsborough, who, unaided by fortune, has won success in his political career, entirely through his well directed efforts to serve the people of his state and country."

Wilbur F. Turner, of Wicomico county.

"Mr. Goldsborough is the strongest man in the Republican ranks. His administration demonstrated he knows the wants of the people and is able to secure for them what they need. This applies particularly to the counties and I am for him."

BALTIMORE CITY.

Col. Edward C. Carrington.

"Former Governor Goldsborough has been twice elected by the people of Maryland to high office in a state-wide vote. As between Mr. Goldsborough and his opponent, I would feel that I was guilty of bad citizenship if I did not vote for Mr. Goldsborough."

Dr. Howard A. Kelly, noted surgeon and sturdy Democrat.

"Mr. Goldsborough was the model governor of Maryland and we have never had a better one. His appointments in Baltimore City,—Magistrates, Police Commissioners and members of the Liquor License Board, gave us, without exception, the best officials we ever had in these positions."

John B. Ramsay, vice-pres., Merchants-Mechanis Nat'l Bank.

"Upon the success of Mr. Goldsborough in the Primary, depends the success of the Republican party in the general election."

(Published By authority of C. Wilbur Miller, Treasurer.)

NOTICE OF Primary Election.

Notice is hereby given to the Judges and Clerks of Election and to the qualified voters of Garrett county, Maryland, that in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 741, article 33, of Code of Public General Laws of Maryland passed at the January session, 1910, and amended by the Acts of 1912, a Primary Election will be held in the several districts of said Garrett county at the usual places of holding elections and hereinafter set forth, on Monday, May 1st, 1916,

National Road in Maps and Pictures

The three hundred miles from Baltimore through Frederick, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Frostburg and Uniontown, is the most historic thoroughfare in the United States, and the eastern division of the National Old trails Ocean-to-Ocean route. For several years it has been studied in detail by Robert Bruce, of the staff of the American Automobile Association and the American Blue Books, who has just brought out, under the name of "The National Road," a booklet of 100 pages, covering the route from the topographic, pictorial and historical standpoints. It is the work of a close student of the subject, who has spared neither time nor pains to go beneath the physical features which, however, are brought out with special clearness and good effect to the stirring history and legend that center about the old turnpike from Baltimore and Washington across the Alleghany Mountains to the Ohio River more than any other single road in America.

Perhaps the most notable feature of the booklet is the topographic mapping, which starts with a condenced profile of the entire route, showing principal elevations and grades in miniature, followed by three diagrams on a larger scale giving the relative locations of the several mountain ranges traversing the intermediate country. These lead up to the detailed maps which are divided between the nine chapters, and show not only the local topography throughout, but the many historic landmarks and other features of interest to the touring motorist.

Each city and important town is mapped separately, to assist in quickly identifying points of local interest and to bring out with special distinctness the streets or avenues used in running through them by this route, or branching off by some important connecting road. All maps were prepared under direct supervision of the author, whose familiarity with the old highway has been gained by several trips over it, and personal examination of all existing landmarks. As a result, the "sense of locality" is imparted in an unusual degree to the careful reader; and the relation of topography to history most effectively brought out.

The descriptive text, supplemented by many well-chosen illustrations, probably reflects more research than has heretofore been given to any road subject of equal length in the United States. It is, in fact, an expert and enthusiastic interpretation of the route, likely to appeal particularly to the leisurely tourist who desires to get more out of his trip than a series of fleeting glimpses of the most conspicuous features. For the convenience of those who may plan to visit the National Capital, either to or from the West by this route, a final chapter—the "Baltimore-Washington-Frederick Triangle"—is added, with descriptive text and maps on the same plan as the Baltimore-Wheeling sections.

The fact that the National Road is now in first-class shape practically all the way from Chesapeake Bay or the Potomac River to the Ohio, and that many tourists are looking for new trips to take the place of their customary European tours, makes the publication of the book most timely. A careful reading of it is likely to convince one that American highways, especially these built along the lines of the old trails between the Atlantic seaboard and the central West or far West, deserve more careful and thorough treatment than they have received in the past. Copies at $1.00 each postpaid, can be secured from the author, Robert Bruce, Clinton, Onedia Co., N. Y., who will be glad to correspond with any motorist intending to make all or part of that trip.

THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1916

IT RECENTLY became apparent why certain interests are behind Mr. Gist Blair in his race for the nomination for Congress. Who is his political agent in Allegany county?

THE whiskey interests oppose Senator Speicher because they know that he is favorable to dry legislation in county, state and nation. That is the main reason why they fight him and why certain individuals have poured money into Garrett county and are having their agents exerting themselves against him and for another candidate.

NOMINATE PHILLIPS LEE GOLDSBOROUGH.

On next Monday, May 1st, the Republicans of Maryland will nominate a candidate for the United States Senate. There are two aspirants for the nomination—former Governor Phillips Lee Goldsborough and Dr. Joseph I. France.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast and from Canada to the Gulf, the feeling is prevalent that the Republicans will elect a President in November. Everything points to a Republican majority.

Maryland is one of these states. But in order to overcome the 45,000 affiliated Democratic majority in this state it is necessary that the choice of the Republicans for the United States Senate must be a known quantity. He must be a man of the people and recognized power as a statesman.

Such a man is former Governor Goldsborough. His training as State's Attorney, Comptroller and Governor, have served to place him in the foreground as the one man in the Republican party who is best fitted to represent Maryland in the highest legislative body in the world. He is a statesman of known integrity and ability, an orator of convincing powers, and the only man in the Republican ranks of Maryland who has the distinction of having been twice elected to office in a state-wide election.

INFLUENCE OF COUNTRY NEWSPAPERS.

It seems that some of the great editors of the country have just arrived at the conclusion that the influence of the country newspaper and small-town daily is something to be appreciated and developed to its full capacity. It is seldom that one or more papers, dealing with this subject, are not read at each gathering of newspaper people.

A clear understanding, with regard to the importance of the smaller newspapers, is not new but it is a development of the last two years that great editors earnestly call on the producers of country newspapers to recognize their importance and do their work accordingly.

The man who progressed from the small-town paper to control of a large daily has no difficulty in analyzing the influence of the smaller newspapers. He well remembers that a stick or two of matter, published in the first newspaper he ever worked on, created more furore, the rato of population being considered, than a world-beating story or sizzling editorial campaign on a metropolitan daily.

This is so because, in small towns, people have time to read their newspapers. They are as a rule personally acquainted with the writer of editorials and his written words are as effective as if he were holding personal conversation with all of his readers.

The editorial in the small-town is certainly much more influential than that of the larger dailies, for the reason, perhaps, that people live more as a large family and discuss with each other the topics of the day. Naturally, the "endless chain" method of spreading opinion, which is from one to another, carries an editor's assertion far beyond the scope of his circulation.

It is no more difficult to produce a powerful editorial in the columns of a small weekly than in a daily of a hundred thousand circulation. The printing process is the same. It is only a matter of considering every subject as being the highest importance. The most of the difficulty heretofore has been for proprietors of the small papers to tear themselves away from business matters and factional alliances long enough to put real thought in their writings.

"THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE."

Gist Blair, the multi-millionaire aspirant for Congressional honors, does not advertise himself as wanting to go to Congress as the Representative of the bone and sinew of the Sixth Congressional District, but he rathen prefers to come before the people with the catchy and pithy, though unmeaning designation, "THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE." But even though Mr. Blair is not such an orator, thus enabling him to stir the emotions of the populace with word pictures and far-fetched aphorisms, he is a perfect gentleman and as such commends himself. Through the agency of the photographer's art he speaks mutely and at the same time eloquently, and to the photographer alone are we ot Garrett county, who linger along through the several months of cold, blustery winter weather, facing storm and hail, wind and rain, snow and occasional sunshine, indebted for a splendid likeness of Mr. and Mrs. Gist Blair, "Capital society people at Palm Beach," which has been used as a campaign document throughout the county and district in Mr. Blair's behalf.

The quoted words are not ours, they being attached to the picture as it was published in a Washington newspaper last winter and republished in various newspapers of the Sixth District during tha past few weeks. The photograph was not not taken in the good old summer time when a large number of the common "people" were able to don palm beach suits. It is a winter picture, taken at the most famous resort in the Southland where gather all the wealth and society of the nation, there to remain until the bleak winter of the north and east gives way to balmy spring.

As eminently befitted the "candidate of the people" he was right on the job at Palm Beach. There he was a success as the representative of those who perforce were compelled to remain at home and labor for their daily bread. He was a success at all the pink teas and social gatherings of the exclusive resort patronized by the millionairs who are not required to labor, nor to provide for the needs and requirements of the morrow. But why going to an exclusive resort (where society is measured by the depth of the pocketbook) should give a candidate the right to call himself "THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE," is a little beyond the comprehension of the average mind, unless the people are those whose wealth measures up with that of Mr. Blair.

Garrett county, we predict, does not want a Representative in the Halls of Congress who is unidentified with the interests of the laboring man and one who has never had any experience as a member of any deliberative body, but does want a man who is thoroughly in earnest as a worker for the people and not for social prominence in the Nation's capital.

Publisher's Problems.

The following article, clipped from the Review of Reviews, one of America's leading magazines, serves to show just to what extent the publisher and printer is handicapped by the scarcity of material and its consequent abnormal advance in price, commodities in some lines having reached the prohibitive stage:

A commodity even so indirectly related to the demands of war as paper is showing the prevailing tendencies to such a degree as to seriously embarrass publishers. The higher price of paper stock and the difficulty of obtaining it at all in England was a chief factor in the discontinuance in March of the London Daily Standard, after a career of 60 years, for a considerable portion of which it was the most important organ of the middle classes in England.

In America the demand for paper has been increasing for six months as a result of general business activity. At the same time supplies used in its manufacture have been decreased by war conditions, and in some cases have almost been shut off. The supply of old rags is affected by the cutting off of the importations from the European peasantry and by the demand for the making of guncotton.

The chemicals used in bleaching the paper produced by sulphuric acid and alumn are being devoured by the manufacture of explosives; while importations of jute have fallen off until the price is doubled. An embargo has been placed on shipments of wood pulp from Norway and Sweden, while Canada stopped access to her vast resources some time ago.

The newspaper is, indeed, hard hit by war conditions in many other items of supplies besides the basic one of paper stock. Practically everything going into the manufacture of a daily newspaper has increased in price from 10 to 50 per cent.; inks, owing to the advance in the cost of acids and dyes, from 300 to 3,000 per cent.; type, owing to the higher cost of lead, tin and antimony; even the rubber and felt blankets wrapped around the press rollers add their quota to the increased "cost of living" of the newspaper.

SECOND CHOICE VOTE IN COMING PRIMARY

Care Will Be Taken in Tabulating Primary Ballot of Democratic Senatorial Contest.

Some misunderstanding exists regarding the operation of the second-choice provisions of the Direct Primary between Mr. Bruce, Senator Lee and Congressman Lewis. Is the first time these provisions have been operative. Hitherto there has been no more than two candidates at a time for state offices and necessarily one of them receive a majority. Taere being three candidates in the present primary, it may be that no one will receive a majority on the first choice.

The second choice provision is that governing the action of the state convention in making nominations. It provides that if there be more than two candidates, and if none of them has a majority all of the delegates in the convention, the candidates having the fewest delegates shall be dropped and his delegates shall cast their votes for one or more of the other candidates according as they were instructed by their people.

In case there are three candidates, the dropping of one candidate and the distribution of his votes among the other two necessarily would cause one of them to receive a majority and to be declared the nominee. But in case there are more than three candidates and the dropping of the one having the fewest delegates and the distribution of his delegates among the others failed to give any of the others a majority, in that case, the candidate who started with the fewest delegates would be dropped and his delegates distributde as above, and so on, until one of the candidates had a majority of the delegates.

There are other second choice provisions which are not so well known. One is that a candidate, in order to win the delegation must receive a majority of the votes cast in the primary in that unit. In case none of the candidates receive a majority, the man receiving the fewest votes is dropped and his votes distributed among the remaning candidates, according to the second-choice preference of those who voted for him.

This requirement necessitates much intricate work for the election officials. And the supervisors of elections are somewhat disturbed by fear that many officials will not understand clearly what must be done.

Instead of writing the names of the candidates, one under the other, and then tallying the votes cast for each straight across the tally sheet as usual the officials must have a separate group for each candidate. Thus, they must have one tally group for Mr. Bruce, in which he will appear as the alternative second choices. Then, when a ballot is opened and found to be marked for Bruce for first choice and Lee for second, Mr. Bruce will be given one taliy in the first choice section and Mr. Lee one in the second choice section of the Bruce group; if the ballot is for Bruce first choice and Lewis for second, Mr. Bruce will be given one tally in the first choice section and Mr. Lewis one in the second-choice section of the Bruce group.

There must be a separate Lee tally group, in which Mr. Bruce and Mr. Lewis will appear as the alternative second choices; and a separate Lewis tally group, in which Mr. Bruce and Mr. Lee will appear as the alternative second choices. It then will be possible, in the event that no candidate has a majority, to ascertain the second choices of those who voted for the low man, and to distribute his votes accordingly.

In case no man has a majority and it is necessary to drop the low man and distribute his votes according to their second-choice preferences, the candidate then receiving a majority becomes the first choice and wins the delegation. Next, it becomes necessary to ascertain the second choice for the delegation, to meet the possibility that the units first choice will be the low man in the convention and will be dropped, thus requiring his delegates to have a second choice candidate in the convention.

SHERIFF'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Undivided interests in the Coal Rights, situated a few miles Northwest of Lonaconing, but in Garrett County, in the farm of the late William P. Hansel.

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in the case of George Glessman against David P. Hansel and Jane V. Hansel his wife, No. 5 Judicials, June term, 1916, Circuit Court for Garrett County, the undersigned Sheriff did seize and take in execution and levy upon by an actual entry upon the premises hereinafter described, all of the interest of the said David P. Hansel, the same said to be a one-sixth interest, which he obtained from the will of his father, in and to the minerals, mineral rights and mining rights, in the coal underlying Military Lots Nos. 3767, 3768 and a tract of land called "The Reserve" which embraces the aforesaid lots, and makes 127½ acres, under which the coal lies; and also all of the coal rights and mining rights and minerals, underlying Military Lot No. 3769, containing fifty acres, which the said Hansel obtained under the will of his father William P. Hansel, excepting the coal interest under the cemetery lot on said land, and the coal under the three acres where the barn and house stand.

And I hereby give notice that on the 20th day of May, 1916,

in front of the Court House in the town of Oakland, at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M. of said day, I will offer the aforesaid mineral rights or interest and mining rights, to the highest bidder at public auction to satisfy the aforesaid execution and the costs.

This coal interest is valuable from the fact that it is near the George's Creek region and the time will soon come when it will be in the market with the big vein in the George's Creek Valley, as it lays near there.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on the day of sale.

STRICTLY THE PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE

No Party "Leaders" to Control Him, Nor Combination of Politicians to Boss Him, Nor "Financiers" to Own Sen. Speicher. "Whiskey Ring" After Him

Not until Senator Harvey J. Speicher, of Garrett County, entered the lists for the Republican Congressional nomination in the Sixth District, did the "Wets," or Liquor Interests of the State, "get a move on" in this campaign. Senator Speicher's announcement was the signal for a hurry "call to arms" and the signal was given to "Go after him," and they have been "after him" with an aggressiveness and determination which indicates that they do not want him of all others to receive this nomination. Up to that time the inactivity of the Saloon Interests indicated that they were perfectly satisfied with the other gentleman who aspired to represent the Sixth District in the Congress of the United States. But Senator Speicher's record during the two successive terms and for four successive sessions of the Maryland Senate, in working and voting for a "Dry Maryland," was more than the "Liquor Machine" could stand. They were not able to control him in the Senate of Maryland, and they know they cannot control him in the Congress of the United States if elected. And so they are leaving nothing undone which money or trickery, misrepresentation and chicanery can accomplish to make certain his defeat in the Republican Primary next Monday. Is it not significant, Mr. Voter, that no other candidate has attracted or seemed to merit the vigorous opposition of this oligarchy, except Senator Speiche? Is there not a reason?

It has been said that the "Dry" element will not stand together and will refuse to support anyone who has supported them. Well, Senator Speicher is now putting this proposition to the test, and he is willing to let the "Drys" demonstrate the truth or falsity of this accusation; he is willing to give those citizens who favor a "Dry Maryland" to prove whether or not their friends make sacrifices for them in vain—whether they are most in need of assistance because of their having fought the "Whiskey Ring."

There is another feature in this contest for the Republican Congressional nomination which ought to appeal to the people who do the voting. There are candidates in this contest, who, everybody knows, cannot themselves afford to spend the money that has been and is being spent in various ways and for various purposes in this campaign. The question, therefore, presents itself, "Who are putting up this money—and why?"

Certain politicians and political "leaders" are vigorously pushing the candidacy of a particular candidate in this campaign and this or that faction of the party is found more or less energetically supporting other aspirants, and the perfectly natural query is, "Why?"

In some portions of the District—in one or two counties at least—even the prospective appointments which the next Congress will have to take in the event of the election of a Republican President, are being parcelled out, and it is a fact that in some instances a "slate" has been partially prepared and the names of some of the postmasters in the large towns have actually been announced—confidently, of course. Why is all this going on?

It can be said for Senator Speicher in addition to his being a consistent and conscientious advocate for a "Dry Maryland," that he is in no combination or alliances that bind him to any man or set of men for any purpose whatever. Senator Speicher is able to pay his own campaign expenses and every dollar he spends is his own. He is free of all politicians and political bargains and deals and he has made no promises to anyone either in the matter or distribution of the offices which he may have at his disposal if nominated and elected, nor as to what his attitude will be on any question affecting the people's interests, and in these matters he will be guided entirely by the wishes and requirements of his constituents as he shall find them at the proper time; and on the matter of a "Dry Maryland," he stands where he always stood—against the "Wets."

This matter of whom the people shall nominate for Congress in the Republican Primary is entirely in the hands of the people themselves, and they can make their own choice. If they want a candidate who is "no man's man," and who is entirely free to do his duty and serve only the interests of his country and the people of his district, they will vote for and nominate Senator Harvey J. Speicher, of Garrrtt County, in the Primary on Monday next, May 1st.

GRANTSVILLE.

A "Grandmother Party" was given on Monday afternoon by Mrs. Chas. B. Getty, in honor of the youngest and the oldest grandmother in the village, both of whose birthdays occur within two days of each other—Mrs. Sophia Winterberg being 78 on April 19th and the hostess, 36 on the 17th. Several of the village grandmothers were unable to be present, but there were eleven in all, and a finer looking group of ladies would be hard to find anywhere. All thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon which was spent in fancy work and conversation. The ladies included Mesdames Nancy Miller, Rebekah Johnson, Joel H. Miller, Christian Livengood, Ellen Younkin, Lewis Gingerich, Sophie Winterberg, Harriett Stanton, T. H. Bittinger, and Jonas Folk. Cake, cocoa and icecream were served by the hostess, and Easter booklets and yellow daffodills were given as souvenirs of the occasion. Mrs. Joel Miller ranks second as a young grandmother, being about 40 years of age. Several of the ladies discovered that it was the birthday of the hostess and some very handsome gifts were given her. In the evening a number of fellow church workers of the hostess came in to spend the evening, bearing pretty gifts and congratulations. Those included Mesdames C. H. Bill, H. C. Bonig, Irene Hayes, J. A. Carney, C. S. Zeller, Miss Christine Winterberg and Mrs. G. C. Keller. Souvenirs were given and refreshments served.

The Junior Bible Class of the Reformed Sunday school held a box social in the Broadwater icecream parlor on Saturday night, the purpose being to make money to pay for a new organ which has been ordered for the church. The affair was a most flattering success financially and socially, about thirty dollars being realized for the organ fund. Icecream, cake, candy, sandwiches and coffee were sold and pretty boxes containing an array of good "eats" were prepared by the girls of the class and their teacher, Miss Ruth Zeller. These boxes were sold to the highest bidder, nearly all of them bringing two dollars each. The lucky purchaser was privileged to share the lunch in company with the girl who prepared it.

William Gnagy invited the girl's "Silent Five" Club to partake of the toothsome products of his sugar camp on Thursday last, the crowd including Misses Ruth Keller, Angela Getty, Marie Connor, Blanche Miller and Winifred Bonig. The party enjoyed their afternoon immensely, their host providing sugar, taffy and "spotza" in abundance for the "sweet young things."

J. A. Beachy, of the Aaron Beachy farm two miles west of Grantsville, is dealing in horses quite extensvely. He bought five and sold seven equines last week. Three of these were sold to H. L. Griffith, of Meyersdale, and his young son, Irvin, took them over to Meyersdale last Friday morning. The lad got caught in a heavy rainstorm on the way and got drenched to the skin, but he delivered the horses safely to the purchaser.

Mrs. Ida Hershberger entertained a number of her neighbors on Wednesday afternoon by giving a rug party, some of the ladies cutting, some braiding and others hooking. The guests included Mesdames: G. C. Keller, J. O. Getty, J. U. Stanton, T. H. Bittinger, C. S. Zeller, C. B. Getty, Marion Broadwater, C. A. Bender and Ellen Younkin Misses Maggie Brown and Maggie Dorsey. Icecream, cake and coffee were served by the hostess, a most enjoyable afternoon, was spent.

Miss Blanche Miller entertained the Silent Five Club last Friday evening. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Susan Durst and son-in-law, H. A. Baker, gave a most delightful dinner on Sunday, the occasion was Mrs. Durst's birthday. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Getty, Dr. R. C. Bowen and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Younkin.

Mrs. Joe A. Beachy, who has undergone an operation at the University Hospital in Baltimore is improving nicely and will soon be able to leave the hospital. It is expected that she will remain with relatives in the city to recuperate before returning nome.

BITTINGER.

Rev. Marvin preached a series of appropriate sermons from the pulpit of the Lutheran church of this village last week, closing with a special Easter service on Sunday evening well rendered and largely attended.

A belated snow storm came this way last Saturday night, a forcible and not very pleasant reminder that winter has not far retreated.

Mrs. Esther Fazenbaker was called last Saturday night to the bedside of her aged brother, Sampson Seibert, who is critically ill at the home of a relative near Grantsville.

B. H. Wiley, of Oakland, spent Easter Sunday at his home here.

While cranking his automobile one day last week Simon Brenneman was considerably injured in the right arm.

Mrs. John Deitriech is enjoying a visit from her two daughters, Mrs. Penry and Miss Elizabeth Kerling, of Uniontown, Pa.

Thomas J. Browning was in this section last week seeing his friends in the interest of Hon. Blair Lee's candidacy for a place in the United States Senate.

The weather was fine last week and farmers were busy with preparations for seeding.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Easter services in the M. E. church Sunday were more than usually interesting and helpful. The first was at 7 o'clock, which was well attended for so early an hour. This was followed by the Sunday School numbering nearly one hundred and fifty, at which service about twenty-five children were taken into the church on probation. The regular preaching service followed and five were admitted to the church in full connection. Over two hundred dollars was pledged on benevolences and quite a sum raised for foreign missions.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hayden and two children were over-Sunday visitors at the parental home.

Mrs. Lee N. Hayden and her children left Tuesday evening to visit Mrs. H.'s parents and friends at Westernport for several days.

Mr. C. S. May made his family the usual Sunday visit.

Mrs. Landon, who had been with her daughter, Mrs. C. V. Harvey, for sevdays quite ill, has returned to her home much improved in health.

Our people were shocked and grieved Monday by the announcement of the death of Lonore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Ferguson, of Fairmont, W. Va., which occurred Sunday. Lonore spent her early childhood in Mt. Lake Park and was universally beloved by all who knew her. There were expressions of sympathy on every hand for the bereaved parents.

Mr. W. C. Dunnington is getting the Mountain Lake Hotel in good shape for the summer.

The Hotel Chautauqua is being painted and improved in many ways and will be a cozy place to spend the heated term. Mr. Burrell has charge again as manager.

Prof. and Mrs. J. W. May returned to their cottage here Monday after spending the winter in the south.

The annual election for town officers for Loch Lynn will be held next Monday. The nominees are: For mayor, Bush Hardesty; for councilmen, Frank Mumaw and H. M. Weeks; clerk, Lester Yutzy; bailiff, Clyde Shipley; treasurer, U. G. Ford. The $1,500 bond issue to complete the sewerage system will also be voted on.

WILD ANIMAL EXHIBIT FEATURE OF CIRCUS

Tents Are Crowded at Each Performance.

(Gardiner, Mass. News.)

About the best circus that has amused Gardner patrons in years, Latena's wild animal circus played to a well filled tent on the Conant street grounds yesterday afternoon and evening and the big crowds were thoroughly satisfied that they had gotten their money's worth.

There were 24 big acts, all of which found favor. There were pony drills, performing lions, trained seals, elephants, acrobats, performing bears, bareback riders and wire walkers, and they all deserved the applause that was accorded them.

The elephants, as is usually the case were objects of interest and the tricks that they performed with Walter Allen and two assistants showed remarkable intelligence. Capt. Wesley's seals were a novelty.

Another act which furnished thrills was by Capt. Haggen, who put five lions through numerous stunts, not without danger. One of the beasts had a spring that carried him to the top of the cage. At Oakland May 2nd, 1916.

Money Paid For An Empire, Jr., Comes Back Over and Over

ASK any experienced grain man which method of planting insures the best crop yield and he will unfailingly answer "Drilling."

Broadcasting wastes a lot of seed—it can't help it—because the seed is only half covered and is subject to losses caused by wind, water, and birds.

"Empire, Jr."—drilled seed all sprouts at the same time and ripens at the same time. Any farmer knows that this sort of a field of grain will turn out the best yield.

The Empire, Jr. is a well built, light draft drill that pays for itself by the grain it saves.

We have a complete line of Empire, Jr. seeding machines. Come in and look them over at your earliest convenience.

All kinds of Plows and Harrows, Wagons and Buggis, and in fact everything that a Farmer will need at this season of the year at the right price. Agent for Armour's Fertilizer.

The Republican---The Leading Paper.

Senator Speicher Comes Out Strong In Favor of National Prohibition.

HARVEY J. SPEICHER.

To the Republican Voters of Garrett County:

As a candidate for the nomination for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland, I earnestly ask the support of every Republican voter.

If nominated and elected to represent the Sixth District in Congress, I pledge myself to fearlessly and honestly represent the wishes of the people of this District on every question that may claim the attention of Congress.

In 1909 I was elected State Senator from Garrett county, and as such have continuously represented my county up to the present time. My record on the liquor question in the State Senate should convince every voter that I have at all timbs favored Anti Liquor Legislation, with the result that my county is now dry.

I have at all times favored the Referendum to the people of such questions. I pledge my support to any bill touching the rights of the people to vote on the question of the abolition of liquor, and every bill tending to bring about National Prohibition.

For the past twenty years the Sixth District has been represented by Congressmen who have steadfastly favored dry legislation. In the present campaign I am the only one among the five candidates seeking this nomination who has come out boldly and championed the dry cause. It is very important, in view of the fact that Congress will be called upon at its next session and continuously thereafter until the question is settled to cope with the question of National Prohibition. It is the most important question before the people today Undoubtedly the Nation will go dry within a very few years, and it is of the utmost importance that the Sixth District of Maryland stands true to the cause.

If nominated and elected I will vote for National Prohibition or any bill looking toward the abolition of the saloon.

Trusting that you will give me your vote and support in the coming primaries, May 1st, I am,

Faithfully,

HARVEY J. SHEICHER.

GOVERNOR GOLDSBOROUGH SHOULD BE NOMINATED

Serious Reasons Given For This By A Well Known Writer.

To the Editor of The Republican.

It is too early as yet for anyone to be making extravagant claims concerning the strength of either of the candidates for the United States Senate. Those who have observed the methods of political writers in the employ of candidates have noted the fact that exaggerated estimates are usuallya symptom of a losing cause. It is only by observing the real drift of opinion that one may know beforehand what the outcome is going to be.

In estimating this drift of opinion it is but necessary to recall the situation one month ago and now. Just a few weeks ago Dr. France had started out on an energetic campaign backed by an unlimited supply of funds. The first impressions were that he was going to take the State of Maryland by storm.

The people had not yet had time to consider what would be the consequences if the Republican party in Maryland should name a candidate for the United States Senate who was not only untried in the public service, but unknown to the voters of the Senate outside of his own county. It was not at first realized that in order to elect our candidate we must choose one who can command not only the united support of his own party, but also that of a few thousand independent voters, most of whom are Democratic in their leanings. It was not at first realized that these independent voters are among the last who would consider favorably a man who had never performed any public service or whose ability to perform such service is entirely unknown, even to his most intimate friends. It was not realized at first that in order to gain the support of a majority of the voters in Maryland, they must be convinced that the man for whom they are voting is fully qualified to perform the duties of his office with credit to the party and honor to the State which elects him.

At a number of public meetings in Baltimore recently the audiences have been asked "How many present ever heard of Dr. France before he announced his candidacy for the United States Senate?" It is simply amazing, that in all of these audiences there has not so far appeared a single person who professes ever to have heard of Dr. France up to some two months ago.

The Republicans of Maryland should appreciate the fact that it is impossible in the few months between now and the November election for any candidate to start in as a wholly unknown quantity, and in that time demonstrate to the satisfaction of the people that he is a newly discovered political prodigy who has been up to this time so entirely overlooked, but who is amply able to take up the high duties of such an office as United States Senator and meet upon terms of equality the great men who are sent to the National Legislature by the other States of the Union

This would be a difficult enough task for Dr. France, even if he were a campaigner, and could go before an audience and make an address which would in itself be some argument in his favor; but Dr. France is not a campaigner. He has not so far attempted to make a speech, and the few who know him do not claim from him the ability to meet in the political arena the most ordinary antagonist.

These are some of the reasons why Dr. France's campaign has not maintained its early vim:—why the early impressions made by a liberal use of money have not been lasting, and why the doubt as to his ability and become so pronounced.

GOLDSBOROUGH'S QUALIFICATIONS.

Every impartial and experienced judge of political conditions coming at once into possession of all facts, and being informed as to the experience and the abilities of the two candidates would say at once that the candidate who had been the successful, honored, unsullied and irreproachable Chief Executive of his State is naturally the logical candidate of his Party for the higher and even more exacting duties of membership in the United States Senate. Governor Goldsborough has proved that he alone of all the Republicans of the State of Maryland possesses the confidence of the people to such an extent that he could twice be elected to office in a state-wide election. No other Republican has ever enjoyed that distinction.

It should then be remembered that Governor Goldsborough has not only not committed any error in public or private life by which to forfeit the confidence of the people in him in any respect. He has not only made no mistakes in the important matters arising during his administration, but he has accomplished definite results for which he alone is entitled to the credit.

Men who are old enough to recall the history of all of the administration at Annapalis during the past generation will admit that there has been no administration during that time open to so little criticism as that of Governor Goldsborough. Even the Democratic press of the State has failed to find serious fault with his official life. The Republican press has never before, unless under Governor Lowndes, passed through a perion of four years when it could say almost nothing in criticism of the executive department of the State.

The splendid results accomplished by Philips Lee Goldsbough as Governor are to be attributed to the fact that he approached his term of office with able experience in State affairs and in legal and business problems. It cannot be conceived that even a man of Governor Goldsborough's abilities could have become Governor of the State without his training in public life and passed through the difficulties which attended him without committing great and grievous errors.

The United States Senate is a place where ability counts for a great deal. High scholarship is an essential to every member of the Senate who would exercise any influence, but both ability and scholarship are greatly handicapped unless the possessor has also the gift of force and eloquence which will make his opinions and convictions felt in the midst of others who understand public questions from a different view point. Governor Goldsborough's power as an orator, his resourcefulness in debate, his great store-house of the facts of Governmental affairs make him the one man in Maryland, either Republican or Democrat, who can best represent the interests of all our people.

AVAILABILITY.

We often hear candidates spoken of as available. The mere desire to hold an office does not make a man available for that office. The ability to spend a lot of money to win an election does not make a man available. But availability in a candidate means that the esteem in which he is held by the people is such that they are willing to elect him to the office he wishes, and this means that he is regarded by the people as able to perform the duties of the office acceptably to all the people.

Now it is evident that a man who is unknown to the people does not possess their confidence, and is therefore not available as a candidate, whether he has the qualifications otherwise or not.

Dr. France being unknown, even though his personal qualifications may be all that are claimed, is not an available candidate for the Senate.

Right here let the reader ask himself what he knows about Dr. France? How long since he first heard of Dr. France, and how reliable is the information? Then let him ask himself if he believes that the people of Maryland, most of whom know less of Dr. France than do the people of Caroline county, can be convinced between now and November first that he is superior in any way to his opponent Governor Goldsborough. Is there a man in Maryland who does not know both Governor Goldsborough's private and public life perfectly. The consideration of these questions is the point upon which public opinion is determining which shall be the nominee of the party. It is this that is causing the very apparent gains in the Governor's favor. Just at this time when the Republican party has the opportunity to win in both the State and National Elections, it is highly important that we make no mistakes, and that we take no chances.

THE INDEPENDENT VOTER.

The independent voters of the State are those who are not so attached to any party that they will vote for its candidates merely for partisan reasons. These are the voters who insist on voting for the man, and the principles he advocates regardless of his party affiliation. All over Maryland the Independents have had one and only one serious complaint to make of the Republican party, and it has been this:—The Republican organizations do not put up for office the kind of men that appeal to their confidence. This has been partly due to the fact that some of our best men in the party refuse to stand for public office because they cannot afford to sacrifice important private business to attend to public business; and it is due also in part to the fact that the party organization, and especially those who assume to be bosses, too often want to put up men for office who will obey their commands. Last week we had an illustration of this in Baltimore when an excellent man was told that if he went to the National Convention he would have to vote as the organization "boss" ordered. The candidate rebelled and the trouble is growing more serious every day. The Republican Party must rid itself of this handicap before it can enjoy the support of the independent voter. The whole State knows that Governor Goldsborough has never recognized any man as his boss, and no one believes that he ever will. For this reason Governor Goldsborough's candidacy appeals very strongly to the Independent voter of the State.

As the voters of the party consider all the facts, and all of the prospects at the polls in November Phillips Lee Goldsborough is gaining in favor, his nomination is confidently expected and his triumphant election is predicted.

Yours very truly,

CHAS. O. CARTER.

Press Representative.

FREDERICK N. ZIHLMAN.

SENATOR FRED N. ZIHLMAN:

Below subjoined is a list of a few of the leading Republicans of Washington County who are supporting Senator Zihlman for the Republican nomination for Congress.

It was Senator Zihlman, who in 1914 with a divided party at his back, all but defeated David J. Lewis.

Why then now turn him down in 1916 when the party is united?

Would that constitute fair play?

The truth is not a single sound argument can be made against the logic of Senator Zihlman's candidacy.

We therefore unreservedly tender him our support:—

CABINET FIXES U.S. U-BOAT POLICY

President Decides to Ask for Joint Session of Congress

NEW ASSURANCES DEMANDED

Most Critical Meeting Since Lusitania Was Torpedoed, Concludes to Defer Action—"Reasonable Length of Time," Is to Be Allowed.

Washington.—A Cabinet meeting transcending in international importance any that has assembled since the time the Lusitania was sunk a year ago, has just been held. The question of severing diplomatic relations with Germany was discussed in all its phases. No decision on policy, however, was reached pending the receipt of some word from Ambassador Gerard as to what the probabilities were of receiving from the Imperial Government an acknowledgment of responsibilities for the sinking of the Sussex and other vesels.

Some members of the Cabinet thought there was no need to wait, that the official report of the United States Naval Attaches of the American Embassy at Paris who examined the hull of the Sussex and fragments of the torpedo which had lodged in the ship was sufficient basis for action. The report not only declared conclusively that the vessel was torpedoed, but identified the torpedo as of German manufacture. With this evidence before, the American Government, in the opinion of some of the Cabinet secretaries, should act decisively. Others thought nothing was to be gained by precipitate action, and that the United States should wait a "reasonable length of time."

Just what will constitute a "reasonable time" is something which time itself can alone determine. But the significant and outstanding consideration of happenings was that the United States Government had made up its mind Germany was responsible for the sinking of the Sussex, and had broken its pledges in number of other instances.

Provided Germany does not give a satisfactory reply to the President's inquiries concerning the Sussex and other ships alleged to have been attacked without warning by German submarines he will go before Congress before making the next move.

Ohio Senator Unanimous Choice of Sub-Committee

Chicago.—Plans for the Republican National Convention, which will open in Chicago June 7, were completed here at a meeting of the sub-committee on arrangements, with the selection of Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio for temporary chairman.

Other convention officers chosen were: Temporary secretary, Lafayette B. Gleason of New York; chief clerk, D. Edward Monroe of St. Louis, official reporter, George L. Hart of Roanoke, Va.; sergeant-at-arms, William F. Stone of Baltimore; chief assistant sergeant-at-arms, Edwin P. Thayer of Indianapolis; chief doorkeeper, John J. Hanson of Baltimore.

Maryland's Only Republican Congressman Endorses

DR. FRANCE

Hon. Sidney E. Mudd

Gives Convincing Reasons Why Republicans Should Nominate

Dr. Joseph Irwin France

[From the Baltimore Sun of April 22, 1916.]

"I had hoped to keep out of the Senatorial end of the primary contest and to devote as much time as I could spare from my Congressional duties to my own campaign. I find, however, that this is impossible, not only because of the fact that a man in public life is expected to express his views on all matters affecting the interest of his constituents, but also because I have been importuned to take a position by many of my friends, who are desirous of acting in accordance with my advice in this situation.

"I have carefully studied all the phases of the present situation and I have reached the conclusion that Dr. France is the logical candidate for the Republicans of Maryland to nominate as their candidate for the United States Senate on May 1 next.

"My decision was not reached from a comparison of the abilities of Dr. France and ex-Governor Goldsborough, as I believe that they are both men of high calibre and in every particular capable of representing our State in the United States Senate. My preference for Dr. France is chief because I want to see Maryland send a Republican to the United States Senate next November, and because I am convinced that Dr. France's candidacy will appeal more strongly to all factions and elements of the party and the masses of the people.

"In order to elect a Senator from Maryland other than a Democrat it is necessary first of all that the candidate be acceptable to and supported by the entire Republican party. By this I mean the Republicans of today and those who were Republicans before the Progressive party was born in 1912. I have talked to members of the Progressive party from every section of the State, including my own Congressional district, and I am confident that with the nomination of Dr. France he will be supported and not opposed by the Progressives. In other words, he is the candidate who can harmonize present members of our party and those who were once members and whom we hope to bring back into the fold."

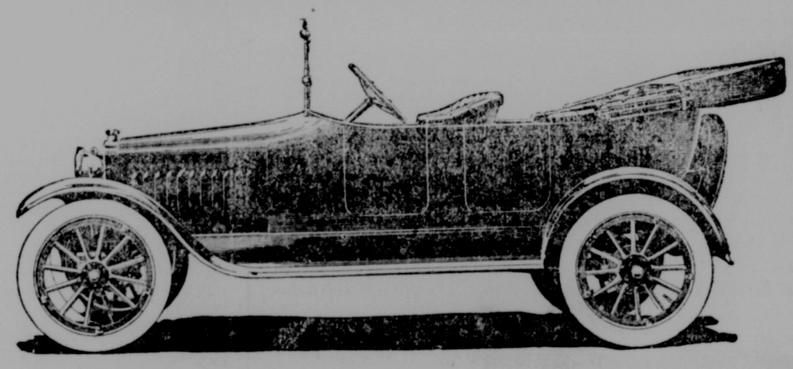
SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people



Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $5,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle tne question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

C. F. ZITTEL, Dramatic Editor, New York Journal.

VOLUME 41. OAKLAND, MARYLAND THURSDAY, MAY 4, 1916. NUMBER 10

THE CONGRESSIONAL NOMINEE IS THANKFUL

Senator Fred. N. Zihlman Expresses His Appreciation to the Voters.

The following wire message was received at The Republican office Tuesday afternoon from State Senator Fred. N. Zihlman, the successful candidate on the Republican ticket for the Congressional nomination:

To The Republicans of Garrett county.

I desire to express my grateful thanks to the Republican voters of Garrett county for the support they gave me at the primary election on May 1st, and to assure them that I will endeavor to merit their endorsement.

Very truly,
F. N. ZIHLMAN.

Besides her parents there survive three sisters and four brothers. She was a niece of Mrs. D. H. Loar, of Oakland.

Recital This Week.

On Friday evening of this week will be held the recital by Miss Helen Virginia Nesbitt, full announcement of which was made last week. The program begins at 8:15 o'clock.

This entertainment will be a real treat. Miss Nesbitt's dramatic interpretation is splendid. Her dialect and character reproductions are true to life. Her humorous readings alone are well worth the price of admission. The whole program will be very delightful. Don't miss it!

Tickets are on sale at Gonder's Pharmacy. Best seats 50 cents, good seats 25 cents.

SOLEMN VESPERS AT OAKLAND CHURCH SUNDAY

Cumberland K. of C. Choir Sings At First Service of Kind Held There.

The first solemn vespers in the history of St. Peter's Catholic Church, Oakland, were sung Sunday by the choir of Cumberland Council, No. 586, Knights of Columbus, William D. Paisley, director, with Miss Mabel Fisher, organist. About 75 members of Chief Justice Taney Assembly, Fourth Degree, made the trip. Fifteen automobiles left Cumberland late Sunday afternoon and were joined by five from Frostburg and Mount Savage.

The service was in charge of Rev. A. J. Conlon, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church, Cumberland, assisted by Rev. James E. Connell, the pastor at Oakland, and Rev. J. J. Brady, pastor of SS. Philip and James' Church, Meyersdale. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Father Conlon, whose subject was "Peace." It was a noteworthy event with the church which was filled to overflowing.

The Cumberland Knights were accompanied by C. W. Darr, of Washington, worthy master, who arrived Saturday. Leaving Oakland about 9 p. m., all were home by midnight. The trip was made via Grantsville and Accident.

Forty Years Ago.

In its notes of happenings "Forty Years Ago" the Cumberland News of Monday printed the following: "The first of May was the coldest in the memory of the oldest inhabitants at Milford, Pa., where the river was covered with half an inch of ice and the thermometer registered 27 degrees above."

"Among the sureties on the $80,000 bond of Abraham Miller, tax collector for Garrett county, were Henry Miller, Samuel A. Miller, Sylvester Ryland, Aaron Beachy, Henry Mulhenberg, John Opell, Josiah Beggley and W. R. Getty."

DR. JOS. I. FRANCE WILL OPPOSE MR. DAVID J. LEWIS.

Senator Blair Lee Polled Larger Vote Than His Opponent.

Congressman David J. Lewis of Allegany county is the Democratic nominee for the United States Senate.

Dr. Joseph Irwin France is the choice of a majority of the Republican voters for the same nomination.

Both won by small margins.

In the Republican convention France has only a few delegates to spare.

Blair Lee has the popular vote over David J. Lewis. The county unit plan encompassed Senator Lee's defeat.

On the Eastern Shore Robert F. Duer won the Republican Congressional nomination over Josiah L. Kerr, and Congressman Talbott, who desired to continue in Congress, was an easy victor over Lloyd Wilkinson, his Democratic opponent in the Second Congressional district. The city wards, however, gave Mr. Wilkinson a majority.

The closest Congressional fight seems to have been between Frank O. Smith and Jackson H. Ralston in the Southern Maryland district. Both coveted an opportunity to cross swords in the general election with Sydney E. Mudd, the Republican nominee. Ralston won out by a few hundred votes.

In Western Maryland "Fred" N. Zihlman seems to have been an easy winner. He had four opponents for the Republican Congressional nomination.

In Baltimore Congressman Coady and Linthicum were unopposed for a nomination from the Democrats and the same situation applied to J. Frank Fox, Republican, in the Fourth Congressional district. Golden opposed Main for the Republican nomination in the Third district, but he was beaten.

In the Senatorial fight in Baltimore city Senator Lee carried every ward except the Eleventh, which gave a plurality to William Cabell Bruce, and the Eighteenth, which "The" Kelly swung to David J. Lewis. The Eleventh is Mr. Bruce's home ward and his neighbors rallied to his support.

None of the independent wards in Baltimore city took kindly to the candidacy of Congressman Lewis. In some of them he ran third. Where the Mahon-Preston organization is strong Lewis was pounded unmercifully, but the scanty consideration he received from it was not as inconsiderate as the attitude of the independents.

That France-Goldsborough fight was a neck-and-neck race.

However, it seems practically settled that France will be the Republican nominee for the United States Senate.

Baltimore city seems to have settled the contest in France's favor. He carried all four districts. Had the city organization failed anywhere Goldsborough would have been the winner. This was the situation as it was understood during the primary fight. The city was recognized as the Governor's hardest nut to crack because here there was arrayed against him a solid organization and an exceedingly bitter one.

Down the Sho' Ex-Senator Jackson came to the front for France in great shape, for seven of the nine counties in this section are safe in the France column. The Ex-Governor carried Dorchester, his home county, and Caroline.

In Western and Southern Maryland, however, the ex-Governor swept things like a cyclone. Washington, St. Mary's and Carroll counties are the only ones that France captured.

Arrayed against Governor Goldsborough were all the forces that the Republican organization could muster in city and State. Under these circumstances the fight he made was a remarkable one. His assistance came only from such friends as he gathered about him the time he served as Governor of Maryland.

He accomplished what he did, it is thought, largely through his abilities as a campaigner. He toured the State from Garrett to Worcester, while his friends perfected whatever organization they could and got into the fray. The showing they made was certainly a good one, but in politics victories are all that count.

FACE THE FACTS!

Weeks Talks About Our Navy and National Defense.

Insists on Military, Commercial, Financial and Industrial Preparedness —Let Us Be Ready for Peace as Well as War.

By JAMES B. MORROW, in the Philadelphia Record.

NONE of the Weekses, save John Wingate, the senator and the Massachusetts candidate for president—toiling as they all did among the granite humps of New Hampshire—was ever noted for his accumulation of cash or property.

They were farmers mostly, beginning with Leonard Weeks, who, emigrating from England in 1656, became the head and source of the family. Agriculture sternly practiced among the embedded rocks and irremovable bowlders taught them to be resourceful and to keep at least one eye open to opportunity.

So William D., the father of the senator, was a probate judge, and once essayed to be a manufacturer. With the co-operation of neighbors, likewise alert and adventurous, he started a factory at Lancaster for making starch from potatoes.

"I will never forget the look on my father's face," Captain Weeks told me, "when, on a Sunday morning, just as we were leaving church, we saw men and boys running down the street and heard them crying: 'The starch factory is burning.'

Captain John Wingate Weeks.

"There was no insurance—the policy had lapsed—and the fire swept away all of my father's means and put a burdensome mortgage on his farm, two and a half miles in the country."

If there had been a navy of a respectable size in 1881 John Wingate Weeks would now be a captain instead of a senator. Nor would he ever have become a banker and thus have set at naught all the traditions of the Weeks family for self-respecting, capable and wholesome poverty.

And yet a psychological analysis of inherited traits might show that the senator comes naturally by his talents for public affairs and finance. Any inquiry into his personality must include the Wingates, the chief of whom, John, an Englishman, emigrated to New Hampshire in 1660.

The Weekses and the Wingates intermarried during the second American generation—the Weekses to continue as farmers, with an excursion into potato starch, as has been recorded, but the Wingates to become soldiers, preachers and statesmen. Paine Wingate, for example, the great-grandson of John, was a member of the Continental congress and later a senator from New Hampshire.

A Big Man Physically.

John Wingate Weeks of Massachusetts, in his name, therefore, goes back to the middle of the seventeenth century. Perhaps his gifts are equally as ancient. Wherever they originated, he has made good use of them. He is well-to-do—but has less money, perhaps, than is often represented—and Republicans in Massachusetts have notified the country that he is their candidate for president. If he is nominated at Chicago in June, the main reason will have been that he is a business man. His candidacy, then, will be something entirely new in national politics.

In his measurements, Captain Weeks is a large man. A reasonable guess at his weight would be 250 pounds. His stature, perhaps, is five feet and eleven inches. His eyes are gray and his manner is frank and hearty. While at the naval academy he could slowly raise a 112-pound dumbbell above his head with his right hand. Then, kneeling with one leg, he could slowly raise an 87-pound dumbbell with his left hand. More than that he could lower his hands to his shoulders and slowly and simultaneously put both dumbbells above his head the second time.

A muscular youth, he was recommended by his principal to the "prudential committee" that called at the academy in Lancaster on a hunt of a teacher for their district school. The school was then closed—a group of the large boys having carried the teacher into the road, slammed him down in the dirt and warned him never to return.

"Lick 'em and lick 'em good," the prudential committee said. "We'll back you up if you do."

"The third day," Captain Weeks told me, "a big, red-faced boy took his pen in hand and laboriously began to write a letter—that is, he was seemingly engaged in writing a letter; as a matter of fact, he was showing off before the school and experimenting with the new teacher. When ordered to put his pen and paper away, he smiled around the room at the pupils, who had stopped working, and then resumed his writing.

"I took him by the collar, dragged him out of his seat and gave him a thorough whipping. He turned out to be the son of the chairman of the prudential committee. The old man never spoke to me again, not even when I met him in the road, he riding in a buggy and I walking to or from my work."

Went to Sea for Two Years.

On his graduation at the Annapolis Naval Academy, young John Wingate Weeks went to sea for a cruise of two years. Seventy men were in his class, but there was room for only 10 of them in the navy. The navy itself consisted of but five steam vessels classed as first-rates, and they were obsolete and unfit for active duty. George Barnett, his room-mate, went into the Marine Corps and is now a major general and the commandant of that branch of the naval service.

In Florida, where he had been engaged as a surveyor on a railroad, the late Midshipman Weeks learned that an old firm in Boston was going out of business. One of the partners had died and another had become blind. Henry Hornblower, a son of one of the partners, and the youthful Mr. Weeks bought the business, the latter borrowing the money with which to begin his career as a banker and broker.

Hornblower acted for the firm on the floor of the Boston Stock Exchange. Weeks kept the books and waited on the customers as they appeared. In a few years the two young men had offices all over New England and in cities as far away as Chicago.

"I got my first valuable business idea from a famous New England dressmaker," Captain Weeks said to the writer of this article. "A friend who came to spend the night at our house was talking to Mrs. Weeks while I was reading a newspaper. I heard her say that she had bought a dress in Boston, and that soon after, on returning to the store, the proprietor, noticing her at the counter, asked if she had purchased the dress she was wearing at his establishment. On learning that she had, he said:

"'It is not right. Please give your name and address to the clerk and we shall correct the matter at once.'

A Story of Great Value.

"'But,' the woman replied, 'the dress is satisfactory to me. Whatever is wrong is so small that it is not worth mentioning.'

"'Small to you, madam,' the man answered, 'but very large to us.'

"'And do you know,' the woman told Mrs. Weeks, the dress was not only taken back, but it was kept and I was given a new one.

"I repeated the story to my partner next day," Captain Weeks said, "and from that time onward we tried to please our customers before we thought of ourselves and the probable profits we could make in our transactions."

Three years ago, following at once his election to the upper House of Congress, Captain Weeks sold out to his partners and disposed of every interest that might be thought, even indirectly, to influence his judgment as a lawmaker. It it said in New England that he has always been very careful about his reputation as a business man. An anecdote told of him in State street, the Wall street of Boston, shows how his sensitiveness to public opinion on one occasion proved highly profitable to his partner and himself.

A run on a bank in which Captain Weeks was a director, though he owned but $900 of the stock, threatened, so he feared, to injure his standing in the community. He spent a day and a night at the bank, pledged two-thirds of all the property he and his partner owned for the payment of the bank's debts and put through a rehabilitating plan under which the shareholders were assessed 50 per cent. on their holdings. The bank was saved, but some of the frightened shareholders sold out. Their interests were promptly bought by Captain Weeks. The bank prospered and later was combin with other large banks. Boston financiers say that Mr. Hornblower and Mr. Weeks ultimately made $250,000 on the stock which they purchased when the bank seemed to be on the verge of ruin.

When I asked Captain Weeks about the matter, he said: "I was a young man and couldn't afford to be a director in a bank that had closed its doors in the faces of its depositors, many of whom were poor and most of whom were small merchants and wage-earners."

"How," I asked him, inasmuch as he was a sailor himself once, and is now on terms of intimacy with many high officers, "would you describe the navy of the United States?"

"At the outbreak of the war in Europe," he answered, "our navy, in my opinion, was the second best in existence. Authorities for whom I have great respect did not agree with me. They ranked our navy third or fourth—some giving France second place and some believing Germany was stronger at sea than ourselves.

"I still think that in ships alone we were the equal of France or Germany and much the superior of Japan. Our officers are the ablest in the world; our crews are the most intelligent. No nation gives its officers the training that is given to the naval officers of the United States. And the men in our ships, coming from farms and villages, in large part, are the finest morally and physically afloat.

"In my days, back in 1880, let us say, the sailor on shore leave who returned to his ship sober was keelhauled or otherwise punished by his mates. All that has changed. Intoxicated sailors are see no more on the streets. Our men are sober, serious and capable. When an estimate of any navy is made, the personnel, as well as the ships, must be considered.

Lessons of the War.

"So I had thought that only Great Britain excelled us as a naval power at the outbreak of the war in Europe. Since the war started, France and Germany have geen building ships. Our rank just now, therefore, is uncertain. But we have a good navy. Still, it should be much larger."

"Has the war taught the world any naval lessons?"

"A great many. It has shown the value of aeroplanes, which are now known as the eyes of the fleet. They are very necessary as scouts. Leaving the deck of a vessel, they can easily locate the enemy and are therefore of the greatest possible use in the events that occur before a battle.

"The submarines, too, it has been learned, are of a real and practical service. All officers think they have become a permanent addition to every navy, but there is some disagreement as to their general utility. Can a swarm of submarines, for instance, go to sea, meet a fleet and destroy it? The question cannot be answered until such an attempt has been made and either failed or succeeded.

"I asked one of the highest military authorities in the country if 1,000 submarines, along with mines, could safeguard the United States against invasion—the mines to blow up the enemies' ships off shore, if any happened to get that near, the submarines having met the rest and destroyed them before they came within striking distance of our coasts. The answer was that such a measure of protection, an invasion of the United States would, to say the least, be made very difficult.

"You see, no one can tell as yet what part the submarines will take in the wars of the future. Their uses are slowly being developed, and we cannot know what they are capable of doing until the French or British fleet meets the fleet of Emperor William.

"Also, it has been learned that battle cruisers are required to bring a navy up to its highest efficiency. Cruisers formerly were used as scouts and to hunt down and destroy the merchant ships of an enemy. They were swift, but not heavy enough to take a place in the battle line when large vessels were engaged.

A Sea Battle First.

"The modern cruiser, however, can fight, being covered with armor and armed with large guns. Steaming 30 knots an hour, it can run all around a fleet of dreadnaughts and pump shells into them from a long distance and from any angle. Our navy must have battle cruisers, besides a great many submarines and aeroplanes, if we mean to be in a position where we can protect ourselves against injury, insult or dishonor.

"It should be always remembered," Captain Weeks went on to say, "that our navy will be our first line of defense. American ships will meet foreign ships before there is a battle on shore. If the United States goes to war with any nation in Euorpe or Asia, the fleets of the two countries will fight for the supremacy of the sea.

"No invading army will set out for America until it is safe from attack by our fleet. So long as our fleet is afloat, no army will venture to start for our shores. Moving troops from one country to another is an immense undertaking, even when it is safe to do so.

"Four hundred large ships, for example, would be required to transport an army of 250,000 men from Japan to the United States. Armies traveling by water have to carry their own artillery, ammunition and horses. Japan would not send 400 large troop ships out into the Pacific unless its fleet had fought and defeated our fleet. Nor would Germany or any other country in Europe attempt an invasion of the United States so long as our fleet, decks cleared, was waiting in the Atlantic.

"Looking to the East, I can see no probable danger that is likely to occur in the near future, unless the allies are thoroughly beaten by Germany, or unless Germany is thoroughly beaten by the allies. If the war is practically a draw at the end, the efforts of all the great nations to maintain an equilibrium of power will keep them entirely engaged for some time with their own affairs."

"Do you believe that a trade war against this country will follow the restoration of peace in Europe?"

"Such a war will come—there is no doubt of it. Loaded with debt, burdened with taxation, Europe will turn with energy and ferocity to the works of peace. The factories in Europe, except in Belgium, Poland and Northern France, have not been shut down nor burned. Indeed, new ones have been built. Industrially, save in the places I have named, Europe is better situated now than when the war began.

Facts to Be Faced.

"Things have been speeded up in Great Britain, Germany and France. The factories, old ones and new ones, are running. They will be running after the armies at the front have been sent home, but instead of making cannon and ammunition, as at present, they will be operated night and day in the production of goods for the American markets.

All Americans, no matter whether they call themselves Democrats or Republicans, ought to have courage enough and wisdom enough to face the facts. Europe is going to take possession of the markets in this country if we do not defend ourselves. You spoke of an invasion by soldiers. There can also be an invasion with products.

I favor all kinds of defenses—military, commercial, financial and industrial. And right here at home I think some of us need defense against fallacious ideas. For instance: This is a great business nation and yet we hear many suggestions that business be taken out of the ownership and management which have developed it and made it wonderfully successful, so that it may be turned over to the national government.

Business ought to be regulated, but we have regulated the railroads so vigorously that no more are being built, although they are surely needed in some parts of the country. Furthermore, the time has come when the railroads cannot borrow money for short periods on as advantageous terms as can other lines of big business. And yet transportation, next to agriculture, is our most important industry.

Would government ownership and operation improve the situation?

No; the situation would be made worse. State ownership and operation has failed in France, Canada and other countries. Wherever it has been tried, expenses are increased and deficits created. On the Western Railroad of France the operating charges went up 50 per cent in three years. More than 5,200 new men were employed—no workers on the tracks, engineers, conductors or brakemen, but clerks, porters and other little politicians, places for whom were found around the general offices and at the stations.

Government ownership in the United States would add 1,700,000 men to our office-holding class, and congress would fix their salaries. Freight rates, I am sure, would be higher than at present and the consumers—the men who work—would be losers and not gainers.

LORENZO DOW

Claimed To Be The Most Eccentric Preacher That Ever Lived.

Perhaps the most eccentric preacher that ever lived was Lorenzo Dow. He was born at Coventry, Conn., in 1777, the year during which many battles of the Revolutionary War were fought. When he was only four years old, it is said, strong religious impressions were made upon his mind; but he later drifted into bad company. While the Rev. Hope Hull, one of the pioneer Methodist preachers, was preaching, he pointed his finger at Dow, who was a reckless youth, and said: "Sinner there is a frowning Providence above your head, and a burning hell beneath your feet, and nothing but the brittle thread of life prevents your soul from falling into endless perdition." "But," says the sinner, "what must I do?" "You must pray." "Then, if you don't pray you will be damned," and as he said this the preacher stamped his foot. Dow said: "It came like a dagger to my heart. I came near falling backwards, and caught hold of my cousin by my side for fear I would fall into hell." He had many inward struggles, was greatly distressed by terrible dreams and at one time he thought he was a reprobate and started to commit suicide; but he was finally converted and had great peace of mind.

At the age of eighteen he felt called to preach the Gospel, but at first he shrank from such a responsibility. When he later yielded to the call, and sought admission into a Methodist conference, such were his eccentric habits that the conference was slow to receive him on trial. His personal appearance was very striking. He wore long hair and a long, flowing beard, and he moved about in such a peculiar, mysterious manner that he was regarded as little less than a prophet by the multitudes who were always eager to hear him. Sometimes he would rush into the pulpit, pull out his watch, hold it up before the congregation, and cry: "Watch! that is my text." And then would follow one of his inimitable sermons on "Watchfulness." Again he would hastily ascend the pulpit and whisper in a soft tone: "Hush," and then proceed with a solemn discourse. He was often spoken of as the "Crazy preacher," and some of the preachers would not give out his appointments for him. Sometimes he would preach under a large oak tree, and at the close of the sermon say: "Twelve months from today, at such an hour, I will preach on this spot again," mount his horse, not to be seen any more till the twelve months rolled around. Then he would appear at the exact hour he had named. He did not travel long in the Methodist connection; most of his life was spent as an independent evangelist.

There are many humorous anecdotes related in connection with the labors of this remarkable man.

He once fell into a dispute with a learned physician, who was an idealist. Dow strove to convince him that there were realities in nature, but in vain. To all his arguments there came the same reply: "'Tis but the force of imagination." At length the doctor, with an air of much self importance, laid his pipe on the table and, turning toward the window, as he sat in his arm chair, said: "There, Mr. Dow," pointing to the opposite side of the street, "is a wagon, as I imagined; but it is all the force of —"

Before he could finish the sentence, Dow took up the pipe, which still held a live coal, and emptied the contents into the doctor's boot.

"What in the name of thunder are you about!" he exclaimed, instantly seizing the boot with both hands.

"O, nothing but imagination," said Dow, coolly; "nothing but imagination," and immediately departed, leaving the doctor to dress his imaginary wound. At his next appointment his subject was, "The Force of Imagination."

The story of his finding the stolen axe is very interesting. The scene of this anecdote is laid in Maryland. As he rode up to one of his appointments, a poor man met him, and with a rueful face informed him that someone had stolen his axe, and begged that he would be good enough to tell him where it was. Dow assured him that he had no power of knowing such things, but he would not be put off. He was sure the preacher could find his axe if he would. At length, moved by his entreaties, Dow promised to do the best he could for him.

"Do you suspect any one of stealing it?" asked Dow.

"Yes," replied the man; "I think I know the person, but cannot be certain."

"Will he be at the meeting?"

"Yes, sir; he is sure to be there."

Dow said no more, but, picking up a good-sized stone, took it with him into the pulpit and placed it on the desk in full view of the congregation. Of course the people were sadly puzzled to know the meaning of this. After closing his sermon, he took up the stone and said to the audience: "Someone has stolen an axe belonging to Mr. A., a poor man. The thief is here—he is before me now—and I intend, after turning round three times, to hit him on the head with this stone." He then turned slowly round twice; the third time he turned with great force, as if he intended to hurl the stone into the midst of the congregation. Instantly a man dodged his head behind the pew. "Now," said Dow, "I will expose you no further; but if you don't leave that axe tonight where you got it, I will publish you tomorrow." The axe was promptly returned. The truth of this story has been vouched for.

Some of these anecdotes have the air of incredibility and extravagance, when related of a minister of the Gospel; but when we remember the notorious eccentricities of Dow we shall be disposed to receive them as true. We shall relate some others that well accord with his character.

After a long and tiresome journey, he stopped about nightfall at the rood of a country tavern in West Virginia. He retired to his apartment, but was much disturbed by a party of revelres who sat at their cups and cards, until a late hour. Near midnight one of the company discovered that he had lost his pocketbook, and a search was proposed. The landlord here remarked that Lorenzo Dow was in the house, and that if the money had been lost there, he could certainly find it. The suggestion was adopted at once, and Dow was aroused and requested to find the rogue. As he entered the room he glanced searchingly around, but could see no signs of guilt on any face. The loser was in great trouble and begged Dow to find his money.

"Have any left the room since you lost your money?" inquired Dow.

"None—none," replied the man.

"Then, said Dow, turning to the landlady, "go and bring me your large dinner pot."

This excited no little astonisment; but as they accorded to him supernatural powers, the order was promptly obeyed, and the pot placed in the center of the room.

"Now," said Dow, "go and bring the old chicken cock from the roost."

The amazement grew apase. However, the old rooster was brought in, placed in the pot and securely covered.

"Let the doors be now fastened, and all the lights put out," said Dow. This was done.

"Now," said he, "every person in the room must rub his hand hard against the pot, and when the guilty hand touches, the cock will crow."

All then came forward and rubbed, or pretended to rub against the pot, but the cock did not crow.

"Let the candles be now lighted; there is no guilty person here. If the man ever had any money he must have left it in some other place." said Dow.

"But, stop!" he exclaimed suddenly; "let us now examine the hands." This was of course, the main point in the whole affair. It was found that one man had not rubbed against the pot. "There," said Dow, pointing to the man with clean hands; "there is the man who picked your pocket." The thief at once confessed and gave up the money.

It is reported that on one occasion a couple came to Dow's home to be married. It was a stormy day, and Dow, being too sick to leave his room, ordered the couple to come and stand under his window, while he raised the window and performed the ceremoney, using the following brief words:

"Under this window, in stormy weather,
I join this man and woman together;
Let Him alone who made the thunder
Part this man and woman asunder."

Lorenzo Dow was a remarkably gifted, but ill-balanced, man. He preached for thirty-nine years, traveling extensively in England and Ireland, and repeatedly visiting almost every portion of the United States. Sometimes he would have a chain of appointments extending 1,000 miles across the United States. With all his eccentricities and clownish ways, "his purity of purpose and benevolence of character can hardly be questioned." The following extracts from his journal will give some idea of his labors and hardships: "I have traveled 4,000 miles during the past eight months, through heat in the valleys and cold in the mountains, and frequently sleeping with a blanket on the floor where I could look up and see the stars through the bark roof, the frost nipping me so that I lost the skin of my nose, hands and feet, and from my ears it pealed three times. Sometimes traveling all night to make an appointment in time, and no stranger to hunger and thirst while traveling many miles through the drifted snow without a path to follow. Though my sorrows were great, the Lord was still precious to my soul, and supported me through. After preaching at Ebenezer's, I silently withdrew, and taking my horse, traveled all night until 10 o'clock next morning, when I spoke at Bethel, and then jumping out of a window from the pulpit, rode seventeen miles to Union, thence to Duck Creek Cross Roads, making nearly eighty miles traveled and five meetings without sleep."

He closed his erratic life at Georgetown, D. C., February 2, 1834, and was buried in the city of Washington.

Why Girls Go Wrong

(BY JASON KEP.)

Why do so many young girls go wrong? Who is to blame? What is the remedy?

You can find these questions in almost every church paper you pick up. These papers accuse about everybody on earth, except the real honest to goodness culprits.

I will tell you a little story, a true tale, and perhaps you can place the blame for a large percentage of the why.

About two years ago a young girl from the country came to work at a hotel in one of the towns on my territory. She was a quiet, ladylike pretty little girl and a church member. She was a good girl. She had brought her church letter and a nice letter from the pastor of her church. She joined a church in the town. She received the glad hand that Sunday and was just bubbling over with happiness. She was so full of it that she had to tell me all about it at supper while she waited on me.

About eight months later I was sitting in the lobby of the hotel reading my mail at 11:30 (train got in late) when in came this girl as flip as they make them. You could see she was hitting the pace. I was astonished and the next morning had the head waiter take me to her table.

I told her I saw she was hitting the pace and that it was only a matter of time until she would be down and out, the same old story. I asked for an explanation, that only a few months ago she had joined the church and seemed so happy and contented. Then she told me her story.

"Well, you remember the Sunday I joined the church here, I told you all about it. A lot of them shook hands with me and seemed so friendly that I was just happy and looked forward to a pleasant sojourn in the town. I could hardly wait until I could get off duty to write to my people all about it. You see I was only a green young country girl and not used to the ways of the world. In the country where I lived we were all friends and it made no difference if one had to work.

"The next Sunday three of the church members bowed to me and the preacher said he was glad to see me out. In Sunday school it was just about the same.

"Well, this run along about three or four months. I went to church regularly, sometimes a few would bow and sometimes not. No one noticed me on the street. I was homesick and lonesome. I would have liked to go home but we needed the money and must work. Now sitting around in my room night after night—well, you can imagine how it was.

"A bunch of the girls were going out with their fellows to dances and other places and having a good time. They kept asking me to go along with them and at last I decided that anything was better than sitting around alone in my room.

"I went with them. I soon discovered that it was a pretty wild bunch and my conscience hurt a little, but they were friendly and good hearted and—well, I don't much care now what becomes of me. I'll tell you this—I'd rather go to hell with a lot of friends than go to heaven with that bunch of high brow, marble headed society dames, who are so refined and inflated with their money and holiness that it is beneath their dignity to befriend a poor little country girl who comes to their city to earn an honest living and who wants to be good."

I do hope the Lord will make allowance for my state of mind. I am not naturally a profane man, but I would have given four dollars to have been outside to get what I wanted to say out of my system. I am sure I could have taken at least three gold medals.

I did a lot of thinking in a mighty short time, and at last I said:

"You have been abused, little girl, by a lot of hyenas who unfortunately pose and to a certain extent get away with the stunt, of representing themselves to be God's people. But I want to tell you this, I would rather take your chances just as it stands than theirs on that last great day when the books are opened by a Judge who can't be flimflammed."

"Mary Magdalene and the thief on the cross made good, but I have never found any place in the Bible where the hypocrite took any prizes.

"I want to have another talk with you and I think we can find a way out. I will see you sure before I leave.

I called about a dozen of the traveling men together in the writing room and we went into executive session. I told them the pitiful story of this little country girl and then said "gentlemen it is up to us to save this girl, how about it?"

Traveling men do not pose as saints, but you can bank on it they are not hypocrites. They raised a purse (no penny in the slot collection you bet.) Then one of the boys said, "I know a town where there are a few honest to goodness Christian women. I'll go there today, find a place for her and see that bunch of women and then come and get her. You arrange with her to cut loose and go."

Well she is nicely situated, befriended and looked after by that little band of Godly women.

If you cannot place the blame for why girls go wrong and why so many do not go to church, you are very dense.

The priest and Levite took a look and then passed down on the other side of the man who fell among theives on the road from Jerico to Jerusalem. The priest and Levite were the high brows, purse proud society church members of that day, while the traveling man, the Good Samaritan, bound up his wounds, took him to the hotel and told the hotel man to take good care of him and he would pay him on his next trip.

Now what church was it? Are you sure it wasn't yours? Couldn't it happen pretty easily in your church?

Honest to goodness, are you doing anything toward helping in the Master's cause, except singing "Praise God from Whom All Blessing Flow" and "Jesus Paid It All?"

I hope I have jarred you, I tried to. You see, sometimes it takes quite a shock to wake us up and make us think.

PARADISE

We have not seen any news from our vicinity for awhile, will write a few lines.

The weather has been very wet for the last week and has been causing the farmers much anxiety about sowing oats and planting potatoes.

Mr. Jerome DeWitt made a trip to Friendsville on Sunday to see his sister, who has been very sick.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Meese were Sunday visitors at W. W. Grove's.

Mr. Sollie Kimmell is moving in the Geo. McRobie property, recently vacated by Arthur Harvey, where he expects to conduct the welfare of Dad's farm the coming season.

Mr. W. W. Groves has unloaded a new traction engine which he expects to put to work in a few days.

Miss Fike, who has been at G. W. Weitzells, returned to her home on Sunday.

Mr. C. M. Miller and son purchased a new hay baler recently.

The Sunshine Lumber Co., expects to begin operations on their new job at Wm. Speicher's on Monday next.

Mr. Joe Shank, of Pollen Hollow has purchased Kit Karson which makes Missouri Maud quite lonesome.

Wm. Lohr is moving Eph Knox, of Blaine, to his farm at Altamont.

DECK.

BITTINGER.

On Monday evening of last week a surprise party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Bittinger in honor of Miss Lillian Cutter's birthday anniversary. The guests were Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Marvin, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Orendorf and Mr. Oscar Wiley. A notable incident of the evening was the presentation by Rev. and Mrs. Marvin, of a splendid cake ornamented with 24 burning tapers, each candle representing one of the passed anniversaries of Miss Cutter's life.

There was considerable stir among the horse dealers of this section last week. Mr. Milton Race, of Frostburg, purchased three fine horses here on Thursday, and on Friday Cyrus Stark, of McHenry, was in the neighborhood on a "swapping" expedition.

O. C. Buckle, the obliging mail carrier, has purchased a motor truck with which to transport the mails during the summer season.

The venerable Sampson Seibert, a native of this settlement and a veteran of the Civil War, died at the home of a relative, near Grantsville, on Sunday, April 23rd, and was buried near the place of his death.

The last nights of April were marked by very noticeable frosts, which did no damage.

RECORD FOR PEACE.

The history of the United States is a story of peace, broken at long intervals only by conflict in behalf of justice and right, and with orderly quiet quickly restored. From the time white men first came to America, their efforts have been to establish concord of action and tranquility of life. To escape from the turmoil and feuds of Europe and build in a new world a national life whose ideal would be liberty and equality for all mankind, and whose citizens should be secure in rights and privileges denied them in Europe was the ambition of the courageous, thoughtful men who brought the older civilization to this continent and made it over into the new. Since the formation of our government its only wars have been defensive and to maintain the highest concept of human freedom.

The genius of our country and the spirit of our people are both opposed to conquest as inimical to liberty. Our relations with the world have been established and upheld by a dignified instance upon right as supported by reason. We have never tried to impose our views on a neighbor or a contemporary except with the sanction of justice in its best application. For almost a century and a half of national existence the United States has given to the world the finest example it has ever had of a self-governed people. Underneath all the so-called national hysteria lies a broad and deep base of devotion to a concept of freedom that will make the extreme sacrifice for its preservation.

The diplomat or ruler who does not recognize this makes a serious blunder. The people of the United States are united on a record of peace, but will maintain its instutions at any cost.

THE COUNTRY NEWSPAPER.

But the beauty and the joy of our papers and their little worlds is that we who live in the country towns know our own heroes. Who knows Murphy in New York? Only a few. Yet in Emporia we all know Tom O'Connor—and love him. Who knows Morgan in New York? One man in a hundred thousand. Yet in Emporia who does not know George Newman, our banker and merchant prince? Boston people pick up their morning papers and read with shuddering horror of the crimes of their daily villian, yet read without that fine thrill that we have when we hear that Al Ludorph is in jail again in Emporia. For we all know Al; we've ridden in his hack a score of times. And we take up our paper with the story of his frailties as readers who begin the narrative of an old friends adventures.

Our papers, our little country papers, seem drab and miserably provincial to strangers; yet we who read them read in their lines the sweet intimate story of life. And all these touches of nature make us wondrous kind. It is the country newspaper, bringing together daily the threads of the town's life, weaving them into something rich and strange, and setting the pattern as it weaves, directing the loom, and giving the cloth the color by mixing the lives of all the people in its color-pot—it is this country news paper that reveals us to ourselves, that keeps our country hearts quick and our country minds open and our country faith strong.

When the girl at the glove counter marries the boy in the wholesale house, the news of their wedding is good for a forty-line wedding notice, and the forty lines in the country paper give them self-respect. When in due course we know that their baby is a twelve-pounder, named Grover or Theodore or Woodrow, we have that neighborly feeling that breeds the real democracy. When we read of death in that home we can mourn with them that mourn. When we see them moving upward in the world, into a firm, and out toward the country club neighborhood, we rejoice with them that rejoice. Therefore, men and brethren, when you are riding through this vale of tears upon the California Limited, and by chance pick up the little country newspaper with its meagre telegraph service of three or four thousand words—or, at best, fifty or twenty thousand words--when you see its array of countryside items; its interminable local stories; its tiresome editorials on the water-works, the schools, the street railroad, the crops and the city printing, don't throw down the contemptible little rag with the verdict that there is nothing in it. But know this, and know it well: if you could take the clay from your eyes and read the little paper as it is written, you would find all of God's beautiful sorrowing struggling, aspiring world in it, and what you saw would make you touch the little paper with reverent hands. —William Allen White in Harper's Magazine.

"WASTE" PAPER.

Secretary Redfield's publicity campaign for the conservation of rags and waste paper is meeting with appreciable results, according to the Commerce Reports, which, by way of further alleviating the shortage in the supply of raw materials for paper manufacture, call attention to the suggestion that business houses sell, instead of burn, their old correspondence. An instance is cited where one concern thus gathers yearly an additional 500 tons of material which it formerly burned, but for which it has now "a ready customer."

So large a part of business correspondence is not of a confidential nature—being merely routine—that the suggestion appears worth acting upon, though it is only one of the many ways in which a saving may be effected. Paper which, by an adjective significant of our extravagance of mind, we term "waste" is not really wast at all, but a merchantable commodity. Selling it instead of destroying it, insures a double economy, especially marked in times like the present.

One way or another, Americans are being made to see the advantage, indeed the necessity, of thrift; and if the European war help bring the lesson home, it will, to a greater or less extent, offset the extravagance which, by a queer paradox, it has fostered.

NATIONAL PHASE OF THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARY.

The result of Tuesday's primary as it affects the Republican Presidential nomination leaves the regular organization apparently in complete control of the State Convention. When that gathering meets delegates to the National Convention will be chosen by Congressional districts, but from present appearances if any but unpledged delegates get by it will only be by grace of the Republican leaders.

To a certain degree the convention will represent on a small scale the exact conditions that seem likely to prevail in the national gathering at Chicago. Here Mr. Jackson, Mr. Stone and Dr. France, with their friends, will be in position to dictate what shall be done. It may be assumed that these gentlemen are more concerned about winning the national election than they are about running over somebody or demonstrating their power, consequently it cannot be predicted with positiveness what they will do. The only certain thing is that they will have behind them at Chicago sixteen votes that cannot be stamped for Roosevelt or for Hughes. To this extent the result here is a victory for the Old Guard and will further accentuate belief that the anti Roosevelt forces will have the situation at Chicago well in hand.

This does not mean, of course, the elimination. Only a few of his enemies are of the Barnes type, who would consider defeat with anybody else far preferable to an easy victory with Roosevelt as the standard-bearer. But it does mean control of the convention by men who do not look with favor on Roosevelt and who will accept him only as a last resort. It is unnecessary to say that this greatly lessens his chances of success. It lessens Hughes' chances, to some extent, unless there is a deadlock in the convention forcing a choice between these two leaders.

With conditions changing so rapidly, prediction is quite unsafe; but for the present the tide is veering in the direction of one of the favorite sons, all of whom, up to this time, have seemed to be leading forlorn hopes. In other words, though the convention is only a few weeks off, the outcome of it is more uncertain today than it seemed two months ago. There is increasing probability that the delegates will meet and set seriously to work to nominate the man who has the best chance of winning, but with a strong desire to find in favor of some one other than Roosevelt.—Baltimore News.

THE DEATH RECORD.

REV. ASBURY MICK.

The Rev. Asbury Mick, a former pastor of St. Paul's M. E. Church in Oakland died at Charleston, W. Va., one day last week, and was buried in that city. He was aged about sixty-five years and is well remembered by many people in Oakland.

MAURICE M. D. BEST.

On Easter morning, Maurice M. D. Best died at his home near Red House, aged 67 years, 7 months and 1 day. His remains were buried in Red House cemetery on Tuesday morning following. He is survived by a devoted wife, two sons, Charles and Harry, a brother and sister, Marmaduke and Katherine. He was ill but two days and passed away without any apparent pain.

REV. GEORGE W. KEPLER.

The many friends and acquaintences in Oakland of the Rev. George W. Kepler, one of the veteran preachers of the Methodist Episcopal church of the West Virginia Conference, were shocked on Monday when they received the intelligence of his death, which occurred early that morning at his home in Sistersville, West Va., where he has been located for a number of years past. Mr. Kepler visited Oakland and other parts of Garrett county once or twice annually presenting the claims of the superannuated preachers to the various Methodist congregations, where he always found a warm welcome. A number of years ago he was pastor of the local M. E. Church here and is held in fond remembrance by not only the members of his own church but by those of every other denomination represented here. His funeral took place on Tuesday with interment at Sistersville, W. Va. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, one of whom is seriously ill and has been for a number of months.

Notice To Tax-Payers

This is to notify the Taxpayers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1916 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 45 Chapter 566, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills:

This is to notify all taxpayers that no discount will be allowed for the prompt payment of State taxes levied for the year 1916.

Chapter 630 of the Acts of 1916, provides that "the State taxes are due and payable on the first day of July succeeding the levy, and if not paid on or before September first, interest shall be charged from said first day of September. Said State taxes shall be in arrear on and after the first day of January succeeding the date of the levy, and it shall be the duty of Collectors, Treasurers and other officers who may be charged with the collection of the same immediately thereafter to proceed to collect said taxes in accordance with the provisions of law for the collection of delinquent taxes. It shall also be the duty of the Collectors or County Treasurer or other officers collecting said taxes to make monthly returns and remittances to the Comptroller of the amounts thereof collected from time to time."

PUBLIC SALE OF Real Estate At Deer Park

Monday, May 1, 1916.

At 11 o'clock A. M. on May 1, near the Railroad Station in Deer Park, I will sell at auction to the highest bidder, the frame dwelling house and 9 1-8 acres of land on the south side of the railroad in the town of Deer Park, now owned by me. (Formerly the property of E. G. Miller.)

Terms will be announced on day of sale.

Box 42, Oakland, Md.

Captain Brenner's canal boat was washed through a break in the Chesapeake and Ohio towpath to the Potomac river at Big Pool. The breach in the towpath is 200 feet long and from 20 to 40 feet deep and has almost entirely drained the pool. Stumps in the canal bottom that have not been visible since the canal was first filled are now seen. They have been covered with water and are well preserved. Fish by bushels are being taken from the pool by residents of the vicinity.

The "cold year" of 1816 is recalled by the Centerville Observer to those Queen Anne Folks who are talking of the unseasonable weather, and it says the weather now is mild in contrast with that of the same period a century ago. The 1816 January was pleasant. A cold snap in February soon passed away, and March had an unusually high temperature. April showed strange freaks in weather. May frost killed fruit buds, and corn planting had to be done over again. Ice formed on small streams on the Eastern Shore. Snow fell in June, and frosts came in July. Crops froze in August, and seed corn for 1817 cost $5 a bushel. Two mild weeks in September were followed by wintry blasts, and October and November were very cold. December was the warmest month of the year.

For Sale Cheap.

On account of poor health I offer for sale at a bargain my farm of 40 acres located at Altamont. The land is well watered and is excellent for grazing. Improved by new dwelling, and new outbuildings. Well set orchard and tenant house. G. J. WALTER,

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Amusements.

May I call attention to some testimony against the modern dance.

I shall call representative witnesses, of various churches which, though they differ widely in many respects yet unite in condemning the dance as it is conducted in society today.

I shall call those who have had every opportunity to judge it effects.

We ask the Roman Catholic church for its decision, and from the plenary council of Archbishops and Bishops of the U. S. assembled in Baltimore, comes the unanimous declaration "we consider it to be our duty to warn our people against those amusements which may easily become to them an occasion of sin, and especially against the fashionable dances, which, as at present carried on, are revolting to every feeling of delicacy and propriety and are fraught with the greatest danger to morals."

Who have better opportunities for discovering what practices are dangerous to morals. In the light of the confessional, this is the deliberate conclusion of all the Archbishops and Bishops of the country.

The Archbishop speaking from Dublin corroborates the above.

Hear the testimony of another, one too that supposodely favors it, viz: the body. But it is objected that this church has never given any deliverance against it. Many of its leaders have and in strong language too.

Bishop Hopkins, of Vt., at the time of his death one of the brightest stars in the church, said. "No ingenuity can make it consistent with the covenant of Baptism." Bishop Need, of Va., said, "Social dancing is not among the neutral things, which within certain limits, we may do at pleasure, and even it is not among the things lawful, but not expedient, but it is in itself, wrong, improper and of bad effect. Of this with the theatre, Bishop McIlvain used this language, "The question is not what we can imagine them to be, but what they always have been, and will be, and must be, in such a world as this, to render them pleasurable to those who patronize them. Strip them bare, till they stand in the simple innocence to which their defenders arguments would reduce them, and the world would not have them."

Stronger still are the words of the Protestant Episcopal Feteal Tract Society of Baltimore.

A prominent M. E. minister in an appeal, to all Christians and especially to the members of his own church, says, "It is a flagrant violation of the general rules of the M. E. churches both North and South." Were I to quote the testimony of the Baptist Quarterly—a number of years ago delivered—it would cause the hot blush to crimson your cheeks. It condemns the practice in the strongest terms. Hear what the Presbyterian church says about it. "Time and again the general assembly has uttered its admonitions against it." One of its deliverances reads thus. "Resolved: that the fashionable amusement of promisonous dancing, is so entirely unscriptural, and eminently and exclusively that of 'the world which liveth in wickedness' and so wholy inconsistent with the spirit of Christ, and with that propriety of Christian deportment and purity of heart which his followers are bound to maintain, as to render it not only improper and impious for professing Christians either to partake in it or to qualify their children for it by teaching them the art, but also to call for faithful and judicious exercise of disciplin on the part of church sessions when any of their members have been guilty."

Now I think I hear a score of voices say, that is true of the ball room but not of the parlor dances. What is the difference between the private dance and the public ball?

The same rules govern both. The same dances are used, the excitements are the same, the hours are about as late, the numbers are not so great, but there is generally less caution and restraint, because of the sense of greater security. The parlor dance is the beginning and through it lies the road to the ball room, to the waltz, the lacivious round dance, the tango or turkey trot.

Mrs. General Sherman in one of her last letters against the custom, said, "So many are implicated in this evil custom, either personally or in their daughters, sisters or near relatives, that there are very few who are entirely disinterested, and therefore but few can form an impartial judgment."

The anger and mortification of our friends is natural and not unexpected, but they have betrayed more malice than they were supposed to possess, since their only defense of their pet amusement is individual abuse. The dance admits no national defense.

Gale Hamilton once said, "The thing in its very nature is unclean and cannot be washed. The very pose of the parties suggest impurity."

Thackery said—"When a man confesses himself fond of the dance, I set him down as a fool." Down through the ages comes the command of inspiration. "Be not conformed to this world," that is, do not allow yourselves to be made like it in character and conduct; do not partake of its spirit nor participate in the practices of this world, that is, this present age, which satan rules for the world lieth in wickedness.

No matter what the name or character of the pleasure may be, if it is compromising with the world it is wrong, for "friendship with the world is enmity against God."

The beloved Apostle, speaking by the Holy Spirit, and with the tenderness of a father, as he nears the end of his journey says, "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world." "It any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him."

Better deny ourselves here that we may live with Christ yonder, where life will be a constant flow of purest pleasure and when our chief delight will ebto render praise to the "Lamb that is in the midst of the throne," and as the angels, with veiled faces stand before the throne, crying, "Holy, Holy, Holy, LordGod Almighty," ten thousand voices will exclaim, "Glory be unto the Father," and then ten thousand times ten thousand more will swell the strain, saying, "and unto the Son," while thousands more will add "and unto the Holy Ghost," to which the entire host will respond with a hearty "amen!"

Sweetest symphonis and grandest strains of music will spontaniously burst from that innumerable throng, and anthem peals of the redeemed will fill the great Cathedral of heaven and crowns will be cast at His feet as they exclaim, "worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power and riches and wisdom, and strength and honor and glory and blessing."

May every reader be permitted to join this throng, is the wish of your friend, JOANNES.

HIGH SCHOOL POEMS

A Contribution to These Columns By Two Students.

The Third-year English class of the Oakland High School has granted permission to publish some of its members' experiments in verse composition, which have been written in imitative style of John Milton's L'Allegro and Il Penseroso. The class hopes that these productions will revive your old enthusiasm for Milton's poetry, and that they will help you at the same time in deciding which car you will buy this Spring.

Ye der FORD.

Hence, loathed Packard,
Of Aristocracy and Blue Blood born,
In cities forlorn
'Mongst horrid honks and konks unholy;
Find out your uncouth way,
Where bigotry and dishonesty hold sway.
There in brown stone mansions
And pride galore
Live for evermore.
But come, thou Ford so fair and free,
From Detroit on an inland sea;
For, as some people say,
The little Ford is the only way.
Thou alone art light and free,
And you suit us to a T.
A car for men who think and know,
The only car when you want to go.
Come and speed it as we go
On the light and flippant toe,
A quart of gas and a pint of oil
Will make us go for quite awhile.
When we go out we lose not a limb,
And our bank account never does grow slim.
While, Packard, whenever you go
You cost us ten spots or so.
And by your antics queer and strange,
We lose all friends that are in range.
To prove to you that the Ford is sprv,
And will go where Packard dare not try,
Go out the road 'most any day
And you'll find the Ford is leading the way
She takes all the hills on high gear,
But never mind, you need not fear,
She'll bring you home whenever you wish,
And will not land you in a bush.
She never attempts a tree to climb
But runs along at a rate sublime.
In the cities all over the land
A jitney you'll find on every hand;
Whenever she goes, with lively din
She scatters the rear of Packards thin,
And if I give thee honor due,
Henry, admit me of thy crew,
To live with her and live with thee
In unmortgaged property free.
Half thy delights I cannot give,
But always with thee I'll choose to live.

GERALD TANNER.

A La Packard.

Hence, thou small cheap car forlorn,
Let me not hear thy cheap tin horn:
Thou art but a botheration
To the auto owners of the nation.
Farewell to thee, Ford, but before I go,
One kick with my light fantastic toe;
So hard it will hang you in the trees,
And I'll leave you there to swing in the breeze.
Man wants no cheap car, Ford or Saxon
But hail thee, Packard, with your warning Klaxon,
The car that is so light and fair,
The car that flies right through the air,
The car that pleases all the nation;
It's name is spread o'er all creation:
It's lordly seats, its piston rings:
What other car could have such things?
And when you crank it up to go,
The Packard pulls right through the snow.
Your horn is pleasing to the ear;
Neither child nor baby fear.
And after both these cars I've tried,
Packard with you I'll choose to ride.

A Drill You Will Like — An Empire, Jr.

HAVE you ever thought of increasing your crop yield by planting with an Empire, Jr. drill? It can be done.

Empire, Jr. drilled grain stands a better chance of producing a bumper crop than broadcasted seed. It takes less seed too, and will do a much better job in a wet field than a seeder. Grain put in with an Empire, Jr. drill will all come up at the same time and all ripen at once. This is an advantage that cannot be expected from seed broadcasted.

The Empire, Jr. light draft grain drills have been largely responsible for the big crop yields in the Red River Valley and other celebrated wheat districts. Without the Empire, Jr. drill those farmers would have no better crop than you. Call in some day soon and we will show you why the Empire, Jr. drill produces bigger yields.

All kinds of Plows and Harrows, Wagons and Buggies, and in fact everything that a Farmer will need at this season of the year at the right price.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

The M. E. Sunday school was attended by 153 officers, teachers and scholars last Sunday. The aim for next Sunday is 175.

The annual corporation election in Loch Lynn Heights Monday resulted in the unanimous election of the following officers: Mayor, B. L. Hardesty; counselmen, H. M. Weeks and B F. Mumaw; collector, N. F. White; Treasurer, U. B. Ford; clerk, Lester Yutzy; bailiff, C. W. Shipley. The sewer bonds carried by a majority of nearly three to one.

Mrs. L. J. Cornwell is back in her cottage, getting ready for summer guests. Her sister Mrs. M. A. Yost will be with her in a few days.

Hotel Chautauqua is undergoing a great change. Painters and paper hangers are busy making the hotel an attractive place. Mr. G. W. Burrell, the manager is here superintending the improvements. He is sending out a circular advertising the Park and hotel.

George Dawson is making "Braethorn" a place of beauty as well as of comfort. The interior, as well as the exterior, is being greatly improved.

Miss Bell Pritchard is going to have one of the most attractive places in the Park. Delighted will be the guests of her home.

Mr. Stribe, of Baltimore, was a week end visitor at the Park.

The rainy weather has greatly interferred with the work of cleaning up. Some progress has been made. Work on putting the electric line and plant in shape was begun last Monday.

Supt. Rudisill has received the railroad rates for this season. The season tickets were placed on sale last Monday and will be sold up to October 15. Good to return until October 31st.

Week end tickets from Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Pittsburgh go on sale next Saturday.

Week end tickets will be sold June 8th to 24th good to return until June 26th. Camp meeting tickets, June 28th to July 10, return limit July 12.

Epworth League Vacational Convention, August 2 to 9th, return limit August 11. Bible Conference, August 13-10; School of Missions, August 21 to 31st, tickets sold August 12 to 25, good to return to Sept. 1st.

Tickets will be validated at the Association office and at the station ticket office. This will prove a great convenience.

The Annual Announcement for the season is in the hands of the printers and will be issued ere long.

There are a great number of circulars being sent out and special advertising is being make. The indications are for a good season.

During his Baltimore meetings Billy Sunday advised the people of his congregation to attend the Park Bible Institute August 13-20. The leaders of this meeting are extensively advertising the Institute.

There will be several days of special interest between July 12 and 31. Some call it a Vacational Chautauqua.

W. H Malette, of Pittsburgh, will have charge of the refreshment and souviner stand. William suggests as a slogan, "Vacation time, There is room for you in Mountain Lake Park, Md., this Season. America's greatest Mountain summer resort. Get wise."

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Commeford and little daughter arrived in the Park Saturday, having made the trip from California, Pa., in their car.

Prof. and Mrs. May have returned to the Park. They spent the winter in Florida.

It is rumored that the store room in the Hocking building will be used this summer. We all hope that it is so. It would be a great convenience.

If you would like to have Park literature to mail to your friends call at the Association office between 6 and 7 p. m.

Mrs. Lester Yutzy was operated on at the hospital, Cumberland, for cancer, last Thnrsday.

Work will soon commence on the extension of the State road to the Park. The sooner the better.

The farmers in the neighborhood of the Park should plan for a good supply of early vegetables. There will be a demand for them. The Odd Fellows Annual Outing, to be held in the Park promises to be a very interesting occasion.—A large gathering of the members of this magnificent organization, Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland will participate.

Mr. and Mrs. Simmons and two children, of Clarksburg, W. Va., were week end visitors at the Park, and while here rented a cottage for the summer.

The Panama Canal Opens

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 23.—When the slides pinched the Panama Canal closed all the world knew it. Now that it has been re-opened with a better prospect of remaining so than ever before, the fact is scarcely realized away from the zone. Three ships of the United States navy passed through the big waterway in March and since that time regular commercial traffic has been resumed.

It is a notable fact that although the public confidence in the canal sagged practicably when the slides blocked its channel the shipping world never lost faith in it for a moment. All through the period of dredging, vessels kept coming to Colon and Balboa, ready to wait for a passage through the Canal if the zone government would give them any assurances. But the officials would make no promise and the ships went their long way via the Straits of Magellan. When at last the canal was announced to be open, there were vessels waiting. Also the South American Steamship Company, operating between Panama and Chila, which gets most of its business through the canal, has increased its fleet from three vessels to five, and now schedules five sailing in six weeks.

So the shipping world has kept its faith in the canal, and meantime, the canal government, by means of its little railroad, has done its best to handle the business across the Isthmus. A dozen big lines have been wholly dependent on the Panama railroad, and they have been fairly well served, though not without a terrific straining of resources. The force of the railroad was increased by a thousand men, and it was run to capacity. It might have handled regular through business fairly well, but a great deal of cargo was delivered at the Atlantic terminals, to be trans-shipped when ever Pacific bottoms could be found to accommodate it.

The shipping business was exceedingly lively. Vessels soon became booked with orders far ahead, and began to refuse the cheaper kinds of freight. Hence, cargoes piled up mountain high on the great government terminals, leaving just space enough between the piles for the toiling trucks and black men to move about. The berths were filled with vessels waiting a chance to unload. Worst of all, rolling stock of the railroad was left under load when it was badly needed. The railroad finally declared an embargo on all cargo destined for points south of Callao.

Now the stress and overcrowding will be quickly relieved, and the Panama Canal will take its place again in the world's commerce, better equipped to do its work than ever before. While the dredges have been clearing out Culebra cut, great improvements have been under way at the Pacific terminals. An immense coaling plant, a drydock a thousand feet long, and new piers are now nearing completion. A new water tank has been built at Balboa, and a signal station established on the top of Sosa hill, which is 363 feet high and overlooks an important stretch of the canal. By means of time ball signals, it will be possible to control vessels from this eminence.

There is hardly a department of the canal government that has not strengthened itself while the canal was idle. The commissary department, which has built up an immense business in fresh meat is laying out a pasture of forty thousand acres. The sea-going dredge Carribean has been adapted for use as cattle boat. In this vessel native cattle will be brought in, and then fattened on the government pastures. The commissary department already uses 800 head monthly, and the demand is steadily growing.

The health department is also busy. It may be said to have practically eliminated malaria and yellow fever from the canal zone, and is now turning its attention more particularly to bubonic plague. The quarantine, of course, is a pretty certain guard against this terrible disease, but the canal zone is in constant touch with infected ports by reason of the traffic passing through the canal, and the health officials are determined to take no chances. Rats are the great carriers of bubonic plague. Hence, all the government buildings have been made rat proof. But that is not all. Recently the edict went forth that no chickens were to be kept within the limits of the canal zone. There was a howl of protest from the employees, many of whom kept a few chickens on their premises. They loudly asserted that the anti-chicken proclamation was a violation of individual rights. The government was polite, but firm. It issued a long statement explaining that rats were above all fond of chickens, and were invariably found where chickens were kept. It would be absurd to risk an epidemic of bobonic plague for the sake of a few eggs and broilers. So now the chicken has disappeared finally and completely from the canal zone.

When Governor Goethals returned to the United States not long ago, he said that the defenses of the canal zone made it safe from any attack. With international complications arising both to east and to west of us, and only one real first-class navy to defend both coasts, the safety of the Panama Canal is a most important consideration. Its coast and harbor defenses have long been considered very adequate, but army officers have asserted that it was far from impregnable by land. More troops, they declared to be necessary, and troops have been pouring into the canal zone in small detachments for nearly a year. A few weeks ago a squadron of the Twelfth Cavalry reached the canal zone from Galveston. They are the first mounted troops to be stationed at the canal. The second battalion of the Fourth Field Artillery soon followed them. The canal garrison now includes all of the three main branches of the service, and is generally conceded to be strong enough for its purpose. Owing to the nature of the country, and the strong coast defenses, the taking of the Panama Canal by land would be difficult under any circumstances. There are, however, stretches of open country, reaching north and west from the zone over which an invading army could advance with great rapidity, and troops are needed to guard these.

The canal has been restored to working order, and is in better trim than ever before; but there is an immense bill to be footed. While the waterway has been closed to traffic, all the expense of maintaining the great establishment on the zone, as well as that of the dredging operations, has gone steadily forward. For the last fiscal year, the Panama Canal showed a slight profit on its operations. During the first seven months of the currant fiscal year it was in working order only two and one-half months, and for that period the excess of expenses over tolls was $2,450,000. That is the bill which the American people must pay. Like many a private investment that promises large returns, the canal keeps calling for the investment of just a little more capital. Yet its ultimate financial success, aside from its strategic importance, has never been doubted by the men who know its possibilities best. When the European war is over and world commerce is resumed, nothing can prevent the great waterway from developing a tremendous earning capacity—nothing but another slide. And the men that are fighting them believe that they are conquered at last. There may be small movements, they admit, but the backbone of Culebra mountain, they assert, is broken.

The struggle with the treacherous mountain which has finally restored the canal to usefulness has been hardly less spectacular than the first digging of the great ditch. Day and night for months all dredges that could crowd into the cut have been laboring without a moment's break. The men in charge have slept with telephones at their elbows. At any moment the riven mountain might strike another of its mysterious blows and undo the work of weeks.

That is the heartbreaking part of the job. To the men who work in the cut, the mountain has become a personality, and a diabolical one at that. The ever-present possibility of sudden and overwhelming discouragement is harder than the work itself. Least coveted of all is the "grave yard watch" from midnight until 8 in the morning. It is very dark then, despite the brilliant tropical stars, and there is a chill in the air. The workers can not tell whether the slides are moving or not. They can only keep the great dredges laboring through the night, knowing that they can not afford to lose a moment. These workers are triumphant now. They believe their labor which has been undone a dozen times, is permanent at last.

PROPER PLOWING OF THE GARDEN IMPORTANT

Affects Both The Plant Food Available As Well As The Soil Moisture.

E. F. STODDARD,
Maryland Agricultural College.

Plowing modifies the physical conditions of the land considerably. The degree of benefit from this operation will be determined by the condition of the land when it is plowed, the type of soil, and the kind of plow that is used. Since the land should be thoroughly pulverized, the soil should be somewhat moist but never very wet as is often the case with clay soils. On the other hand, the top 3 to 5 inches of soil should not be dried out completely for the plow would turn this down and make it more difficult for moisture and roots of plants to go deep. Sandy soils are usually so open and porous that they dry out early in the spring and sooner after rains than heavy soils; and for these reasons the gardener encounters less difficulty in plowing the land. Ordinarily heavy soils with stiff clay subsoils should be broken up rather deep; for good drainage is just as important here as in the seed bed. It may be advisable in some cases to lay lines of tile drain in order to carry off excess water, and thus aid in the amelioration of the land. Surface ditches will help to carry off excess water but not so well as will the tile drain. Sandy soils, however, tend to let too much moisture pass on through the subsoil; and for this reason plowing need not be so deep and should be about the same depth every year in an effort to compact the under soil and prevent leaching. The physical condition of clay soils will be improved if they are plowed in the fall and left rough over the winter. They will also absorb more water for the use of the spring crops and can be worked into shape earlier than spring plowed land. Heavy clover sods and manure plowed down in the fall will be better decayed and more valuable to the spring crop. When rotten manures are used, however, they may be plowed down in the spring. In case a cover crop is sown on the land toward the end of the garden season plowing should be deferred until early spring. When a cover crop is being turned under it is best to have the furrow slice lap and stand somewhat on end (rather than to be turned clear over) in order to maintain a connection with the subsoil and aid in capillary rise of soil moisture.

MAKING THE HEN MOTHER COMFORTABLE.

R. H. WAITE,
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

To hatch well, a hen must have a good nest. If she has to jump down into the nest box she is apt to break some of the eggs. Fix it so she can get on from the side. Use some soft straw, hay or like substance for the nesting material. Be sure it is clean and free from mould. You will not want to give the chicks any of the diseases caused by moulds. If you are not sure it is clean, give it a thorough spraying with some disinfectant and let it dry out before putting it in the nest. The eggs, while in the nest, should form a saucer shape. If the nest is too deep the eggs from the outside will roll on the top of the others in the center and then those underneath cannot get the proper heat. If the nest is too flat the eggs will roll apart and those on the outside will be too cold. Be sure there are no corners left, just outside the nesting material, for the eggs to roll into. It pays to spend plenty of time arranging the nesting material. Too many hens are set on poorly prepared nests.

Use Care In Feeding.

Feeding sitting hens is a rather simple matter. Keep fresh water before them and feed them regularly. It is probably best to keep some feed where they can get it whenever they wish. Corn and wheat or either grain alone is all the sitting hen requires. All she needs is some heat and energy producing food which contains only enough protein to repair her waste tissues. If you give her a stimulating feed (feeds high in protein are usually considered stimulating feeds), she is apt to get into laying condition again and leave off sitting.

Do not put too many eggs under one hen. Too many persons take a chance by putting "just a few" extra eggs under a hen thinking they will get a few more chicks. If the extra eggs alone were affected it would not be quite so bad; but the whole nest full will be treated alike by the hen for she moves the eggs about and is constantly changing their positions. The number it is safe to set varies with the size of the hen, season of the year, size of the eggs, and value of the eggs. Naturally, a small hen cannot cover so many as a large one, a hen cannot keep so many warm during cold weather as during warm weather, she connot cover the same number of large ones as small ones, and naturally one would not care to trust many very valuable eggs with one hen. For some reason an odd number of eggs is usually used in setting hens. This may be due to superstition but it is also partly due to the fact that thirteen or fifteen eggs fit the nest better. About thirteen eggs in winter and from fifteen to eighteen in summer would be about right for a medium sized hen on medium sized eggs.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM OF LAND MORTGAGES

How the German Farmers Secure Long Term Loans Through Their Own Land Mortgage Associations.

F. B. BOMBERGER,
Maryland Agricultural College.

The Landschaft, or Land Mortgage Association of Germany is a co-operative union of landholders within a limited district for the purpose of securing long time loans for its members on their land by issuing bonds against the collective value of the lands of the members. Anyone who owns from ten to twenty-five acres of land within the district may become a member. The association elects its own officers and, through an elective Executive Committee and Auditive Committee, carries on its own affairs, but it is always under the regulation and supervision of the government.

A landholder wishing to borrow money through the Landschaft, makes his application setting forth the amount desired and the use which he intends to make of the money. The title to his land is examined; and, if it is satisfactory he is permitted to borrow up to two-thirds of the assessed valuation of his land, by giving to the Landschaft a first mortgage on the land for the amount he borrows. To prevent fraud or loss three separate appraisals of the land are made.

The association is not a bank and has no supply of funds on hand, it does not, therefore, lend him the money directly; but it issues to him mortgage bonds of an amount equal to the face-value of the mortgage. These bonds are sold by the borrower himself, or, more usually, by the Association in the open market. Thus the funds are secured for the borrower's use.

Are Best Of Security.

This mortgage bond is secured by all the property of the Landschaft, is made payable to bearer and is transferable at any time without endorsement. Although these bonds do not run for any definite length of time and are not payable on demand, the Landschaft may call them in and pay them off at any time. The amount of bonds outstanding at any time cannot exceed the amount of the mortgages held by the Association. So careful is the management of these Landschaften and so strict is the governmental supervision that, although the average rate of interest on these bonds is very low, ranging from 3% to 4%, they are regarded as the very best form of investment for trust funds, savings bank funds, etc. Thus on June 13, 1913, while German Government 4% bonds sold at 96 Landschaften 4% bonds sold at 100; and on the same date Government 3% bonds sold at 74.80 while Landschaften 3% bonds sold at 80.50. Each of these Landschaften or Mortgage Associations is united with others to form a central or Provincial Mortgage Union, the function of which is to provide a wider market for the bonds.

Mortgage Is Gradually Paid Off.

One of the most valuable features of the loans secured through these Associations is the gradual amortization or cancellation of the debt by means of small periodical payments make at the time when the interest installments are paid. These small annual or semi-annual payments, which range from one-fourth to three-fourths of one per cent., are obligatory upon the borrower. Thus on a loan at 4 per cent., ¾ of one per cent. is added for amortization or cancellation and one-fourth per cent. is added to cover the operating expenses of the Association, making a total of 5%. By paying this amount annually for from forty to forty-five years the whole loan will be paid off. In other words, the Landschaft requires the borrower, by making small payments, to accumulate a sinking fund which will, in the term of years of the mortgage, amount to enough to pay the principal debt. The longer the term of the mortgage the lower will be the amortization fee.

Necessary Capital Easily Secured.

Of course, if the borrower desires at any time to pay off the loan before the mortgage is due, he may do so. The average length of time for which loans run in the Province of Saxony is about twenty-five years. In most cases provision is made that when 10% of the original loan is amortized and additional loan for the same amount may be made on the same land.

In each district is a local officer of the Landschaft, elected at their annual meeting, who assists members in getting loans and looks after the interests of the Landschaft in the district. If a borrower is misusing the money borrowed, this officer serves as the agent of the Landschaft in the matter of the foreclosure of the mortgage. The expense of operation of these Associations is exceedingly small. The result is that German farmers are able to secure ample capital, for long terms, at small rates of interest with the assurance that, so long as the interest and small amortization fee is paid, the principal debt is slowly but surely being paid off.

The annual short courses at the Agricultural College begin January 3, 1916, being as follows:

Soils and Fertilizers, January 3-8; Farm Crops, January 10-15; Domestic Science, January 10-15; Road Building and Maintenance, January 10-15; Poultry Husbandry, January 17-22; Horticulture, January 24-February 5; Animal Husbandry, February 7-26; Farm Machinery and Farm Engines, February 28-March 4; Farm Carpentry and Blacksmithing, March 6-11.

The Direct Action Heat Regulator marks the greatest advance in gas cookery since gas was first used as a fuel

ADVANTAGES OF THE REGULATOR ARE :

Removes all the guess work from baking. You can obtain any oven temperature you want by the simple setting of a marked wheel valve. You can repeat any oven temperature to the degree, as often as you desire. You can maintain any oven temperature, hours, even days, as you like. It saves your gas—prevents waste by overheating. It saves food—as expensive bakings are never spoiled because of faulty oven temperature. It automatically takes care of change of gas pressure.

This device gives double value to your gas range. It makes it cook as a gas range better than any other gas range, and it also enables you to deplicate the work of the best fireless cooker. For sale by

GRANTSVILLE.

Sampson Seibert, a native of Garrett county, died at the home of Clarence Hetrick, near here, on April 23. Death was due to dropsy. Deceased was 72 years old and is survived by one sister, Mrs. Hester Fazenbaker, of Bittinger. Funeral was held on Tuesday at the home of Mr. Hetrick, with whom he had been staying a few weeks prior to his death. Interment in Grantsville cemetery.

Misses Mary and Sabina Blocher entertained most delightfuly at their home on Monday evening, Easter decorations being used. There were about twenty ladies present. Games and fancy work were diversions. Refreshments were served and Easter souvenirs given at the close of the festivities.

Early mass was held is St. Stephen's church on Easter by Rev. Father Aloysius, of Cumberland. The altar was beautifully decorated with flowers.

The Reformed church observed Easter with special music and the Holy Communion service.

An Easter program was rendered in the Lutheran church by the choir and Sunday school, the entertainment being much enjoyed by a crowded house.

The M. E. Sunday school has been reorganized this month with a competent corps of officers and teachers.

The boys' "Silent Five Club" attended an Easter Monday dance at Frostburg.

The dance at Avilton Hall was largely attended on Monday night, the festivities continuing until a late hour. All had a good time.

A motor party from Grantsville were in Frostburg Tuesday night attending a motion picture show. The party included Misses Beulah and Vida Engle and Hazel Younkin, Messrs. Urban Blocher and Clay Stanton.

David J. Lewis and Clinton Uhl were Grantsville visitors last week.

Ex-Senator and Mrs. George L. Wellington, of Cumberland, were guests at the National Hotel on Saturday.

Dr. Joseph I. France, of Baltimore, was a guest at the National Hotel during the week.

Roland Hosken and Harrison Dando, of Frostburg, were Grantsville visitors on Sunday.

MARYLAND IN NEED OF LABOR

Employment Director Promoted and Plans Work On Much More Elaborate Scale.

George A. Mahone, of Baltimore, has just been notified by W. B. Wilson, secretary of the Department of Labor, that he has been appointed director of employment for the State of Maryland. Heretofore Mr. Mahone has directed most of his efforts to finding employment for residents of this city.

In his letter announcing the appointment Mr. Wilson says:

"The development of the system of employment inaugurated by this Department and its encouraging growth have made necessary the establishment of state zones, so as to be in closer touch with labor conditions and the officers of state and municipal public-employment systems.

"It gives me pleasure to appoint you director of employment for the zone of Maryland."

It is Mr. Mahone's intention to establish branches of his bureau throughout the state in all the cities and towns of note.

At present Mr. Mahone says the labor situation throughout the city and state is satisfactory from the standpoint of the man looking for a job. In fact, he declares, there is a great scarcity of laborers and machinists, and since last December his bureau has not been able to meet the demand.

Due to the activity in the iron and steel plants, Mr. Mahone says machinists are in great demand, and keen rivalry exists among the industries in their efforts to get employees. In an effort to equip a plant which was in dire need of men Mr. Mahone has just completed a canvass extending from Canada to the Gulf, east of the Mississippi, and he finds that all the machinists in that wide area are employed.

"The only way plants can increase their force of skilled mechanics nowadays," he explained, "is to rob one another of men by offering extra inducements in the way of increased wages and bonuses."

The satisfactory labor situation is one of the most pronounced signs of prosperity in this country, in the opinion of Mr. Mahone.

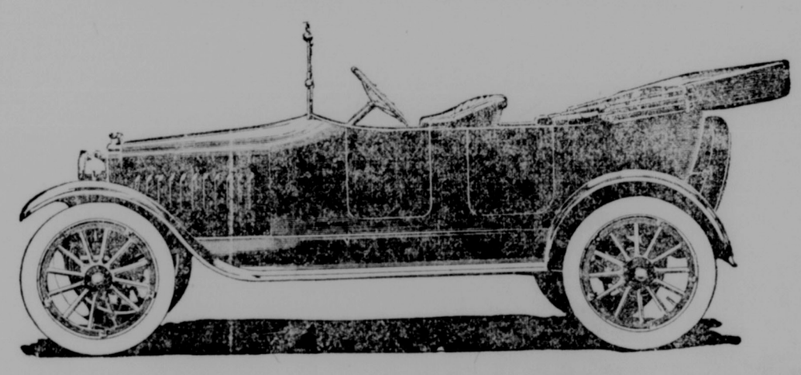
SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people



Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $5,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle tne question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

C. F. ZITTEL, Dramatic Editor, New York Journal.

Exercise for Tots.

Daily exercise for every one is splendid, and many up-to-date physicians are ordering mental gymnastics for children to restore the health, build up the nervous system or develop certain parts of the body. To concentrate the mind upon an exercise as it is performed, so says a certain clever doctor, will do more in one week for the body than the same exercise listlessly gone through would do in six months.

Begin Well.

Finish every day and be done with it. You have done what you could. Some blunders and absurdities, no doubt, crept in; forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day; begin it well and serenely, and with too high a spirit to be cumbered with your old nonsense. This day is all that is good and fair. It is too dear, with its hopes and invitations, to waste a moment on the yesterdays. —Emerson.

Newest Lazy Man.

Bellboys frequently have strange and unusual duties to perform for pampered guests, but the recent experience of a "hop" at one of New York's leading hotels seems unique. He was called to a room occupied by two men at night. Said one: "Buster, will you raise the shades, turn off the electric lights, lock the door from the outside and toss the key over the transom?" It was necessary to repeat the order several times before the boy could be convinced his hearing had not suddenly gone defective.

THE REPUBLICAN.

GOLDSBOROUGH FORCES GO DOWN WITH COLORS FLYING

Defeated in Struggle For Control at Republican State Convention.

BALTIMORE, May 9.—Former Governor Phillips Lee Goldsborough and his followers were defeated by the organization forces today in the exciting struggle for control of the Republican State Convention. It was a scrappy convention throughout. Former Senator Jackson, who headed the regulars, was uncompromising and yielded nothing. Goldsborough forced the fight and according to the Rooseveltian lingo "went down with colors flying."

Speaking of Roosevelt, the mention of his name by Delegate Leo Weinberg, of Frederick county, was the signal for a burst of cheers that showed the Colonel's popularity here. The convention named these delegates for the "Big Four:" Walter B. Miller, General Felix Agnus, Dr. J. McPherson Scott and Ovington E. Weller.

The latter was put in nomination by the organization forces after they had refused earlier in the day the demand of Governor Goldsborough's forces that Col. E. C. Carrington be substituted for either General Agnus or Dr. Scott.

The Goldsborough forces placed Carrington in nomination as their single candidate, and William T. Warburton, of Cecil, was brought in on the ballot by one county. The vote was Miller, 129; Agnus, 104; Weller, 122; Scott, 123; Carrington, 31; Warburton, 5. When the organization forces demonstrated that they had a firm hold on the convention, the Goldsborough forces took no further decisive stand.

A. A. Doub, of Cumberland, presided over the convention.

First District—Delegates, John D. Urie, of Kent, and Thomas M. Bartlett, of Talbot; alternates, E. C. Hayden, of Queen Annes and John T. Carter, of Caroline; elector, Edward N. Furbush, of Worcester.

Second District—Delegates, Harry A. Whittaker, of Harford, and Laban Sparks, of Baltimore county; alternates, Dr. A. R. L. Dohme and T. Irvin Zimmerman, of Baltimore county; elector, Walter A. Rudy, of Carroll.

Fourth District—Delegates, Col. Harry B. Wilcox and George W. Cameron, of Baltimore city; alternates, Charles E. Williams and Walter E Knickman.

The entire delegation is pledged and while there may be two or three of the district delegates friends of Roosevelt they will stand with the delegation to vote for the candidate for presidential nomination who is surest to command a united party. In other words the Maryland delegation will stand with the "stand patters" and the "old guard" in the Chicago convention.

HAMILL INSANE SAYS JURY IN FEDERAL COURT

Accused Committed to Government Hospital in Washington For Treatment.

Edward J. Hamill, former cashier of the First National Bank of Kitzmiller, was acquitted by a jury in the Federal court at Cumberland late Monday afternoon on an indictment embracing nine different charges, for alleged false entries in the report required by law to the Comptroller of the Currency. Five counts in the indictment alleged misapplication of funds. He was committed to a Federal Hospital in Washington for treatment. He was taken to that institution Tuesday. In announcing their verdict the Jury said: "Not guilty because he was insane at the time he made the report."

The jury was composed of Milton G. Vanmeter, John Donahae, William Matthews, Howard W. Gilsan, Warren Mellinger, Conrad Frey, Henry Bockhaus, George R. Reinhard, David Miller, Dr. Thomas R. Palmer, George Gessner and Henry A. Hensley.

Judge John C. Rose presided and the government was represented by Samuel K. Dennis, United States District Attorney. There were also present William W. Stockham, United States Marshal, Philip G. Schwab, Chief Deputy United States Marshal, Chief Deputy Clerk, Charles Zimmerman, all of Baltimore; William J. Feaga, Cumberland, deputy clerk, United States District Court, and Fuller Barnard, Westernport, United States Deputy Marshal.

The opening statement for the government was made by Mr. Latane, who detailed the alleged false entries, giving four instances where over-drafts were given far below what really was the proper amount. For instance, May 10, 1915, overdrafts were entered as $63.47 when the amount should have been $3,493.23. The five charges involving the misapplication of funds, according to Mr. Latane's statement, came from Hamill pocketing money deposited by John Barnard, an insurance agent of Westernport, and when Barnard checked on his account, he having none, as the result of Hamill's acts, the cashier honored the checks with the funds of the bank. The checks thus involved called for the following amounts: $62, $74, $100.75, $117.53 and $45.55, the latter paid on May 5, 1915.

Witnesses summoned in the Hamill case were: Charles Tower, A. L. Lee, Cook Howard, N. F. Dove, Mrs. Susan Laughlin, Mrs. May Loraditch, Mrs. Charles Friend, W. D. Reed, Charles Seymour, Dr. Strachen, Dr. Miller, Dr. Herring, E. R. Jones, R. M. McMillan, Gladys Hamill, Mr. Pachel, George Pove, Charles Scothern, Charles Spragon, Eddie Soller, Louis Hutson, L. C. WEST VIRGINIA DRUGGISTS

Will Assemble In Convention at Deer Park Late in June.

The annual convention of the West Virginia Retail Druggist Association will meet at the Deer Park Hotel on June 20th for a session of three days' duration. War Bulletins

With an abatement in the terrific battle that has been in progress for nearly two months before Verdun and a state of comparative quietude reigning in all the other war theatres, diplomatic issues growing out of the war are prominently to the fore in the news of the day.

The British official communication says the Canadians in their gallant fighting in the last week have inflicted heavy losses on the Germans near St. Eloi.

Premier Asquith, replying to the recent speech of the German Chancellor, declared the purpose of the Allies is to develop rather than strangle national ideals in Germany, but to cripple the power of the military caste.

The sinking of eight more merchant ships, six of them British and two neutral, by German submarines, is reported in London.

Haucourt, a village on the French line northwest of Verdun has been stormed by the Germans. The French have regained a part of the Bois Carre nearby, and won an underground fight east of the Meuse.

A strong attack on the British at St. Eloi has been launched by the Germans.

Washington

Great Britain's reply relative to the representations which the United States made last January concerning the "enemy trading act" was made public. The British government maintains its right to restrict British trade in such manner as to deprive the enemy of all assistance.

The President now feels that the next logical step is to send another communication to German setting forth accumulative evidence of submarine attacks which have jeopardized American lives and asking in effect what Germany proposes to do to meet the insistence of the nUited States.

The Supreme Court dismissed the appeal of the St. Louis Street Railway against the decision of the Missouri courts upholding the ordinance by which the City of St. Louis collects a tax of one mill on each street railway passenger.

Secretary of War Baker told Representative Olney that he expects to ask Congress for money to maintain citizen soldier training camps.

A general readjustment of railroad rates west of the Mississippi was asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission by 500 candy companies.

Secretary of War Baker has ordered 5,000 recruits to the border, so that many regulars can go into Mexico, Fifteen thousand more recruits will go when they are obtained.

BLOOMINGTON BILL VETOED

Town Will Remain Without a Railroad Agent and Other Facilities.

By the veto of Governor Harrington, which he exercised last Thursday, the town of Bloomington, Garrett county's one of the important coal points in this section, will remain without a railroad agent as it has for some years past.

At the recent session of the Legislature a bill was passed through both houses making it mandatory upon the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company to establish an agency at that point for the accommodation of the traveling public and for the purpose of billing out and receiving freight and baggage from trains passing through the town. This measure was one of great importance to the business men and others of Bloomington and it was quite a surprise when it was announced that the Governor had vetoed the bill.

Merchants and others at Bloomington are greatly handicapped and put to more or less expense and trouble by the methods now employed by the railroad company, as goods consigned to that point are unloaded and uncared for upon their arrival unless arrangements are made prior thereto with some resident of the town to look after them. No eastbound local freights are stopped to discharge goods and in consequence they are carried through to Piedmont and brought back the following day.

It is now understood that the matter will be taken up with the Public Service Commission by the parties interested.

THE DEATH RECORD.

EMALINE HOGE.

Died, at the home of her son, James L. Hoge, in Akron, Ohio, on April 19, Mrs. Emaline Hoge, widow of the late Solomon Hoge, of Garrett county. Mrs. Hoge was born in Greene county, Pa., and moved to Garrett county about thirty-five years ago, where she continued to reside until about two years since, when she removed to Akron, following the death of her husband three years previous thereto. She was an intelligent woman and one who took an active interest in everything pertaining to the betterment of her home and home community. She was loved and respected by all who knew her. She was born on November 4, 1841, near Waynesburg, Pa., and was married to Solomon Hoge in 1868, and is survived by six sons and four daughters: James L., I. R., Albert and Solomon, of Akron, Ohio.; Lee, of Oakland, and Joseph, of Mill Creek, West Va.; Mrs. Fannie Cole and Mrs. Alice Hoye, of Greene county, Pa., and Mrs. J. W. Kimmell, of Deer Park, and Mrs. Jennie McRobie, of Shinnston, W. Va. She was a life long member of the Baptist church. Her remains were interred in the Deer Park cemetery by the side of her husband, who preceded her five years.

GRANTSVILLE.

A. T. Shirer, the Western Union lineman at this place, has bought a lot at the west end of town, formerly belonging to Miss Jane Smouse of Oakland. Mr. Shirer will probably build a residence in the near future.

Daniel Hershberger has recovered from the measles and the other children, Grace, Wilbur and Merle, are now confined to their beds with the same malady, all, however, doing nicely.

Stone House Farm is being brightened up with new paper and paint. Ward Beachy and son Forest are doing the work.

Senator Zihlman from Cumberland was a Grantsville visitor last week accompanied by Lloyd Schaefer.

Mrs. J. O. Getty is the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Alice Getty, at Meyersdale, this week.

Mrs. Catherine Engle, who was quite ill for awhile, is now about the house again and improving finely.

Gus Wm. Zeller of Frostburg has been a guest of his brother, C. S. Zeller, for the week-end.

Clarence Durst has been employed for the summer by Dr. Bowen as hostler and chauffeur.

H. A. Flautt of Somerfield was a Grantsville visitor this week.

A. J. Oester, State Forestry Warden, has been engaged the past few weeks in superintending the trimming of trees along the pike and near the telegraph wires.

Paul Tissue of Somerfield spent several days in Grantsville.

A. J. Shirer of Somerfield will begin his auto-bus hire between that place and Frostburg on May 2nd, going twice a week and stopping in Grantsville en route.

Mrs. Peter Fazenbaker of Bittinger was a business visitor here Thursday.

A family from Pittsburgh have rented the Evans bungalow at the Casselman river and will probably take possession in June and remain all summer.

Thomas Layman, living east of here along the National Pike, is in a very precarious condition, owing to cancer of the stomach. He was brought home from the Miners' Hospital at Frostburg last week where an x-ray examination regarding his condition was made.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Offutt, Bruce Browning and Benj. H. Sincell were among the many Oakland people in Grantsville recently.

J. J. Bender, Wm. Winterberg and Samuel Hershberger were Frostburg and Cumberland visitors Saturday.

Misses Nora, Catherine and Althea Durst spent Sunday with Mrs. Tom Hetrick.

J. W. Humbird and family and Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Landwehr were among the Cumberland people in Grantsville Sunday.

W. G. Hitchins, Dr. I. L. Ritter, J. B. Williams and daughter, Clifton Jeffries and party and numerous other Frostburg people were motor visitors here, Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Winifred Bonig entertained the Girls' Club and a few young men at her home on Thursday night, games being the diversion. The guests included Misses Ruth Keller, Angela Getty, Blanche Miller, Marie Connor, and Beulah Bender, Messrs. Wm. Gnagey, Chas. Keller, John Livengood, Urban Blocher, John and Emons Younkin. Delicious refreshments were served.

A surprise party was tendered Clarence Gingerich on Friday night the occasion being his thirteenth birthday. The young guests included Masters Frank and William Getty, Frank Beachy, Henry Durst, Henry Bonig, Albert Miller, Webster Bittinger, Harry and Oliver Bender, Floyd Miller and Emerson Hayes; Misses Edna Gingerich, Mary Miller, Marjorie and Mildred Bonig, Irma Swauger, Nina Younkin, Hilda Beachy, Margaret Getty and Althea Engle. Refreshments were served by the mother of the little host who received a number of handsome presents.

A beautiful new Packard organ has been purchased for the Reformed church, having been selected by Rev. E. S. Hassler of Lake, O., and shipped from Fort Wayne, Ind. The instrument is a free-will offering from the members of the Sunday school, the different classes of which have raised the necessary money themselves. A new communion table and pulpit chairs will be purchased in the near future.

Edward Roberts, of the firm of Klotz & Roberts, garage men, has moved into the house recently owned by Menno Miller, but purchased by Lewis Diefenbach who rents to Mr. Roberts. Mr. Klotz the senior partner, who will probably move his family here from Bittinger, is at present boarding with his brother and sister, Louise and Lizzie Klotz.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Fisher have moved from the Chas. Warnick farm into the house owned by A. F. Hetrick. The family expected to move sooner, but a visit from the stork delayed the arrangements for several weeks. Mr. Fisher, however, had the house all spick and span in the meantime, and mother and baby, both of whom are well as possible, were brought up with the rest of the family this week.

Mrs. Jacob S. Miller has moved from the old homestead into the little house in the same lot which has been remodeled and repaired. Her daughter, Miss Lucy, shares the cottage with her, while Mr. and Mrs. Simon Miller occupy the farm house, Mr. Miller having charge of the farm.

Mogul 8-16 Price Announcement

The Real Kerosene Tractor

ON and after April 1st the price of the Mogul 8-16 will be $725 cash f. o. b. Chicago. All sales made and bona fide orders taken up to April 1st will be filled at the present price of $675 cash f. o. b. Chicago. We want to post you ahead of time on the coming change.

Mogul 8-16, as you know, is the famous tractor that has cut fuel costs squarely in half—operates on cheap, common kerosene or coal oil—doesn't have to be the highest grade either. It pays for itself in the saving over gasoline. That is why the rise in price—necessary because cost of raw materials has risen so high—is of minor importance.

Mogul 8-16 is saving and making profit on thousands of farms of all sizes. It will do much more for you than your horses can. Get in your order now—be ready for spring work. See the dealer who sells the Mogul 8-16.

A Music Cannery

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

CAMDEN, N. J., May 9.—The other day a man prominently connected with a great American opera house came to Camden. One of the biggest phonograph factories in the world is located here, and all sorts of musical folk are continually visiting this grimy industrial city. The manager of the phonograph company asked the operatic gentleman what kind of a phonograph he owned.

"I don't own any kind," was the reply. "With the greatest artists in the world singing for me in the flesh, what do I want with a phonograph?"

But the manufacturers of canned music are a fraternity not easily comfited. The phonograph manager seized that gentleman and led him to a lonely, shining cabinet in one corner. "I suppose you are familiar with most operatic music?" he demanded sternly. "Know what a thing is when you hear it, and all that?"

The gentleman modestly replied that he thought he could recognize any operatic selection worth recognizing. "Very well," said the manager. "Then what is this?"

He put on a record and started the machine. A trio of wonderful sweetness poured forth. The manager looked inquiringly at his guest, but the latter shook his head. "It is beautiful," he said, "but I do not know what it is."

"That is the trio from Verdi's opera, "Lombardi," sung by Caruso, Alda and Journet," the manager told him triumphantly. "It has never been produced in America, and the only chance anybody has to hear it is on the phonograph. Now do you see what you want with a phonograph?"

Behind that little incident lies one of the big romances of modern industry. From a squeaky little toy grinding bugle calls and alleged humorous monologues off a cylinder to a magic cabinet that creditably reproduces the voices of the great singers and compels recognition from the most critical is a long jump to make in a few pears, but that is what the phonograph has done.

Did you know that the modern opera singer makes a practice of rehearsing with a record of his own voice singing the same air? That is because his phonograph record is absolutely correct. When he made the record he sang the record over and over again until he got it perfect. The machine has an unpleasant way of magnifying the slightest error in tone or execution until it stands out as prominently as a yellow flag on St. Patrick's day. Hence, singing into the little funnel that leads to the recording disk is a more severe test of technique than singing in concert or opera, where a slight slip may pass unnoticed. Caruso has probably the least trouble of all great singers in making records, but the best of them have to do one over occasionally.

Nowadays the phonograph companies have gotton such a commanding position that before they will make a contract with a new singer, even if it be some one with a national reputation, they first make a test record of his voice to see how it will record. That in itself is quite a step from the days not so very long gone, when a singer of any note who sang for the machine was regarded askance by his brethren. Some voices that do well enough in the auditorium record poorly, so the test record is made with all the pomp and circumstance that attends making a disk whose duplicates will be run off by the thousands just to see if the voice is of the right quality to record properly.

As a general rule the best voices make the best records. The singer who couples the greatest natural endowments with the finest technique will have the least trouble. Very high tones and very low tones, however, present special difficulties. Something of the same sort is true of instrumental music. The piano is the most difficult of all instruments properly to record.

Phonograph manufacturers have a predilection for passing over the mechanical side of their business as lightly as possible. They seem to feel that a look behind the scenes into the springs and disks and pulleys breeds disillusionment. It is here however, that the real wonder lies. There is, perhaps, no achievement of modern science that comes as close to magic as the turning of a jagged square of gummy black shellac into a thing that stores up the greatest music of the ages ready at the turn of a finger to release it as often as you will, after composer and singer are dust.

The actual process of making a record is simple enough. The singer goes into a room specially constructed to produce the best acoustical properties. He faces a square funnel whose small end leads to a recording disk made of "a plastic material." In the nature of that plastic material lies the secret of perfect reproduction, and the formula for its composition is not exactly being printed on hand-bills for general distribution.

Behind the singer the orchestra is ranged. If the number features some special band or orchestra the players are, of course, brought especially to Camden, but for ordinary accompaniments the company maintains its own organization of thirty men. They have to be artists of the first quality, because there is always that little imp of the cabinet to be considered with his irritating demand for absolute perfection. If a mistake is made he seizes it gleefully and transmits it to all the thousands of his children who are stamped from him, to trumpet abroad wherever they are played. So the director will stop the whole proceeding at any point with a tap of his baton, if his ear catches the slightest error.

Visitors are not encouraged in this inner sanctum. The faintest whisper or rustle is caught up and recorded just as faithfully as the aria itself. If a visitor does gain admittance, he notes that the arrangement of the orchestra is quite different from the ordinary one in the opera or concert work. Some of the men are perched on high, some are drawn up close to the recording cabinet while others are withdrawn. Each instrument has a different carrying power and a different recording quality, so that a special arrangement is necessary to get the proper effect.

When the number has been played the little imp in the cabinet has every tone-shade safely locked in his bosom. They take him and give him an electroplating bath that coats him with enduring nickel, and there you have your master record. One such master record is put on file, and from a second the ordinary disk records are made. The black material that you see in a phonograph record is a composition of shellac, which softens under the influence of heat. The material is rolled out into great sheets and cut into squares twelve inches on a side.

These squares harden as they cool, and in their hardened condition are sent down to the room where the impressing is done. Here they are laid on a hot table a moment to soften and then placed over the nickel master record. They are stamped and trimmed—and there is your Caruso or Tetrazzini ready for the cabinet.

The life of a record is a matter of some interest to the owner of a phonograph. With ordinary use a disk should last indefinitely. Of course, the friction of steel, tungsten or sapphire on even the hardest material will eventually wear it out, but unless you play some particular piece many hours a day there is no deterioration. The question of "overtones" comes up in this connection. It has been stated that the overtones wear off a record more quickly than the notes of the dominant octave, and thus spoil the quality of the recorded voice, even while leaving pitch and volume unimpaired. It is true enough that the quality of any musical note depends largely on the overtones, but according to the local company, at least, there is nothing in the theory that overtones are destroyed by normal playing of a record.

After the disk itself the most interesting part of the phonograph mechanism is the motor which revolves the record under the needle. The motor has to be a little wonder of its kind. It must work at an absolutely even speed—more even than that of a clock mechanism, because a clock may have compensating defects and still keep time. If the phonograph motor works a shade too fast or too slow, the whole effect is marred. A change of speed not only spoils the tempo of the number being played, but actually changes the pitch of the notes given out as well. This company estimates that if the springs they put into their cabinets were joined together a year's supply would reach from London to New York.

Much of the mechanical side of phonograph building is, of course, very like similar processes in any other craft. The record, the motor, and the little mica disk whose vibration does the actual "singing" are the three unique points. The world's whole mica production is picked over by the phonograph builders in their search for the most perfect pieces, and only the best of it is sufficiently flawless for use.

The phonograph industry, as a whole, is unique, not only in the industrial field, but in its relation to art and society. It is putting music for the first time in history on a footing similar to that of the other arts. It is having the way to cumulative musical achievement. We have had cumulative achievement in literature, in sculpture and in painting. In these arts the treasurers of the ages are piled up. Each new master measures himself not only against his contemporaries, but against the masters of all time. But the most perfect musical execution, the finest tone-shading, the most sympathetic voices, were gone forever almost before the echoes of the last notes died away in the crowded auditorium. The phonograph bids fair to change all that.

IF THE lady rookie camps become general, will the government furnish the cold cream?

AFTER the girls get through with the instruction camp they should be able to go home and do a good day's house work.

OF COURSE among those 25,000 applicants for tickets to the Chicago convention not all are aspirants for the nomination.

"FORTY women in masculine dress among Irish rebel prisoners." The militant suffragets can't help feeling they've been badly scooped.

IN THE course of human events the Colonel may issue a statement that he hasn't preceded by writing a book that calls for frequent reference in the statement.

THE Fiji Islanders have turned from cannibalism to the movies, but it is not stated what measure of censorship is exercised to keep them from growing desperate.

THE Michigan Republican convention endorsed Ford as a complimentary vote candidate, commended Hughes to the party and forgot all about William Alden Smith.

ONE story says that if Sir Roger Casement is hanged it will be done with a silken rope in consideration of his rank. And if he is beheaded will they use a silver hatchet?

IT MUST be a particularly crusty old Englishman who suggests that the worst punishment for the Irish rebel prisoners would be to make them go back home and live there.

THE Washington newspaper which pleads with Great Britain to be kind to the rebels would better cable its remarks. They have a way of doing things up in a hurry at the tower.

OBREGON is reported to be particularly happy that mining companies will resume operations, but whether it is because the friends of Mexican freedom need the money is not specified.

A BERLIN correspondent says the Germans, contemplating the failure of the recent rebellion, are mad enough to "send Ireland to the bottom of the sea." But they'd have trouble making Cork stay down.

AFTER that applicant for naturalization who said the Vice President washed the White House windows is here a little longer he will learn that the official isn't even that much use to the country.

"UNCLE JOE" AT 80.

It is vouchsafed to few men to be the central figure in such a demonstration as that which turned the House of Representatives into a love feast for a part of its session Saturday. Most men must wait until after death to evoke such testimonials, but JOSEPH GURNEY CANNON is an exception in this as in most other things. The whole-souled affection he has inspired in the chamber where for 10 years he has met, mingled and matched units with the brightest minds of his time is the more remarkable in view of the fact that he is not a man of honeyed speech or conciliatory nature, but a fighter from the drop of the hat. Many the hard knocks he has given and received on the floor of the House which did him such high honor on this occasion. Only a few years ago he was the center of one of the bitterest fights that ever waged in the historic walls of the Capital. CANNON and CANNONISM were symbols of all that was pernicious in legislative mechanism. He was pictured by his opponents as the czar of the House and his autocratic rulings from the speaker's chair were denounced without measure. Yet no sooner was he unhorsed and his long rule broken than his bitterest political foes hastened to assure him of their personal esteem. For there was this about the fighting of "Uncle Joe," that it was all fair, square and above board, stand-up and knock-down, and he was a generous winner and a good loser. Though a lion in debate there was no venom in his tongue and the blows he inflicted left no personal sting.

And in the light of his long, useful and fruitful career it has come to be pretty generally accepted that what was once termed CANNONISM in the House was in reality a rather wise appliance of practical politics to the business of getting legislation out of the way with the greatest celerity, and in its essentials it was much the same thing that was denounced as REEDISM and CRISPISM in certain earlier periods. The action of the House in thus paying tribute of love and respect on the 80th birthday of the veteran statesman was wholly fitting and the country-at-large will echo the sentiments there expressed without regard to parties or policies.

FRANCE AND ZIHLMAN

The results of the primary election held on last Monday are indeed gratifying to the friends and supporters of Dr. Joseph Irwin France, who was victorious in his fight for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, and the Hon. Frederick N. Zihlman, who secured the Republican nomination for Representative in Congress from the Sixth District. Both of these men won out in the face of odds. All this goes to show that they are the real choice of the Republicans in State and District, and this being a Republican year, there should be no question of their triumphant election in November.

Commenting upon the victory gained by Dr. France the Baltimore American says:

"Dr. France does not count the victory he secured in the primaries a personal but party victory. The primaries belong to the party and not the individuals, and the registry of their results is the registry in behalf of the party. The personality of Dr. France is something most important, and the party will make great gains through it. But he is right in saying that the result is not a test of the personality of himself and Mr. Goldsborough, but a certification by the Republican voters that both are good men, only that the direction of victory for the party seemed clearly to be that of the selection of Dr. France as the standard-bearer. The high-toned nature of the primary contest, the lack of bitterness, the spirit of fair play and the view that the successful candidate takes of the outcome prohibit the possibility of any friction in the campaign. Every effort will be made to give Dr. France the precedence over Mr. Lewis, the Democratic nominee for senator.

* * *

"With the normal Republican vote supplemented by the Progressive vote and with the addition of the vast number of dissatisfied Democratic voters, the election of Dr. France appears to have the degree of assurance that was claimed for him during the primary contest. The Democrats have come out of their primaries with three-cornered bitterness and division and the successful candidates will have to fight against the forces passively opposing him in his own party. The work of conciliation that Mr. Lewis will need to do will be spared Dr. France. So that he will be enabled to bend his entire energies toward strengthening the full Republican vote with the votes of any who are not regular Republicans but are ready to support the Republican candidate.

* * *

"It is generally felt that the present incumbent of the White House has exhausted the stores of his resources for the country and it is believed that the nation is ready to turn to the Republican party, Hence the campaign for Dr. France will be a campaign of the widest national interest and one to ensure and enliven every Republican voter in the State."

Inspects Roads.

F. Zouck, recently appointed chairman of the roads commission by Governor Harrington made his first official inspection of the roads in Western Maryland last week. He spent Friday in Cumberland after having made a tour of Garrett and Allegany counties.

Kicked By Mule And Injured.

Charles Pritts, of Jennings, was taken to the Western Maryland Hospital in Cumberland last Saturday suffering greatly as the result of being kicked in the head by a mule which he was handling at the time. For a day or two Mr. Pritts' condition was deemed critical, but he is now pronounced out of danger by the attending physicians at the hospital.

Appointed Health Officer.

At the recent meeting of the Board of County Commissioners Dr. N. I. Broadwater of Oakland, was reappointed health officer for the county.

Maryland Republican Platform

1. We, the delegates of the Republican party of the State of Maryland, in convention assembled, send our greetings to the Republicans of the nation, and declare our purpose to conduct, with full confidence of success, an aggressive campaign on behalf of the great principles for which our party stands.

2. We reassert our faith in the American system of representative constitutional government as the most perfect governmental agency so far conceived for the protection of human rights and the promotion of human happiness. The history of our country proves the pre-eminent capacity and fitness of the Republican party for wise administration, constructive statesmanship and the practical achievement of the largest measure of prosperity.

The Republican party has stood and still stands for safeguarding the wages and standard of living of American working men. It inaugurated the policy of a tariff commission, with ample power to investigate questions of cost, production and labor conditions in this and other countries, in order that Congress might intelligently formulate a tariff that would adequately protect American labor and serve and develop American natural resources and American industry. We condemn the Democratic party's repudiation of this policy of a nonpartisan tariff commission, and we arraign the Democratic tariff now in force as wholly inadequate either to provide sufficient revenue for the support of the government or to protect American labor and industry upon the farm, in the factory or in the mine. The war in Europe has only temporarily obscured these effects. They were severely felt in 1914 before that war began, and will be severely felt when that war shall have ended.

3. Believeing as we do in the wisest and widest encouragement of our agricultural, industrial and commercial prosperity, we hold that business should be encouraged, not harassed; should be regulated, not stifled. Honestly conducted business, whether great or small, is a blessing to be appreciated and encouraged, but special privileges and unfair tactics are wrongs against society not to be tolerated. Governmental supervision of public utilities is the people's right and is for their just protection. Governmental ownership or management of all such business enterprises without distinction is an impractical and unsound suggestion. such a theory is not only contrary to sound business judgment, but is inimical to the constitutional adjustment of our whole governmental system.

4. The Republican party loves peace and hates war, but we deplore the feeble and vacillating foreign policy of the present Democratic administration at Washington. We believe in maintaining our friendly relations with all nations, and that such relations can be maintained without sacrificing the life or property of our citizens or the nation's dignity and honor, by that proper provision for the common defense which is the government's constitutional duty. We condemn the present Democratic administration at Washington for its failure to take any steps toward the fulfilment of this plain duty. No temporary excitement should lead us to forsake the advice of Washington to "avoid overgrown military establishments which are inauspicious to liberty. But we believe our vast extent of coast line, as well as our widening sphere of influence, demands an enlarged and better organized Navy and the prompt upbuilding of an American merchant marine by the methods which have given us industrial independence, and without the economic waste and international embarassments of government ownership. We believe it only wise and foresight to substantially strengthen our military establishment, both in men and equipment, emphasizing the "gospel of patriotic service to our own country by every citizen according to his ability in peace or war." We believe this increased provision for the common defense can be met out of the resources at our command by a just revision of the tariff in accordance with Republican principles without an increased burden of taxation upon the people or any resort to the fiction of a "war" tax.

5. We believe that this country should be provided with such military and naval equipment as will not only provide for a common defense, but will also enable us to secure a respectful hearing when it may become our time to call or to speak in that conference of all the nations which we trust will soon be assembled in the interest of a permanent world peace.

6. Meeting as we are on the eve of the great Republican National Convention, we congratulate our party that it enters upon the forthcoming campaign reunited and full of courage. We believe that our delegates to the National Convention, unfettered by instructions, will support as a candidate for the high office of President of the United States one who will have the approval and support of the united Republican party and whose election will be thus assured. We realize the responsibility which rests upon us, Republicans of Maryland. We are entering upon a campaign which promises to be a momentous one. We promise to wage it vigorously and loyally for those great constructive governmental principles and policies by which our party has been able to carry our nation safely through former periods of storm and stress. Resolved to avoid all personal and national prejudices, all hysteria bred by unreasoning fear and all temptation to enact hasty and ill-considered experimental legislation, we again pledge our loyalty to those distinctive principles of representative government which form the fundamentals of our party doctrine.

BUSTER BROWN SHAPING LASTS
For Growing Girls and Boys.

During the growing period of a child's foot you must realize that constant changing from one last to another does not give the foot a chance to continue a shapely development.

Buster Brown Shoes, made over shaping lasts, supply the children's needs from size to size with uniform comfort, while gradually shaping the foot toward maturity.

We have worked out a lasting system along lines orthopaedically correct, and the consistent wearing of Buster Brown Shoes will solve all the problems previously experienced in children's footwear.

Start now to fit the children with the line that will remain right from size to size during the child's growth.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children

In Use For Over 30 Years

Always bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Glotfelty left Oakland Tuesday night for London, Kentucky, to which point they had been summoned as witnesses in a damage case wherein an employe of the Bond-Foley Lumber Company had entered suit to recover the sum of $50,000 for injuries received while in the employ of the lumbering concern. Mr. and Mrs. Glotfelty expect to return to Oakland the latter part of this week.

Mr. Clarence V. Guard, of Friendsville, spent a day or two in and near Oakland last week while engaged in superintending the removal of his saw mill from the Browning-Savage farm (formerly the Col. Woods place) west of Oakland to a point along Bear creek near Friendsville, where he will be engaged this summer manufacturing lumber. Mr. Guard was assisted in the work by large number of men and several teams.

Sunday is Mothers Day and special programs of music are being prepared for rendition in the several churches of Oakland in which also sermons in keeping with the day will be delivered by the preachers. In nearly all the churches arrangements have been made whereby those who are infirm and unable to walk to the services will be taken in conveyances and after the service returned to their homes by the same means.

Mrs. Marshal M. Ashby and daughter Miss Orpah returned from Pittsburgh, Pa., last Thursday afternoon after an enforced absence from their home in Oakland for a number of weeks, owing to the fact Mrs. Ashby was taken ill while in the city and for a long time hovered between life and death. While she is still far from enjoying her usual health she is very much improved and her return here is a matter of pleasure to her many friends.

Mr. John R. Male, who resides near Deer Park, was in Oakland last Saturday, when he exhibited to a large number of people a flint skinning knife which he found at a point on Backbone mountain during the past winter. The knife measures seven inches in length and is fashioned very much as the Indians made their arrow heads, many of which have been picked up at various points in the county. Mr. Male is a descendant of Wilmer Male, a full blood Cherokee Indian, who was born and reared in Garrett county, and died about the year 1878, at the age of ninety-eight years. During the lifetime of Mr. John R. Male he has secured many Indian relics and curios which he values very highly, among them being an earthen pot used by the Aborigines for cooking purposes, as well as a large number of other antiques.

Other towns in the country are successful in going after and landing small enterprises which employ from ten to a hundred men, thus creating a substantial pay roll at the end of every two weeks, and these towns are no better equipped naturally than Oakland. With cheap fuel in the way of natural gas or locally mined coal, labor that can be employed at reasonable rates of wages, locations in nearly every section of town or lying contiguous thereto that may be secured very cheaply, good shipping facilities over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to every point in the eastern and middle western portion of the country, it is possible for Oakland to become a manufacturing point if the citizens are all of one accord and act in unison in the matter that will be of benefit to every resident and property owner of the town. This is written in the hope that some one will take the initiative; get in correspondence with people who are looking for sites and lay before them the fact that Oakland is on the map and is more than willing to accord them a welcome.

Forty Years Ago.

At the election held in Oakland forty years ago last week G. M. Mason was elected burgess over Peter Shirer. Theodore Bush, Peter Martin, R. S. Jamison and N. B. Wayman were elected commissioners.

Basil McKenzie, an aged man, was struck and killed near his home in Bloomington by the locomotive of the Wheeling accommodation.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company began the erection of the Oakland hotel, a building designed to accommodate summer visitors to the mountains, upon ground donated by the citizens of Oakland with a verbal understanding that should the property ever cease to be used for the purpose it was intended that the ground revert to the donors.

BATTLESHIP BUILT FROM MASS OF RAILS

Jackson Tore Up B. & O. Tracks Around Martinsburg and Armored Merimac With Them.

On the morning of March 8, 1862, off the Virginia coast at the point where the James empties its water into the Chesapeake as the latter is about to merge its flood with the brine of the Atlantic, boatsman sailing in the bay beheld a strange sight. A great bulky apparition, as it seemed, was moving out from Norfork and the most seasoned of the water men could not for the life of them tell what it was. Its appearance was that of a mass of railroad iron built into a pyramidal heap, with something in the crib-like structure that belched forth smoke and steam.

As it came within closer view it was seen that along its corrugated iron sides at regular intervals—for it was entirely cased in rails—there frowned on the outer world the grim muzzles of ponderous cannons.

The moving monster had been, until a few months before, the United States steam frigate Merrimac. Salvaged by the Confederates from the wreck of the Gosport Navy-yard, opposite Norfork—burned by order of United States officers within a week after the firing on Sumter—it had been taken in hand and, by dint of the labor of skilled mechanics, plated with railroad iron, and thus made into one of the most formidable of destroyers the world had ever seen.

How the Merrimac defeated the United States frigate Congress and Cumberland, with a loss of 220 men, that day and how the next day the strange little cheesebox Monitor sent the armored Merrimac back to Norfolk so badly crippled that it was not again heard of during the Civil war, is history with which every schoolboy and girl is familiar. Not so generally known is the story of how the Merrimac came to be armored.

Had the railroad iron which plated the sides of the Merrimac been endowed with the power of speech it would have told of blue crested mountains far from the tidal waters, the most picturesque section of the Blue Ridge, the superb region of the upper Potomac and Shenandoah, embracing Harper's Ferry and Martinsburg, where it had lain peacefully enough.

But "Stonewall" Jackson came along with his freshly organized army and massed his forces along the railroad and in those towns. For a period of two months after the firing on Sumter he held that part of Virginia, together with a section of about 50 miles of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Before the middle of June, 1861, Jackson saw he must evacuate. The Union troops from the direction of Washington were pressing down the railroad on Harper's Ferry, and from Hagerstown and Cumberland, they had begun to hem him also.

At each end of the 50-mile section which dominated lay hostile territory. The railroad as a transportation medium was of no use to him, as its route was not in the right direction.

But there was valuable rolling stock at Martinsburg—no less than 10 locomotives and 150 freight cars. If the Baltimore and Ohio had been routed north and south instead of east and west he could have run the engines and cars into the heart of Dixie, where they would have plenty of use for them. As the matter stood it was almost 25 miles by turnpike across country from Martinsburg to Winchester, at which point lay just the railroad needed, the Virginia and Atlantic, passing to Richmond and the sea.

In Jackson's army was an officer, Col. Thomas A. Sharp, who was an accomplished civil engineer. Before entering the army he had been a railroad man in Georgia. His merits had brought him to the front in the command and the general had placed him in charge of the transportation service. It was under him, by Jackson's order, that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bridge that spanned the Potomac at Harper's Ferry was burned.

After destroying the structure Jackson's men tore up the tracks for many miles westward, placed the ties in piles, laid the rails on top and treated the country folks thereabouts to the spectacle of a series of fine bonfires.

As the rails became red hot they would be taken with huge pliers and wound around the nearest trees until almost every live trunk that reared its head along the line sported a necktie of unique pattern.

Hundreds of tons of rails were saved, however, and heaped up in Martinsburg to serve other purposes.

Jackson had requested Colonel Sharp to try and evolve a plan by which the rolling stock and rails could be conveyed over the turnpike to the Winchester line, which tapped Richmond. Colonel Sharp thought the matter over, called to his aid every skilled mechanic in the army and constructed a number of large wheels and rigged them on the trucks of the engines and cars without disturbing the regular wheels. Forty horses were pressed into service and he was ready.

Then to the country folk of the smiling farming section between Martinsburg and Winchester, was presented during the next few days a wonderful sight. Shakespeare made Birnam Woods go to Dunsinane. The feat seemed to be almost paralleled by the manner in which Colonel Sharp made a section of the Baltimore and Ohio go to Winchester. The turnpike is not without small rises and falls, but the 40 horses were equal to the task.

The spectacle of large locomotives, jolting across the country single file, and bulky freight cars doing the same, was a sight that was unusual to say the least.

After the last car had been "toted" to the new tracks the railroad iron followed. It was loaded on the freight cars and soon the whole amount of the spoils went rolling southward, the engines and cars to do service on various railroads for the Confederacy and the iron rails to come in very acceptably for use in plating the sides of the Merrimac.

SLOAN WILL HEAD MARYLAND BANKERS

It is expected that James M. Sloan will be elected president of the Maryland Bankers' Association at its twenty-first annual convention, which will open May 23 and close May 25. Mr. Sloan who is president of the Lonaconing Savings Bank, of Lonaconing, is first vice president of the association. It is customary for the president to serve but one term, and Mr. Sloan is being mentioned to succeed Harvey L. Cooper, president of the Denton National Bank, of Denton. The change will mean that the head of the organization will shift from the lower Eastern Shore to the upper western end of the state, practically from one end to the other of the state.

The convention will be held at the Marlborough-Blenheim, in Atlantic City.

ORPHANS NOW IN THEIR NEW HOME

Completion of the Splendid Institution Founded by Amish Mennonites.

The building of the Amish Mennonite Orphan's Home at Grantsville has been accomplished, and except for finishing the porches, etc., which the Petry Bros., of Elk Lick, who had the contract, are now doing, the institution stands complete, a beautiful Memorial to christian love and fellowship and the goodwill and helpfulness of many churches and people in different states.

The building is essentially a home for children, everything possible being provided for little people. A long, well lighted dining-room is set apart for their use on the main floor, with play room and nursery adjoining. These take up one side of the hall. After that comes a lavatory, a cheery kitchen and the family dining-room which communicates with a large reception room.

Another play room is being prepared on the basement floor for use when the cold winter days prevent playing outside. The rest of the basement is divided into a furnace room, laundry, and store-room for vegetables and canned goods.

The second floor is divided into family bedrooms, a guest chamber, a bath room and three dormitories for the little ones. Above this is a commodious attic room which is as yet unfinished.

The grounds are spacious and prettily situated for games, and command a view of magnificent scenery in the distance.

The family are now in possession of the Home, the moving having been done last week from their temporary home at Bittinger. Messrs Harvey Yoder, Noah Brenneman and Christian Beachy brought the adult members of the family and household goods, while Jonas B. Miller brought the little ones. The children are contented and happy in their new environment and play happily about the grounds and in the Home.

There are fifteen wards at present, ranging from twelve weeks to fourteen years. English, American, German, Polish and Irish parentage are represented. Six or eight more little ones are expected from Somerset this month.

The family comprise Mr. and Mrs. Noah Brennaman as superintendents, Mrs. David Yoder, matron, and Miss Clara Bender helper. Miss Alma Miller is also helping them get settled in their new home and the two girls, with their pretty arms bare to the elbows, are industriously scrubbing and cleaning. Mr. and Mrs. Brenneman and Mrs. Yoder are looking after the children and the thousand and one matters that need attention, and gradually order is growing out of the chaos of building and moving.

Following are the names of the little ones now domiciled in the Home. They were sent in from Somerset, Meyersdale, Fairhope, Pa., and Garrett county, Md.; Mahlon, John, Marie and Thomas Embleton, Walter Beal, Helen and Stepha Buchka, Hugh Beck, Phineas William Welfley, Patrick and Celia Dryburg, Viola Glessner, Blair and Willie Ringler, and an infant in arms.

A child to become an inmate of the Home is submitted to a thorough medical examination by a competent physician who fills out and signs the examination papers. The parents, relatives or guardians are required to sign a surrender claim if the child is to become entirely dependent upon the Home, and an agreement is drawn up and signed if put in temporary charge, or when a sum of money is paid into the Home for the substenance of the child. An agreement is also required from persons desiring to adopt a child from the institution into their own homes. Every care is exercised in the up bringing of the little ones in charge of the institution, to keep them morally clean, free from evil habits and provide religious instructions and schooling.

When one considers that the institution is kept up entirely by free-will offerings, the magnitude of the work will be readily seen. No solicitations are made, yet all donations are gratefully received and clothing, bed or table linen, comfoters, towels and the many things needed in the Home would certainly not come amiss were any kind-hearted persons to send them in. Thus far sufficient funds have been at hand to carry on the work, but what, with building payments and moving expenses, the treasury is at present at a lower ebb than usual.

Neither the superintendent nor matron received any renumeration other than their own support while there. The work is entirely one of love. Mr. and Mrs. Brenneman must oversee the entire establishment, working busily themselves all the while. So many little mouths to feed takes lots of cooking, baking, planning and forethought.

Mrs. Yoder, whose husband works in the community and lodges at the Home, is little more than a girl herself, yet fills the position of matron admirably, singing lullabies to the little three-month old and tucking in a row of one, two or three-year-olds as well as any mother. The little girls are little darlings, and the boys from Polish Stepha to Irish Pat, are adorable, but boys will be boys and girls will be girls, and small wonder if their "aunties," feet would sometimes falter on their endless round of caring for the little ones.

It is a wonderful work, this caring for homeless children and deserves the sympathy and cooperation of everyone, regardless of creed, for it is the Master's work and they are doing it in His name who said "Of such is the kingdom of Heaven."

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mr. Ed. Friend has rented his D street cottage to some Baltimore people for the summer. Mr. Friend and family will occupy their summer cottage in "Aristocratic Row."

Benj. Long and Charley Sembower are putting the electric light wires in shape for the season. They made good headway the past week.

Mrs. Schrock had ten young ladies from Baltimore as guests of her delightful home over Saturday and Sunday. They were a happy lot of girls.

Mrs. J. L. Campbell, of "Braethorn" has booked some guests for the week end, including Memorial Day. They come from Philadelphia, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Richardson and daughter Francis spent the past week in the Park, getting their cottage ready for the summer, returning to Piedmont Saturday.

The past week has been a Cleaning-Up-Week. Everybody seemed to be busy raking leaves, hauling away rubbish and making things look cheerful. The man who predicted that the Park was dead has another guess coming to him.

Robert Moomaw is "the handy man" about the Park. He and his team are kept busy.

Nelson Miller has purchased a new auto for his summer trade. It is a beauty, comfortable and a splendid machine.

Floyd White is making regular trips between the Park and Oakland and his auto is having a good business. Let everybody give Floyd a lift.

The annual announcement for 1916 is in the hands of the printers. As usual The Republican office is doing the work.

Mrs. Margaret Burghouse, of Fairmont, W. Va., is the guest of Mrs. Wingate.

The cottages occupied by Mr. Miller and Mr. Schell are being improved.

The Vance cottage is to be remodeled at once and will be ready for occupancy this season. It will be a delightful bungalow for some one. It will have modern conveniences.

We were sorry to learn last Saturday of the death of Mr. Dowler, in Wheeling, on the 30th of April. The Dowler's were Park visitors for years.

Mrs. Charles Tower has rented the Maryland Inn for the summer. The family are now occupying the house.

Thomas G. Schooley has purchased the lot adjoining his home property.

Bolgiano, the seed man of Baltimore, has rented the Lee cottage for the season. They occupied the cottage last summer.

Miss Dottie M. Doman and Walter R. Falkenstein, of Loch Lynn, visited Cumberland last week and returned home man and wife. They were married Wedeesday. Congratulations are many. A nice couple are they.

Mrs. Crede Collins, of Pennsboro, W. Va., spent Saturday in the Park, having her cottage put in shape for the summer.

G. S. Hamill, president of the Association, drove over to the Park Saturday taking notes on the work in progress. Mr. Hamill is much interested in the success of the Park.

BITTINGER.

Considering the fact that farmers were much behind with their spring work, there was a very satisfactory turn out of voters at the primary election held last Monday.

Ray Engle purchased a fine young horse a few days ago from Mr. Irvin Shoemaker, of Grantsville.

Melchor Hetrick received a car load of Portland cement last week, to be used by himself and his neighbors.

Merchant O. C. Buckle was unable to be about his usual duties for a few days recently on account of illness.

Leonard Stark, of Blaine, W. Va., spent part of last week at his home here.

John B. Harman was out in his automobile last Sunday.

Those of the Pentecostal faith, held protracted meetings in The Bear Hill settlement last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Buckle and young son visited Mr. Buckle's parents here last Sunday.

Dennis Brenneman has decided that he will be obliged to enlarge his potato patch since the Stork's visit to his home last Saturday.

MEN come 'round every year to sell you crop insurance against hail, wind, and other elements. That is all very well, but there is another brand of insurance that costs less and pays every year.

Seed planted with an Empire, Jr. drill is insured against waste. The kernels are planted at a uniform depth and covered properly. In sections where the soil is exceptionally loose your Empire, Jr. can be equipped with press wheels that compact the soil firmly over the seed. Such seed is in better condition to withstand drouth or flood than broadcasted grain only half covered.

Come in and look over the Empire, Jr. line—there is nothing better.

All kinds of Plows and Harrows, Wagons and Buggies, and in fact everything that a Farmer will need at this season of the year at the right price. Agent for Armour's Fertilizer.

WHY hold off from tractor farming any longer? A Mogul 8-16 kerosene tractor costs less than the horses it replaces. It does more work than those horses are now doing. Counting fuel, interest and depreciation at top figures, it costs less than horses to keep.

You can use it for all the heavy work your horses do, and for belt work that horses cannot do. In these days of kerosene engines, can you see yourself hitching eight teams to a horse power machine to run a thresher? Then why do plowing, disking, seeding and harvesting with horses when a Mogul 8-16 does that work also better and cheaper. We've got one here. Come in and take a look at it.

Card Playing.

The evil of gambling consists in its surroundings. In public places you will find profanity, vulgar jests, loud conversation and usually drinking. It leads to late hours which is deleterious to health; it wastes time, destroyes love for home and friends, wastes money, leads to pernicious habits and fosters a taste for hazards. That it is an evil all admit. It wrongs the player whether he lose or win, an unhealthy excitement is aroused, which quickens the pulse, flushes the face, sets the eye staring and feelings are so wrought upon that angry words often break out.

The love for the game grows until the mind is as eager for it as the drunkard for his cups. It becomes a devouring passion that will consume every thing good and nobel, pure and elevating and it is a species of theft that does not necessitate the thief thrusting his hand into your pocket and extracting the money.

It wrongs the employer as well as the employee who practices it. The daily papers teem with accounts of the down fall of clerks and the ruin of houses through gambling. The young man steals to gamble, flees to Canada, the gambler's mecca, or lands in prison or a Suicides grave. It does not render a just equivalent for what it takes. Every game of chance from pitching of coppers to the stake of the professional from the parlor of the woman of society or church member, to the haunts of men is gambling. This includes lotteries, betting and etc.

The glitter of diamonds and the flashing of gold doesn't change the nature of the viper. Sweetest music can't drown its woe. You may make a cloak of bank notes but that doesn't conceal its hideousness. It will be the same wily, venomous serpent and out from the cards of the winner gazes the ghastly specter of damnation and from the cards of the loser shoots the coils of despair. You may do all in your power to make it attractive to the virtuous, but you will only make it more hideous, while fraud will ever be stamped upon it. It is characterized by prodigality. It waste's money and life's energies as well. He will hazard every cent he can get. He will borrow anywhere and under any pretense. He will steal from his employer and take from his family. Wealth gotten by gambling seldom stays long. The end usually brings poverty, shame and wretchedness. When a young man begins to gamble, he is on the edge of a vortex.

If you would avoid failures, poverty, social disgrace and the misery of hell, avoid the gambler's table.

You may say I'll keep cool and leave at any time, but once in the fascination and an irresistible impulse propels you onward. you can as soon play with an adder and not be stung as to play with this thing and not suffer. Reason is powerless and logic is too weak to convince the gambler whose wild looks indicate the unstrung nerves and excited mind that like a disordered bit of machinery is wracking itself.

It fosters idleness. God made us to work. He gave us powers so that we can do good. But gambling says, no use making a slave of yourself, you may make money easier. How? Steal it in a popular way. The lazy person is a nuisance in any community.

This teaches the young man that it is disreputable to work, so it diverts attention from business and industry and centers it on the gambling table, and so they grow fickle and discontented. It is a system of lazy vagabondage, which unfits for business. Knights of the bar lounge on easy seats while the mechanic must toil and sweat for meager earnings but he gets sweet sleep and the happiness of family. Testimony and experience unite in proclaiming the gambler an idle spendthrift in proportion as he is addicted to the practice.

It is a lying system. It flatters only to cheat, it allures to destroy, it fawns over you only to stab you. It is based on falsehood and thrives on lying and the gambler from the nature of the case is a liar. He lies to play he plays to lie, for the thing is a falsehood. His skill is to cheat. It is wholesale robery. It will rob you of every thing yet give no equivalent. Every loser knows this is true. If a lunatic would dispose of his farm for a trifle the law would interfear to protect him. If the laws of the state were enforced every den in the State could be closed in a month. Steal a sack of flour and arrest will follow, yet men are allowed to go scot free, who live by stealing the earnings of clerks, the bread of children, the clothes of wife and the comforts of home. It was invented to please a lunitic king.

Well has it been said of the gambler, "Look where he fawns, he bites; when he bites, the venom of his teeth will rankle to the death; have naught to do with him, beware of him. Sin death and hell have set their mark on him, and all their ministers attend them."

Is it true that this thing is practiced on the sly in our own town? Then a dangerous pitfall is set for unwary feet.

GARRETT COUNTY SUMMER SCHOOL

Will Open In Oakland On May 29th for a Term of Probably Six Weeks.

From the office of the Board of County School Commissioners folders have been issued giving notice of the summer school to be conducted in Oakland beginning on May 29th and ending on June 30th, the board reserving the right, however, to extend the term a week longer than the date set out in announcement. In the announcement the Commissioners state—

"The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, having determined to require at least one-fourth of the number of the teachers of Garrett County to attend a summer school, this same summer school is held in lieu of a teachers' institute, the School Commissioners reimbursing those teachers in attendance to the extent of twenty-five dollars, this amount being the tuition fee, charged to each teacher of experience planning to continue teaching, in attendance to the summer school, and the County Superintendent designating the teachers required to attend summer school as those thereupon in attendance.

"The purpose of the school is to give the student a practical knowledge of the laws and methods of school management and class room procedure. The instructors will aim to make the subject matter of their courses so practical that students may understand how to apply such knowledge in their work of teaching. Special attention will be given to reviewing the subjects upon which the County Superintendent will base the examinations for teachers' certificates as well as to students who have never taught, but who are planning to do so.

"In order to give a vivid demonstration of the problems in a one-teacher school, there will be conducted an elementary school of several grades. Here will be given a demonstration of the typical methods and materials to be used in making such teaching more effective.

"All who desire to teach and are ineligible under the law noted above or who plan to teach during the school year of 1916-1917, will be admitted. All will take the full course outlined; and in order to receive credit for the session each student must have the approval therefor of the instructors at the end of the course. A record of attendance and of work done by the students will be kept by the instructors and placed in the office of the Board of County School Commissioners. No student will be excused from the regular work of the summer school without the approval of the director who will be governed in his authority by regulations of the Board of County School Commissioners.

"Each student will be required to provide his or her own text books, permission herewith being given to borrow them from trustees of schools in Garrett County, each student who borrows such books pledging to return them promptly to the school from which they are taken in as good condition as they were when secured. Text books not generally used in schools of this county, will be temporarily loaned by the director to the student. A library of reference books will be available. Students will be requested to purchase or provide themselves with at least one good book on education, it being, "How to Teach American History," by Wayland, the price thereof being 88 cents, postage 5 cents extra; the director will have this book for sale to those students desiring to purchase a copy.

"In order that the school may begin promptly on Monday May 29th, all students are requested to register at the Oakland Grammar School Building on Saturday, May 27th. The building will be open for this purpose from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M.

"Popular free lectures will be given occasionally. These lectures will add much to the pleasure and profit of the school work.

"A tuition fee of $5.00, payable to the director at the time of registering, will be charged those students who have never taught, but are planning to do so. A tuition fee of $25.00 will be charged to the accounts of those teachers of experience who are planning to teach during the school year of 1916-1917 in Garrett County, this charge of $25.00 to be off-set by a credit of $25.00, it being the reimbursement to the teacher as required by the state school law.

"The examinations of applicants for teachers' certificates will be conducted in the Oakland Grammar School Building at the close of the summer school—upon Friday and Saturday, June 30 and July 1, 1916, but this examination may be postponed one week."

The instructors will include County Superintendent F. E. Rathbun; Principal Harry A. Eyler, of the Irwin, Pa., high school; Principal Herman A. Ziel, of Kitzmiller; Principal R. R. Sanner, of the Grantsville school; Miss Patience Williams, of Cumberland, who will conduct methods in teaching reading, writing and number work in the primary grades and will conduct a model school along these lines. The Home Economics Demonstration Course will be in charge of Misses Katharine A. Pritchett, Florence J. Hunt and Kathleen Calkins.

Prof. Herman A. Ziel, principal of the Kitzmiller high school, will be director of the summer school.

HOW TO IMPROVE OUR COUNTRY ROADS

Will Be Main Subject Discussed By Road Men At the Agricultural College, January 10-15.

T. H. TALIAFERRO,
Maryland Agricultural College.

In many sections of Maryland the character of country roads not only precludes the ready movement of farm products during the winter and early spring, but reduces to a minimum social intercourses between friends and neighbors who under better conditions of travel would relieve the monotony of winter days by visits so pleasant to those fortunate enough to have a home in a rural community blessed with good roads. For this reason, in planning for a short course and conference on road making and maintenance, the Division of Engineering of the Agricultural College has laid especial emphasis on the improvement of the country dirt road which may or may not lead to the main thoroughfares so well constructed under the direction of the State Roads Commission. In addition, having in mind the many perplexing problems which confront the Roads Engineers in our counties, one day in the week has been set especially apart for a free and full discussion of the county road problem by Roads Engineers and Supervisors.

Among the most perplexing of road problems, probably that of financing road construction and maintenance without placing too heavy a burden in the way of special taxes stands first and will be discussed with keenest interest by our county commissioners and their fellow-taxpayers. To add to the information obtainable on this subject, an expert from the Office of Public Roads and Rural Engineering has been invited to lead in the discussion and give data on what is being done in other sections of the country in meeting this problem.

Other road problems that concern every person living in the country vitally will be included in the conferences of the week. Perhaps, none will be more emphasized than finding means of keeping country roads that have been improved in good condition. So frequently, after improvement as to surface our country roads go to pieces rapidly because no adequate provision has been made for drainage. Again many complaints of slippery roads have been made, where they have been improved and oiled. Regarding this trouble, an expert from the State Roads Commission will give the latest methods of overcoming it. In fact, since the road problem is such an important one at this time in every county and neighborhood of the State, it is our belief that the conference and short course should be largely attended by taxpayers, county commissioners, roads engineers and supervisors, and many others living in Maryland communities where the road problem is of such prime importance. The complete program of the short course and conference, beginning January 10 which may be obtained by writing to the Agricultural College, College Park Md., should be in the hands of every Marylander interested in having more and better roads throughout the State.

WHY NOT GROW PURE-BRED FOWLS ON EVERY FARM?

ROY H. WAITE,
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Maryland poultry raisers make a practice of mixing their breeds. They use one male this year, get a male bird of an entirely different breed next year, another the year after, until finally the flock gets to look as if it had been struck by lightning. Nothing could be worse for the poultry industry than this hit or miss breeding. You get stronger, healthier fowls, you say. Let us see why you do. When you breed from two birds that are in any way related you increase the chances of perpetuating any defect which they may both have. Being related the chances that they will both have the same defect are increased.

When you cross two breeds or varieties the chances of breeding birds together both with the same defect or fault are greatly diminished. This then is the only plausible reason for breeding a mixed mongrel flock. Let us see what it costs us to do this. Let us see how much we gain or loose in the long run.

1. A good strain of pure bred will lay more eggs.

2. Eggs from pure bred will be more uniform in size, shape and color.

3. A pure bred will make a better appearance on the market.

4. The carcass of a pure bred will make a better appearance on the market on account of uniformity of size, shape and color.

5. Breeding stock of a pure bred can often be sold to advantage.

6. You cannot help but take pride in a pure bred flock and will give them better attention.

Don't you really think that it would really pay to give a little more care to the selection of breeding stock of some good breed, rather than keep on with a flock that the word "hash" would very nearly describe.

By selecting the strongest, most vigorous and healthy birds for breeding, you can keep a flock in first class condition. Instead of perpetuating defects, you will be making headway in fixing and improving the desirable qualities and in the meantime getting the advantages that we enumerated as belonging to the pure bred flock.

Undivided interests in the Coal Rights, situated a few miles Northwest of Lonaconing, but in Garrett County, in the farm of the late William P. Hansel.

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in the case of George Glessman against David P. Hansel and Jane V. Hansel his wife, No. 5 Judicials, June term, 1916, Circuit Court for Garrett County, the undersigned Sheriff did seize and take in execution and levy upon by an actual entry upon the premises hereinafter described, all of the interest of the said David P. Hansel, the same said to be a one-sixth interest, which he obtained from the will of his father, in and to the minerals, mineral rights and mining rights, in the coal underlying Military Lots Nos. 3767, 3768 and a tract of land called "The Resurves" which embraces the aforesaid lots, and makes 127¾ acres, under which the coal lies; and also all of the coal rights and mining rights and minerals, underlying Military Lot No. 3769, containing fifty acres, which the said Hansel obtained under the will of his father William P. Hansel, excepting the coal interest under the cemetery lot on said land, and the coal under the three acres where the barn and house stand.

And I hereby give notice that on the 20th day of May, 1916,

in front of the Court House in the town of Oakland, at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., of said day, I will offer the aforesaid mineral rights or interest and mining rights, to the highest bidder at public auction to satisfy the aforesaid execution and the costs.

This coal interest is valuable from the fact that it is near the George's Creek region and the time will soon come when it will be in the market with the big vein in the George's Creek Valley, as it lays near there.

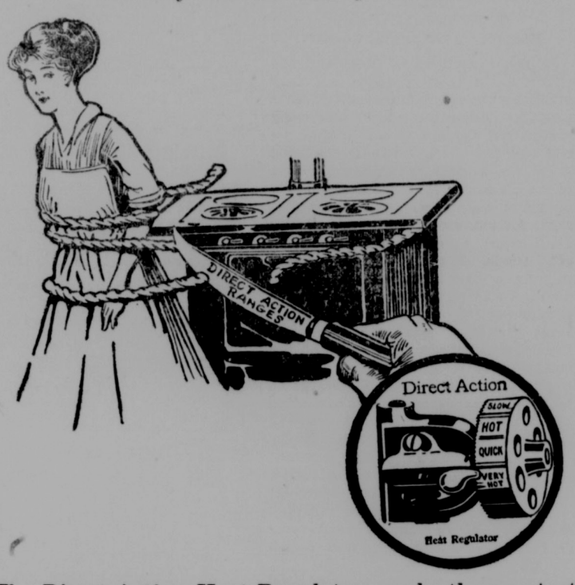
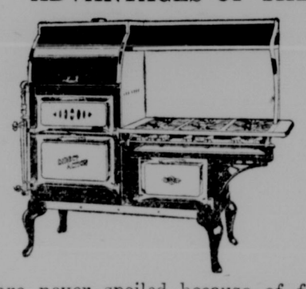
Go out and enjoy the beautiful afternoon—Supper will be ready to serve when you return.



The Direct Action Heat Regulator marks the greatest advance in gas cookery since gas was first used as a fuel

ADVANTAGES OF THE REGULATOR ARE :



Removes all the guess work from baking. You can obtain any oven temperature you want by the simple setting of a marked wheel valve. You can repeat any oven temperature to the degree, as often as you desire. You can maintain any oven temperature, hours, even days, as you like. It saves your gas—prevents waste by overheating. It saves food—as expensive bakings are never spoiled because of faulty oven temperature. It automatically takes care of change of gas pressure.

This device gives double value to your gas range. It makes it cook as a gas range better than any other gas range, and it also enables you to deplicate the work of the best fireless cooker. For sale by

THE DEATH RECORD.

THOMAS C. FRIEND.

Thomas C. Friend was born at Friendsville, Md., and died at his home at Lake Ford, Md., April 27, 1916, aged 69 years, 11 months, and 4 days.

He leaves a wife, two sons, and four daughters to mourn their loss, while a son and one daughter preceded him to the spirit world.

Obituaries of good men need not be written. The attempts to eulogize the life and character of the faithful and true are feeble indeed, compared to the grandeur of the life itself.

Good men write their own eulogies. Write them indelibly upon the hearts and minds of those with whom they associate and mingle while here, there to remain as the years come and go, incentives ever to beckon us onward to lives of noble endeavor and christian living.

We all appreciate beauty, and worship at the shrine of the beautiful The opening bud, the full blown rose in all its tints and shades of color, the sun in his splendor, the landscape, the forest, all things beautiful delight the heart of man, but the beauty of a life so spent in allegiance to the doctrines and teaching of the most beautiful character who ever trod this beautiful earth of ours,—the Gracious Saviour—far transcends all other ideals of the beautiful, however loft

Now are we brought to realize fully the meaning of the inspired writer when he worte, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, henceforth saith the spirit, for they shall rest from their labors, and their works do follow them." Thus it is with the subject of this memorial. The inspiration of a life so lived that we who are left behind can say with full confidence, "not lost but only gone before," give us new aspirations, higher ideals, and encouragements to help us on to God.

'Tis human to err, and whatever of the evil or ugly we might have observed in the lives of our friends living, it seems to be a trait of our natures to throw the mantle of charity over it all and to remember only the good and beautiful. 'Tis well it is so. We could not do justic to the subject of this sketch if we did not say he was a devoted husband, a kind father to his children, kind to all about him.

He was converted early in life and was until the time of his death a faithfull and consistent member of his chosen church, the Methodist Episcopal, having served much of the time as steward or class leader.

The church will lose and miss his council, the pastor his hearty handshake and cordial smile of good will, his family the patient familiar face, the community a respected citizen, earth a noble soul.

Interment was made in the Lake Ford cemetary and the funeral services were conducted by his pastor Rev. W. H. Henderson.

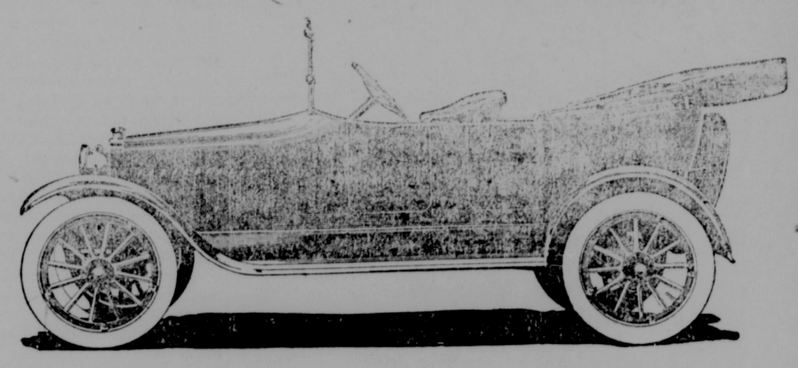
SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people



Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $5,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle tne question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

C. F. ZITTEL, Dramatic Editor, New York Journal.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

"Backward, Turn Backward."

To the Editor of The Republican.

Many of us would gladly when the day is done kneel and repeat, "Now I lay me down to sleep," and lay our tired heads in the loving arms of mother and pour forth as in babyhood our perplexities of the day. We are all alike; we all have had mothers and we love her best of all. Her hand did more for us than any other—her love was ours before we were born; she planned our future and sacrificed and suffered as we who have become mothers ourselves can realize.

We love our tiny babies; we never grow weary in caring for them and as we work we dream of their future, and plan and save, giving up all our outside pleasures—sacrificing everything so that our children will be well cared for and happy; and we watch and tremble as the little toddling feet go so uncertainly about and they stumble and fall. Then as they come to young manhood and young womanhood we tremble the more for their safety, for there are so many snares for the young, and just at this age they seem to forget that mother knows best, and so she prays and pleads and does all the more to protect and shield her young from harm.

Pity, oh pity, that mother who fails and goes heartbroken to the grave, but what a blessing and comfort to the mother who wins, and in her declining years she can look with joy on her children who have proved true and loyal to MOTHER.

A MOTHER.

VOLUME 41. OAKLAND, MARYLAND THURSDAY, MAY 18, 1916. NUMBER 12

DEATH CLAIMS MUCH LOVED OAKLAND MAN

Rev. John M. Davis Died at His Home Here Friday Night. Buried Monday.

Rev. John M. Davis, one of the most prominent merchants, preachers and citizens of Oakland, Garrett county, Marvland, was born in Somerset county, Pa., January 26, 1835, and died at his old home at Oakland, May 13th, 1916, aged 81 years, 3 months and 17 days.

On March 4th, 1858, Mr. Davis married Eleanor J. Philson of Berlin, Pa., whose death occurred April 8, 1909, to whom a family of three sons were born, Chas. S. Davis, Rev. W. C. Davis and John W. Davis, of whom Chas. and John W. are still living. The Rev. Wm. C. Davis who was a member of the Pittsburgh Conference and died Sept. 21, 1902.

Mr. Davis acquired his early education in the public schools of his native county, later entering Allegany College where he remained one term. Subsequently he taught school for a short time, following which he engaged in farming.

In the spring of 1858 he moved to what is known as Promised Land Farm near Oakland, where he purchased six hundred acres of farming land, continuing in its management until 1901. He also was engaged in dealing in live stock and was recognized as one of the most prominent dealers in this section for many years.

At the conclusion of the war he purchased the general merchandising business of N. B. Harvey and formed the firm of Bishop, Davis & Townshend. This co-partnership lasted for four years when Mr. Bishop became the sole owner. Messrs. Davis & Townshend established another enterprise of like nature that continued until 1886, when Mr. Davis with his son Charles S. as his associate formed the firm of J. M. Davis & Son, later associatiug his son John W. with the business that continued until May 1st of the present year.

In 1882 Mr. J. M. Davis became interested in the establishing of Mt. Lake Park. To his enterprise, energy and devotion much of the success of this delightful summer home is due and practically all of the many improvements and innovations were made under his direct supervision.

In 1888 the Garrett National Bank was established of which he was made one of the directors, holding the position until January 1st of the present year.

By an act of the Legislature, April 1st, 1872, Garrett county was cut off from Allegany county which was largely brought about through his influence and which has proven to be of mutual benefit to all.

For over fifty years Mr. Davis was connected with many enterprises in a business way that has helped to develop the town and county, and as a religious leader his efforts were even more successful than his business life. When a boy he was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal church and began to preach March 13th, 1862, by filling an appointment in Oakland, made by the Rev. J. J. Dolliver, father of Senator Dolliver who was preacher in charge of the Circuit. On that occasion he delivered an address to young people, his subject being "Religion." Oakland Circuit was large as there were fourteen or sixteen preaching places. The pastor preached in Oakland once in two weeks. By request of the pastors Mr. Davis assisted them in protracted meetings, and in turn filled their appointments when they were engaged in holding protracted meetings elsewhere as they were expected to hold a meeting during the year at every appointment in the large circuit. Later the church urged Mr. Davis to accept license as a local preacher and at the quarterly conference in Cranberry Summit, now Terra Alta, Sept. 17th, 1864, he was examined and a license granted signed by Rev. G. W. Arnold, presiding elder of the Morgantown District. He was ordained deacon at the annual conference in Clarksburg, W. Va., March, 1867, by Bishop E. K. Ames. In 1876 he was ordained elder at the annual conference in Wheeling by Bishop Harris.

For many years Mr. Davis relieved the pastors by filling their appointments and conducting their protracted meetings over Sunday while they filled their regular appointments. This was a great responsibility.

For forty-one years without a change he was superintendent of the Oakland M. E. Sunday school, and on January 23, 1908, was elected superintendent emeritus by a rising vote of the school, which presented him, through Rev. J. B. Workman, pastor, in a few well chosen and timely remarks, with a handsome gold headed cane, which now passes into the hands of Supt. F. A. Thaver, the next oldest and the successor of Mr. Davis. During the forty-one years' of his superintendency, as near as can be learned, about 2.000 children and young people were reared in the Sunday school and as we look back cannot find any who continued from child hood and grew up to manhood and womanhaod as faithful members of the school who failed to lead upright lives. The majorty become members of some branch of the church.

There was only one year that Mr. Davis kept a record of his work. In 1878 he preached 46 regular sermons; superintended the Sunday school 45 times; held 30 class meetings; prayer meetings, 10, and taught teachers' bible class 45 times preparing teachers for Sunday school work. Besides the number of services referred to during the year 1878 he attended quite a number of funerals, visited the sick, baptizing children, etc., extending over a large territory in the country not only among Methodist families but other denominations.

During all the years of his ministry he never missed an appointment that he had promised to fill, and to the best of his recollection was never ten minutes late; was always treated kindly by ministers of all denominations, and never asked a church for any positions or favors, and yet the church honored him with about all it had to give in the way of recognition. He frequently held quarterly conferences and preached for the presiding elders; was a member of the National Association of Local Preachers, and attended their meetings for many years; was a delegate to the General Conference in 1900 at Chicago, Ill., and without his knowledge was given the title of D. D., in 1902 by the Taylor University, but never allowed his friends to use the title in addressing him, but as a business man did not object to the title of Reverend when the people desired to use it. He has a record of over 1,000 weddings and married and baptized manv of the same family of the second and third genarations.

Simple and yet affecting funera services were held at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church in the presence of a large concourse of people conducted by Rev. John H. Howard, pastor, who read an appropriate lesson from Holy Scripture.

The choir rendered a number of favorite hymns and Mrs. Gordon Mealy sang touchingly "There is a Spot to Me More Dear," written by Doctor William Hunter, who was a personal friend of the deceased.

Rev. R. B. Ward offered a sympathetic prayer and addresses were made by Revs. Archibald Moore and J. B. Workman, former pastors at Oakland.

Beautiful floral tributes were made by the official board, Ladies Aid Society, and Sunday school of the church and by many personal friends of the deceased, and a most effective expression of tender regard was made by the Sunday school, which under the direction of Mrs. M. C. Hinebaugh, Frank E. Rathbun and C. Edward Bender came out as a body, each bearing a flower as a token of the high esteem in which Father Davis was held by the young people.

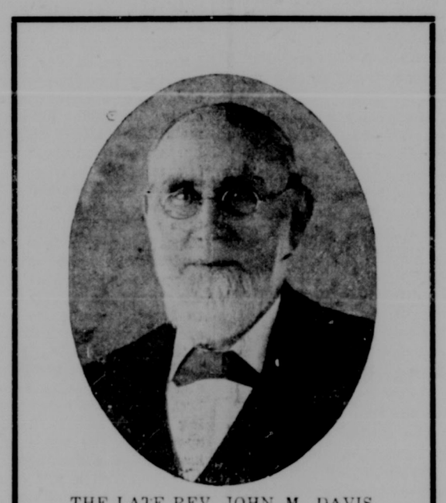
The flower bearers were Messrs. Harland L. Jones, Paul B. Naylor, Wm. L. Thomas, Robert C. Townshend, Wade H. Hinebaugh, Luther J. Brown B. C. Scott and Howard Smouse.

The pall bearers were A. D. Naylor, F. A. Thayer, John T. Mitchell, C. F. Hammond, Arthur Townshend and George M. Mason, all of whom were fellow members of the official board of the church with Father Davis. This was perhaps the largest funeral ever held in Oakland and was attended by people of every class and demonination. Many out of town people and clergymen were in attendance.

Following the services at the church the body was conveyed to the Oakland cemetery, attended by a large procession, where it was laid to rest according to the ritual of the church. The burial services were conducted by Doctor Howard, assisted by J. B. Workman and Archibald Moore.

Truly one of God's noblemen has been called from labor to reward. He was a true friend of the church and a faithful servant of God and was much interested in everything that had to do with the promotion of righteousness among men. Few men have lived more in the heart of the people and whose memory will be more cherished by the people than this good man.

As a good citizen, a representative business man, an exemplary christian with an unblemished life he lived until the summons came and with his work done God took him home, a sun crowned soul where clad in garments of white he entered into rest.



THE LATE REV. JOHN M. DAVIS.

"Servant of God, well done,
Thy glorious warfare's past—
The battle's fought, the race is run
And thou art crowned at last.

"Redeemed from earth and pain—
Ah! when shall we ascend
And all in Jesus' presence reign
With our translated friend?"

ARCHIBALD MOORE, D. D.
Supt. Oakland District.

As a mark of the deep affection in which he was held by the people of Oakland for more than fifty years, every business house in the town was closed during the funeral hour.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral of Mr. Davis were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Davis and daughter, of Ursina, Pa.; Mr. J. W. Young, Mrs. Mollie Getty, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Echard, of Cumberland; Mrs. Jessie Davis, of Morgantown, W. Va.; Mrs. Wesley Davis and son Mr. Alfred Davis, of Jamestown, N. Y.; Mrs. Elizabeth Talson, Mrs. Anna Jones, Wheeling, W. Va., Mr. J. C. Philson, Mr. William Philson, Mr. Robert Heffley, Berlin, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Schroeder. Mr. John F. Leachman, Mr. George Loar, Mr. L. L. Loar, Grafton; Rev. J. B. Workman, Mr. Howard Smouse, Mr. Reed Smouse, Fairmont; Mr. and Mrs. George Pugh, Miss Gladys Wilburn, Mr. Daniel Feather, Mr. W. A. McGinniss, Dr. W. B. King, Terra Alta.

FARM HOUSE BURNED

George Glotfelty's Dwelling Reduced to Ashes Last Saturday Morning.

Last Saturday morning the dwelling of Mr. George Glotfelty, located on his farm within sight of McHenry, was burned to the ground with almost all of its contents, entailing a loss of several hundreds of dollars.

The fire was discovered by some men engaged at work on the farm and was burning quite rapidly when noticed, the flames having attacked the roof from a spark emitted from the chimney, it is thought.

Notice To Tax-Payers

This is to notify the Taxpayers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1916 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 45 Chapter 506, Acts of 1888, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills:

This is to notify all taxpayers that no discount will be allowed for the prompt payment of State taxes levied for the year 1916.

Chapter 62 of the Acts of 1916, provides that "the State taxes are due and payable on the first day of July succeeding the levy, and if not paid on or before September first, interest shall be charged from said first day of September. Said State taxes shall be in arrear on and after the first day of January succeeding the date of the levy, and it shall be the duty of Collectors, Treasurers and other officers who may be charged with the collection of the same immediately thereafter to proceed to collect said taxes in accordance with the provisions of law for the collection of delinquent taxes. It shall also be the duty of the Collectors or County Treasurer or other officers collecting said taxes to make monthly returns and remittances to the Comptroller of the amounts thereof collected from time to time."

SHERIFF'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Undivided interests in the Coal Rights, situated a few miles Northwest of Lonaconing, but in Garrett County, in the farm of the late William P. Hansel.

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias issued out of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in the case of George Glessman against David P. Hansel and Jane V. Hansel his wife, No. 5 Judicials, June term, 1916, Circuit Court for Garrett County, the undersigned Sheriff did seize and take in execution and levy upon by an actual entry upon the premises hereinafter described, all of the interest of the said David P. Hansel, the same said to be a one-sixth interest, which he obtained from the will of his father, in and to the minerals, mineral rights and mining rights, in the coal underlying Military Lots Nos. 3767, 3768 and a tract of land called "The Resurvey" which embraces the aforesaid lots, and makes 125¾ acres, under which the coal lies, and also of the coal rights and mining rights and minerals, underlying Military Lot No. 3769, containing fifty acres, which the said Hansel obtained under the will of his father William P. Hansel, excepting the coal interest under the cemetery lot on said land, and the coal under the three acres where the barn and house stand.

And I hereby give notice that on the 20th day of May, 1916,

in front of the Court House in the town of Oakland, at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., of said day, I will offer the aforesaid mineral rights or interest and mining rights, to the highest bidder at public auction to satisfy the aforesaid execution and the costs.

This coal interest is valuable from the fact that it is near the George's Creek region and the time will soon come when it will be in the market with the big vein in the George's Creek Valley, as it lays near there.

Gambling.

Gambling blights home, destroys the true marriage relation, brings confusion, leads to intemperance, and destroys all tender feeling. It is worse than outright theft. A man may steal money yet truly loves his family, but the gambler is devoid of love and home is not attractive. It plays havoc with the virtues, quenches religious feelings; prayer, the Bible and Christ are nothing to the professional gambler. He is deaf to the plea for pity or mercy. His heart is consumed by the fire of the play and conscience is seared. This is the end. We shall see the beginning by and by.

One says. "The finished gambler has no heart, he would play at his brother's funeral and gamble on his mother's coffin." Another declares, "that gambling palsies the heart and so effectually silences the voice of conscience that a man may commit any crime and feel no remorse. Satan as he sees their dealings may well be proud of them and regard them with a sort of deferential respect, as one master gazes at a superior.

The poet says,

"Where'er the gaming board is set,
Two classes of mankind are met;
But if we count the greedy race,
The knaves fill up the greater space."

It looks well at a distance but it is armed with lances that cut body and soul. Flee this thing for there's death in it. What is the connection between this and card playing as carried on in society? Society's pet game is but the beginning of this evil. No harm in playing cards! True they are harmless in themselves, but what are their associations? What do they represent? Every argument against the wine cup holds against cards and but for the love of fashion and lack of intellectual and spiritual occupation no Christian would think of patronizing the card table. Should a godless fashion dictate that we pierce the nose for a jeweled ring; or hobble about with a pinched foot like a Chinese, there would be plenty of votaries, just as there were for the Kangaroo dip, or the bustle that made them look like a relative of the camel. If madame fashion should dictate any foolish thing there would be thousands ready to lay down their heads at her bidding. So when the devil sends forth the imp fashion to say to society people, world lovers, and pleasure seekers its the proper thing to play "progressive eucher," she can count on a grand rally in which some and a goodly number of church members will join.

But it is fashionable! So what difference does it make if one hundred or a thousand are swept down the rapids to the gulf below. Society consoled herself by denouncing them as fools or dummies. It was their own fault. The piously trained are always in danger. Thousands may be ruined but the institution remains. It is in the parlor and the den; on the cars and aboard the steamers; in hotel drawing rooms, and in camps, at watering places and picnics, in the woods and behind the shed, by day and by night, in summer and winter. The cards look innocent but they represent a variety of games which are unified in the card table which is supported by avarice, infatuation and fashion in society, then by fascination worse than the serpent's eye, then the fever which neither love nor reason can allay. Shall Christians countenance it? We do not discuss it from a worldly stand point. It is the worldlings part to have a good time, to live for self, not for others, and to gratify their desire for pleasure. You may talk of policy and claim that you must make compromises to win an unconverted friend, but you know it can't be done in that way.

You can't separate the individual from the institution itself. Progressive Eucher! What is it? Gambling that is all. An eminent writer and Christian says, "The path to the innermost hell of gambling is through the clover blossom of fashionable card playing. Many of the victims of the gambling dens today were on a votaries in parlors when no stakes were set up and people were bent on fun or to pass the time agreeably, or be in the fashion. Suppose you refuse to indulge will that impair your character, or influence and will you lose anything by refusal? Will you forfeit spiritual discernment or the confidence of good people. The card table has no good but much evil to its credit no matter where it is found.

In its most innocent forms it is the picket line of an evil army. Why are church people of the more consistent sort against it? Why do church bodies pass stringent resolutions against it? Why are appeals made against it and why are Christian culture against gambling? Why are these practices given up in times of Lent—always so—and all the year by Christians who believe that what might be coducive to worldliness for forty days in the spring is equally harmful to the spiritual life on any and all of the 365 days of the year. Sneers have more power than arguments when people in society combine to uphold each other and seem to care very little for eternity, for Christian principle or the tendencies of the practice.

Think of these things and await the next.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mrs. W. L. Davidson, of Cleveland, Ohio, has opened her cottage.

Attorney Feney, of Wheeling, W. Va., had business in the Park last Friday.

Mrs. Jarvis, of Clarksburg, W. Va., has purchased the Dowler cottage and expects to occupy it this summer.

Miss Collins, of Pennsborro, W. Va., spent the past week in the Park.

Mrs. Joseph Lee and daughters will occupy the Moomaw cottage this summer. Mr. and Mrs. Moomaw will move to the Association house at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kahl have moved from Oakland into the Malette cottage for the summer. Mr. Malette and family are expected here the first of June.

Calhoun's new store, in the Hocking building, is meeting with a profitable reception. They have a nice line of groceries. It is quite a convenience to the people living up in the Park.

Messrs. E. E. Friend and J. L. Echard have made some notable improvements to their E street cottages.

Receiver Walsh and Engineer Bracket, of the Water Company, came up to the Park early Thursday morning, looked over the line and suggested some improvements and returned to Cumberland in the evening. Several hundred feet of new pipe will be laid within the next few weeks.

Arrangements have been made for all B. & O. passenger trains to stop at the Park within a few days.

The Park is certainly growing prettier each day. The Association is doing its part toward a general clean up, and everybody seems to be "brightening up their own corner."

Mr. and Mrs. Speers with their daughter, Miss Jessie, motored from their home, Speers, Pa., about the middle of the week, to look over their cottage. They returned home Sunday. They expect to occupy the cottage about the middle of June.

Mrs. John G. McClain, Miss Kate McClain and Dr. Bates McClain, of Wheeling, motored to the Park last Saturday.

A telegram was received here Friday announcing the death of Rev. Dr. Walters, in Brooklyn, N. Y. The Doctor was the pastor of one of the leading churches of that great city, a strong preacher and greatly loved by his congregation. He was the son-in-law of Mrs. M. E. Pierce. Mr. Walters has preached in the Park and filled several Chautauqua engagements.

Another pioneer has fallen a victim to the hand of death. Last Saturday at 12:30 a. m., the Rev. John M. Davis died at his home in Oakland. Mr. Davis was one of the founders of the Park and under his direction the work of the development of the Park progressed. He was for years a member of the board of directors and its secretary. He was the first secretary of the Community of Mountain Lake Park. He was earnestly identified with all movements looking to the building up of the Park. For years he was the business manager of the Association. Everybody loved Rev. John M. Davis. He met you with a smile. He was a genial, pleasant gentleman. To know him was to love and respect him. To his personal efforts, his genial nature and his faith in the outcome of the Park, is due much of the success of Garrett county's greatest summer resort. In the work of the Park he was a leader. Everybody believed in him. He was their friend. In every position he filled he was a wise counselor and an efficient worker. Above all, he was "a man of God." His sermons and his religious addresses were interesting and helpful. Although expected any day his death made a deep impression upon our citizens. His death is a great loss to this community as well as to Garrett county. Our summer visitors will hear with sorrow of his death. Many of our people attended the funeral Monday morning at the Methodist church, Oakland.

Dr. and Mrs. Carr were called to Fairmont, W. Va., last week, by the serious illness of Dr. Hugh Carr.

The bulletin of The Bible Conference is just out and is being mailed. Copies may be had at the Association office.

The Bible class of the Methodist church is arranging for a grand rally on the evening of June 4th. A very interesting program is in preparation. This rally will help make the opening Sabbath of the season one of much interest. The class meets in connection with the Sunday school and numbers over half a hundred interested students. Everybody is invited to attend the Sabbath school at 10 a. m.

Mrs. S. W. Davis and daughter, Miss Bessie, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., Mrs. Talson and sister, Mrs. Jones, of Wheeling, W. Va., are here for a short time.

Miss Myrtle Breyfogle and Miss Mabel Stewart, of the Oakland High School faculty, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. C. H. Mann.

BREEDERS ASSOCIATIONS IN EVERY DAIRY COMMUNITY

How To Organize And Some Of The Benefits Resulting.

F. B. BOMBERGER,
Maryland Agricultural College
Extension Service.

The purpose of Community Organization for breeders of dairy cattle is to secure the co-operation of the various breeders of a community in the production and improvement of high grade pure-bred dairy cattle and in establishing a reputation for the community as a breeding center. The advantages of this plan are: concentrated attention along definite lines; co-operation of the breeders in establishing high standards for the community and encouragement for the owners of several herds to produce a distinct type and to supply a large number of such animals to meet the demand created by co-operative advertising. Through the meetings of the organization its members are kept informed of the progress in all that pertains to their work. Through co-operation they may secure protection against fraud and contagious diseases and may secure many advantages not available to the individual breeder. Breeders' associations can secure official test for advanced registry at less cost than where such associations do not exist.

Some Business Advantages.

Advantages in buying and selling are secured through co-operative advertising; through the purchase of best breeding males for use in several herds and through co-operation in purchasing and importing a number of choice animals. By exchanging animals the members may improve their herds with good blood without importing animals from a distance. The members may combine in selling to fill large orders for a distinct dairy type and thereby attract buyers from important dairy states. For instance, carloads of selected animals have been shipped from Wisconsin to many middle states, the Pacific Coast and even to Japan and Mexico as a result of such organization in that state.

The method of organization is for a leader in the community to call a meeting and get as many interested breeders as can be secured, this meeting to be addressed by a capable speaker on the value of such organization. A constitution and by-laws may be adopted and officers selected either at the initial meeting or at another meeting, as desired. Details of the organization may be varied according to local conditions. The co-operation of the College of Agriculture may be secured and wherever possible speakers will be furnished to address meetings held to organize such associations.

OBJECTIONS TO GROWING GRAIN CROPS IN THE YOUNG ORCHARD.

H. BECKENSTRATER,
Maryland Agricultural College.

Most of the grains make very objectionable companion crops in the orchard; in fact, many an orchard has been ruined by their use. While such crops, wheat, oats and the like, occupy the land, it can not be cultivated. They grow at a time when the trees need cultivation most and these crops at the same time consume large quantities of plant food and moisture, and have a strong tendency to make the land poor. There is no good reason why the above grains should ever be grown as a companion crop in the orchard.

Because of its great economic value and the many uses to which it can be put the orchardist is frequently tempted to plant corn in the orchard. Corn has not all the objectionable features that the other grains have. It requires cultivation, is planted later in the season and by the time it gets under way, the trees have completed a good share of their growth. If corn is used it should be kept a good distance away from the trees, the rows should be run north and south and it should be planted as late in the season as possible.

Hay should never be grown in a young orchard. It competes with the trees at every step. It robs them of moisture and plant food when the trees need them most. It provides excellent means for harboring insects and other pests. If hay must be grown, on the land occupied by the orchard, as some persist in doing, by all means cut down the trees and get them out of the way.

SPRING VETCH NOT SUCCESSFUL IN MARYLAND.

Owing to the high price of hairy vetch, many farmers are wondering if they can substitute spring vetch, thinking that this can be sown in the spring, as its name would imply.

Spring vetch is not suited to this State. It is an absolute failure.

None of the vetches grow well after our hot, muggy weather sets in in late spring and early summer. Spring vetch will not make enough growth to amount to much before the hot, muggy weather sets in, hence there is seldom enough growth made to pay for seeding it.

Spring vetch is also sometimes called common vetch and sown in the fall, but it is not as successful as hairy vetch when sown in the fall, and, in fact, is practically as much of a failure when sown at that time as when sown in the spring. — Nickolas Schmitz, Maryland Agricultural College Extension Service.

CHAPTER——

AN ACT providing for the issuing and sale of bonds by the Mayor and Council of Grantsville for constructing, erecting and maintaining water works and sewerage in said town of Grantsville, condemn such land as may be necessary for the building of said works, and to levy taxes on the assessable property of said town to redeem said bonds and to pay the interest thereon.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That for the purpose of establishing, constructing and maintaining water works capable of furnishing the residents of said town with a good and sufficient supply of water for ordinary purposes and fire protection, and for establishing, erecting, constructing and maintaining a sewerage system in said town for drainage and sewerage purposes the Mayor and Council of Grantsville be and they are hereby authorized and empowered and directed to issue bonds in the name of the Mayor and Council of Grantsville to an amount not exceeding Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose aforesaid. The said Bonds shall be for the sums not less than One Hundred dollars ($100) each nor more than Five Hundred dollars ($500) each, to be signed by the Mayor and President of the Council and countersigned by the Clerk of said Council with the corporate seal of said town there to be affixed, bearing interest at not less than Five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually in each and every year and dated on the first day of their issue; the said bonds shall be numbered serially. Bond No. 1 shall be due and payable Two years after date of issue, and thereafter each bond shall mature and be payable each consecutive year from the maturity of Bond No. 1, in the order of their consecutive numbers; provided, however, the Mayor and Council of Grantsville are hereby given the option to redeem any or all bonds outstanding Five years from date of issue or at any interest period thereafter; that all of said bonds thereafter shall be due and payable within Sixty years from the date of their issue, and shall be forever exempt from all county and municipal taxation for any purpose, and shall have printed on them a reference to the Act of Assembly authorizing the issue thereof.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and Concil of Grantsville are hereby authorized and empowered to construct and erect water works and sewerage for said town and to contract for the purchase in fee simple or lease for a term of years, renewable at their pleasure, any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses or streams, and to use or occupy forever or for a term of years, any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses or streams, which they may deem expedient or necessary for the purpose of furnishing said town with water and maintaining said sewerage, and they are hereby invested with all the rights and powers necessary for the induction of water into the said town and the maintenance of said sewerage system. If for any cause the said Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall be unable to agree with any owner of real or leasehold property, springs, brooks, streams or water courses or any other material which partake of or in a necessary part of reality, or for any right of way which they may find necessary for the conduit of said water and sewerage in its entry into or in said town or if such owner is under any disability or incapacity to contract or absent out of the county or unknown the said Mayor and Council of Grantsville is hereby clothed with the power of condemnation under the right of eminent domain as provided in Section 251 of Article 23 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland as fully as if said section had been herein incorporated, and their manner of procedure of condemnation for the purpose of this Act shall in all particulars be the same as if provided by said section 251 of said Article 23. The said Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall have full power to fix schedules of rate for furnishing water and sewerage to private residences and other buildings, and the said Mayor and Council shall have power to collect the same as other taxes are collected and the income therefrom shall be applied, first, for expenses and maintenance, and afterwards for the payment of the interest on the bonds and sinking fund to meet the bonds at maturity.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the title of said water works and sewerage, and all lands, estates and water courses, waterways, conduits, pipes, machinery and all other parts hereto shall when completed or acquired vest in the Mayor and Council of Grantsville; and every person who shall willfully or knowing pollute any spring, stream, brook, water course, reservoir or standpipe in connection with the said water works or built or constructed by throw any impure or deleterious substance or thing into the same, or by swimming, bathing or washing themselves or by washing clothes or any other thing therein, or by committing any nuisance in or near the source of supply or the reservoir or standpipe for said water works so as to pollute the same shall upon conviction of such offence be liable to a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars, nor more than three hundred dollars, for each offence, to be recovered by the Mayor and Council of Grantsville before a Justice of the Peace as other fines are recoverable, or to imprisonment in the county jail or the House of Correction for a term of not less than six months nor more than eighteen months or both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the Justice of the Peace, one-half of such fine to go to the informer and the balance to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville for the purposes of this Act.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of redeeming said bonds at their maturity and for securing the prompt payment of the interest thereon, the Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall for the year of the issue of said bonds and annually thereafter until the maturity of said bonds, levy a tax on the assessable property of said town, not exceeding fifty cents on the one hundred dollars, to pay the interest thereof, and the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($250) of the principal of said debt for the payment of the same at maturity. The said sum of Two Hundred and Fifty dollars ($250) shall be held and invested by the Mayor and Council of Grantsville as a sinking fund for the redemption of said bonds at their maturity, and the said Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall, from time to time, deposit the money belonging to said sinking fund and the increment thereof in some safe depository, which pays interest on deposits, or shall invest the same in state or such other bonds satisfactory to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville as to them may seem best, or in the purchase or redemption of said bonds as may be offered for sale or redemption, and upon the purchase of any such bonds by the said Mayor and Council they shall be immediately cancelled by stamping across their face (cancelled by sinking fund), and no portion of said sinking fund so levied shall ever be diverted to any other purpose than to the purchase and liquidation of said bonds. The money collected each year by the treasurer or tax collector on account of taxes to the extra said sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($250) shall be set apart for said sinking fund, and a separate account shall be kept thereof and be deposited to the credit of said fund, and no part of which shall be chargeable to insolvencies on account failure of assessments or collections.

SCE. 5. And be it enacted, That the money arising from the sale of said bonds (which said bonds shall be sold either at auction or by sealed bids, after due advertisement thereof to the highest responsible bidder), shall be deposited in bank to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville, and subject to their check, and the clerk of said town shall keep a book, to be especially provided for the purpose, of the names and addresses of the purchasers of the bonds sold, and the amount realized on the sales together with the serial numbers of the bonds.

SEC. 6. And be it enacted, That in any prosecution before a Justice of the Peace under Section 3 of this Act, the accused and the Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall have the right to an appeal to the Circuit Court for Garrett County, within thirty days, and a jury trial. He shall before he enters upon his duties take the oath prescribed for the members of the council, and execute a good and sufficient bond in such amount and upon such condition as may be prescribed by the mayor and council, with sureties to be approved by the Mayor and council.

SEC 9. And be it enacted, That the bailiff before entering upon the performance of his duties shall take the same oath of office as the members of the council, and shall execute a bond in such condition and in such amount as may be prescribed by the Mayor and council with sureties to be approved by the Mayor and council for the faithful performance of his duties. He shall perform the police duties of the town and is clothed with the same power as a constable under the general laws of the State of Maryland; he shall promptly arrest all violators of the ordinances of the town and bring them before the proper officers to be dealt with according to law, and shall promptly collect and pay over to the clerk all taxes and other claims of said town which may come into his hands.

SEC. 10. And be it enacted, That the assessor or assessors shall be appointed from among the citizens of said town qualified to vote in said corporation, and before he or they shall proceed to act he or they shall take oath before a Justice of the Peace of Garrett County that he or they will assess the values of the assessable property of every sort within said town as its full cash value without favor, partially or prejudice to the best of his or their skill and judgment; he or they shall enter and record in a book to be provided for that purpose an accurate and fair account of all properties, stocks and private securities of every sort within said town liable to assessment and the valuation thereof together with a list of the owners thereof of which shall be returned by him or them to the said council on or before the third Monday in June of each and every year, and which any person interested may inspect without charge, and if anyone shall feel aggrieved on account of valuation or assessment of his property by the assessor or assessors he may appeal from such valuation to the said council within four weeks from the returns of said assessment, and upon good cause being shown the said council may make an alteration in said assessment which they may deem proper and right and take from and add to the same; and for the purpose of hearing and determining appeals provided for in this section the said council shall give five days' previous notice of the time and place of hearing such appeals by advertisement to be posted in two public places in said town.

SEC. 11. And be it enacted, That the tax lists shall be prepared by the clerk and delivered to the bailiff on or before the first day of August in each year. The warrant shall be in substance as follows, to wit: "The Mayor and Council of Accident, ... Bailiff. You are hereby commanded to proceed according to law to collect and pay over the taxes hereinafter specified.

"Witness the corporate seal of the Mayor and Council of Accident. By the Mayor and Clerk. Attest: . . . . Clerk . . . . Mayor."

SEC. 12. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Mayor of said town to see that the ordinances of said town are duly and faithfully executed; he shall have general supervision of the town and shall from time to time report to the council such matters as in his judgment require the attention of the council. He shall have power to administer oaths and to certify the same in all matters pertaining to said corporation, and for the purpose of hearing and determining all cases to which the corporation may be a party he is hereby clothed with all the powers of a Justice of the Peace except as in civil cases, and may pass sentence and impose fines for all violation of ordinances in the said corporation, of may imprison offenders in the county jail, or may both fine and imprison offenders against said ordinances. Provided that no ordinance shall be passed imposing a fine for more than twenty-five dollars, or for a term of imprisonment exceeding thirty days, and all fines imposed shall be paid to the clerk of the town. During his term he shall hold no other corporation office, nor shall he be interested in any contract to which the corporation is a party. The mayor shall receive for his service a sum not exceeding six dollars per annum, and the members of the council shall each receive a sum not exceeding two dollars per annum, provided that any person shall have the right to donate to the town their service whenever they see proper so to do.

SEC. 13. And be it enacted, That the said council shall have power to pass all such other ordinances not contrary to the constitution or laws of this state as it may deem necessary for the good government of the town; for the protection and preservation of the town property, rights and privileges; for the preservation of the peace and good order; and securing persons from violence, danger and destruction; for the protection of the health, comfort and convenience of the citizens of said town and visitors thereto or sojourners there; for providing for proper and suitable lights on the streets; for establishing, maintaining and regulating an adequate police force; to regulate the management and location of livery stables, barns, garages, outhouses or privies and hog pens, and such other establishments of which the business, trade or location may become obnoxious or injurious to the public comfort or health; AUDUBON MEMBERS INSPECT WILD LIFE Trip Made in Mountains of Garrett Where Rare Specimens Were Found.

Three members of the Audubon Society, Edward Harris, Sr., James Wylie and W. S. Sparks, took an ornithological trip to Wolf Gap in Garrett county yesterday. Forty-two different species of birds were identified, which speaks well for the Alleghenies of Western Maryland as a bird region.

Among the several species found were the wood thrush, veery or Wilson thrush, red-headed woodpecker, Canada warbler, Black-throated blue warbler, magnolia warbler, chestnut-sided warbler, black and white creeper, and the rose brested grosbeak.

The wood thrush is very much admired for its song, the veery or Wilson thrush although not so resplendent in vocal powers, is the much rarer of the two. The warblers are to be seen only during their migratory season extending from the latter part of April through May, while the rose-breasted grosbeak is interesting in being restricted to higher altitudes, its beauty and its song. All are of economic importance, destroying many insects injurious to agriculture.

Aside from the birds an interest was taken in the flora of the region visited. Backwardness of the vegetation was noted by the ornithologist. About this city one finds the trees to have almost the foliage of summer, while on top of big Savage Mountain, their appearance is that of mid-April. The shad-bush there is just in bloom, while here it has long since passed perfection. Cumberlanders therefore enjoy a warmer locality. The sweet white violet was found also, the only native fragrant violet in the United States; the fringed pollygole, the gold thread and the painted trillium, some rare plants are on the list.

The trip was most profitable and all interested may join the Audubon Society, whose object is conservation of wild life. A meeting is to be held tonight at Union St. School, at 8 o'clock. —Cumberland News.

MR. E. J. HAMILL FREED.

Federal Court Judge Had No Authority to Commit Him To Institution.

Last week this paper along with numerous others in Maryland and West Virginia contained articles dealing with the trial of Mr. E. J. Hamill, which was conducted in the Federal court at Cumberland on Monday preceding, Judge John C. Rose, of Baltimore, presiding, in which Mr. Hamill was declared not guilty of the charges against him, but in the published reports several erroneous statements were made, which are corrected in the following letter written by Mr. Hamill's attorneys and published in the Cumberland Evening Times of last Thursday, to which we also give space, feeling that it is due Mr. Hamill and his family connections to place the matter in its proper light before our readers.

The letter addressed to the Times was written by Messrs. George A. Pearre, Fuller Barnard, Jr., and Saul Prager, attorneys for Mr. Hamill, and is as follows:

Editor Evening Times:—We observed in Tuesday's issue of your valuable paper an account of the trial of Edward J. Hamill, of Kitzmillerville, our client, in which Mr. J. B. Bosman is quoted as testifying to false entries of drafts and to the "pocketing of deposits made by John Barnard." We feel it our duty to our client, who was acquitted of the charges made in indictment, to call your attention to the fact that this is a misapprehension of Mr. Bosman's testimony as Mr. Bosman did not state at any time that Mr. Hamill pocketed any of the deposits made by John Barnard, an insurance agent of Westernport. We should also state that the evidence showed that no one had lost a single dollar through any act of Mr. Hamill as cashier of the First National Bank of Kitzmillerville, and the bank met all of its obligations. It may also be of interest to the public to know that Judge Rose has concluded upon further investigation of the law that he had no authority to commit Mr. Hamill to St. Elizabeth's Asylum in Washington, D. C. Mr. Hamill is now a free man, and will continue so, unless he and his family conclude that it will be better for him to have treatment in some good institution, which it is more than likely they will do.

Respectfully yours,
GEORGE A. PEARRE,
FULLER BARNARD, JR.
SAUL PRAEGER.

GRANTSVILLE.

Mrs. E. H. Reppert (nee Beulah Getty) who several months ago joined her husband at Jenkins, Kentucky, writes home in glowing terms of the picturesque scenery of the Cumberland Mountains, and says further: "The natives are exactly like the characters in "The Trail of The Lonesome Pine," and the author lives just a few miles over the hills." Jenkins has a population of about 5000 or 6000 and the Repperts live about a mile and a half out of town at a mining camp where Mr. Reppert is employed as electrician for the Consolidation Coal Co., of which his father is superintendent at that place. They have a pretty, six-room house, with bath and electric lights. The stately old pine tree is doubtless long since destroyed, and an immense dam with cement coping now stretches its rippling expanse across the trail that led through the old woods, and nearby, mining camp No. 6 is fast becoming a little village, and while the years will bring changes, improvements, and uplifting movements to these quaint people in the heart of the Cumberland hills, yet it is to be hoped that nothing will rob them of their wholesome simplicity of character, the delineation of which has made John Fox, Jr., famous all over the country.

Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Keller left last week for a visit with their sons in Wilmington, Del., but owing to a smallpox outbreak at that place, they received word to come back before leaving Cumberland, and will take their trip at a more convenient season. Mrs. Keller remained in Meyersdale to visit her sister, Mrs. Bruce Lichty, returning home on Monday.

Communion services, preceded by a series of evening meetings, were held in the Lutheran church on Sunday morning, with good attendance. Beginning next Sunday night services will be held here once a month in addition to the regular service every two weeks.

The Reformed church held services on Sunday afternoon, Rev. Wilson delivering an excellent sermon.

The Adult Bible Class and teachers of the Reformed Sunday school held another social on Saturday evening at the Broadwater ice-cream parlor which was equally successful, as the one held several weeks ago, over $25 being cleared. Icecream, cake, coffee and sandwiches were sold. The proceeds complete the amount necessary for the organ fund, which the members of the Sunday school have raised.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Klotz and children have moved from Bittinger into part of the house owned by Mortimer Smouse.

Thomas Little of Oakland spent Sunday at the Victoria.

Mrs. Eva Bevans and children from Union Bridge, Md., are spending a few week at the Broadwater farm which was Mrs. Bevans' girlhood home. Mrs. Beyans' health has been rather precarious since the death of her husband a few months since, and it is hoped the change will be of benefit to her.

J. G. Getty and son Frank attended the big circus at Meyersdale last Tuesday, bringing Mrs. Getty back home after a week's visit with relatives there.

Miss Mollie Dorsey and niece, Miss Angela Getty are spending the week in Washington and Annapolis.

A. T. Shirer, Western Union lineman who was slightly injured last week by cutting his leg on a spur while climbing a telegraph pole, is now abont again.

J. J. and C. A. Bender and J. O. Getty were Cumberland visitors Saturday.

Rev. E. E. Oney and Miss Charlotte Boyer of Elk Lick spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Loechel.

Miss Cora Bittinger of Jennings spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Edgar Roberts.

Miss Ethel Stanton spent the week-end with Mrs. Fred Livengood.

Mrs. Marshal Beachy has returned from a three weeks visit to her sister at Friendsville. Her daughter, Miss Helen, who is her grandfather's efficient housekeeper at Friendsville, spent Sunday here with her parents.

A meeting of the joint consistory of the Reformed church was held at St. Paul on Sautrday, being attenden by the following members from here. Dr. G. C. Keller, W. E. Stanton, W. Clay Stanton and J. J. Glotfelty.

A family from Indiana have rented the Casselman Cabin for the month of July.

GORTNER

The stork was a visitor at Gortner the past week leaving a little son at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Swartzentruber.

Misses Hope Gnegy and Marguerite Roth, of Hauser, were guests of Miss Emma Burkholder the latter part of the past week.

Miss Mabel Wamsley entertained a number of young people recently in honor of Miss Spoerline, who has returned to her home near Accident. During Miss Spoerline's stay at Gortner she made many friends who were sorry to have her return home.

Mr. Page Gnegy, of Hauser, spent Sunday evening at J. H. Sanders', leaving Monday for Akron, Ohio, where he expects to secure employment.

Mr. W. A. Smith and family, and Miss Della Savage, of Hoyes, motored to Gortner Sunday and spent several hours at the home of Mr. Spoerline.

Miss Effie Wamsley, a student of the Oakland High School, visited her parents at Gortner Saturday evening and Sunday.

Miss Bridget Maroney, of Oakland, spent a short while at Gortner' Saturday evening.

Rev. Barnhouse, of the U. B. church, will preach in the Union church Saturday evening, May 20th.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MRS. ADAM SNYDER.

Mrs. Adam Snyder, aged nearly sixty years, died at her home near Accident on Friday last after a protracted illness. The deceased lady was the eldest child of the late Melchoir J. Miller and sister of Mr. William Miller and Mr. Frederick Miller, of Accident. Her funeral occurred on Sunday after services conducted in the German Lutheran church of which she was a devout member from childhood. The funeral services were largely attended by friends and relatives of the deceased, many coming from a distance.

MRS. WALTER D. COLLIER.

Mrs. Walter D. Collier, of Friendsville, died at her home in that town Tuesday after an extended illness. She was aged about fifty years and is survived by her husband and a number of children. Her funeral will occur today with interment in the Friendsville cemetery.

What Can Be Done With An Old Bathroom?

A most surprising change can be effected by a little planning, and with our aid and experience to guide you, a most judicious selection of fixtures can be obtained which will be just suited to your bathroom and suited to your pocketbook.

The bathroom so is intimately connected with the welfare of the household that it deserves your careful consideration. We recommend "Standard" plumbing fixtures as they are guaranteed and therefore the proper kind to be used with our guaranteed workmanship. If a well planned bathroom, carefully executed is what you desire, call on us.

Ralph and Frederick, the latter being in Baltimore for the purpose of receiving treatment by a specialist, whilst the former is a resident of that city, being engaged in the engineering department of the State Roads Commission.

Very much of our space if devoted this week in giving publicity to the numerous local laws passed at the recent session of the Maryland Legislature. These laws, or at least a majority of them, become operative on June 1st, hence to give persons interested the information contained therein it is necessary to publish them in bulk prior to that date.

Rev. J. B. Workman, of Fairmont, who was in Oakland a few hours Monday, stated that his daughter, Miss Erma, who was a student at Buckhannon and a member of the Junior class, was at her home suffering with an attack of typhoid fever which she contracted while at school. Her condition is now somewhat improved and the crisis in the disease is passed.

Cheuvront's Wild Animal show gave a high class entertainment to a packed tent, pitched in the back yard of the Cheuvront residence lot Saturday afternoon. Preceding the show a street parade which attracted much attention, was given by the performers, but which failed to land intact at the show grounds, as several of the "wild" animals made their escape from their captors. The crowd present has been variously estimated at from thirty-five to fifty and the receipts were about ninety cents, thirteen cents of which were "hooked" from the cash box while the parade was being given.

Many of the Maryland State papers have been publishing in recent issues the names and ages of the old residents of the communities wherein the papers are printed. Up to the present time no one has been mentioned above 97 years of age. Garrett county, we believe, has the oldest resident of the state in the person of Mr. Abraham I. Wilson, of Wilson Store, who will be one hundred years old on July 11th of the present year, and what is more he was born within the confines of what is now Garrett county, and never left the county or state to take up his residence elsewhere. He is a bachelor and makes his home with his niece, Mrs. Feeley, who has been his housekeeper in the old homestead of the Wilson family for a number of years.

AN ACT to repeal section 196, 197, 199 and 209 Q of Article Number One of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Allegany County," sub-title "Mining and Mine Inspector," as the same were enacted by Chapter 124 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed in the year 1902, and to re-enact said sections with amendments, so as to place the inspection of mines in Allegany County under the State Board of Labor and Statistics; and to repeal sections 150, 151, 153, and 164 P of Article Number Twelve of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Manufactures and Mines," as the same were enacted by Chapter 124 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed in the year 1902, and to re-enact said sections with amendments, so as to place the inspection of mines in Garrett County under the State Board of Labor and Statistics.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That section 196, 197, 199 and 209 Q of Article Number One of the Code of Public Laws of Maryland, title "Allegany County," sub-title "Mining and Mine Inspector," as the same were enacted by Chapter 124 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed in the year 1902, be and the same hereby are repealed and re-enacted with amendments; and sections 150, 151, 153 and 164P of Article Number Twelve of the Code of Public Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Manufactures and Mines," be and the same hereby are repealed and re-enacted to read as follows:

Section 196 of Article 1 and Section 150 of Article 12. That the State Board of Labor and Statistics, with the approval of the Governor shall appoint one Mine Inspector for the counties of Allegany and Garrett, who shall hold his office for two years from the date of his appointment. No person shall be eligible to the office of Mine Inspector until he shall have attained the age of thirty years. He shall possess a competent and a practical knowledge of the different systems of mining and properly ventilating coal mines in said counties, and the nature and constituent parts of the various gases found in coal mines, and of the various ways of expelling the same from said mines and shall have had five years' practical experience as a miner in one or both counties combined next immediately preceding his appointment, and shall receive such annual salary as the Board, with the approval of the Governor, may deem proper. Before entering upon the discharge of the duties of his office the said Mine Inspector shall take the oath provided in the Constitution of the State and shall give bond in the sum of two thousand dollars with sureties to be approved by the Chief Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland. Said Mine Inspector while in office shall not be interested in the operation of any mine or act as land agent, superintendent or manager of any mine; and it shall be his duty to make a report to the State Board of Labor and Statistics of his proceedings in office and to set forth in such reports all such information that may be proper or beneficial, and also to make such recommendations and suggestions as he may consider important as to legislation on the subject of mining.

Section 197 of Article 1 and Section 151 of Article 12. Said Mine Inspector shall devote the whole of his time to the duties of his office. It shall be his duty to examine each mine in said counties as often as possible, but a longer period of time than two months shall not elapse between said examination, to see that all the provisions of this Act are observed and strictly carried out, and he shall make a record of all examinations of mines, showing the condition in which he finds them, especially with reference to ventilation and drainage, the number of persons employed in each mine, the extent to which the law is obeyed and progress made in the improvements of mines, the number of serious accidents and the nature thereof, the number of deaths resulting from injuries received in or about the mines, with the cause of such accident or death; which record completed to the first day of May of each and every year shall be filed with the State Board of Labor and Statistics, and one thousand copies of said report shall be printed for distribution at once by the said Board, and the cost thereof shall be paid by the Treasurer upon the warrant of the Comptroller.

Section 199 of Article 1, and Section 153 of Article 12. In case the Inspector becomes incapacitated to perform the duties of his office or receives a leave of absence from the said Board, it shall be the duty of the said Board to appoint, upon said Mine Inspector's application, or that of five miners or five operators, some competent person to fill the office of Inspector until the said Inspector shall be able to resume the duties of his office, and the person so appointed shall be paid in the same manner as hereinafter provided for the Inspector of Mines.

Section 209Q of Article 1, and Section 164P of Article 12. In this Act the term "coal mine" includes the shafts, slopes, adits, drifts, or incline planes connected with excavations penetrating coal stratum or strata, which excavations are ventilated by one general air current or diyisions thereof, and connected by one general system of mine railroads over which coal may be delivered to one or more common points outside the mine when such is operated by one operator.

Sub-Section A. The term "excavations and workings" includes all the excavated parts of a mine, those abandoned as well as the places actually being worked, also all underground workings and shafts, tunnels and other ways and openings, all such shafts, slopes, tunnels and other openings in the course of being sunk or driven, together with all roads, appliances, machinery and material connected with the same below the surface.

Sub-Section B. The term "shaft" means a verdict opening through the strata, and which is and may be used for the purpose of ventilation or drainage, or for hoisting men or material, or both, in connection with the mining of coal.

Sub-Section C. The term "slope" means an incline way or opening used for the same purpose as a shaft.

Sub-Section D. The term "operator" means any firm, corporation, or individual operating any coal mine or part thereof.

Sub-Section E. The term "superintendent" means the person who shall have, on behalf of the operator, immediate supervision of one or more mines.

Sub-Section F. The provisions of this Act shall not apply to any mine employing less than ten persons in any one period of twenty-four hours.

Sub-Section G. It shall be the duty of the Mine Inspector to make as to the clay or fire-clay mines in Allegany or Garrett counties the examination and reports required as to coal mines under Section 197 of Article 1 and Section 151 of Article 12 of this Act, and to make recommendations to the State Board of Labor and Statistics as to the legislation requisite to protect life and health in such clay mines.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from and after the first day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and sixteen.

SEC. 8 And be it enacted, That the said assessment and taxation shall be due and payable on the first day of October, next ensuing the making and adopting of the same by the Annual Meeting, provided for in this Act, and that a fair copy of said assessment and valuation shall be posted for at least fifteen days before the date of said Annual Meeting at two or three of the most public places at Mountain Lake Park, in the discretion of the Annual Committee. And a copy of such assessment and valuation shall be retained and posted in the office of the Superintendent of Mountain Lake Park, and open for the inspection of any lot-owner or interested party, at any time that they may desire to see the same. And any lot-holder or other person interested in any such valuation, feeling himself aggrieved by such assessment, shall have the right to file objections with the Annual Committee, or with the Superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, in whose custody the same shall be kept and filed for inspection, and such person may obtain such modification of said assessment as shall, to said Annual Committee, seem just and right; provided that any such objections shall not be filed after the first of October, in the year in which said levy shall be made, unless for special cause made known to such Committee, who shall have the discretion at any time to hear and determine said objections, if they deem it proper to do so. If no objections shall be filed as aforesaid, or if said objections shall be by said Annual Committee overruled, then such assessment or such modification thereof as the said Annual Committee shall make, shall become fixed for the current year, and the said annual assessment upon such valuation shall become a first lien, bearing interest, upon the lot and improvements thereon so assessed as aforesaid, until paid; but leave is expressly reserved to any and all persons who may feel aggrieved at the action of the said Annual Committee on such assessments, to apply to the Circuit Court for Garrett County in Equity by bill or petition, and to obtain such relief in such manner, as said Court may decide upon hearing all the facts in connection with the question so raised. The lien aforesaid for said taxes shall be enforced against any lot and improvements at any time after the first day of January, succeeding the date of such levy, but no such proceedings to enforce such lien, shall be taken unless authorized by an ordinance adopted at the previous Annual Meeting of said Community; and the Bailiff or Tax Collector or Treasurer of said Community or either one of said officers, shall have all of the rights and powers for the collection and enforcement of said taxes, as are given the County Treasurer of Garrett County, under Chapter 566 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, approved on the eighth day of April, 1890, and to the same extent as if the said Act was enacted in this amendment verbatim, unless the proceedings of such Treasurer or Collector shall be modified by ordinances, passed by the Annual Meeting, which body shall have the power at any time to modify or change the method of collection of said taxes.

The New
BRISCOE
Is Here

Two Great Models

A New Four $750—A New Eight $950

Beauty—Comfort—Price

The new Briscoe Four is an exceptional car. More stylish than ever, roomier and more powerful.

Ownership of the Briscoe fosters pride. While low-priced, it is first-class in construction, stylish in appearance, and makes you feel at home in the most select company.

It's here now—come and see it

The best designed car in its class

It's the best designed car in its class — most carefully made, too. Looks hundreds of dollars more than it costs. It has a 114-inch wheelbase—roomy 5-passenger body—Q. D. rims and 32-inch Ajax tires—38 h. p. motor with three-bearing crankshaft—cantilever springs and everything in the way of electrical equipment.

Unique features of the Briscoe Eight include overhead valves with cylinders and upper half of crankcase in a single casting, insuring perfect piston travel and bearing alignment. Valve tappets are quickly adjustable from top.

See this distinctive car

Ride in it. Test it in any way you wish. You will find the Briscoe offers most in the way of power, comfort and style.

It Boosts Net Profits

WE have already told you that a Mogul 8-16 kerosene tractor does certain necessary and important farm work cheaper and better than horses can do it. One of the reasons is that it burns kerosene, which is cheaper than either gasoline or horse fuel. Another is that it doesn't get tired, but does just as much work in the last hour of a hard day as it does in the first, after working steadily all day long.

Put out of your head any idea that this tractor is not for you. It is. It offers you the best and quickest way to cut down your expenses and so increase your net profits. Come in and see the Mogul 8-16, and let's talk it over.

The Direct Action Heat Regulator marks the greatest advance in gas cookery since gas was first used as a fuel

ADVANTAGES OF THE REGULATOR ARE :

Removes all the guess work from baking. You can obtain any oven temperature you want by the simple setting of a marked wheel valve. You can repeat any oven temperature to the degree, as often as you desire. You can maintain any oven temperature, hours, even days, as you like. It saves your gas—prevents waste by overheating. It saves food—as expensive bakings are never spoiled because of faulty oven temperature. It automatically takes care of change of gas pressure.

This device gives double value to your gas range. It makes it cook as a gas range better than any other gas range, and it also enables you to deplicate the work of the best fireless cooker. For sale by

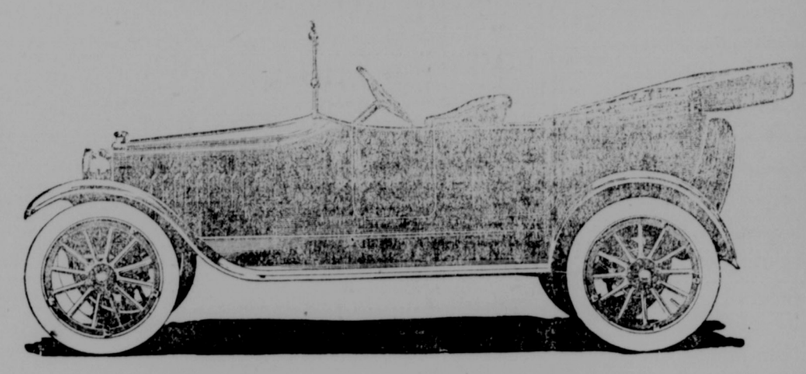
SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people



Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $5,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle tne question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

C. F. ZITTEL, Dramatic Editor, New York Journal.

For a Demonstration of this wonderful car, call at Liller's Barber shop or Kelly's Livery, Oakland.

The Home Economics Department of the school has been a very busy place during the past school term. In addition to the regular domestic art work, millinery was introduced into the curriculum. This work was taken up with much enthusiasm. The girls of the Senior class have completed their graduating dresses. Their dresses are inexpensive, yet dainty. All of them were planned at a cost of not more than six dollars. An exhibition of the work of the department had been planned, but because of the removal to the Grammar School building, this plan was given up.

SUMMER SCHOOL NOTES.

Interesting Items Concerning the Session That Opens Next Week.

The Model or Demonstration School that will be conducted in connection with the Garrett County Summer School, will open next Monday morning, May 29th, for half-day sessions for a term of five weeks, to which no tuition fee will be charged. The school will be in charge of a most competent instructor, Miss Patience Williams, of Cumberland, Maryland. Parents and guardians are being invited to send their children who next school year will be in the first second or third grades.

The special instruction in penmanship, announced in the summer school folder, will begin at the same time—Monday morning, May 29th, and will continue for one week, to be given by Miss Bertha A. Conner, of New York City. All teachers should make a special effort to be present that week in order to secure the complete advantage of this course of instruction in penmanship.

Sermon To Graduates.

The annual sermon before the graduates of the Oakland High School was delivered last Sunday evening in St. Matthew's Protestant Episcopal Church by the Rector, Rev. A. D. Appleton. The text chosen was from Philippians 3, 13-14, and read thus: "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended: but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark . . . ." The sermon followed the line of thought suggested by the three V's - vision, venture, victory. A large number of people was present who enjoyed the well-appointed services.

THE DEATH RECORD.

JONAS A. SPEICHER.

Early Saturday morning, at his home at Accident, this county, Jonas A. Speicher departed this life, surrounded by his family and near relatives. Mr. Speicher had been seriously ill for only one week. He was aged forty four years, seven months and twenty-seven days and is survived by his aged parents, his widow and nine children and his four brothers. Senator Harvey J. Speicher, is the elder brother. The interment took place at the family lot, at the church of the Brethren near Accident on Monday at 10 a. m. The services were conducted by Elder Isaac Abernathy, a life long friend of the family who used the text from Revelation XIV:13. The attendance at the funeral was the largest in the history of the community. The people came from adjoining states and from all parts of the county. Mr. Speicher was a member of the Church of the Brethren from boyhood. He was superintendent of the Sunday school and a faithful attendant at the church services. He was beloved by all who knew him and his death is a loss to the community in which he lived. He will be missed not only in the home circle and in the church but as well in the public walks of life.

The deepest sympathy of the community are with the aged parents of the deceased, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Speicher, his widow and children and his brothers, Harvey J., Henry M., William A., and J. Mahlon. The deceased grew to manhood on his father's farm, and at the early age of 18 he became a school teacher in the public schools of the county and to this work gave many years of his life, taking a high position as a successful teacher. His life is an incitement to the young men to live in this life with a view of the life to come.

"He has fought a good fight; he has finished his course and hos entered into eternal rest," and will await on the celestial shores those who are following in the paths of righteousness.

Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle is fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

In condescending love,
Thy ceaseless prayer He heard;
And bade thee suddenly remove
To thy complete reward.

O, happy, happy soul!
In ecstacies of praise,
Long as eternal ages roll,
Thou seest thy Saviour's face.

MRS. JAMES TASKER.

Mrs. James Jasker died at the home of her sister, Mrs. D. A. Stephens, in Oakland, last Sunday and was buried Tuesday morning in Oakland. The cause of her death was acute indigestion.

B. & O. Inspection Trip.

President Daniel Willard, General Manager C. W. Galloway and General Superintendent F. E. Blaser, and other officials of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad passed through this city this morning at 11.30 o'clock on a spring inspection trip of Western division of the road in President Willard's private car.

THE ROADSIDE TREE LAW

Its Provisions But Slightly Affected by Recent Legislation.

At its last legislative session the Maryland General Assembly enacted an amendment to the State's roodside tree law as passed by the previous Legislature. This amendment carried a minor modification of the State-wide law that trees belonging within public rights-of-way shall be handled as such, not cut down or indiscriminately trimmed to satisfy the whim of anyone who happens to object to their being beside the roadway, whether the objector were the abutting householder, a professional trimmer, or someone whose wires were in the way of the trees.

The exception states "that trees standing within the right-of-way of unimproved public roads which have not been surfaced with either stone, shell, gravel, concrete, brick, asphalt, or other improved surface may be cut down and removed by the abutting landowner for his own use without first obtaining a permit." This passage, taken verbatim from the Law, defines clearly and exactly the only change made by the Legislature of 1916 since its passage by the body of 1914. This exception was inserted at the instance of the Board of Forestry, which must enforce the law.

Since the enactment of this measure practically the only objection disinteresdly raised by anyone who has witnessed it in application has occurred over the protection accorded trees shading unimproved highways. These latter, of course, seldom traverse the most popular districts, being in consequence not heavily travelled and their appearance more a matter of local than general concern. People residing beside them must therefore look to their appearance, and the Amendment places the trees of the abutting landowners altogether in his hands, for his own use. The trees lining such roads are very frequently of nearly valueless specimens and speices, often as well being so placed along the narrow roads that occasionally they interfere with the operations of adjoining farmers.

Those favoring greater latitude in the governing of these particular conditions, reenforced in certain cases by others who for other reasons wished also to have the bars let down, variously advanced and advocated a number of revisions and exceptions which were impractical to a greater or less degree, some of them applying only in one county, some in one or two others. When these had for the greater part been dropped, those who had originally interesteted themselves in securing the Roadside Tree Law for the State decided that the above given modification of this Act most nearly met the situation from all sides, safely and satisfactorily.

This change cannot detract in the slightest from the proper shading of largely travelled, improved highways, though at the same time it gives to such landowners as may have property rights alongside unimproved highways authority to themselves remove forthwith any offending shade trees, for their own use. At the same time the public, along any roadway--improved or unimproved, macadamized or dirt—will continue to be thoroughly protected in the matter of its shade trees from the operations of persons, not the owners, who for personal reasons might destroy or damage public shade trees.

This is a slight change in a modern, constructive piece of legislation, passed for the good of the State as a whole, enforced since its enactment for the direct welfare of the public. This amendment will be a further aid to its more general understanding, enforcemants and benefits.

Damage Suit Dismissed.

The suit of eight-year-old Robert E. Weirs, for $5000 damages against State Senator Harvey J. Speicher of Accident, removed to Hagerstown from the Circuit Court for this county, was settled and dismissed one day last week. Early in May of last year young Weirs ran in front of Senator Speicher's automobile at Narrows Park, near Cumberland, and was injured, his left leg being fractured and other injuries being sustained by him. The suit of the boy's father, Christopher Weirs, for $1000 damages against the Senator for loss or his son's services, was also dismissed.

Notice To Tax-Payers

This is to notify the Taxpayers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1916 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 45 Chapter 506, Acts of 1896, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills:

This is to notify all taxpayers that no discount will be allowed for the prompt payment of State taxes levied for the year 1916.

Chapter 650 of the Acts of 1916, provides that "the State taxes are due and payable on the first day of July succeeding the levy, and if not paid on or before September first, interest shall be charged from said first day of September. Said State taxes shall be in arrear on and after the first day of January succeeding the date of the levy, and it shall be the duty of Collectors, Treasurers and other officers who may be charged with the collection of the same immediately thereafter to proceed to collect said taxes in accordance with the provisions of law for the collection of delinquent taxes. It shall also be the duty of the Collectors of County Treasurer or other officers collecting said taxes to make monthly returns and remittances to the Comptroller of the amounts thereof collected from time to time."

"THE KINGDOM, THE POWER AND THE GLORY"

From the Omaha Nebraskan.

Suppose the president of the United States were to throw away all thought of "propriety" and "international custom" and official "dignity," and issue an appeal to the waring nations of Europe—an appeal made in humanity's name—to bring this terrible war to an end.

Suppose this appeal were made not in the privacy of diplomatic circles, but made within the hearing of all the world? Wouldn't it be great?

If written as only Woodrow Wilson could write it, wouldn't it go ringing round the wide, wide world? Wouldn't it go ringing through the chambers of human hearts in every land beneath the sun? Wouldn't it be sweet music in the ears of the good God, Himself?

Suppose, then, that every Englishman and every German and Austrian and Frenchman—and every plain, ordinary American—within the borders of our own land should give the prayer he has given to partisan cause to the support of our President's appeal for universal peace? Wouldn't it be great?

Suppose all the energy and ingenuity that have been put forth by partisans in our own land in helping European favorites through money and speech and writings—and conspiracies—should be exerted in support of our President's appeal made in humanity's name. Wouldn't it be great?

Suppose that our prayers our hopes, our faith, our tears, should touch the hearts of the rank and file in England, in Germany, and in other of the warring countries until they too, took up the cry for peace? Wouldn't it be great?

Suppose all the world, outside of the kings and their marching armies should follow the leadership of an American President brave enough to do the simplest of things in the hope of accomplishing the biggest of results? Wouldn't it be great?

Of course, it would be a simple thing to do. But let us not forget that "simple things" were responsible for this war. And let us remember that all the big things of life have been accomplished through simple things.

The biggest conquests that have ever been won in civilization came as the result of original efforts so simple that they were sneered at in their pioneer days.

The biggest books that have ever been written were rejected at one time by those who could not recognize the bigness of simplicity.

The biggest fortunes that have ever been amassed have been due to the recognition of the value of simple things by one man who could see treasures at his very feet while his neighbor was seeking wealth in the clouds.

The biggest thoughts that have ever been held in the minds of men are the thoughts that deal with the so-called "simple" things of life.

The biggest forces in the American battle against human slavery were put forth by one man who was dragged through the streets of Boston with a rope around his neck and by another who hunted and slain and persecuted even as the poor creatures whom he sought to serve were hunted and slain. But Garrison fulfilled his promise, "I will be heard," and the soul of John Brown goes marching on through the ages.

The biggest person that ever trod the earth was crucified for the simple truth He taught, and today all civilization gives answer to His judge's question, "What is truth?" by pointing to the things He taught, and for the teaching of which He died, and "writing upon the eternal dome, glittering with stars" the words "THIS is the truth!" So it has been written in the simplest of verse and the sublimest of truth, "I know a world that is rent and torn, of hearts that faint and tire; but I know of a Name, a Name, a Name, that can set that world on fire."

Wouldn't it be worth the effort for the President of our great country to break all restraint and make this trial! What if all the world seems on fire! What if millions are in arms bent on war! What if the ears of kings are stopped to human cries and their hearts untouched by human sufferings! "One on God's side is a majority," and no one may surely say what would be the result of a simple, heartfelt, God-directed appeal, coming from the White House of America. No one may surely predict a failure to a call made upon all civilization to go marching to "the still, sad music of humanity."

Is it not worth the effort? Even if it did not bring immediate results, it would not be lost. It might bring peace. Wouldn't it be great?

Even this editorial, printed as it is in a weekly newspaper, cannot be lost. It is conceived in Truth and written in the deepest solemnity. Humble in origin, inconspicuous, so far as concerns the great world—it is all that. But it speaks what is in the hearts of countless millions of men women and children. More than that, it must speak what is in the very heart of God, Himself. And so I send it on its way, knowing it cannot be lost, feeling that for its very truth it will touch the hearts of those who read, and giving it—in the deepest reverence—the blessing of the world-wide prayer: "Our Father which art in Heaven, Hallowed by Thy name. Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors. Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from all evil. For Thine is the Kingdom, the Power and the Glory, forever. Amen."

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Gambling.

I see no harm in it says one. Let us admit that in progressive euchre, it is not the desire to get money but pleasure, yet to give zest, there is added the very thing that makes it a crime against civil law, as well as the divine, it is then an evil in its self and the source of evil. It makes every participant a law breaker, who throws himself liable to arrest. The person who practices this defies the law of the state and of his church and were he to treat his banker as he does the church his financial reputation would be gone in a jiffy. No harm in that which defies law human and divine! No harm in an institution that tends to and does turn youthful minds away from honest labor and healthful employment! No harm in that which cultivates a passion for gambling which is as remorseless as the vilest passion of the soul. Which tempts its devotee to neglect family, and to follow which, the young man will rob merchants and employees.

A steamer was going up the Cumberland river. The gamblers had everything their own way. Among them was a young man who was fast losing his money, as the excitement of the game increased he drank more and more. When he found that his money was gone he walked the deck with wild gesticulations. He reeled and fell into the water. He was fished out and barely saved. That night he was delirious. He thought he was at home with his mother. He thought it was his mother who raised him up and was giving him water. "Thank you, mother, you have always been so kind to me. Will you forgive me just this once? If you will I will never drink or gamble any more." No harm! then would you teach your children to play? You would be afraid to do that, for the better instincts of our nature revolt against it. You would shrink from being the one to place your child in danger.

They would very readily fall into the practice, but they will not be so moderate in their practice as older ones. This fashionable game flourishes only because it is regarded as an innocent past time. Its seductiveness makes it dangerous.

But I am conscientious in doing it. Is conscience educated in the principles of God's word? Conscientious! then why so anxious to conceal it? If it is a laudable thing why try to keep it out of the papers, or why ashamed to know that you won the first prize or the boby? Why slip into a parlor and carefully shut out the gaze of the world, just like they do in a den; or why not ask the minister to come in and join you? Should he chance to drop in, why would you hustle the spots into the dark and look so innocent or scared. Or why publish the euchre party under another name, designed to mislead, conceal and deceive. Because it is a lying institution that loves darkness, yet professing Christians are partakers of the unfruitful works of darkness.

Society favors and defends what gratifies the palate, the sense of beauty and the love of admiration. The world and flesh run not in society. Extravagance and immodesty in dress, hypocrisy in conversation, affectation in deportment, rivalries, petty jealousies and dishonesties.

The poor are rejected, the rich are courted, and simplicity is ridiculed, yet society dictates to Christian people what they shall do or allow to be done.

Shall it sneer at modesty, good taste, true culture and Christian conscientiousness, have weight with the followers of the man of Nazareth?

True man is social being, but he is also a rational being. Unless the gratification of this element tends to intelligence, grace and character, solitude were better.

In this way test society. Does the card table, with its prizes, promote higher elements of character? "Monkeys may play tricks on each other and grin over their success at a comrades expense. Pet dogs may perform their antics, parrots may repeat their words, peacocks may strut, but do these constitute society for rational beings; and shall their human representatives, with or without the refinements of the times dictate the condition of social recognition to scholars, to women of purity and refinement; to dignified matrons, to believers in the majesty of the soul, the love of God; to saints who seek God's image and desire the fellowship of royal souls in the kingdom everlasting."

Let society go its low ways of selfish pleasure, it has nothing worth the Christians search. Resent its dictation in the spirit of noble manhood and womanhood. What! shall we give up society? No, only all such society.

There is a rational society that it is well to cultivate. Organize such as benefits the Christian conception of true society, which is as far above the other in high and honorable things as the dome of St. Peter's is above the fever breeding marshes of the Campagna. A society that exalts the enjoyment of intelligent conversation, music and art studies that meets for improvement; that finds rest and recreation in rational activity; that violates no law of physical health; that fosters no animal passions or propensities; that imperils no young life by exciting latent energies of evil, but which points upward toward the clear heaven of honorable and useful character. This is ideal.

I charge this fashionable amusement of being the instigator to evil actions the beginning of a course which may end in disgrace and death.

But enough for the present. One more article and I shall dismiss the subject.

Your's most truly,
JOANNES.

LEGAL TANGLE OVER DESERTED SALOON

Garrett Countian Takes Over Another's Place of Business.

State's Attorney J. Philip Roman, with the co-operation of the sheriff and his deputies, has thrown a monkey wrench into a hitherto unduly active department of the "thurst parlor" machinery of Lonaconing and thereby hangs a tale freightened with interest and thinly veneering a vein of humor about the thickness of the Tyson seam. But to the narrative.

George W. Brown owned and operated a "wet goods" emporium near the intersection of Railroad and Jackson streets in Coney, and in the course of his business recently, became confused in his dates, for the April grand jury discovered that he had been selling liquor on Sunday, and returned an indictment to that effect. Now previous to the grand inquisitorial proceedings, George had applied for a license to continue in business as the law requires, and there being no legal objection on the first day of the present month the permit was granted. George, however, learning or at least suspecting that the grand jury, then in session, had an inkling that he had forgotten to "remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy," concluded not to present himself at the clerk of the court's office to obtain his license, but instead like "the Arab, folded his tent and silently stole away," leaving one perfectly good saloon silent and sepulchral as "a windowless palace of peace." Now the sheriff with his warrant for violation of the Sunday liquor selling law, could find no trace of George, and meanwhile covetous eyes were gazing toward that perfectly good but deserted saloon with the idea of once more opening its portals to a thirsty public.

It was at this juncture that one, Marx Layman, of Garrett county, loomed upon the scene, according to his statement, at the instance of Alex Boyd, another saloon keeper of Lonaconing. Layman says he was approached by Boyd with a proposition like this. Boyd knew where there was a "perfectly good" saloon with a license to do business all ready to be issued, and he thought he could clear up the whole transaction for the paltry sum of $500. Layman was interested for the story "listened well." So he arranged to accompany Boyd to Cumberland, he says, and the two applying at the clerk of court's office, received George W. Brown's license to operate a saloon in Lonaconing, in payment of the fee of $100.50 which Layman says he paid with $450.00 additional to Boyd for putting him next to "pay dirt" in such an unexpected manner and choice locality.

Now Layman had been in business in "Brown's old stand" several days only but sufficient time in which to stock up with a most complete outfit of malt, vinous and fermented liquors, when States Attorney Roman and Sheriff McFarland happened along to officially inquire why Layman was doing business with another man's license contrary to the statues made and provided. A warrant was served upon Layman and Boyd's connection with the fortuitous transaction being ascertained a warrant for his arrest was also served. Both pleaded a jury trial and their cases will be heard in the criminal trial during the present term of court. States Attorney Roman has also applied to the court for a suppression of Boyd's license and the permit issued to Brown under which Layman was operating a saloon, on the ground that the men are not fit persons to engage in the liquor business. Now Layman wants the return of his $450 commission from Boyd, who has thus far failed to "come across" and Layman threatens prosecution of Boyd on the charge of obtaining money under false pretense.

After some fashion, not made clear at this period, Brown, though hidden from public view, learned that his saloon had changed hands without his consent and he drifted into 'Coney yesterday with the object of again taking possession of that "perfectly good" saloon, now better than ever, since it had been abundantly restocked. It was while searching for the key to his "thirst parlor" that he encountered Bailiff Hohing, who promptly placed him under arrest. The Sheriff and States Attorney were duly apprised of Brown's unexpected return and his apprehension and he was accordingly transported to Cumberland in the State's Attorney's automobile for a sojourn in the county jail until such time as the court may dispose of his case.—Saturday's Cumberland News.

An 8-foot Spread From a 45-inch Box

IN the Low Corn King catalogue it takes pages to tell about the good construction that backs up the "8-foot-wide spread from a narrow 45-inch box." Here the space is limited.

See the spreader and study these things: The simple worm and worm gear which drive the apron can be reversed, doubling the wear qualities. The gear is entirely enclosed, away from dust and dirt. The relation of beater and apron is just right to do the best work on the manure with the least power. Low Corn King is a steel spreader—frame, beater axles, wheels, driving parts—all of light, strong, compact steel. You return the apron by a convenient foot lever—no hand cranking, no getting down from seat.

These things—remember—back up the even, satisfactory 8-foot-or-better wide spread. Get acquainted with the Low Corn King spreader. See the local dealer who sells it.

CHAPTER——

AN ACT providing for the issuing and sale of bonds by the Mayor and Council of Grantsville for constructing, erecting and maintaining water works and sewerage in said town of Grantsville, condemn such land as may be necessary for the building of said works, and to levy taxes on the assessable property of said town to redeem said bonds and to pay the interest thereon.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That for the purpose of establishing, constructing and maintaining water works capable of furnishing the residents of said town with a good and sufficient supply of water for ordinary purposes and fire protection, and for establishing, erecting. constructing and maintaining a sewerage system in said town for drainage and sewerage purposes the Mayor and Council of Grantsville be and they are hereby authorized and empowered and directed to issue bonds in the name of the Mayor and Council of Grantsville to an amount not exceeding Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose aforesaid. The said Bonds shall be for the sums not less than One Hundred dollars ($100) each nor more than Five Hundred dollars ($500) each, to be signed by the Mayor and President of the Council and countersigned by the Clerk of said Council with the corporate seal of said town there to be affixed, bearing interest at not less than Five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually in each and every year and dated on the first day of their issue; the said bonds shall be numbered serially. Bond No. 1 shall be due and payable Two years after date of issue, and thereafter each bond shall mature and be payable each consecutive year from the maturity of Bond No. 1, in the order of their consecutive numbers; provided, however, the Mayor and Council of Grantsville are hereby given the option to redeem any or all bonds outstanding Five years from date of issue or at any interest period thereafter; that all of said bonds thereafter shall be due and payable within Sixty years from the date of their issue, and shall be forever exempt from all county and municipal taxation for any purpose, and shall have printed on them a reference to the Act of Assembly authorizing the issue thereof.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and Concil of Grantsville are hereby authorized and empowered to construct and erect water works and sewerage for said town and to contract for the purchase in fee simple or lease for a term of years, renewable at their pleasure, any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses or streams, and to use or occupy forever or for a term of years, any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses or streams, which they may deem expedient or necessary for the purpose of furnishing said town with water and maintaining said sewerage, and they are hereby invested with all the rights and powers necessary for the induction of water into the said town and the maintenance of said sewerage system. If for any cause the said Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall be unable to agree with any owner of real or leasehold property, springs, brooks, streams or water courses or any other material which partake of or in a necessary part of reality, or for any right of way which they may find necessary for the conduit of said water and sewerage in its entry into or in said town or if such owner is under any disability or incapacity to contract or absent out of the county or unknown the said Mayor and Council of Grantsville is hereby clothed with the power of condemnation under the right of eminent domain as provided in Section 251 of Article 23 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland as fully as if said section had been herein incorporated, and their manner of procedure of condemnation for the purpose of this Act shall in all particulars be the same as if provided by said section 251 of said Article 23. The said Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall have full power to fix schedules of rate for furnishing water and sewerage to private residences and other buildings, and the said Mayor and Council shall have power to collect the same as other taxes are collected and the income therefrom shall be applied, first, for expenses and maintenance, and afterwards for the payment of the interest on the bonds and sinking fund to meet the bonds at maturity.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the title of said water works and sewerage, and all lands, estates and water courses, waterways, conduits, pipes, machinery and all other parts hereto shall when completed or acquired vest in the Mayor and Council of Grantsville; and every person who shall willfully or knowing pollute any spring, stream, brook, water course, reservoir or standpipe in connection with the said water works or built or constructed by throw any impure or deleterious substance or thing into the same, or by swimming, bathing or washing themselves or by washing clothes or any other thing therein, or by committing any nuisance in or near the source of supply or the reservoir or standpipe for said water works so as to pollute the same shall upon conviction of such offence be liable to a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars, nor more than three hundred dollars, for each offence, to be recovered by the Mayor and Council of Grantsville before a Justice of the Peace as other fines are recoverable, or to imprisonment in the county jail or the House of Correction for a term of not less than six months nor more than eighteen months or both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the Justice of the Peace, one-half of such fine to go to the informer and the balance to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville for the purposes of this Act.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of redeeming said bonds at their maturity and for securing the prompt payment of the interest thereon, the Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall for the year of the issue of said bonds and annually thereafter until the maturity of said bonds, levy a tax on the assessable property of said town, not exceeding fifty cents on the one hundred dollars, to pay the interest thereof, and the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($250) of the principal of said debt for the payment of the same at maturity. The said sum of Two Hundred and Fifty dollars ($250) shall be held and invested by the Mayor and Council of Grantsville as a sinking fund for the redemption of said bonds at their maturity, and the said Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall, from time to time, deposit the money belonging to said sinking fund and the increment thereof in some safe depository, which pays interest on deposits, or shall invest the same in state or such other bonds satisfactory to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville as to them may seem best, or in the purchase or redemption of said bonds as may be offered for sale or redemption, and upon the purchase of any such bonds by the said Mayor and Council they shall be immediately cancelled by stamping across their face (cancelled by sinking fund), and no portion of said sinking fund so levied shall ever be diverted to any other purpose than to the purchase and liquidation of said bonds. The money collected each year by the treasurer or tax collector on account of taxes to the extra said sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($250) shall be set apart for said sinking fund, and a separate account shall be kept thereof and be deposited to the credit of said fund, and no part of which shall be chargeable to insolvencies on account failure of assessments or collections.

SCE. 5. And be it enacted, That the money arising from the sale of said bonds (which said bonds shall be sold either at auction or by sealed bids, after due advertisement thereof to the highest responsible bidder), shall be deposited in bank to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville, and subject to their check, and the clerk of said town shall keep a book, to be especially provided for the purpose, of the names and addresses of the purchasers of the bonds sold, and the amount realized on the sales together with the serial numbers of the bouds.

SEC. 6. And be it enacted, That in any prosecution before a Justice of the Peace under Section 3 of this Act, the accused and the Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall have the right to an appeal to the Circuit Court for Garrett County, within thirty days, and a jury trial. Any person or persons convicted before a Justice of the Peace under Section 3 of this Act who shall be held by recognizance or be committed to the county jail to appear before the next regular jury term to the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

SEC. 7. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and Council of Grantsville be and they are hereby authorized and empowered to negotiate, sell and dispose of the said bonds as hereinbefore provided in Section 5 of this Act, or so many thereof as so the Mayor and Council may be deemed necessary for the purposes of this Act. And the said Mayor and Council are fully authorized to make all necessary rules and regulations, and to pass all necessary ordinances, with penalties for their violations, and to do all other necessary acts for the proper managing, maintaining and repairing said water works and sewerage systems and for the protection thereof.

SEC. 8. And be it enacted, That the funds realized from the sale of said bonds shall be applied to the purposes of this Act, and shall be paid by check signed by the Mayor and President of the Council and the Mayor and said Council of Grantsville are hereby authorized and empowered to pass such orders for the payment of money due for the construction of said water works and sewerage, or to the contractor or contractors for the construction of the same, as shall, from time to time, be due or earned by the contractor or contractors or parties doing the work in the prosecution of said work, and also from time to time, to pass orders for the payment of property purchased or condemned, and for material furnished in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, and may in its discretion employ a competent hyerographical engineer to suuperintend the work of constructing such water works and sewerage system.

SEC. 9. And be it enacted, That on the first Monday in April, 1917, on date of regular municipal election to be held in the town of Grantsville, which election shall be held in the same manner, and under the same regulations as other municipal elections held in said town, there shall be placed on the ballots at said election for the purpose of submitting the question as to whether this Act shall take effect to the legal voters of said town, and all ballots at said election shall have printed on them the words, "For water and sewerage," and the words "Against water and sewerage," and all voters desiring to vote for the provisions of this Act shall mark out the words "Against water and sewerage," and all voters desiring to vote against the provisions of this Act shall mark out the words "For water and sewerage." And if the judges of election shall decide that a majority of the votes cast are for "water and sewerage" then this act shall be in full force of law, otherwise of no effect. The Judges of Election shall under their hands, immediately after said election, certify to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville the result of the said election.

SEC. 10. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect on the first day of June, 1916.

CHAPTER 514.

AN ACT to incorporate the town of Accident in Garrett County, Maryland.

WHEREAS, at a meeting of the male citizens and residents of the town of Accident, in Garrett County, Maryland, held on the first day of January, 1916, it was decided by a vote of said citizens and residents of said town attending said meeting that an application should be made to the General Assembly of Maryland for a charter of said town "of Accident."

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the citizens and inhabitants of the town of Accident in Garrett County, State of Maryland, are hereby incorporated by the name of the "Mayor and Council of Accident," that by that name they have perpetual succession, may sue and be sued, may have and use a common seal, and may purchase and hold such real, personal and mixed property as may be required for the purposes of said corporation, and may dispose of such property when necessary for the benefit of said corporation: and all the property and funds of every kind belonging to said corporation are vested in the Mayor and Council of Accident.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, The corporate limits of the town of Accident are hereby declared to be as follows: Beginning at the Northeast corner of John Garringer land on the west side of the State Road, thence South 27 degrees West, 4 perches South 66 degrees East, 100 perches to stake, stone and pointers, thence North 35 degrees East, 160 perches to 6 feet Northwest of Service tree thence North 26½ degrees West, 161 perches to stake on West side of State Road near a culvert, thence South 72½ degrees West, 96 perches to corner at stone fence, thence South 42½ degrees West, 113 perches to a locust tree, thence South 25 degrees East, to place of beginning.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That said corporation shall be governed by a Mayor and six councilmen, and that Frederick Burkhard, of said town be and he is hereby named Mayor of said town for a period of two years from the date of its incorporation ending the first Tuesday in March, 1918, and that Adam Richter and Robert A. Ravenscroft be and the same are hereby named and designated as the councilmen for the first two years from the date of its incorporation, ending on the first Tuesday in March, 1918, and that Floyd C. Diehl and Henry M. Speicher are hereby named as councilmen to serve for one year from the date of its incorporation ending on the first Tuesday in March, 1917, and hereafter an election shall be held on the first Tuesday in March in each and every year for the election of two Councilmen to serve for two years from the date of their election or until their successors shall be duly elected and qualified; and an election of Mayor of said town to serve for two years or until his successor shall be duly elected and qualified, and an election shall be held hereafter in every second year for the election of a Mayor for said town.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, The Mayor and Council shall have the power to pass all such ordinances for conducting the elections herein provided for or which may be hereafter authorized to be held and shall make returns thereof to the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett County. And the qualified voters of any of said elections shall be bona fide male residents living within the corporate limits of the town of Accident, shall be twenty-one years of age or over, who have been residents of the State of Maryland for the period of six months continuously next before the date of any such election; and that no one shall be eligible for the office of Mayor and councilmen of said town unless he shall be a real estate holder or owner of real estate of said town. And the Mayor shall have been a resident of said town for two years previous to his election, and the councilmen shall have been residents of said town one year prior to their election.

SEC. And be it enacted, That if any vacancy shall occur by death, resignation, removal or failure to act of the Mayor or one or more of the councilmen elected as aforesaid the remaining councilmen or a majority of them shall elect a proper person to fill said vacany.

SEC. 6. And be it enaced, That every Mayor and councilman before he proceeds to act as such shall make oath before some Justice of the Peace of Garrett County that he will diligently and faithfully, according to the best of his skill and judgment, perform the duties of Mayor or councilman as the case may be, without favor, partiality or prejudice, and a certificate of such qualification shall be returned by the said Justice of the Peace to the said council to be filed and recorded among their proceedings.

SEC. 7. And be it enacted, That said council shall meet at such place as they may appoint within said town on the first Monday of every month ensuing their election and as much oftener by adjournment as they may deem necessary; that the said council shall elect a president of the council, appoint a clerk, a bailiff who shall be tax collector of the town, an attorney, and one or more assessoss of taxes and fix their salary for compensation. All the officers appointed by said council shall hold their respective offices for one year from the date of their appointment or until their successors are appointed and qualified.

SEC. 8. And be it enacted, That all checks and other orders for the payment of money shall be signed by the clerk of said town and countersigned by the Mayor thereof; that the said clerk shall be the custodian of the monies of said town and other funds, and shall keep a full and accurate set of books and accounts of the town's monies and funds, and of its records and papers; he shall also keep a journal of the proceedings of the council, which shall be open at all times for the inspection of any citizen; the said clerk shall act as the treasurer of the said town, and shall pay out the funds of said corporation only upon the orders of the council to be signed by the president thereof. He shall before he enters upon his duties take the oath prescribed for the members of the council, and execute a good and sufficient bond in such amount and upon such condition as may be prescribed by the mayor and council, with sureties to be approved by the Mayor and council.

SEC 9. And be it enacted, That the bailiff before entering upon the performance of his duties shall take the same oath of office as the members of the council. and shall execute a bond in such condition and in such amount as may be prescribed by the Mayor and council with sureties to be approved by the Mayor and council for the faithful performance of his duties. He shall perform the police duties of the town and is clothed with the same power as a constable under the general laws of the State of Maryland; he shall promptly arrest all violators of the ordinances of the town and bring them before the proper officers to be dealt with according to law, and shall promptly collect and pay over to the clerk all taxes and other claims of said town which may come into his hands.

SEC. 10. And be it enacted, That the assessor or assessors shall be appointed from among the citizens of said town qualified to vote in said corporation, and before he or they shall proceed to act he or they shall take oath before a Justice of the Peace of Garrett County that he or they will assess the values of the assessable property of every sort within said town as its full cash value without favor, partially or prejudice to the best of his or their skill and judgment; he or they shall enter and record in a book to be provided for that purpose an accurate and fair account of all properties, stocks and private securities of every sort within said town liable to assessment and the valuation thereof together with a list of the owners thereof which shall be returned by him or them to the said council on or before the third Monday in June of each and every year, and which any person interested may inspect without charge, and if anyone shall feel aggrieved on account of valuation or assessment of his property by the assessor or assessors he may appeal from such valuation to the said council within four weeks from the returns of said assessment, and upon good cause being shown the said council may make an alteration in said assessment which they may deem proper and right and take from and add to the same; and for the purpose of hearing and determining appeals provided for in this section the said council shall give five days' previous notice of the time and place of hearing such appeals by advertisement to be posted in two public places in said town.

SEC. 11. And be it enacted, That the tax lists shall be prepared by the clerk and delivered to the bailiff on or before the first day of August in each year. The warrant shall be in substance as follows, to wit: "The Mayor and Council of Accident, ... Bailiff. You are hereby commanded to proceed according to law to collect and pay over the taxes hereinafter specified.

SEC. 14. And be it enacted, That all property, real, personal or mixed, bonds, stocks and valuable securities of all kinds whatsoever within the limits of said town of Accident by law liable to be valued and assessed and chargeable with taxes within this State shall be valued at its or their cash value and chargeable according to such valuation with the public assessment for the use and purposes of said corporation; any assessor appointed by the council of said town shall have the power and authority to require the owner, possessor or claimant of any property made liable to valuation and assessment to give them such full and accurate statement in writing of his property as may be necessary to enable the assessors to ascertain the value thereof, the same to be under oath of such person to be administered by them or any one of them.

SEC. 15. And be it enacted, That the said council may annually levy upon the assessable property within said town by direct tax not exceeding fifteen cents on the one hundred dollars such sum as they may deem necessary for the purpose of defraying and settling the expenses by them on behalf of said corporation.

SEC. 16. And be it enacted, That the taxes to be levied on the property so made liable to be valued and assessed shall be liens on the real and personal estate of the person or persons so indebted from the day on which the tax list shall have been delivered to the bailiff or other person authorized and appointed to receive and collect the same, and if said tax cannot be made out of the personal property of said persons against whom taxes may be charged, then the same may be collected by the collector by the sale of such real estate of said person by complying with the same requirements as the treasurer of Garrett County.

SEC. 17. And be it enacted, That the said council shall have the power to appoint a police magistrate for said corporation who shall be a justice of the peace of the State of Maryland in and for Garrett County, residing in said district No. 5. He shall have full authority, power and jurisdiction to hear, determine and pass sentences in all cases of the violation of the ordinances of said corporation, and may impose fines for such violations, or may imprison offenders against said ordinances and in default of payment of any fine imposed by him he shall commit the offender to the town lockup or to the county jail until the same be paid in accordance with law as may be provided by the ordinances of said town or provided in this charter.

SEC. 18. And be it enacted, That at the meetings of said council three shall constitute a quorum and all questions submitted shall be decided by a majority of those present, but less than a quorum shall appoint the time for a subsequent meeting and adjourn.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That all places as aforesaid used or occupied for the purpose of engaging in the games of pool, billiards, or bowling to which the public shall have access and at which charges are made for the privilege of engaging therein shall be kept closed as a place of business from hours of 11 p. m. to 6 a. m. of each night in the week, except Saturday, and closed on Sundays, and it shall be unlawful for any place or places aforesaid to be kept open during the hours above mentioned.

SEC. 3 And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for the proprietor or person in charge of any place or places as aforesaid, used or occupied for the purpose of engaging in the games of pool, billiards or bowling to which the public shall have access and at which charges are made for the privilege of engaging therein, to permit, suffer or allow any person or persons under the age of sixteen (16) years to loiter in, on or about the premises where such games as above mentioned are conducted, or engage in or participate in any manner in the conduct of any of such games or witness the participation therein of others who may lawfully be on the said premises.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That any person or persons, firm or corporation, whether proprietor or person in charge of any pool or billiard room or bowling alley in any place in Garrett County who shall violate any of the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be subject to a fine of not less than five ($5.00) nor more than Twenty Dollars ($20.00); one-half of any fine so imposed and collected to be paid to the informer thereof.

CHAPTER NO. 57

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 5 of Chapter 450, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, at its session of 1896, title, An Act to incorporate the town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett county, Maryland.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 5 of Chapter 450, of the Acts of 1896, title An Act to incorporate the town of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, Maryland, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted so as to read as follows:

SECTION 5. That on and after the year 1917, the annual election for officers of said town shall be held on the first Monday in March in each and every year. The Mayor and Council shall have the power to fix the hour and place for holding said election in said town, and the length of time the polls shall be kept open, and shall give due notice of such election by printed or written handbills, posted in at least six public and conspicuous places in said town, at least ten days prior to the holding of such election. Said Mayor and Council shall have the power to appoint Judges and Clerks for such elections, and it shall be their duty to do so, and to make all other necessary arrangements for holding the same, not herein provided for. The term of office of all officers of said town shall expire on the first Monday in March instead of the first Monday in May, or as soon as their successors are elected and qualified. This shall include the officers now serving as such in said town.

PLAN BIG REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN

Republican leaders are laying their plans for a vigorous campaign to elect the man who will be nominated at Chicago next month. They are confident that it is only necessary to make clear to the intelligent voters of the country the record of the Wilson administration to insure an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the Republican candidate and that the returns in November will indicate a sweeping Republican victory. Nor will the party leaders confine themselves to insuring the election of the President. All the indications point to the election of a Republican majority in the Senate, as well as in the House, if the work of the campaign managers is well done, and for this reason a special committee, charged to look after the interests of Republican candidates for the Senate, will be created. The Republican Congressional committee is to be recognized and the country apportioned among several sub-committees in so far as possible, to create a feeling on the part of members of responsibility, each for his own section of the country. A high class publicity bureau of the national committee will be organized with a view to spreading the facts through the press of the country in such manner that he who runs may read and that no voter need go to the polls in November without an adequate appreciation of the Democratic record and of the platform and purposes of the Republican party. The tariff, prepared ness for national self-defense and economy and efficiency of administration will be the watchwords of the Republican party in the approaching campaign, which promises to be one of the most momentous in the history of the nation.

McADOO SCHEME A LOTTERY.

Democratic cock-sureness in doubtful situation is aptly illustrated in the estimates submitted by Secretary McAdoo to Chairman Simmons of the Senate Finance Committee and Chairman Kitchin of the House Ways and Means Committee. For the next fiscal year only about $150,000,000 of new revenue will have to be provided to meet the largely increased appropriations, including the preparedness program. Mr. McAdoo says, and all of this will come from taxes on incomes, inheritances and munitions. Maybe it will.

Federal taxation of inheritances and munitions would be entirely new. As to inheritances the proposal will be adopted only after overcoming considerable opposition. There is a feeling in influential circles that this field should be reversed to the states most of which have availed themselves of it as a source of revenue. Should the federal government also tax inheritances hardships would be imposed. It passes understanding how the Secretary of the Treasury can offer as a dependable estimate any considerable sum as likely to be available from the taxation of munitions manufacturers. That business has grown up during the European war, and with the coming of peace it will practically disappear. No man knows when hostilities will cease, and it is the duty of our government to assist in bringing about peace at the earliest possible day, even at the cost of some revenue from the munitious business. Of course, our defense preparations will call for some munitions on which the tax might be imposed, but as the government would have to pay whatever it amounted to in the way of higher price for goods bought, it would not gain anything therefrom. Anyway, munitions manufacturers already pay the corporation income tax. Shall they be taxed again?

So incomes alone are left, assuredly to produce added revenue. Mr. McAdoo believes they will yield a greatly increased amount of money owing to the frustration of evasions by persons properly taxable. But it is likely also that average incomes last year were much higher than previously owing to war business and speculative profits growing out of the war-made prosperity. Such increases will vanish when the war ends and revenue will fall off accordingly. Thus it seems unless there is no change in the deplorable world condition the $150,000,000 additional revenue which Mr. McAdoo is banking on will not be available. When the war does end there is certain to be bad times in this country that will still further reduce incomes. Huge importations from Europe that will pay no tariff under the Democratic law will affect domestic industry disastrously. The war has saved us from the ruin normally inevitable under the Wilson tariff act, as Senator Penrose told the National Association of, Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers on Thursday. The only safety for American industry and assurance of adequate revenues with which to carry on the nation's business is a protective tariff. But for that we shall have to await the incoming of a Republican administration and Congress next year. The McAdoo scheme, approved by President Wilson, is no better than taking a chance in lottery.

To be awakened by the singing of the birds, to look through the warm sunshine and see the living green of the fields and forests, to realize in it all that there is never a failure in the fulfillment of the Creator's promises, helps one to catch the thought of the poet about this world—that, "though it be not the best, it is the next to the best we can ever attain.—North East Star.

WILL HUGHES RUN?

New York Paper Says He Won't Seek Nomination.

The New York American Monday published the following under Washington date:

The first statement by Justice Charles E. Hughes of the Supreme Court on the Republican nomination for President was obtained today. Justice Hughes is quoted as saying by a leader in the Republican party favorable to the pre-convention campaign for his nomination:

"In my opinion, Roosevelt is going to be nominated, so it makes it unnecessary to discuss anyone else at all."

Great pressure had been brought to bear upon Justice Hughes to authorize the campaign in his behalf. That was his reply.

Justice Hughes' statement, which was made within the last week, was interpreted by his supporters to mean he has made up his mind he will not connive at getting the nomination, so that if he should be named he may be able to say that while on the Supreme Bench he never by word or deed sought the honor.

His friends declare he will not be disappointed if he is not nominated; that he is perfectly sincere and content to remain on the bench. His closest friends, those more anxious to know his real attitude toward the nomination, assert they are wholly without guidance or suggestion from him.

They believe, however, that Justice Hughes will be controlled by the presence or lack of unanmity of spirit at the Chicago convention. They believe he would refuse the nomination if it should come to him after a bitter fight.

Frank Hitchcock, former Postmaster General, has been in Washington for three days in the interest of the movement for Hughes. He saw the Justice, but was unable to induce him to consent to the use of his name.

It was predicted by an authority today that Burton and Cummins will drop out of the race this week. It was said Cummins' strength, in general, would go to Hughes, but that some of it would be for Roosevelt. The Burton votes are to be divided between Roosevelt and Hughes. It was also said Fairbanks would withdraw if it were not for the fact that he desires a complimentary vote.

Republican Senators declare there is no question that Colonel Roosevelt would support Justice Hughes if the latter were nominated. They say Colonel Roosevelt's controlling desire is the defeat of the Democratic Administration, and that he is thoroughly stirred up.

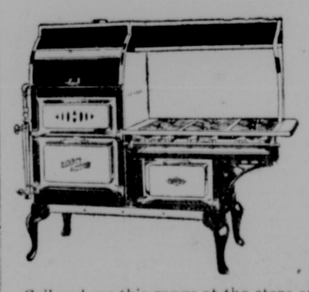
Do You Use Gas?

If you do come to W. E. Shirer and inspect and have demonstrated to you the Direct Action Gas Range, with the regular cooking top and the Direct Action Oven with the fireless cooker convenience added. The oven is the most essential part of all ranges and this range possesses the most marvelous oven yet produced which is a cooking oven as well as a baking oven and can be used to boil and bake at the same time.

The oven of this gas-range is operated on a distinctly new principle. The burners are placed in the oven itself; hence the name, "direct action." In design, the range is on efficient cabinet type with a comfortable working height of thirty-two inches. Connected with the oven is a thermostat which reduces automatically the amount of gas allowed to flow through the burner at any temperature indicated. Thus at 200 degrees F. only a sub-flame burns, while if the thermostat is set for a temperature of 300 degrees F. the furners show a full flame until 325 degrees F. is reached, when the supply of gas is cut off and the flame is reduced to a mere pin-point, capable of maintaining the temperature set. With this arrangement an oven of known temperature can be indefinitely maintained, and this is a marked advance in gas-cookery. The food is first placed in the oven, the gas is then lighted, and the thermostat is set for the desired temperature. The practical results obtained in this oven, as well as the temperature readings, show it to be an excellent investment.



Call and see this range at the store of W. E. Shirer any day or if you phone W. E. Shirer he will demonstrate to you any evening. This range must be seen to be appreciated.

Porter L. Custer, et al., vs. Amanda Custer et al.

No. 1691 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this petition is to procure an order from the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in equity, authorizing and directing the Trustee named in the decree in this cause to pay over a certain amount of money audited to Ora Crissie to the petitioner, Patrick S. Fazenbaker.

The petition, after setting out the filing of the original bill, the passage of a decree of sale and the appointment of the trustees, states, that after the passage of said decree, but before the sale of said real estate to-wit: on the 1st day of November, 1915, the said Ora Crissie, together with her husband, sold and conveyed to the said Pytrick S. Fazenbaker, all their rights, title and interest in the real estate in the proceedings mentioned, and executed and delivered a deed therefor, which deed has been already filed in this cause with the petition of the said Fazenbaker praying that he be admitted as a party defendant therein, and is now prayed to be taken and considered as a part thereof.

The petition further states that there has been an audit stated in said cause, and prays that the amount audited to the said Ora Crissie may be paid over to said petitioner.

It is thereupon, this 23d day of May, 1916, ordered, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in equity, that the petitioner, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, once in each of four successive weeks, before the 24th day of June, next, give notice to the said Ora Crissie of the object and substance of said petition, warning her to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 1st day of July, next, to show cause, if any she has, why an order ought not be passed as prayed. And it is further ordered, that in lieu of such publication, a copy of this order may be served personally upon the said Ora Crissie, on or before the 20th day of June, 1916, in accordance with Section 127 of Article 16 of the Code of Public General Laws of the State of Maryland, warning her to appear and show cause as aforesaid.

Resolutions of Respect and in Memory of the Rev. John M. Davis, D. D., Superintendent Emeritus of St. Paul's M. E. Sunday School of Oakland.

WHEREAS, In the exercise of an allwise and divine Providence, it has pleased Almighty God to call from earth to heaven the Reverend John M. Davis, superintendent emeritus of our Sunday school, who departed this life on Saturday, the 13th day of May, 1916, full of years, honors, christian love and lively hope of eternal life; and

WHEREAS, This Sunday school, over which he presided as superintendent for forty-one consecutive years and wherein it was his God given privilege to lead and guide hundreds and even thousands of souls to the Cross of Christ, now deem it proper to give a testimonial in this form of the love, esteem and veneration in which it held him and now revers his blessed memory; therefore be it

RESOLVED, By Saint Paul's Methodist Episcopal Sunday school of Oakland, that we pay tribute to his memory and honor to his virtuous life.

Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His Saints. It is to them the most blessed of experiences. While the eye of the body slowly closes to the fading beauties of earth, the eye of the soul is opening to the glories that are to be revealed. In relaxing his hold on all that life held dear we believe his spiritual hands held with firmer grasp of faith, and a closer embrace of love to the things that are unseen and eternal in the heavens. While the outward man perishes, the inward man is renewed. The day of his death is indeed better than the day of his birth, for, rich with all the accumulated treasures of spiritual knowledge and experience—the growth of a whole lifetime of discipline—he comes to his last hour like the mellow fruit that gathers into itself all the life of the tree, all the dew and sunshine of summer, and at last bends and breaks the branches from which it hangs. The death of our beloved, departed saint of God is swallowed up in victory. Death to him is but the passing shadow between faith and sight, hope and full fruition, transient and transparent as the last filmy cloud that veils for a moment the sunrise. In the chamber of death the spirit is released and finds an open gate to Heaven. His death is a translation. The unfolding of a life whose spiritual character had its beginning on earth. His dying is to us like the setting of the sun on a calm summer evening, which makes the western sky ablaze with splendor, and glorifies even the dark clouds that gather round his descent. It is like the changing of the somber green foliage of summer into the gorgeous brightness of the autumnal hues, investing even the sadness of death and decay with heavenly beauty.

Who, on beholding such a marvelous proof the transforming and sustaining power of grace as we beheld in our friend, would not exclaim; "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my latter end be like his." The record of his magnanimous life entwine like a running vine around the memory of our friend and spiritual father. Every beautiful, unselfish act is now a perfumed flower whose fragrance lingers, a blessing and benediction to those he loved. He lived well. He died triumphant. He lived not for selfish gain but for the glory of God and the good of his fellow creatures. Though the place that knows him will know him no more forever, yet those whom he blessed by his living will arise and call him blessed, and the undying moral power of his character and life will continue to produce lasting influence and impressions upon men's lives generations to come.

Just as the sunset leaves a long enduring after-glow in the natural heavens, so will the sunset of his life make the world fairer and richer because he lived and died in it.

He faded, like all mortals, as a leaf; but the fragrance of his life still clings to our memory as the scent of the rose lingers in its dry, withered leaves.

The singing birds, busy bees, blossoming flowers and running brooks were full of inspiration and suggestion to him. Gentleness and modesty, with deep sincerity and honesty of purpose characterized every act of his life. We shall ever miss his cheering words. His wisdom and council, ripened by years of christian experience are still our rich legacy.

He was always interested in his community and town. He loved his home, his family, and his church. The Sunday School was perhaps dearest of all organizations to his heart. He wns the children's friend, the youths' adviser, the mature man's counselor and the old man's comforter.

He loved nature and all it taught. To him the flowers and fields were full of poetry. The mountains and streams were sermons of life and beauty. He was optimistic, and tried to give every one who came in contact with him, a taste of the joy and blessing that only knowledge and christian experience can give.

He sowed the seeds of inquiry in the fruitful soil of children's minds, and though his voice is stilled and his hands at rest, his work still lives. His life influence is potent; what its fruitage will be, only the oncoming years will reveal.

RESOLVED, That the sympathy of the Officers, Teachers and Scholars of this school be, and is, hereby extended to the two surviving sons and to all the bereaved relatives of the deceased, commending them for consolation to the sustaining grace of a loving and merciful Heavenly Father. May we ever cherish, honor and strive to emulate the example of his life, and so live that we shall enjoy the felicity of eternal happiness with him in heaven; therefore be it further

RESOLVED, That the Sunday School hold a memorial service during its session June 4th, 1916, as a further mark of respect to the memory of our departed Superintendent and that all former members of the Sunday School, as well as the church communicants, be invited to participate with the Sunday School in said service.

RESOLVED, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of Saint Paul's Methodist Episcopal Sunday School of Oakland, a copy sent to each of the surviving sons, Charles S. and John W. Davis.

Resolutions Adopted by the Board of Directors of The Garrett National Bank in Memory of Rev. John M. Davis.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Garrett National Bank of Oakland, held on last Thursday, the 18th inst., the following resolutions in memory of the late Rev. John M. Davis, a member of the board from the time the bank was instituted as a state bank until the beginning of the present year, were presented and adopted:

Oakland, Md., May 18th, 1916.

At a meeting of the directors of the Garrett National Bank, held this date, resolutions were offered and passed in memory of the Rev. John M. Davis, who was one of the directors of The Garrett National Bank from its foundation until just prior to his death, which occurred on the 13th day of May, 1916.

WHEREAS, In the providence of Almighty God the Rev. John M. Davis was called from all earthly things to his heavenly home, on the above date, and in his death and removal from our midst, this community has lost a christian exemplar and a man who was respected and beloved by all who knew him.

Mr. Davis was one of the first directors of The Garrett County Bank, and after it became merged into a National Bank, continued to act in that capacity and we, his associates, always found in him a safe adviser and from his experience in the affairs of men he was always conservative in his views and his judgment was always taken and given in proper weight in deciding important matters of business, and he was always looked up to and his counsel sought in all important matters connected with the bank, and with all this, he showed that patience and sternness of character which proved him to be a valued member of the board, and whilst he retired from these duties but a short time prior to his death we feel that his eminent services should be recognized and placed upon the records of this bank.

Upon motion being made, these resolutions were unanimously adopted, and a copy of same ordered sent to his family.

G. A. FRALEY,
Cashier.

On Monday evening the Rev. McCamic, minister of the Deer Park Circuit, fell and sustained an injury to his back and as a consequence was unable to meet his appointment at Thayerville that evening. He is now much improved. On Sunday evening in the Deer Park church Rev. McCamic will deliver a sermon to the old soldiers.

A number of workmen, under the supervision of Mr. S. A. Nally, are engaged this week cleaning the stone work of the Garrett National Bank building on Second street. The work is progressing well and will be quite an improvement.

Grant Lipscomb, who was an inmate of the Springfield Asylum for the past several months, was brought to his home in Oakland Saturday and on Monday was taken to the farm of Samuel Rodeheaver, near Sand Flat. His condition as a result of the treatment he received at the hospital is very much improved.

CHAPTER NO. 410

AN ACT to repeal section 196, 197, 199 and 209 Q of Article Number One of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Allegany County," sub-title "Mining and Mine Inspector," as the same were enacted by Chapter 124 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed in the year 1902, and to re-enact said sections with amendments, so as to place the inspection of mines in Allegany County under the State Board of Labor and Statistics; and to repeal sections 150, 151, 153, and 164 P of Article Number Twelve of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Manufactures and Mines," as the same were enacted by Chapter 124 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed in the year 1902, and to re-enact said sections with amendments, so as to place the inspection of mines in Garrett County under the State Board of Labor and Statistics.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That section 196, 197, 199 and 209 Q of Article Number One of the Code of Public Laws of Maryland, title "Allegany County," sub-title "Mining and Mine Inspector," as the same were enacted by Chapter 124 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed in the year 1902, be and the same hereby are repealed and re-enacted with amendments; and sections 150, 151, 153 and 164P of Article Number Twelve of the Code of Public Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Manufactures and Mines," be and the same hereby are repealed and re-enacted to read as follows:

Section 196 of Article 1 and Section 150 of Article 12. That the State Board of Labor and Statistics, with the approval of the Governor shall appoint one Mine Inspector for the counties of Allegany and Garrett, who shall hold his office for two years from the date of his appointment. No person shall be eligible to the office of Mine Inspector until he shall have attained the age of thirty years. He shall possess a competent and a practical knowledge of the different systems of mining and properly ventilating coal mines in said counties, and the nature and constituent parts of the various gases found in coal mines, and of the various ways of expelling the same from said mines and shall have had five years' practical experience as a miner in one or both counties combined next immediately preceding his appointment, and shall receive such annual salary as the Board, with the approval of the Governor, may deem proper. Before entering upon the discharge of the duties of his office the said Mine Inspector shall take the oath provided in the Constitution of the State and shall give bond in the sum of two thousand dollars with sureties to be approved by the Chief Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland. Said Mine Inspector while in office shall not be interested in the operation of any mine or act as land agent, superintendent or manager of any mine; and it shall be his duty to make a report to the State Board of Labor and Statistics of his proceedings in office and to set forth in such reports all such information that may be proper or beneficial, and also to make such recommendations and suggestions as he may consider important as to legislation on the subject of mining.

Section 197 of Article 1 and Section 151 of Article 12. Said Mine Inspector shall devote the whole of his time to the duties of his office. It shall be his duty to examine each mine in said counties as often as possible, but a longer period of time than two months shall not elapse between said examination, to see that all the provisions of this Act are observed and strictly carried out, and he shall make a record of all examinations of mines, showing the condition in which he finds them, especially with reference to ventilation and drainage, the number of persons employed in each mine, the extent to which the law is obeyed and progress made in the improvements of mines, the number of serious accidents and the nature thereof, the number of deaths resulting from injuries received in or about the mines, with the cause of such accident or death; which record completed to the first day of May of each and every year shall be filed with the State Board of Labor and Statistics, and one thousand copies of said report shall be printed for distribution at once by the said Board, and the cost thereof shall be paid by the Treasurer upon the warrant of the Comptroller.

Section 199 of Article 1, and Section 153 of Article 12. In case the Inspector becomes incapacitated to perform the duties of his office or receives a leave of absence from the said Board, it shall be the duty of the said Board to appoint, upon said Mine Inspector's application, or that of five miners or five operators, some competent person to fill the office of Inspector until the said Inspector shall be able to resume the duties of his office, and the person so appointed shall be paid in the same manner as hereinafter provided for the Inspector of Mines.

Section 209Q of Article 1, and Section 164P of Article 12. In this Act the term "coal mine" includes the shafts, slopes, adits, drifts, or incline planes connected with excavations penetrating coal stratum or strata, which excavations are ventilated by one general air current or divisions thereof, and connected by one general system of mine railroads over which coal may be delivered to one or more common points outside the mine when such is operated by one operator.

Sub-Section A. The term "excavations and workings" includes all the excavated parts of a mine, those abandoned as well as the places actually being worked, also all underground workings and shafts, tunnels and other ways and openings, all such shafts, slopes, tunnels and other openings in the course of being sunk or driven, together with all roads, appliances, machinery and material connected with the same below the surface.

Sub-Section B. The term "shaft" means a verdict opening through the strata, and which is and may be used for the purpose of ventilation or drainage, or for hoisting men or material, or both, in connection with the mining of coal.

Sub-Section C. The term "slope" means an incline way or opening used for the same purpose as a shaft.

Sub-Section D. The term "operator" means any firm, corporation, or individual operating any coal mine or part thereof.

Sub-Section E. The term "superintendent" means the person who shall have, on behalf of the operator, immediate supervision of one or more mines.

Sub-Section F. The provisions of this Act shall not apply to any mine employing less than ten persons in any one period of twenty-four hours.

Sub-Section G. CHAPTER NO. 453.

AN ACT to empower and direct the County Commissioners of Garrett County to borrow money on the credit of said county for the purpose of erecting a high school building in the town of Oakland, and heating, furnishing and equipping the same, and to purchase or condem real estate for the erection of the same, and for the purpose of erecting, repairing and improving other public school buildings in said county, and to issue bonds for the payment of said money, and to levy taxes upon the assessable property of said county to redeem such bonds and to pay the interest thereon, to refer such question to the the voters of Garrett County.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That for the purpose of erecting, a high school building in the town of Oakland and for the purpose of furnishing, heating and equipping said building, and for the erection, repairing and improving other public school buildings in said county, and for the purpose of purchasing or condemning real estate for the erection of the same, the County Commissioners for Garrett County, be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to borrow money on the credit of said county to an amouut not exceeding thirty thousand dollars, and to issue coupon bonds therefor, the said bonds to be in the sum of one thousand dollars each, and to be signed by the president of the Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, and countersigned by the Clerk of said board, with the corporate seal of said County Commissioners attached to every bond so issued; said bonds to be dated the first day of January, 1917, and to bear interest at a rate not exceeding 5 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annualy on the first day of July and the first day of January in each and every year until the maturity thereof, and the said bonds shall mature as follows: one thousand dollars thereof on January 1, 1922, and annual thereafter the sum of one thousand dollars in every year until all of said bonds shall have matured.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That said bonds shall have written or printed on them a distinct reference to the act directing the issue of the same, and that said bonds when issued shall be exempt from municipal and county taxation in Garrett County, and they shall be sold after due advertisement by the County Commissioners to the highest bidder or bidders, provided however that none of said bonds shall be sold for less than par value.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the said County Commissioners for Garrett County shall levy annually upon the assessable property of said county tax sufficient to pay the interest upon said bonds, and in the year 1921 they shall levy the sum on one thousand dollars to meet the first maturing bond issued, and annually thereafter the said County Commissioners shall levy upon the assessable property of said county the sum of one thousand dollars until the maturity of the last bond by this act authorized to be issued.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That the clerk of the County Commissioners of Garrett County shall register the said bonds when the same are sold, showing to whom the same were sold, what price was obtained therefor, and shall keep a record upon the books of said County Commissioners of all bonds paid.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County shall when notified by the Board of County School Commissioners of said county that they desire to avail themselves of the provisions of this act and of the amount of money they will require for the purpose aforesaid, advertise and sell said bonds as above provided to an amount sufficient to produce the sum designated by the said Board of School Commissioners, but in no event in excess of the sum of thirty thousand dollars, and shall pay over the proceeds of the sale of said bonds to the Board of County School Commissioners who shall account for the same as they account for other monies passing through their hands.

SEC. 6. And be it enacted, That the said County Commissioners for Garrett County shall have the opinion to redeem any or all of said bonds outstanding after ten years from the date of their issue.

SEC. 7. And be it enacted, That at the general election in November, 1916, there shall be submitted to the qualified voters of Garrett County, the question whether the said bonds shall be issued, and at such election the ballots cast upon the question shall have printed or written thereon the words, "For the Bond Issue," or "Against the Bond Issue," and if the majority of the votes cast upon said question shall be "For the Bond Issue," then the County Commissioners for Garrett County shall proceed to exercise the power vested in them by this Act, and shall issue the bonds as herein provided; but if the majority of the votes cast shall be "Against the Bond Issue," then this Act shall be null and void.

CHAPTER NO.—

AN ACT to sanction and make valid a certain purchase, sale and deed of conveyance, made by Daniel Annan and others to the Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park, Garrett County, Maryland, on the 6th day of April, 1913, and which said deed is recorded in Liber No. 66 folio 429, one of the Land Records of said Garrett County.

WHEREAS, by Chapter 201 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland at its session of 1886, the inhabitants of the town of Deer Park, Garrett County, Maryland, were constituted a body corporate by the name of "The Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park" and

WHEREAS, the said, The Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park, desiring to establish a small, public park in said town, purchased from said Daniel Annan and others a small portion of land in said town, containing about one-half of an acre, and on the 6th day of April, 1913, the said Daniel Annan and others executed and delivered to said Mayor and Common Council a deed for said land, and the purchase money therefor was paid; and

WHEREAS, there appears to be some question as to the power and authority of said municipality under its present charter to purchase and hold said land for said purpose without the sanction of the General Assembly of Maryland, and therefore this Act is enacted.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the purchase by the Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park from Daniel Annan and others of about one-half acre of land in said town, and the deed from the said Daniel Annan and others to the said, The Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park for said land, bearing date April 6th, 1913, and recorded in Liber No. 66 folio 429, one of the Land Records of Garrett County aforesaid, be and the same is hereby sanctioned confirmed and made valid, and the said, The Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park, be and it is hereby authorized and empowered to take and hold the land embraced and described in said deed, with power to sue for and defend same, to the same extent as if said body corporate was an individnal.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect on and from the first day of June, 1916.

CHAPTER NO.—

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the question of whether or not the Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, Maryland, shall issue bonds in the sum of not exceeding Fifteen Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00) for the purpose of completing a system of sewerage in said town, shall be submitted to the qualified voters thereof, at the regular election for town officers on the first Monday of May, 1916, and the ballot to be used at said election shall have printed thereon, in addition to the names of the candidates for town officers, the following, viz: "For the issue of bonds" and "Against the issue of bonds," and shall be counted and returned as other election returns are counted and made.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That the qualified voters of said town, desiring to vote on said question at said election, shall indicate their choice of said proposition for which they desire to register their vote.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That if it shall be found by the return of the judges of said election that a majority of the votes cast for and against the issue of said bonds, are for the issue of the same, then it shall be the duty of the said Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn Heights, and they are thereby authorized, directed and empowered to forthwith issue said bonds in the name of the Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn Heights, in a sum not exceeding Fifteen Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00), or so much thereof as may be necessary, for the purpose aforesaid; each of said bonds so issued, shall be for the sum of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, interest payable semi-annually on the first day of September and the first day of March in each and every year that said bond shall run; said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and attested by the Clerk with the seal of said town attached thereto; shall be payable as follows: One bond on the first day of September, 1917, and two bonds each year thereafter on the first day of September, until the entire issue of said bonds is taken up and redeemed; reserving the opinion to the Mayor and Council aforesaid, to take up and redeem at any interest period after five years any and all of said outstanding bonds running more than five years, at the face value thereof, with accrued interest; said bonds shall be exempt from all taxation for County and Municipal purposes.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and Council aforesaid are hereby authorized and empowered to negotiate, sell and dispose of said bonds, either at public auction or by sealed bids, after due notice of such sale shall be given through one of the newspapers published in Garrett County by at least two insertions of said notice in said paper before the day of sale, and said bonds, or any one of them, shall be made to the highest responsible bidder therefore the said Mayor and Council, reserving the right to reject any and all bids received for said bonds.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That if this Act is adopted by the voters of said town as aforesaid, then it shall be lawful for the Mayor and Council of said Loch Lynn Heights, and they are hereby autorized and empowered to complete and maintain said system of sewerage in said town, and to that end, are hereby authorized to make all necessary contracts to carry out the purposes and provisions of this Act, and they may either contract the whole of said improvement, or any part thereof, or may purchase the material and employ the necessary labor to complete said system by days labor, whichever in their judgment they may deem best.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That said Mayor and Council are hereby authorized and empowered to pass all such ordinances as may be necessary for the successful operation of said system of sewerage, by regulating the use and tapping of the same by the residents of said town, and the interference therewith by any and all persons; and they are hereby further authorized to fix and establish a rate of charge or charges for the use of said sewer, and the tapping thereof, by the residents of said town, and shall have the power to pass all such ordinances as may be necessary requiring the residents of said town, or the property owners thereof, to discontinue the use of all pit or surface closets used in said town, wherein fecal matter is permitted to accumulate.

SEC. 7. That in order to pay the interest on said bonds and to redeem said bonds as they shall fall due and payable, the said Mayor and Council are hereby authorized to levy upon the taxable property in said town, at their annual levy term, all such taxes as may be necessary for said purpose.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That the funds arising from the sale of said bonds shall be kept separate from all other funds belonging to said town, and shall only be used to carry out the provisions of this act, and all moneys paid out of said fund for the construction and completion of said sewer system shall be by check, signed by the Mayor of said town, and countersigned by the Clerk thereof, after said bill or account has been passed and ordered to be paid by the said Mayor and Council of said town.

SEC. 9. And be it enacted, That the Clerk of said town shall keep a book, in which shall be entered the sale of all bonds, the amount received therefor, to whom sold, the date when same was sold, and shall further enfer therein an account showing the several items on which the fund arising from the sale of said bond was expended.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That this Act is an emergency law and necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health and safety, and having been passed by a yea and nay vote, supported by three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two houses of the General Assembly, the same shall take effect from the date of its passage.

CHAPTER NO. —.

AN ACT to pay to the School Commissioners of Garrett County a sum of money out of the State school tax and to increase the minimum salaries.

WHEREAS, In view of the pressure of the present apportionment, especially upon Garrett County, of the State School Tax, and the inability, without larger increase of county taxation, to keep her schools open for seven and one-half (7½) months, and in view of the fact that the mountain ridges so divide the population of Garrett County, the largest county in the State in area, as to render school facilities for all the children more expensive than in more central parts of the State;

SECTION 1. Be it enacted in the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Comptroller of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized and required to draw his warrant upon the Treasurer in favor of Garrett County School Board for the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000.00) per annum for two years, out of the proceeds of the State School Tax before making apportionment thereof; provided, however, that no portion of said four thousand dollars ($4,000.0) per annum, shall be used for any other purpose than for salaries and ordinary running expenses of said schools.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That the Board of School Commissionors of Garrett County shall pay the school teachers of said County the sums of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00) and three hundred dollars ($300.00) as minimum salaries, instead of two hundred dollars ($200 00) and two hundred and fifty ($250.00) as at present, and Garrett County shall be exempt for a period of two years, from the provisions of Section 60 of Article 77 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the first of June, 1916.

CHAPTER NO. 13.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 228 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub title "Wild Animals," and amended by Chapter 679 of the Acts of 1914.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 228 of Article 12, of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County" sub-title "Wild Animals," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments so as to read as follows:

SECTION 228. Any citizen of the State of Maryland, who shall kill any wolf, panther, wild cat, weasel, fox or hawk, within the limits of Garrett County, Maryland, shall be entitled to the following allowance, viz: For every wolf scalp the sum of $20.00, for every panther scalp the sum of $20.00, for every wild cat scalp the sum of $3.00, for every fox scalp the sum of $1.00, for every weasel scalp the sum of fifty cents.

SEC. 2. Be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the first day of June, 1916.

CHAPTER NO. 11.

AN ACT to repeal Section 27 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title Garrett County, sub-title, County Commissioners, as said section was amended and re-enacted by Chapter 475 of the Acts of 1890, and said section was repealed and re-enacted with amendments by the Act passed at January Session 1904, Chapter 540, and said section was repealed and re-enacted with amendments by the Act passed at January Session 1906, Chapter 21, and to re-enact the same with amendments.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 37 of Article 12, of the Code of Public Local Laws, title Garrett County, sub-title, County Commissioners, as amended and re-enacted by Chapter 475 of the Acts of 1890, and as said section was repealed and re-enacted with amendments by the Acts passed at January Session 1904, Chapter 540, and the said section was repealed and re-enacted, with amendments by the Act passed at January Session 1906, Chapter 21, be and the same is hereby repealed, so as to read as follows:

That at the general election of county officers of Garrett county, to be held in said county, November, 1917, and every four years thereafter, a clerk to the Board of County Commissioners shall be elected by the qualified voters of said county, who shall hold office of clerk for the term of four years, from the time of his election and qualification or until his successor is elected and qualified, and shall be subject to removal from said office for any willful neglect of duty or misbehavior in office at any time by the County Commissioners of said county, who shall have power to appoint some competent person for the unexpired term of the clerk so removed; said clerk shall be paid for his services the sum of eight hundred dollars per annum, payable in monthly installments of $66.66, at the expiration of each and every month by the Treasurer of Garrett county from the funds of said county, and said clerk shall have full power to administer an oath or affirmation to any and all persons who is to be examined as a witness in any matter before the County Commissioners, and touching or relating to any account, bill or other matter, to be filed in the office of the said County Commissioners, and said salary of eight hundred dollars per annum shall be full compensation for all services required of said clerk, who shall keep the office of County Commissioners open from nine o'clock in the forenoon until four o'clock in the afternoon, and who shall attend therein for the transaction of business on every day of the week, except Sunday and legal holidays.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

CHAPTER 176.

AN ACT to repeal and reenact with amendments Section 8 of Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, entitled "An Act to incorporate The Community of Mountain Lake Park.

SEC. 1 Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 8 of Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, titled "An Act to incorporate The Community of Mountain Lake Park," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

SEC. 8 And be it enacted, That the said assessment and taxation shall be due and payable on the first day of October, next ensuing the making and adopting of the same by the Annual Meeting, provided for in this Act, and that a fair copy of said assessment and valuation shall be posted for at least fifteen days before the date of said Annual Meeting at two or three of the most public places at Mountain Lake Park, in the discretion of the Annual Committee. And a copy of such assessment and valuation shall be retained and posted in the office of the Superintendent of Mountain Lake Park, and open for the inspection of any lot-owner or interested party, at any time that they may desire to see the same. And any lot-holder or other person interested in any such valuation, feeling himself aggrieved by such assessment, shall have the right to file objections with the Annual Committee, or with the Superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, in whose custody the same shall be kept and filed for inspection, and such person may obtain such modification of said assessment as shall, to said Annual Committee, seem just and right; provided that any such objections shall not be filed after the first of October, in the year in which said levy shall be made, unless for special cause made known to such Committee, who shall have the discretion at any time to hear and determine said objections, if they deem it proper to do so. If no objections shall be filed as aforesaid, or if said objections shall be by said Annual Committee overruled, then such assessment or such modification thereof as the said Annual Committee shall make, shall become fixed for the current year, and the said annual assessment upon such valuation shall become a first lien, bearing interest, upon the lot and improvements thereon so assessed as aforesaid, until paid; but leave is expressly reserved to any and all persons who may feel aggrieved at the action of the said Annual Committee on such assessments, to apply to the Circuit Court for Garrett County in Equity by bill or petition, and to obtain such relief in such manner, as said Court may decide upon hearing all the facts in connection with the question so raised. The lien aforesaid for said taxes shall be enforced against any lot and improvements at any time after the first day of January, succeeding the date of such levy, but no such proceedings to enforce such lien, shall be taken unless authorized by an ordinance adopted at the previous Annual Meeting of said Community and the Bailiff or Tax Collector or Treasurer of said Community or either one of said officers, shall have all of the rights and powers for the collection and enforcement of said taxes, as are given the County Treasurer of Garrett County, under Chapter 566 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, approved on the eighth day of April, 1890, and to the same extent as if the said Act was enacted in this amendment verbatim, unless the proceedings of such Treasurer or Collector shall be modified by ordinances, passed by the Annual Meeting, which body shall have the power at any time to modify or change the method of collection of said taxes.

THE TWO DWARFS

WEIRD and grotesque figures, the two dwarf brothers, Alberich and Mime, deepen the legendary atmosphere of Richard Wagner's great music drama "Siegfried," which a cast of world famous artists from the Metropolitan Opera House is to give in the home grounds of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Forbes Field, Thursday evening, June 8. The performance, with a concert Saturday afternoon, June 10, by school choruses, Metropolitan stars and orchestra, constitutes the Siegfried Festival. The malicious schemers who are seeking the dragon guarded gold stolen from the Rhine maidens will be portrayed in the Pittsburgh performance by Otto Goritz (Alberich) and Albert Reiss (Mime), who have no equals in the world in the interpretation of these roles. In the smithy of Mime, after the dwarf's efforts have proved futile, the youthful Siegfried forges the sword, Nothung, with which he is to conquer the dragon and obtain the treasure. Alberich, after attempting in vain to league himself with the dragon against Siegfried, watches the victorious fight from concealment and sees, not without satisfaction, Siegfried slay Mime, when the latter, after the hero has the treasure, reveals his murderous envy.

Ernestine Schumann-Heink

Hundreds of thousands of persons in this country know and love Ernestine Schumann-Heink, perhaps the most popular grand opera star today, whose rich contralto voice will lend itself to the interpretation of Erda, the Earth-mother, in Richard Wagner's "Siegfried," which will be produced Thursday evening, June 8, by the greatest cast of Wagnerian singers ever assembled, in Pittsburgh's big ball park, Forbes Field. The music drama, with a concert Saturday afternoon, June 10, by school choruses, with Metropolitan soloists and orchestra, will constitute the Siegfried Festival.

FRIEDA HEMPEL

The matchless voice of Frieda Hempel, one of the costliest and most noted stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company will sing the notes of Waldvogel, the [illegible]dibird, which lure Siegfried to the spot where Brunhilde, the Valkyrie, lies sleeping in the magic circle of fire, when Richard Wagner's music drama "Siegfried" is performed by a splendid cast of Metropolitan singers Thursday evening, June 8, in Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Pa., home grounds of the "Pirates." Metropolitan soloists and orchestra will appear in a concert June 10—the second half of the Siegfried Festival.

ARTUR BODANSKY

He is like a magician, conjuring wondrous music from a great instrument of 102 men—the Metropolitan Opera House orchestra—with a wave of his baton. When the splendid out-door production of Richard Wagner's music drama "Siegfried" is given Thursday evening, June 8, in the home grounds of the "Pirates," Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Artur Bodansky, whom New York has named one of the most eminent Wagnerian conductors of his time, will have not only the orchestra, but every one of the world famous opera stars who are to sing at the command of his baton. He and his men will assist in the Siegfried Festival Concert in Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Saturday afternoon, June 10, when 1,200 children and 500 men and women from the Pittsburgh public schools will sing with Johanna Gadski, Lila Robeson and Clarence Whitehill.

TOTS AND OPERA STARS.

Pittsburgh Business Men Back Youngsters In Festival.

Pittsburgh, Pa. — [Special.] — Realizing a project of a group of Pittsburgh business men, the Pittsburgh Festival Association, 1,200 grade school children and 500 evening school pupils here are rehearsing daily to appear in a great outdoor music festival in Forbes Field, Saturday afternoon, June 10, with Johanna Gadski, Lila Robeson and Clarence Whitehill of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

The Metropolitan orchestra of 102 pieces will accompany the school choruses, and the director of music in the public schools, Will Earhart, will conduct.

The Pittsburgh Festival Association was organized by William C. Hamilton, a local business man, four years ago to give fitting importance to public school music. With this financial backing the school choruses held May choral festivals for three succeeding years.

The business men had planned to make possible a fourth May Festival this year, when the big outdoor production of Wagner's "Siegfried," given in the Harvard stadium last year, was engaged to appear in Pittsburgh's big ball park, Thursday evening, June 8. It was decided to use Metropolitan stars and the Metropolitan orchestra, and give a school festival on the outdoor stage to be erected for the opera.

MME. JOHANNA GADSKI

NOT often do school children have opportunity to sing with famous grand opera stars. That is why there are 1,200 proud youngsters in the grade schools of Pittsburgh. They have been chosen for the festival chorus which will have Johanna Gadski, one of the greatest of the Metropolitan Opera Company's singers, as principal soloist in Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Saturday afternoon, June 10, when the big Siegfried Festival Concert will be given on an outdoor stage, following the performance of Wagner's "Siegfried," Thursday evening, June 8.

Mme. Gadski will not be the only soloist. Lila Robeson, also of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Clarence Whitehill, the famous basso who is to sing Wotan, the Wanderer, in the "Siegfried" performance, also will appear. There will be a chorus, too, of 500 men and women from the evening schools of Pittsburgh.

Both choruses will sing to the music of the Metropolitan Opera House Orchestra of 102 pieces, while Will Earhart, director of music in the Pittsburgh public schools, will conduct the choral numbers and Artur Bodansky, eminent Wagnerian conductor, the orchestral and solo numbers.

GRAND OPERA "TEAM."

Metropolitan Opera House "Nine" to Displace "Pirates."

Pittsburgh, Pa.—[Special.]—While the Pittsburgh "Pirates" are crossing bats with the "Quakers" in Philadelphia Thursday, June 8, their home grounds, Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, will be invaded by a "scrub" nine from the Metropolitan Opera Company.

The "batting order" of the "Mets" is, Frieda Hempel, Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Melanie Kurt, Johannes Sembach, Clarence Whitehill, Albert Reiss, Carl Braun, Otto Goritz, famous Wagnerian singers, and Artur Bodansky, eminent Wagnerian conductor.

Instead of "trotting on" to the field that afternoon, the "Mets" will wait until dark, and then give a splendid production of Wagner's "Siegfried" upon a specially constructed stage. A throng of thousands from three states is expected to "root" from the big grandstand.

The music drama will inaugurate the Siegfried Festival in Pittsburgh. A choral concert with school choruses and Metropolitan soloists Saturday afternoon, June 10, will conclude the event, information concerning which may be obtained by addressing Siegfried Festival, Pittsburgh.

WAGNER—NOT HONUS—STAR

Great Composer to Eclipse "Pirate" Wonder.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—[Special.]—The star of Honus Wagner—"The Flying Dutchman"—all-around wonder of the Pittsburgh baseball team, will suffer a momentary eclipse in Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, Thursday, June 8. The star of another Wagner—Richard, this time—will be in the ascendant.

The event at which the eclipse will occur will not be a baseball game, however, but a performance of the aforesaid Richard Wagner's great music drama, "Siegfried." There will be a whole constellation of stars in the performance—among them Melanie Kurt, Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Frieda Hempel, Johannes Sembach, Clarence Whitehill, Albert Reiss, Otto Goritz and Carl Braun, famous Wagnerian singers from the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Wagner's music will be played by the Metropolitan Opera House orchestra of 102, under the baton of the famous conductor, Artur Bodansky.

The music drama, with a choral concert by school choruses and Metropolitan soloists and orchestra, Saturday afternoon, June 10, will constitute the Siegfried Festival.

Johannes Sembach as Siegfried

As Siegfried, child of the forest, destined to forge the invincible sword, Nothung, and with it to conquer the dragon, Fafner, and cleave the spear of the god, Wotan, which bars his way to his sleeping sweetheart, Brunhilde, in the magic circle of fire, Johannes Sembach will be seen at his best in the open air performance of Richard Wagner's music drama "Siegfried," to be given in Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, home grounds of the Pirates, Thursday evening, June 8. In connection with the opera a Siegfried Festival Concert will be given by public school children and Metropolitan soloists and orchestra Saturday afternoon, June 10.

Sembach is one of the most recent and most famous stars of the Metropolitan Opera Company and has been declared the greatest Wagnerian tenor in the world. He is the center of a cast which has never been equaled since "Siegfried" was composed and which includes Melanie Kurt, Ernestine Schumann-Heink, Frieda Hempel, Clarence Whitehill, Albert Reiss, Otto Goritz and Carl Braun.

He stands in the photograph as the youthful hero. In his hand is the sword he has just forged from the fragments of the shattered weapon which failed to save his father, Siegfried, from the fatal spear of Wotan.

It Boosts Net Profits

WE have already told you that a Mogul 8-16 kerosene tractor does certain necessary and important farm work cheaper and better than horses can do it. One of the reasons is that it burns kerosene, which is cheaper than either gasoline or horse fuel. Another is that it doesn't get tired, but does just as much work in the last hour of a hard day as it does in the first, after working steadily all day long.

Put out of your head any idea that this tractor is not for you. It is. It offers you the best and quickest way to cut down your expenses and so increase your net profits. Come in and see the Mogul 8-16, and let's talk it over.

GRANTSVILLE.

The epidemic of measles sweeping through the village reminds one of a little old ditty written by Frank L. Stanton of the Atlanta "Constitution" entitled "A Poor Unfortunate." The poem begins:

"His hoss went dead and his mule went lame. And he lost six cows in a poker game"—and continues on through divers calamities, earthquakes, hurricanes and tax collectors, ending something like this:

"But never a word of blame he said
Just only this, as he bared his head:
I reckon its time to git up and git,
But Lord I haint had the measles yit!"

Among the late victims are Harriett, James, Charles, Markle and Edgar Stanton, Eugene Miller, Raymond and Otto Bender, William Ambell, Luther Miller and George Fisher.

Mrs. Eva Bevans and sister, Mrs. Fred Livengood, and brother, Hayward Broadwater, motored to Union Bridge last week. Mrs. Bevans engaged Bruce Miller as chauffeur, and speaks in the highest terms of his careful and skillful manipulation of his machine. After arriving there the party, assisted by another brother, Hilary Broadwater, and some friends, packed and shipped the Bevans household goods and attended to other business matters at that place. The party were on their way back home in less than thirty-six hours from the time of starting and all enjoyed the delightful drive down and back. Mrs. Bevans spent Friday in Cumberland with a friend and a day with her cousin, Mrs. Gus Zeller of Frostburg, also enjoying a pleasant trolly ride with Mrs. G. C. Keller of Grantsville on the way to Cumberland. Mrs. Bevans and children are at present at home at the Broadwater farm.

Mother's Day was fittingly observed by the wearing of flowers and in tender thoughts of the best woman in the world to each of us. A very beautiful and stirring tribute to motherhood was given by the Lutheran pastor, Rev. E. E. Oney, at the evening service which was much enjoyed.

Friday being set apart as clean up day, all families had their rubbish ready in boxes and barrels and J. J. Bender's mule team, with T. H. Bittinger at the helm, gathered up and hauled away all the unsightly rubbish, cans, etc., working all day. The village looks quite clean and attractive now, most of the gardens being made and the grass growing nicely on the lawns.

Mrs. Griffith of Guard, Md., has been a guest of her daughter, Mrs. Howard Ringer.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shirer spent Sunday with Mr. Shirer's parents, at Cove, Md.

Mr. and Mrs. George Grove and family were guests at the National this week.

A party of about twelve motorcyclists were guests at the Casselman hotel on Sunday.

Rev. E. E. Oney and Miss Charlotte Boyer spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Diefenbach.

Mrs. Ed. Fisher is better after a few days illness.

Mrs. Sophia Winterberg is spending a week in Meyersdale with Mrs. Orville Piott.

Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Keller left last week to take their interrupted visit to Wilmington, Del., the smallpox outbreak being now over.

Miss Lizzie Klotz spent a few days of last week with her uncle, Thomas Layman, who is quite ill at his home along the pike.

Miss Mabel Swartzwelder and sister, Mrs. J. G. Delaney, and little son, from Pittsburgh, have taken the Evans bungalow for the summer.

Miss Cora Bittinger from Jennings spent part of last week in Cumberland.

Prof. and Mrs. Loraditch from Oakland were Grantsville visitors on Sunday.

Mrs. Edgar Roberts spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Bittinger, of Jennings.

Dr. I. L. Ritter of Frostburg spent Sunday at Casselman Cabin.

Quite a number of Frostburg people motored to Grantsville Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Miller and family and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Beachy motored to Oakland Sunday in Mr. Miller's car.

Miss Florence Maust of Elk Lick spent part of last week as guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. U. Stanton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Stanton were Somerfield visitors on Saturday.

A party from here composed of Misses Marie Connor, Hazel Younkin, Winifred Bonig, Ruth Keller and Beulah and Edna Bender attended the Glee Club Concert at Frostburg, Thursday night, being taken down by C. A. Bende.

Mrs. Louise Hockman was a Frostburg visitor last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Piott of Meyersdale were Somerfield and Grantsville visitors last Thursday, Mr. Piott also doing some automobile demonstrating while here.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Bittinger of Jennings, on May 8th, a baby girl.

Miss Ethel Broadwater spent the week-end in Cumberland and Frostb

BLOOMINGTON

County Commissioner George Warnick, postmaster Stump and the county surveyor are busy this week locating an easy grade up Laurel Run for the proposed new section of road connecting the Chestnut Grove settlement with the county road to Barnum. The new route will eliminate some very heavy and dangerous grades encountered on the old road and shorten the time of travel very materially.

Mr. Charles Ashby, of Deer Park, a well known veterinarian of that place, was called to Bloomington on last Sunday evening on professional business.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brydon returned home on Monday evening from their wedding tour through the South.

Mr. James Wilson, of Kitzmillersville, son of Mr. Daniel Wilson, a well known and substantial farmer of that community, spent Tuesday in town, the guest of his sister, Mrs. Fortney.

Mr. G. C. Pattison returned home Wednesday from a business trip to the eastern cities.

Mrs. H. M. Kemp is home after a very enjoyoble visit to her daughter, Mrs. Elbert Bonner, of Cincinnati.

Mr. George Macfarlane, of Barnum, left on No. 4, W. M. R. R. on Tuesday evening on a business trip to New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fazenbaker, of Hampshire Hill, are the proud and delighted parents of a bran new daughter, born on Saturday evening.

Another slump is reported in the coal business, prices tumbie and orders scarce.

Mr. W. G. Henderson, of Washington, D. C., sold legatee of the estate of the late Charles Moody, spent a few days of last week in this place in consultation with the appraisers, Dr. Kemp and Mr. Harry Coffman.

Miss Viola Durham, of Cumberland, a recent graduate of the Nurses Training school of the W. M. hospital, Cumberland, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Russell Kight, of Barnum.

Mr. George Kinkead of Barnum, made a trip to Oakland a few days ago and invested some of his savings in a Ford machine. He was accompanied by Mr. Harry Kight of the same place, who drove the car home for Mr. Kinkead and has taught him some very necessary pointers in controlling it. George is very popular with the little folks of his community and generously disposed in the use of the car and nearly every fine day when time is not pressing he can be seen on the roads with his car full of a laughing and jolly crowd of youngsters enjoying a ride.

Messrs. Charles Wolfe and Arthur Glass, two well known young men of this community, left this week for a trip through Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Messrs. Harry Tibbets and Daniel Forbach, who spent some time in the mining regions of Pennsylvania, returned home last week.

Born, unto Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shook, of Hampshire, on last Monday, a 15 pound boy.

Born, unto Mr. and Mrs. Carl Howderschell, of Frankville, on last Wednesday, a girl.

The county road between this place and Luke, being constructed conjointly by the counties of Garrett, Allegany and the Piedmont Pulp & Paper Co., is progressing rather slowly, due, we are informed, to the scarcity of labor. This factor is a serious drawback to the early completion of the road and it looks now, if labor conditions do not improve, that it will be late in the fall before we will have the pleasure of a trip over the new high way giving us an eastern outlet.

The little town of Hampshire, the home of the Masteller Coal Co., with the most complete and up-to-date general store in Mineral county, equipped with an electric and resrigerating plants, elevators, bath rooms and sleeping rooms for the clerks, will soon have another feature of convenience, a post-office.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Rev. Reckley, of Cumberland, who has charge of the arrangements of the Pentecostal encampment which opens in the tabernacle June 9th, was here the latter part of last week completing the arrangement for the encampment. The meeting will continue through seventeen days. The tabernacle is being made ready for the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Eager, of Baltimore, will spend the summer in one of the Talson cottages. They are already delighted with the Park. Mr. Eager is connected with the Levering Coffee Co.

Everybody was pleased to meet Miss Sarah Harris, of Franklin, Va., on her arrival last Thursday. She is getting ready for the summer campaign. Miss Sarah is among the few left of the early founders of the Park.

C. W. Allen, Traveling Passenger Agent of the B. & O. R. R., was in the Park Wednesday, consulting with Superintendent Rudisill on some special excursion rates for the season and while here took a ride over the Park.

Mrs. Captain Pierce, of Washington, D. C., is here getting her cottage ready for the summer.

The program for the Epworth League Vacational Institute is being circulated.

M. M. Hargrove, of Virginia, was a Park visitor Friday. Mr. Hargrave was investigating the charms of the Park with a view of spending the summer here.

Mrs. McCourtney, of Washington, D. C., was a week end visitor and a guest of Mrs. M. M. Schrock. While here Mrs. McCourtney rented the Carpenter cottage.

Dr. Hugh Carr, of Fairmont, W. Va., is spending a few days in the Park.

The drinking fountain promised by the Civic Club has been located opposite the Association office.

Benjamin Long has the electric light plant in operation. The plant was tested out Wednesday night. Ben expects to give good service this summer.

The indications are that the Park will enjoy a large business this season.

There is no disputing the fact that the Park is one of the most beautiful spots in the State of Maryland.

There are more improvements going on in the Park today than for several years.

The recreation feature will have quite a prominent part in the program this summer, including base ball, lawn tennis, bowling and boating.

The season of 1916 opens next Thursday. Plans are being made for an enjoyable time.

Mrs. Winchell, of Woodsville, Ohio, has opened her cottage for the season. We are all glad to see her here again.

The Civic Club had a very interesting meeting Saturday night. Plans were made for an enjoyable summer.

The Mountain Lake hotel is open for the summer. Guests will appreciate the preparations Host Dunnington has made for their comfort and enjoyment.

HUTTON

The last rays of the beautiful May sunset, was slowly sinking in all its glorious splendor beyond the margin of the western skies, gleamed for a moment from the hidden recesses of its vaulted arches, casting a bright reflection of golden light upon a grand expanse of flowing water that glides ever so gently along the rocky crevice of its mountain pass, portraying far better than an artist's pen the serene and peacesul homes of our mountain village.

Stretching westward in the rose hued, silvery twilight, the broken ridges of stately mountains are plainly perceptible whose simple profile presents an artistic setting for a rural scene, tho' the surrounding regions, in analogous manner, lack nothing in panaramic superbness.

A faint tint of purple glow lights up the heavens, combining a perfect blend of colors that heightens the handsome effect of the landscape and adds a touching beauty to the fleeting houry of gloaming.

So ere the night has shrouded the world in inky darkness and obscures the scenic grandeur of the valleys below, let us hasten to view with fond ecstasy of delight the old familiar rustic scene ranging along the footpaths of the lower hill sides, where thick hedges of sweet fragrant crab apples heavily laden with exquisite pink blooms of the fairest creation, forming a veritable arbour where aromatic incense lingers filling the air with balmy perfume.

List! Out of the prevailing stillness comes the sweet pleading notes of the thrush, in harmonious concord to the low plaintive thrills of the nightingale's vesper song.

Surely, spring has transformed our hamlet into a real Eden.

HOYES

This community is a busy one at this time. With making garden, house cleaning, and planting out crops all have employment.

Willie Friend and family, of Pleasant Valley, were guests of J. A. Dewitt and family last Sunday.

Miss Lula Callis returned to her home Saturday after spending the winter with her sister, Mrs. White, of St. Mary's.

George Seabold's youngest child is seriously ill with pneumonia.

D. O. Dewitt is building an addition to his home and when completed will be a credit to the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Friend, and children spent last Sunday at the home of Asa Friend.

Prof. Freeman Guard, of Selbysport, is giving music lessons to a number of pupils in this neighborhood.

Norman Frazee, of Friendsville, was a very pleasant and welcome guest in Hoyes Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Dewitt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewitt and Mrs. Sadie Friend motored to Gortner recently and spent the day with Will Spoerline and family.

Miss Irene Mattingly attended a party given at the home of Frances McGettigan Monday evening.

Thomas Bishoff had a fine monument erected last week at the graves of his father and mother.

Robert Koontz, accompanied by his family, all of Greensburg, Pa., were guests of Mrs. Ella Lowdermilk over Sunday.

A number of persons from Hoyes attended the funeral at Accident of the late Mr. Jonah Speicher and all express a deep sympathy for the bereaved relatives.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Teresa Collier, of Friendsville, occurred at this place last Thursday and was largely attended by sympathizing friends.

GLENDALE

Not seeing any items from this burg for some time, we thought we would pen a few.

We are very sorry to note that Mrs. Chas. S. Harvey, is on the sick list. We all hope for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. Cleve O'Brien and two nieces, Viola and Myrtle Beckman, were visiting at the home of her brother, G. P. Fitzwater, Sunday last.

Mr. Columbus Mason and wife and Mr. Arley Beckman and sister, Miss Louise, motored to Accident Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Custer made a flying trip to Oakland one day last week.

Mr. McCannlly preached at the school house Sunday at 10:30. And on June the 4th he will preach Mrs. Rachel Friend's funeral who died a few weeks ago.

Mr. Harry Beckman spent Saturday and Sunday at the home of C. H. O'Brien.

There will be quarterly meeting held in the North Glade M. E. church June 11th at 7:30 o'clock, by Dr. Moore, of Oakland. Everybody invited to attend.

Mr. Lynn Browning spent Sunday at G. T. Beckman's.

Mr. Earl Harvey and Miss Lena Beckman attended church at Thayerville Sunday evening.

Mr. Frank Smouse, of Deer Park, passed through this section one day last week buying up cattle.

Mr. John Fitzwater spent Sunday with his brother William of North Glade.

We wonder what has become of the North Glade correspondent? We would like to hear from them again.

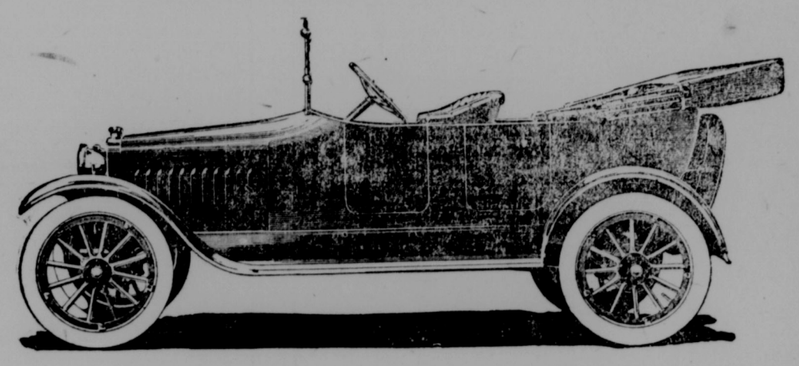
SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people



Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $5,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle the question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

C. F. ZITTEL, Dramatic Editor, New York Journal.

VOLUME 41. OAKLAND, MARYLAND THURSDAY, JUNE 1, 1916. NUMBER 14

SUPERINTENDENT RATHBUN WAS REELECTED MONDAY

Meeting of the Board Held Monday and Present Incumbent Is Retained.

At a meeting of the Board of County School Commissioners of Garrett county, with all members of the Board present, Mr. Franklin E. Rathbun, who has acceptably filled the office of superintendent of public schools for the past four years, was reelected to the position and his election will be confirmed by the State Board of Education has been assured.

The Board organized two weeks ago when Mr. Thomas J. Johnson, of District No. 9 recently appointed by Governor Harrington, qualified. At that meeting Mr. R. E. Sliger, of Oakland, was elected president of the body and Mr. Johnson was chosen vice president, the latter succeeding Mr. P. H. Yost, of Grantsville, whose term expired on May 1st.

The name of Mr. Bert Browning, of Thayerville, at present holding a Federal position in Baltimore, was presented to the board as an applicant to the position, along with that of Mr. Rathbun, but the latter was chosen, as above stated.

Mr. Rathbun, by his earnest and painstaking work, has injected new blood and endeavor in the school system of Garrett county with the result that during the past four years great strides in the progress of education have been taken and maintained by every individual school and each pupil therein and a change now would tend to lower the high standard set by him.

The Board of Commissioners has been congratulated by hundreds for reelecting Mr. Rathbun, the latter also receiving the hearty congratulations of his friends who are scattered all over Garrett county.

With his retention as head of the school system of the county the friends of education feel that the school will continue to move forward.

NEW LICENSE LAW

The new license law, enacted by the legislature goes into effect today and until early this week its provisions were not known by the officers charged with its enforcement, hence those who come under its provisions will be surprised to learn that owners of garages, soda fountains, livery stables, theatres, restaurants, plumbers and gas fitters are vitally affected.

Under the new law all those enumerated above are compelled to secure license in order to do business legally. The applications for licenses must be made to the Clerk of the Circuit Court.

THE DEATH RECORD.

PETER NATHAN.

Squire Peter Nathan, one of Grantsville's best known known and most esteemed citizens, died on May 24th, after about a year's illness. Death was due to cirrhoris of the arteries, which culminated in a paralytic stroke a week before his death.

Mr. Nathan was a native of Grantsville and an extensive dealer in lumber, lately being associated with C. H. Bill in that business. He is survived by one brother, Michael Nathan, two sisters, Mrs. Mary Miller, of Grantsville, who is just recovering from a serious operation of the head, and Mrs. Margaret Fuller, of Detroit Mich. A large number of neices and nephews also survive him.

Interment was made in the village cemetery on Friday, the funeral having been held in St. Stephen's church by Rev. Father Aloysius, of Cumberland. The pall bearers were selected from his immediate friends and neighbors, and his brother directors in the First State Bank also turned out in a body to do him honor. The church was filled with sympathizing friends.

Mr. Nathan's household was made up of himself and two neices, Miss Gertrude Hone and Miss Marie Connor.

The former has for years been his housekeeper and companion and both have found a father's love and devotion beneath their uncle's roof. This devotion and solicitude was extended to all his other neices, nephews and many relatives, and, among his host of friends the quiet, unobtrusive man was known for his broadminded dealings, his kindly acts, and benevolent disposition. Mrs. Wilcox's poem is a fitting tribute to this useful life:

"Better by far, than a marble tomb—
Than a monument towering over my head
What shall I care in my quiet room
For head board or foot board when I am dead?
Better than glory, or honors or fame
(Though I be striving for those (oday)
Toknow that some heart would cherish my name,
And think of me kindly with blessing alway."

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT F. E. RATHBUN

HENRY SCHLOSSNAGLE.

Henry Schlossnagle, a prominent farmer of Accident district, died suddenly Monday morning, aged 68 years. The deceased had just finished eating his breakfast and passed from the house to the porch when he fell over and died within a comparatively few seconds. His death was due to cirrhosis of the arteries. He is survived by his widow and several children, all of whom are grown. He was a leading member of the Accident Lutheran church and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. His funeral occurred yesterday. Mr. Schlossnagle was a brother of Mrs. Thomas Turney of Oakland.

MRS. LAVINIA BROBST.

Mrs. Lavinia Brobst, aged 63 years, wife of William Brobst, died Monday evening at her home in Green Glade, near Swanton, of heart failure. The deceased was taken ill immediately after she had finished her evening meal and died within twenty minutes. Her funeral occurred yesterday with interment in the Glendale cemetery. The services were conducted by the Rev. McCamic, of the Deer Park M. E. circuit.

A Birthday Party.

Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Thayer gave a birthday surprise party in honor of their daughter Miss Manona on Saturday evening, May 27th, it being her sixteenth birthday. The evening was very enjoyably spent in playing games of all kinds until they were all invited to the dining room where refreshments were served consisting of ice cream, cakes, candies, fruits and nuts. The table was beautifully decorated with pansies. The birthday cake was trimed with sixteen pansies instead of candles. Those that were present were Misses Naomi and Dessie Lohr, Martha Glotfelty, Doris DeWitt, Ethyl Beckman, Ruth Nicholson, Sadie Thayer, Myrtle and Helen White, Mary Manear, Dora and Marie Durst, Messrs. Julius Kitzmiller, Cecil and John Thayer, Russell and Charles Lohr, Charles Barkman, Adrin and Hiram Glotfelty, Elbert Nine, Lorane DeWitt, Reverdy Beckman, Arthur Manear and Perry Thayer.

The young folks departed as the hour of Sunday morning approached wishing Miss Manona many happy returns of the day and thanking Mr. and Mrs. Thayer for a very enjoyable evening spent in their pleasant home.

MEMORIAL DAY WAS ONLY HALF-HEARTIDLY OBSERVED

Few of the Remaining Old Soldiers Ventured Out Owing to Weather Conditions.

Tuesday was Memorial Day all over the country and it was observed pretty generally according to newspaper reports. Here in Oakland a soaking rain fell almost the entire day and as a result a very few, probably half a dozen, old soldiers ventured out to do their fallen comrades the honors due them. The graves of the dead, however, had been decorated the evening previous by members of the Sons of Veterans. This was all the more appreciated by the survivors when it was found impossible to muster their comrades for the march to the cemeteries where the memorial services were to be held, and in consequence the annual observance was abandoned.

Members of the various fraternal societies, however, marched to the city of the dead and there decorated the graves of their departed brethren as did also hundreds of others whose loved ones repose therein.

Groceryman White Sells Out.

Mr. Arthur White, who has conducted a splendid grocery store on Alder street during the past two or more years, sold his stock and good will to Mr. G. C. Martin, of Oakland, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Martin's son Mr. Glen Martin, will operate the store and will be assisted for the present by Mr. White, Sr. The new proprietor has the best wishes of The Republican for success in his new venture.

BOYS' CORN AND POTATO CLUBS.

Tour of State to Effect Organizations Under Auspices Baltimore Sun.

Beginning at Crisfield on Saturday morning, June 3rd, at 10 a. m., a Pathfinder automobile will tour the good roads from Crisfield to Baltimore by way of Elkton, and from Baltimore to Oakland by way of Frederick and Cumberland, for the purpose of organizing permanent committees to take charge of The Home State Tour of The Maryland Corn and Potato Club Boys. The main event is scheduled for the week preceding Maryland Week and will be a forerunner of that state affair, which will be held as usual at The Fifth Regiment Armory in Baltimore.

The Pathfinding automobile will be in charge of Reuben Brigham, who has charge of club work and represents both the federal government and Maryland Agricultural College and Henry E. Warner, Director of the Tour, who will represent The Baltimore Sun, under the auspices of which newspaper the tour is to be given by arrangement with the federal and state boy's club authorities.

For the information of those interested, preliminary meetings will be open to the public and in most cases will be held by authority of the city and county officials, with whom are co-operating automobile clubs, commercial organizations, granges and bankers.

The Pathfinding car will make three towns a day where possible, and the meetings will be held at 10 a. m. and 4 and 8 p. m. daily. Mr. Brigham will explain the work of the Corn Clubs, and Mr. Warner will go into the purpose of the tour and the plan of organization.

The prize winning Corn Club and Potato Club Boys en route will boost Maryland Week exposition and invite all the people of Maryland to come to Baltimore. It is believed and hoped that this promotion for Maryland Week will result in the greatest reunion of state and city people in the history of Maryland. It is peculiarly true of Maryland that every one in the country is related to someone in the city. Later in the season the railroad companies and the steamboat lines will be asked to offer special rates for Maryland Week and to advertise it widely.

A meeting will be held in Oakland at 8 o'clock p. m., June 15, particulars of which will be announced later.

CHAPTER NO. 410

AN ACT to repeal section 196, 197, 199 and 209 Q of Article Number One of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Allegany County," sub-title "Mining and Mine Inspector," as the same were enacted by Chapter 124 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed in the year 1902, and to re-enact said sections with amendments, so as to place the inspection of mines in Allegany County under the State Board of Labor and Statistics; and to repeal sections 150, 151, 153, and 164 P of Article Number Twelve of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Manufactures and Mines," as the same were enacted by Chapter 124 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed in the year 1902, and to re-enact said sections with amendments, so as to place the inspection of mines in Garrett County under the State Board of Labor and Statistics.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That section 196, 197, 199 and 209 Q of Article Number One of the Code of Public Laws of Maryland, title "Allegany County," sub-title "Mining and Mine Inspector," as the same were enacted by Chapter 124 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland passed in the year 1902, be and the same hereby are repealed and re-enacted with amendments; and sections 150, 151, 153 and 164P of Article Number Twelve of the Code of Public Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Manufactures and Mines," be and the same hereby are repealed and re-enacted to read as follows:

Section 196 of Article 1 and Section 150 of Article 12. That the State Board of Labor and Statistics, with the approval of the Governor shall appoint one Mine Inspector for the counties of Allegany and Garrett, who shall hold his office for two years from the date of his appointment. No person shall be eligible to the office of Mine Inspector until he shall have attained the age of thirty years. He shall possess a competent and a practical knowledge of the different systems of mining and properly ventilating coal mines in said counties, and the nature and constituent parts of the various gases found in coal mines, and of the various ways of expelling the same from said mines and shall have had five years' practical experience as a miner in one or both counties combined next immediately preceding his appointment, and shall receive such annual salary as the Board, with the approval of the Governor, may deem proper. Before entering upon the discharge of the duties of his office the said Mine Inspector shall take the oath provided in the Constitution of the State and shall give bond in the sum of two thousand dollars with sureties to be approved by the Chief Judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit of Maryland. Said Mine Inspector while in office shall not be interested in the operation of any mine or act as land agent, superintendent or manager of any mine; and it shall be his duty to make a report to the State Board of Labor and Statistics of his proceedings in office and to set forth in such reports all such information that may be proper or beneficial, and also to make such recommendations and suggestions as he may consider important as to legislation on the subject of mining.

Section 197 of Article 1 and Section 151 of Article 12. Said Mine Inspector shall devote the whole of his time to the duties of his office. It shall be his duty to examine each mine in said counties as often as possible, but a longer period of time than two months shall not elapse between said examination, to see that all the provisions of this Act are observed and strictly carried out, and he shall make a record of all examinations of mines, showing the condition in which he finds them, especially with reference to ventilation and drainage, the number of persons employed in each mine, the extent to which the law is obeyed and progress made in the improvements of mines, the number of serious accidents and the nature thereof, the number of deaths resulting from injuries received in or about the mines, with the cause of such accident or death; which record completed to the first day of May of each and every year shall be filed with the State Board of Labor and Statistics, and one thousand copies of said report shall be printed for distribution at once by the said Board, and the cost thereof shall be paid by the Treasurer upon the warrant of the Comptroller.

Section 199 of Article 1, and Section 153 of Article 12. In case the Inspector becomes incapacitated to perform the duties of his office or receives a leave of absence from the said Board, it shall be the duty of the said Board to appoint, upon said Mine Inspector's application, or that of five miners or five operators, some competent person to fill the office of Inspector until the said Inspector shall be able to resume the duties of his office, and the person so appointed shall be paid in the same manner as hereinafter provided for the Inspector of Mines.

Section 209Q of Article 1, and Section 164P of Article 12. In this Act the term "coal mine" includes the shafts, slopes, adits, drifts, or incline planes connected with excavations penetrating coal stratum or strata, which excavations are ventilated by one general air current or divisions thereof, and connected by one general system of mine railroads over which coal may be delivered to one or more common points outside the mine when such is operated by one operator.

Sub-Section A. The term "excavations and workings" includes all the excavated parts of a mine, those abandoned as well as the places actually being worked, also all underground workings and shafts, tunnels and other ways and openings, all such shafts, slopes, tunnels and other openings in the course of being sunk or driven, together with all roads, appliances, machinery and material connected with the same below the surface.

Sub-Section B. The term "shaft" means a verdict opening through the strata, and which is and may be used for the purpose of ventilation or drainage, or for hoisting men or material, or both, in connection with the mining of coal.

Sub-Section C. The term "slope" means an incline way or opening used for the same purpose as a shaft.

Sub-Section D. The term "operator" means any firm, corporation, or individual operating any coal mine or part thereof.

Sub-Section E. The term "superintendent" means the person who shall have, on behalf of the operator, immediate supervision of one or more mines.

Sub-Section F. The provisions of this Act shall not apply to any mine employing less than ten persons in any one period of twenty-four hours.

Sub-Section G. It shall be the duty of the Mine Inspector to make as to the clay or fire-clay mines in Allegany or Garrett counties the examination and reports required as to coal mines under Section 197 of Article 1 and Section 151 of Article 12 of this Act, and to make recommendations to the State Board of Labor and Statistics as to the legislation requisite to protect life and health in such clay mines.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from and after the first day of June, in the year one thousand nine hundred and sixteen.

CHAPTER NO. 453.

AN ACT to empower and direct the County Commissioners of Garrett County to borrow money on the credit of said county for the purpose of erecting a high school building in the town of Oakland, and heating, furnishing and equipping the same, and to purchase or condemn real estate for the erection of the same, and for the purpose of erecting, repairing and improving other public school buildings in said county, and to issue bonds for the payment of said money, and to levy taxes upon the assessable property of said county to redeem such bonds and to pay the interest thereon, to refer such question to the the voters of Garrett County.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That for the purpose of erecting a high school building in the town of Oakland and for the purpose of furnishing, heating and equipping said building, and for the erection, repairing and improving other public school buildings in said county, and for the purpose of purchasing or condemning real estate for the erection of the same, the County Commissioners for Garrett County, be and they are hereby authorized, empowered and directed to borrow money on the credit of said county to an amount not exceeding thirty thousand dollars, and to issue coupon bonds therefor, the said bonds to be in the sum of one thousand dollars each, and to be signed by the president of the Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, and countersigned by the Clerk of said board, with the corporate seal of said County Commissioners attached to every bond so issued; said bonds to be dated the first day of January, 1917, and to bear interest at a rate not exceeding 5 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annualy on the first day of July and the first day of January in each and every year until the maturity thereof, and the said bonds shall mature as follows: one thousand dollars thereof on January 1, 1922, and annual thereafter the sum of one thousand dollars in every year until all of said bonds shall have matured.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That said bonds shall have written or printed on them a distinct reference to the act directing the issue of the same, and that said bonds when issued shall be exempt from municipal and county taxation in Garrett County, and they shall be sold after due advertisement by the County Commissioners to the highest bidder or bidders, provided however that none of said bonds shall be sold for less than par value.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the said County Commissioners for Garrett County shall levy annually upon the assessable property of said county tax sufficient to pay the interest upon said bonds, and in the year 1921 they shall levy the sum on one thousand dollars to meet the first maturing bond issued, and annually thereafter the said County Commissioners shall levy upon the assessable property of said county the sum of one thousand dollars until the maturity of the last bond by this act authorized to be issued.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That the clerk of the County Commissioners of Garrett County shall register the said bonds when the same are sold, showing to whom the same were sold, what price was obtained therefor, and shall keep a record upon the books of said County Commissioners of all bonds paid.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett County shall when notified by the Board of County School Commissioners of said county that they desire to avail themselves of the provisions of this act and of the amount of money they will require for the purpose aforesaid, advertise and sell said bonds as above provided to an amount sufficient to produce the sum designated by the said Board of School Commissioners, but in no event in excess of the sum of thirty thousand dollars, and shall pay over the proceeds of the sale of said bonds to the Board of County School Commissioners who shall account for the same as they account for other monies passing through their hands.

SEC. 6. And be it enacted, That the said County Commissioners for Garrett County shall have the opinion to redeem any or all of said bonds outstanding after ten years from the date of their issue.

SEC. 7. And be it enacted, That at the general election in November, 1916, there shall be submitted to the qualified voters of Garrett County, the question whether the said bonds shall be issued, and at such election the ballots cast upon the question shall have printed or written thereon the words, "For the Bond Issue," or "Against the Bond Issue," and if the majority of the votes cast upon said question shall be "For the Bond Issue," then the County Commissioners for Garrett County shall proceed to exercise the power vested in them by this Act, and shall issue the bonds as herein provided; but if the majority of the votes cast shall be "Against the Bond Issue," then this Act shall be null and void.

CHAPTER NO.—

AN ACT to sanction and make valid a certain purchase, sale and deed of conveyance, made by Daniel Annan and others to the Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park, Garrett County, Maryland, on the 6th day of April, 1913, and which said deed is recorded in Liber No. 66 folio 429, one of the Land Records of said Garrett County.

WHEREAS, by Chapter 201 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland at its session of 1886, the inhabitants of the town of Deer Park, Garrett County, Maryland, were constituted a body corporate by the name of "The Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park" and

WHEREAS, the said, The Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park, desiring to establish a small, public park in said town, purchased from said Daniel Annan and others a small portion of land in said town, containing about one-half of an acre, and on the 6th day of April, 1913, the said Daniel Annan and others executed and delivered to said Mayor and Common Council a deed for said land, and the purchase money therefor was paid; and

WHEREAS, there appears to be some question as to the power and authority of said municipality under its present charter to purchase and hold said land for said purpose without the sanction of the General Assembly of Maryland, and therefore this Act is enacted.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the purchase by the Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park from Daniel Annan and others of about one-half acre of land in said town, and the deed from the said Daniel Annan and others to the said, The Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park for said land, bearing date April 6th, 1913, and recorded in Liber No. 66 folio 429, one of the Land Records of Garrett County aforesaid, be and the same is hereby sanctioned confirmed and made valid, and the said, The Mayor and Common Council of Deer Park, be and it is hereby authorized and empowered to take and hold the land embraced and described in said deed, with power to sue for and defend same, to the same extent as if said body corporate was an individual.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect on and from the first day of June, 1916.

CHAPTER NO.—

AN ACT to repeal Chapter 601 of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1914, entitled "An Act to provide for a License Tax on Dogs to create a fund to protect the sheep industry in Garrett County."

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Chapter 601 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1914, entitled "An Act to provide for a license tax on dogs to create a fund to protect the sheep industry in Garrett County," be and the same is hereby repealed.

CHAPTER NO. 60

AN ACT to enable the qualified voters of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, Maryland, to determine by ballot whether bonds in the sum not exceeding Fifteen Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00) shall be issued by the Mayor and Council of said Loch Lynn Heights for the purpose of completing the sewer system of said town.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the question of whether or not the Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett County, Maryland, shall issue bonds in the sum of not exceeding Fifteen Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00) for the purpose of completing a system of sewerage in said town, shall be submitted to the qualified voters thereof, at the regular election for town officers on the first Monday of May, 1916, and the ballot to be used at said election shall have printed thereon, in addition to the names of the candidates for town officers, the following, viz: "For the issue of bonds" and "Against the issue of bonds," and shall be counted and returned as other election returns are counted and made.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That the qualified voters of said town, desiring to vote on said question at said election, shall indicate their choice of said proposition for which they desire to register their vote.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That if it shall be found by the return of the judges of said election that a majority of the votes cast for and against the issue of said bonds, are for the issue of the same, then it shall be the duty of the said Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn Heights, and they are thereby authorized, directed and empowered to forthwith issue said bonds in the name of the Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn Heights, in a sum not exceeding Fifteen Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00), or so much thereof as may be necessary, for the purpose aforesaid; each of said bonds so issued, shall be for the sum of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, interest payable semi-annually on the first day of September and the first day of March in each and every year that said bond shall run; said bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and attested by the Clerk with the seal of said town attached thereto; shall be payable as follows: One bond on the first day of September, 1917, and two bonds each year thereafter on the first day of September, until the entire issue of said bonds is taken up and redeemed; reserving the opinion to the Mayor and Council aforesaid, to take up and redeem at any interest period after five years any and all of said outstanding bonds running more than five years, at the face value thereof, with accrued interest; said bonds shall be exempt from all taxation for County and Municipal purposes.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and Council aforesaid are hereby authorized and empowered to negotiate, sell and dispose of said bonds, either at public auction or by sealed bids, after due notice of such sale shall be given through one of the newspapers published in Garrett County by at least two insertions of said notice in said paper before the day of sale, and said bonds, or any one of them, shall be made to the highest responsible bidder therefore the said Mayor and Council, reserving the right to reject any and all bids received for said bonds.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That if this Act is adopted by the voters of said town as aforesaid, then it shall be lawful for the Mayor and Council of said Loch Lynn Heights, and they are hereby autorized and empowered to complete and maintain said system of sewerage in said town, and to that end, are hereby authorized to make all necessary contracts to carry out the purposes and provisions of this Act, and they may either contract the whole of said improvement, or any part thereof, or may purchase the material and employ the necessary labor to complete said system by days labor, whichever in their judgment they may deem best.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That said Mayor and Council are hereby authorized and empowered to pass all such ordinances as may be necessary for the successful operation of said system of sewerage, by regulating the use and tapping of the same by the residents of said town, and the interference therewith by any and all persons; and they are hereby further authorized to fix and establish a rate of charge or charges for the use of said sewer, and the tapping thereof, by the residents of said town, and shall have the power to pass all such ordinances as may be necessary requiring the residents of said town, or the property owners thereof, to discontinue the use of all pit or surface closets used in said town, wherein fecal matter is permitted to accumulate.

SEC. 7. That in order to pay the interest on said bonds and to redeem said bonds as they shall fall due and payable, the said Mayor and Council are hereby authorized to levy upon the taxable property in said town, at their annual levy term, all such taxes as may be necessary for said purpose.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That the funds arising from the sale of said bonds shall be kept separate from all other funds belonging to said town, and shall only be used to carry out the provisions of this act, and all moneys paid out of said fund for the construction and completion of said sewer system shall be by check, signed by the Mayor of said town, and countersigned by the Clerk thereof, after said bill or account has been passed and ordered to be paid by the said Mayor and Council of said town.

SEC. 9. And be it enacted, That the Clerk of said town shall keep a book, in which shall be entered the sale of all bonds, the amount received therefor, to whom sold, the date when same was sold, and shall further enter therein an account showing the several items on which the fund arising from the sale of said bond was expended.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That this Act is an emergency law and necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health and safety, and having been passed by a yea and nay vote, supported by three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two houses of the General Assembly, the same shall take effect from the date of its passage.

CHAPTER NO. —.

AN ACT to pay to the School Commissioners of Garrett County a sum of money out of the State school tax and to increase the minimum salaries.

WHEREAS, In view of the pressure of the present apportionment, especially upon Garrett County, of the State School Tax, and the inability, without larger increase of county taxation, to keep her schools open for seven and one-half (7½) months, and in view of the fact that the mountain ridges so divide the population of Garrett County, the largest county in the State in area, as to render school facilities for all the children more expensive than in more central parts of the State;

SECTION 1. Be it enacted in the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Comptroller of the Treasury be and he is hereby authorized and required to draw his warrant upon the Treasurer in favor of Garrett County School Board for the sum of four thousand dollars ($4,000.00) per annum for two years, out of the proceeds of the State School Tax before making apportionment thereof; provided, however, that no portion of said four thousand dollars ($4,000.00) per annum, shall be used for any other purpose than for salaries and ordinary running expenses of said schools.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That the Board of School Commissioners of Garrett County shall pay the school teachers of said County the sums of two hundred and fifty dollars ($250.00) and three hundred dollars ($300.00) as minimum salaries, instead of two hundred dollars ($200.00) and two hundred and fifty ($250.00) as at present, and Garrett County shall be exempt for a period of two years, from the provisions of Section 60 of Article 77 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the first of June, 1916.

CHAPTER NO. 13.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 228 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County," sub title "Wild Animals," and amended by Chapter 679 of the Acts of 1914.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 228 of Article 12, of the Public Local Laws of Maryland, title "Garrett County" sub-title "Wild Animals," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments so as to read as follows:

SECTION 228. Any citizen of the State of Maryland, who shall kill any wolf, panther, wild cat, weasel, fox or hawk, within the limits of Garrett County, Maryland, shall be entitled to the following allowance, viz: For every wolf scalp the sum of $20.00, for every panther scalp the sum of $20.00, for every wild cat scalp the sum of $3.00, for every fox scalp the sum of $1.00, for every weasel scalp the sum of fifty cents.

SEC. 2. Be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the first day of June, 1916.

CHAPTER NO. 11.

AN ACT to repeal Section 27 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title Garrett County, sub-title, County Commissioners, as said section was amended and re-enacted by Chapter 475 of the Acts of 1890, and said section was repealed and re-enacted with amendments by the Act passed at January Session 1904, Chapter 540, and said section was repealed and re-enacted with amendments by the Act passed at January Session 1906, Chapter 21, and to re-enact the same with amendments.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 37 of Article 12, of the Code of Public Local Laws, title Garrett County, sub-title, County Commissioners, amended and re-enacted by Chapter 475 of the Acts of 1890, and as said section was repealed and re-enacted with amendments by the Acts passed at January Session 1904, Chapter 540, and the said section was repealed and re-enacted, with amendments by the Act passed at January Session 1906, Chapter 21, be and the same is hereby repealed, so as to read as follows:

That at the general election of county officers of Garrett county, to be held in said county, November, 1917, and every four years thereafter, a clerk to the Board of County Commissioners shall be elected by the qualified voters of said county, who shall hold office of clerk for the term of four years, from the time of his election and qualification or until his successor is elected and qualified, and shall be subject to removal from said office for any willful neglect of duty or misbehavior in office at any time by the County Commissioners of said county, who shall have power to appoint some competent person for the unexpired term of the clerk so removed; said clerk shall be paid for his services the sum of eight hundred dollars per annum, payable in monthly installments of $66.66, at the expiration of each and every month by the Treasurer of Garrett county from the funds of said county, and said clerk shall have full power to administer an oath or affirmation to any and all persons who is to be examined as a witness in any matter before the County Commissioners, and touching or relating to any account, bill or other matter, to be filed in the office of the said County Commissioners, and said salary of eight hundred dollars per annum shall be full compensation for all services required of said clerk, who shall keep the office of County Commissioners open from nine o'clock in the forenoon until four o'clock in the afternoon, and who shall attend therein for the transaction of business on every day of the week, except Sunday and legal holidays.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

CHAPTER 176.

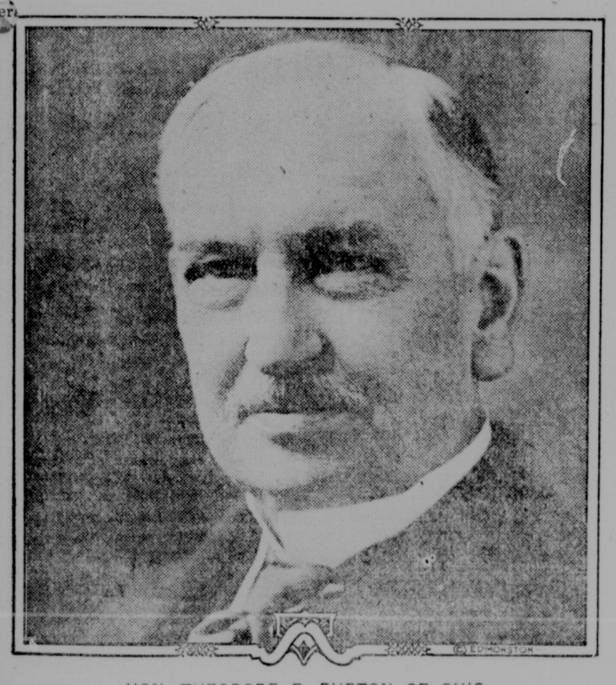
AN ACT to repeal and reenact with amendments Section 8 of Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, entitled "An Act to incorporate The Community of Mountain Lake Park.

SEC. 1 Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 8 of Chapter 430 of the Acts of 1888, entitled "An Act to incorporate The Community of Mountain Lake Park," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

SEC. 8 And be it enacted, That the said assessment and taxation shall be due and payable on the first day of October, next ensuing the making and adopting of the same by the Annual Meeting, provided for in this Act, and that a fair copy of said assessment and valuation shall be posted for at least fifteen days before the date of said Annual Meeting at two or three of the most public places at Mountain Lake Park, in the discretion of the Annual Committee. And a copy of such assessment and valuation shall be retained and posted in the office of the Superintendent of Mountain Lake Park, and open for the inspection of any lot-owner or interested party, at any time that they may desire to see the same. And any lot-holder or other person interested in any such valuation, feeling himself aggrieved by such assessment, shall have the right to file objections with the Annual Committee, or with the Superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, in whose custody the same shall be kept and filed for inspection, and such person may obtain such modification of said assessment as shall, to said Annual Committee, seem just and right; provided that any such objections shall not be filed after the first of October, in the year in which said levy shall be made, unless for special cause made known to such Committee, who shall have the discretion at any time to hear and determine said objections, if they deem it proper to do so. If no objections shall be filed as aforesaid, or if said objections shall be by said Annual Committee overruled, then such assessment or such modification thereof as the said Annual Committee shall make, shall become fixed for the current year, and the said annual assessment upon such valuation shall become a first lien, bearing interest, upon the lot and improvements thereon so assessed as aforesaid, until paid; but leave is expressly reserved to any and all persons who may feel aggrieved at the action of the said Annual Committee on such assessments, to apply to the Circuit Court for Garrett County in Equity by bill or petition, and to obtain such relief in such manner, as said Court may decide upon hearing all the facts in connection with the question so raised. The lien aforesaid for said taxes shall be enforced against any lot and improvements at any time after the first day of January, succeeding the date of such levy, but no such proceedings to enforce such lien, shall be taken unless authorized by an ordinance adopted at the previous Annual Meeting of said Community; and the Bailiff or Tax Collector or Treasurer of said Community or either of said officers, shall have all of the rights and powers for the collection and enforcement of said taxes, as are given the County Treasurer of Garrett County, under Chapter 566 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, approved on the eighth day of April, 1890, and to the same extent as if the said Act was enacted in this amendment verbatim, unless the proceedings of such Treasurer or Collector shall be modified by ordinances, passed by the Annual Meeting, which body shall have the power at any time to modify or change the method of collection of said taxes.

Senator Burton the Man to Lead Republican Party to Victory

His Nomination For President Will Harmonize and Solidify All Factions—Great Record In House and Senate Part of Recent American History—Comes From Section Which Will Be Storm Center of Coming Contest.



HON. THEODORE E. BURTON OF OHIO.

FOR nearly two years the war in Europe has affected world history like a partial eclipse of the sun. It is as if the spot-light of the solar system were turned upon the area of battle-fields, while all the other nations stood like spectators at a moving-picture show, watching in darkness.

The attention of all peoples outside the realm of conflict being thus fascinated by the awful scene, their own affairs have seemed trivial, and have been neglected or forgotten in the hushed thrill that has held the heart of the world.

This phenomenon alone can account for the fact, obvious to every one in the United States, that the approaching presidential campaign has not developed an appreciable fraction of the interest and agitation which usually prevail for many months before the meeting of the great party conventions. Usually the political temperature in America begins to rise about a year before each recurring national campaign, reaches fever heat about the time of the conventions, and shows boiling blood before the election. In this year, 1916, the popular mood that ordinarily would have been manifest in January, is barely discernible in May. The whole political season is backward. But, for this very reason, we may well expect that from now on there will be a quick-step in the march of events, to make up for past lagging, and by the time the conventions are over, the American people will be ready for the full swing of our quadrennial contest. Even the European war will then drop back to second place; and this for two reasons, first, because the political campaign, by the sheer insistence of issues that can no longer be postponed, will crowd its way to the front; and, second, because, as the English writer H. G. Wells so aptly puts it, the conflict abroad has passed the stage of initial onset and reached the period of drag, when the result is to be determined rather by endurance than by impact, and by-standers are always more interested in a quick assault than in a prolonged tug.

Contest Unique In American History.

The conventions of the two great parties are now immediately before us. Every day and every hour quickens the interest, reveals new phases of the situation and presages a contest unique in American history. Already Congress is restless, and the leaders of both parties are considering an early adjournment, or, at least, a recess, until after the nominations are made at Chicago and St. Louis. But more unusual and significant than any other aspect of the situation is the fact that the mind of the whole country is intent upon one convention only. This is true for the first time within the experience of the present generation. While it has several times happened in recent years that the candidate of one party or the other was a foregone conclusion many months in advance of the nomination, there has been, at least, an interest in the platform or in some other incident of the convention. For example, the second nomination of Cleveland in 1888 was assured, while the probable Republican nominee was Gresham; yet both conventions attracted the liveliest concern, because it was not known how far the Democrats would follow their leader's declaration for a radical revision of the tariff. So in 1896, while the probable choice of the Democrats remained a mystery until the day of the convention (finally going to a man theretofore without national renown) the nomination of McKinley was well forecast by events. Yet the two conventions were easily of equal import, because this time the question was how far the Republicans would go in a courageous stand for sound money. Again in 1908, the choice of the Democrats was not known with certainty in advance, and while the Republican nominee was fairly well assured, the platform of that party promised as spirited a controversy as ever filled the galleries of a convention. Certainly both at Chicago and Baltimore the convention scenes of 1912 were sufficiently entertaining. But this year there is less interest in either the nomination or the platform at St. Louis than at any time within the memory of the oldest convention-goer; while, on the other hand, there is more interest (though, as yet, less demonstrative) in both the nomination and the platform at Chicago than at any time since Lincoln was first named in that city.

All Cut and Dried.

The cause of all this is quite easy to find. The renomination of Mr. Wilson will be a party necessity, even if it were not a party desire. The Democratic platform could be written now by any newspaper reader in the land. Its major note will be a strong approval of the whole course of the present administration, including the diplomacy which is said to have kept us out of war with Europe, and the wisdom which, it will be claimed, has characterized our dealings with Mexico. The minor notes will have to do with the government ownership of our merchant marine, the abandonment of the Philippines, and the beneficial effects of the Underwood tariff law. The silent measure will be used as to such matters as a second term, free tolls on the Panama Canal for American coastwise ships, and the high cost of living.

In sharp contrast with all this cut-and-dried program will be the Republican convention. No man can predict with certainty the nominee, and no man can write with safety the platform in advance. All that can be stated with reasonable assurance is that the grave crisis in international affairs and the universal demand for a re-establishment of the American doctrine of protection, will bring together both factions of the Republican party under one candidate and one declaration of principles. Who the candidate shall be, and how far in this direction, or that, the platform shall go, are secrets now hidden in the processes of gestation.

The Republican party has never faced a more solemn duty, or a more inspiring opportunity. That the country is ready to return it to power is written large in every political omen. Not only has the fact persisted through the last four years that the Republican voters, united, are in a clear majority, but every election held since the last Presidential campaign, in which national issues were involved, has shown an increase in that majority. All the party needs to do is to stand up square-toed to the occasion.

That there will be a good fight no shrewd observer doubts. That defeat is possible, even that there are ways to make it certain, every frank and disinterested party man will admit. That victory is assured if there is summoned to the cause the whole Republican sentiment of the country, all Republicans and all Democrats know.

Necessary Qualifications.

In such an emergency who is the best man to nominate? It is easier to describe his type than to find his name.

First: The Republican nominee must be a man experienced in public affairs. He must know world politics, and he must be skilled in domestic legislation. There is nothing so dangerous to the fortunes of a democracy, or indeed of any other government, as a theorist in power. No man whose habits of life have held him aloof from practical affairs can wisely lead or interpret popular opinion. It is the man who knows men, who has been trained and disciplined by years of service in the business of government, and particularly in the exacting school of national legislation, who makes the best candidate and the best president.

Second, He must be well known. This year of all years would be a bad time for experiments. The character and the career of the Republican nominee must be an open book. But even this is not sufficient. However well known he may be it is more important still that his views should be well known. On all the great problems that now confront us the people will want to know where he stands and what he stands for.

Third, He must be firm and safe. No one can tell what the next four years will bring forth. The whole world is in flames, and the sparks are flying in our direction. Today is more critical than yesterday, and tomorrow may require a steadier hand than today. There was never a time when clear thinking and fixed purpose were so essential to American honor and security. If the threat of war increases, Republicans must present a candidate who prefers peace and who will not impulsively embroil us, but who will never flinch or falter in the face of danger. If war comes, he must be one to whom the people can entrust the military power of the government with the fullest assurance that it will be used only to defend the sovereignty of the United States.

Need Big Man After War.

Fourth: He must understand American business and finance. When the war in Europe ends there will be greater need than ever before in our history for a skillful, experienced and sympathetic handling of the financial and industrial interests of the country. The sudden exigency will require rare foresight to prevent disaster and prompt adjustments to meet new conditions with advantage to American commerce. The United States will be the richest of all nations and the greatest of all creditors; while the rest of the civilized world will be ready to make any sacrifice to regain lost markets. Such a situation will call at once for practical, hard-headed knowledge of finance, and common sense appreciation of the interests and opportunities of American capital and labor.

Fifth: He must be a broad-gauged Republican. The nominee at Chicago, next month, must be satisfactory to all substantial elements of the party. His record must be such that both conservatives and progressives can trust and support him. On three occasions only has the Republican party been defeated since the Civil War, and each time the defeat was caused by a nomination forcibly imposed upon a large and protesting minority. The fact is that there has never been a time from the day the first Republican was elected President in 1860 down to the present hour when the principles of the Republican party were not held by a clear majority of the people. In 1884 when Blaine, the idol of the party, went down in defeat; in 1892 when Harrison failed of re-election and in 1912 when the party was split over the re-nomination of Taft, the real cause of the result was not an abandonment of Republican principles, but dissatisfaction with the Republican candidate. The lesson is well learned. It will not have to be repeated. Far-sighted Republicans everywhere appreciate this fact. They will come to the convention resolved to choose that candidate who possesses, first, the highest qualifications for the office, and, next, the greatest availability—that is, the power to command the full strength of the party and to attract the support of that great body of independent citizens of all parties who desire a change in the national administration.

These are the five essentials. Who is the man who best meets every test? Thoughtful Republican leaders in all parts of the country, as well as the rank and file whose composite judgment is fast taking form, have been giving this question the most sober and earnest consideration.

One thing is assured. The Chicago convention will be a deliberative body. There is a serious resolve, manifested in all elements of the party, to take counsel together and nominate the best and strongest man—not only the one who will poll the largest vote and satisfy the expectations of the greatest number, but who will harmonize, solidify and strengthen the party. Already a process of elimination, having regard for no individual preferences, influenced by no pride of section or partiality of leadership, has been quietly going on throughout the country.

Senator Burton Man of Hour.

Out of this process there is gradually emerging the name of one man around whom the whole party could rally, who would satisfy every element, meet every requirement, and carry the Republican standard to victory.

That man is Theodore E. Burton of Ohio.

Senator Burton is experienced in public affairs. He is known from one end of the land to the other and his position on every public question is as well known as his name, for his great record in the House and Senate are a part of recent American history. He is firm in character and safe in judgment. He understands American business and finance, for his work in national legislation has made him easily the leading authority on these questions. He is a broad-gauged Republican whom every member of the party from every section of the country could support with enthusiasm and without reserve.

More than this, Senator Burton comes from the very heart of that section which will be the storm center of the coming contest. The states of the middle west have always been essential to Republican success, and the issues in the present campaign make this fact more important than ever before.

Senator Burton has no superior on the stump. He would make a campaign that would arouse the finest spirit of the party. He is fearless, vigorous and a master of political debate. Ever since he entered the House of Representatives to fight side by side with William McKinley, twenty-five years ago, for the chief tenet of Republican faith, he has been, in Congress and out, a conspicuous leader of the party in all the practical problems of government, and his record upon tariff legislation, international affairs, the improvement of rivers and harbors, the support of the army and navy, the strengthening of the banking and currency systems, and the insistence upon honesty and economy in the public service, is a platform in itself.

Senator Burton is a staunch party man—an earnest believer in political organization and responsibility, and he would not only unite all Republicans in the present campaign but he would keep them united during his term of office, and he would leave the party stronger in power and more effective in the performance of its great duties than ever before.

In surveying the whole field on the eve of the most momentous Republican convention since 1896, if not since the birth of the party, the conviction is growing throughout the country that the wisest choice that could be made at Chicago is Theodore Burton of Ohio.—The Lawyer and Banker, New Orleans.

HUMAN SIDE OF SENATOR BURTON

Many Anecdotes Related of the Ohio Statesman.

One result of Senator Theodore E. Burton's being mentioned so prominently in the papers is that several times each week he receives letters from college and high school students in different parts of the country asking him to help them in preparation for debates. He always makes it a rule when his engagements will permit to help students by suggesting arguments and giving them the results of his public service. However, a few days ago he received a letter from a student in a normal school in one of the northern states suggesting a most interesting arrangement. The young lady wrote him that she was about to enter a prize contest and she had chosen for her subject a question on which he was regarded as a particular authority. She proposed that if he would write her essay and it was awarded the prize she would divide it with him fifty-fifty. He sent her his regrets that he was unable to accept her proposition.

Senator Burton is a prodigious worker, and the light in his study can always be seen burning far into the small hours of the night. He says that he is able to pursue his studies to these late hours by always retiring for an hour late in the afternoon.

One afternoon President Taft wanted to consult with Senator Burton on the telephone and was connected with the Rochambeau exchange. The Rochambeau operator informed the president of the United States that Senator Burton was asleep and she could not disturb him.

Mr. Taft replied, "But this is President Taft, who wants to speak to Senator Burton."

She answered: "I can't help it. I couldn't call him even if it were the king of England."

President Taft told this story on Mr Burton at the next White House dinner that Mr. Burton attended.

Senator Burton is a practical anti-race suicidist. Inexplicable to his friends as it is that he has never married he is the personification of devotion and tenderness to children.

When he was in the senate he had an appointment to a position at his disposal. There was a score of applicants. Out of the number he selected for appointment a man with a family of seven children.

"The man needs it," said the senator. "He is doing more for his country and the next generation than any of us."

Senator Burton, who cannot bring himself to stick to the principle of organized charity as against open handed, indiscriminate giving, but who has a firm determination not to be imposed upon, recently had this experience. He was accosted by a man who declared he was hungry and needed a quarter. Senator Burton replied: "My friend, I don't want to see any man go hungry. Just come with me to a restaurant and I will buy you something to eat."

"Aw, I want a quarter; I don't want none of your charity," the man replied.

Consulted by Roosevelt.

When Theodore Roosevelt was president he often consulted Theodore E. Burton, particularly on matters of conservation. Roosevelt appointed Burton chairman of the inland waterways commission, and the senator was afterward chairman of the national waterways commission both having for their object the conservation of the waters of the country to be used for irrigation and navigation. Roosevelt and Burton did not always agree, but the president had a profound respect for Burton's opinion and advice.

POLITICS AND SCHOOLS

The educational system of the State has evidenced a decided forward step by fulfilling the requirements of the letter and spirit of the new State school law in throwing bodily out of the window politics as the dominant factor in the county and State system. The recent legislation crystalizes the sentiment of all intelligent men that the great sums of money that are spent for the continuation and improvement of the school system for the welfare of the boys and girls rather than for the benefit of any individual or any political party. This spirit in carrying out the law was exemplified to its greatest extont on Monday of this week when the local board of education reelected for a term of years the present incumbent of the school board office in the person of Mr. Franklin E. Rathbun, who has for the past four years devoted his entire time and energies to the building up and grounding upon a firmer foundation the public school system of Garrett county, with the result that these hundreds of schools are turning out yearly young men and women better equipped to face the great problems of life than at any other previous time in the history of the county or State. It is just as logical to appoint all teachers, janitors and trustees upon political affiliations as it is to appoint a superintendent upon political affiliations; for if this official were determined upon a political basis rather than upon merit the whole school system would become inoculated with politics which would be sustained for the welfare and success of a particular political party rather than for the true purpose for which the schools were instituted and are sustained—the improvement of mind and morals of young manhood and young womanhood. Parallel cases of election of superintendents upon the basis of merit rather than upon political grounds are evidenced by the election of these officials in Allegany, Washington, Montgomery, Anne Arundel and Dorchester counties.

The Republican heartily congratulates the Board of County School Commissioners for its stalwart stand in carrying out the fundamental principles of the new State school law, and for its stand in maintaining the high level of efficiency upon which it has been working during the past few years. The Republican also congratulates County Superintendent Rathbun and the school children as well as the citizens of Garrett county, feeling that with the present officials at the head of the school system it will not suffer.

OAKLAND HIGH SCHOOL 5TH ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

Exercises Were Held In The Maryland Theatre Last Thursday Evening.

The fifth annual commencement exercises of the Oakland High School were held in the Maryland Theatre in Oakland last Thursday evening at which more than the ordinary crowd of friends of education were present, the house being literally packed with an appreciative and highly interested audience of ladies and gentlemen.

The program of the evening, which was published in these columns last week, was carried out in every particular, the first number being a musical selection by the Oakland Orchestra, followed by the invocation offered by the Rev. Dr. John H. Howard, pastor of St. Pauls M. E. church. Miss Orpah Ashby sang very beautifully a solo entitled "Haymakers," her accompanist being Mr. Dwight Townshend. Miss Mildred Thrasher delivered the salutatory, which was well timed and received with much applause by the audience, while her sister, Miss Carrie Thrasher, was the valedictorian of the class, the subject treated being "Books as Companions," which was also a highly commendable effort on the part of the young graduate. Miss Bess Hinebaugh, who possesses a sweet, well modulated voice, then sang a solo entitled "Youth."

Dr. M. Bates Stephens, Superintendent of Public Instruction of Maryland, was the speaker of the evening and for upwards of an hour entertained the large audience with an address overflowing with good advice directed to the graduates, which, if followed by them, will bring each individual member of the class merited honor and no regrets at the end of their race through life.

After another well rendered selection by the orchestra Dr. Stephens presented the diplomas to the graduates and Superintendent Rathbun presented certificates of merit to the following, the recipients having earned them for being proficient along the following lines:

A Certificate of Merit is awarded to the student who has the highest general average in his class, and to each one who has been neither tardy nor absent during the school term.

Highest Average—First Year, Nellie Schmidt, 95 per cent; 2nd Year, Eva Falkenstein, 93; 3rd Year, Winifred Weimer, 93; 4th Year, Carrie Thrasher, 95.

Honorable Mention—The following students have a general average of not less than 90 per cent: 1st Year, Ralph Robinson; 2nd Year, Icie Schock, Winona Jones, Herschel Harvey, Mary Naylor, Lorena Falkenstein; 3rd Year, Pauline Jones, Carrie Mann, Felix Robinson; 4th Year, Mildred Thrasher, Edward Lewis, Clara Bush.

A Certificate of Proficiency in Typewriting is awarded to each student writing forty words per minute for ten minutes on the Underwood Typewriter, according to International Contest Rules: Julius Littman, 47; Gerald Tanner, 43; Donald Maffett, 42.

Other musical numbers during the evening were duets by Messrs. Julius Littman and Ross Isenberg.

After the presentation of the awards of merit, Rev. O. A. Bremer, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, pronounced the benediction and the audience was dismissed.

The graduates were: Academic—Martha Norine Ault, Clara Ruth Bush, Mabel Leighton Falkenstein, Annie Louise Harned, Mary Frances Sincell, Margaret Catherine Slabaugh, Carrie Elizabeth Thrasher, Mildred Gladys Thrasher.

Commercial—Edward C. Lewis, Donald U. Maffett, Julia Agnes Rowan.

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS

An Enrollment of More Than Sixty Made First Day of Session.

The Garrett county summer school for teachers opened in Oakland Monday with a corps of teachers well equipped for the work which they have undertaken. Prof. Herrman A. Ziel, of Kitzmiller, is principal of the school.

Monday the number registering for the term of five weeks exceeded sixty, their names being as follows:

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Power Allen, of Cumberland, were week-end visitors.

The Maxwell summer home is being made ready for occupancy. Part of the family are guests of the Mountain Lake Hotel.

Mrs. Sarah Gilbert, who spent the winter in Parkersburg, W. Va., is getting her cottage ready for the summer.

Squire Edward Browning has rented the room occupied formerly by Thomas Gonder, and will conduct an ice cream parlor and soda fountain. In one of the rooms of the building he will have his office as Justice of the Peace.

It seems like old times to have the passenger trains stopping at the Park station and the electric lights burning so brightly all over the Park.

Rumor says that Rev. Hudson, former pastor of the Loch Lynn Baptist church, will conduct a week's meeting in the Baptist church beginning June 11th next. Mr. Hudson's many friends will be glad once more to sit under his ministry.

Next Sunday morning Rev. Paul Flanigan, pastor, will preach the opening sermon of the season in the Methodist church. At 7:30 p. m. the Bible class will have a rally in the interest of the class. A splendid program has been prepared for the evening. Short addresses, good music, and an enjoyable and profitable evening may be expected.

Next Sabbath night, in the United Brethren church, Pastor Barnhouse will preach. He will speak about the season upon which this vicinity is entering. Everybody invited to attend.

The Annual Committee met at the Association office last Tuesday evening A full board was present. The street supervisor was ordered to put the streets in good condition for the summer.

Mrs. L. B. C. List is busy putting the Loch Lynn Hotel in first class order. She expects a splendid season.

The annual announcement will be mailed during the next week. The meetings of the Park are being extensively advertised.

The Pentecostal encampement begins Friday, the 9th. Preparations are being made for a large number of people.

Frank T. Power, Assistant Secretary of the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., wife and son and two other parties spent part of the week-end at Allenhurst. They were motoring to Winchester, Va. They were charmed with the State road from Keyser Ridge to Oakland and the view of the Cove.

Hotel Chautauqua is open for guests. The hotel has been put in good condition for the comfort of its guests.

Mrs. Schrock entertained a number of week-end visitors. Among them an automobile party from Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Cline, of New York City, has very much improved her summer cottage and grounds upon which the cottage stands.

Dr. Reed, en route home from the General Conference, stopped off at the Park Tuesday and looked over the situation and expressed himself as very much pleased with the condition of things.

Mr. Dunnington of the Mountain Lake Hotel, is having a garage, 20x60 feet built on the hotel grounds to accomodate automobile parties. He has already entertained several parties.

FAIR SWEEP

The farmers of this section have rounded up their spring planting and now are waiting for the good old harvest time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Durst and two children spent last Friday visiting friends in Oakland.

Quite a few of our young folks attended the commencement at Oakland last Thursday evening.

Mrs. Tucker is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Dice Spiker.

Mrs. W. R. Beckman was visiting Mrs. Bruce Durst Sunday.

Mr. F. E. Sollars spent Saturday and Sunday with friends in Keyser, W. Va.

Miss Bertha Nicholson is spending a few days with the Misses Porter.

Mrs. Lucy Lyon and Miss Bertie Turney, of Oakland, spent Sunday at Dice Spiker's.

Miss Molly Porter was calling on Mrs. George Porter Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bowser and little son were visiting Jacob Echard Sunday.

Mrs. R. G. White spent Saturday with her mother, Mrs. Lawton, who is very ill at this writing.

Lost—A Tin Lizzie between Oakland and Dice Spiker's on last Thursday night. Finder will please return to Chester Hardesty and recieve reward.

SLEEPY EYE.

JENNINGS

The oats in general among the farmers of this vicinity is sown. It is somewhat later than usual, but if the season is favorable, the crop may be about normal. Some of the farmers have their corn planted, but not all of them.

Edward Pritts whose case was reported as hopeless is improving very rapidly. The membrane or coating, over the brain was not broken or torn, consequently he will be as sane as before the accident.

William Bowser, who was working at the trimmer in Jennings Bros.' lumber mill, loading trucks, had his hand caught in some moving part of the trimmer and mashed the ends off two of his fingers. He was taken to Dr. Bowen's office as soon as Mr. Potter could run his automobile from Jennings to Grantsville. Dr. Bowen dressed his wound very nicely. Billy is getting along as well as could be expected. It will possibly be necessary to amputate tw fingers later.

George Hoover recently delivered to O. S. Fike a nice new Ford car in fine running order.

Paul Jennings has arrived among us again. He has a very nice smile on his face continually! When asked what makes him so happy, he informed us he is the father of a fine boy. We congratulate Paul on his extremely good fortune.

Jack Gallagher, our saw-filer purchased a Saxon Six to haul his family in this summer.

BITTINGER.

This week began with a delightful rain on Sunday afternoon.

Colombus Oester purchased a new Ford touring car last week of James P. Treacy of Oakland, and now the young ladies are looking forward to many pleasant spins along the shady country roads.

Jonas Orendorf and sister, Mrs. Sarah Schrock, of the Eastern Shore, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Orendorf, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Miller, of Deer Park, were visiting here on Sunday.

Clyde Broadwater left for New Windsor, Md., last Saturday, where he will attend the commencement exercises at Blue Ridge College, where he was a student recently.

Many of our young folks attended the lawn fete at Meadow Mountain last Saturday night.

GORTNER

Miss Mabel Wamsley is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Dayton Teets, at Brookside, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Hervey Smouse and little daughter spent Sunday with Mrs. Smouse's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Rush near Accident.

P. P. Gortner and sons, P. F. and George Brenninger, of Sunnyside, motored to Cumberland Friday where they spent the day.

Mrs. C. F. Sanders returned home Monday from a visit with her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Parks, at Newburg, W. Va.

David and Charles Slabaugh were engaged in painting and hanging paper at Mr. Smouse's the past week.

Mrs. J. J. Schlossnagle and family accompanied by Owen Martin, wife and son, attended the funeral of Mr. Henry Schlossnagle at Accident Wednesday.

Will Welch, Mark Gower, Charlie Sanders, Mike Kildow and Delph Metheney motored to Frostburg Saturday night, returning home Sunday. As a result either of the entertainment while in Frostburg, or the long drive, part of the crowd were unable to work on Monday.

Ernest and Harvey Gortner, Mrs. Anna Bittinger and little son, Mrs. J. J. Schlossnagle and family, Mr. and Mrs. Artie Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baker and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Baker were among those from Gortner that attended the unveiling of Mr. Shaffer's monument at Carmel, W. Va., Sunday. The monument of U. G. Sanders, in the cemetery at Gortner, will be unveiled in the hear future.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Slabaugh were Sunday visitors at Mrs. F. S. Irvin's.

Mr. and Mrs. Spoerline, of McHenry, spent several days recently with their son, W. E Spoerline.

Studebaker BUGGIES

Don't Sacrifice Quality for Price

Compare the Studebaker with other buggies.

It has strong, carefully built wheels with the rims screwed on each side of spokes
—Coach felloe plates holding the joints tight
—Electric welded tires correctly set.

These, combined with carefully selected material—sturdy gear and body construction—double ironed and trussed shafts, and other good features—make it a buggy worthy of your confidence.

If you want not only durability and style but the greatest measure of satisfaction—let us show you the Studebaker.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

A Request From Roads Engineer L. T. Downey.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Dear Sir:—Will you please publish the following letter as a notice to the auto drivers of your county and city. Portions will apply to teams also.

The State Roads Commission is repairing the road from Oakland towards McHenry, and I would request that the people driving same would comply with the law as regards to driving with caution in dangerous places. The law says 12 miles per hour in such places. It will safeguard the traveling public as well as the men who are working on the road and likewise aid in the rapid repairs to road. Autos traveling over freshly patched road tear stone loose when machines go fast, and drivers when going rapidly can not see the men who may be behind the roller or some other place not in their view, and if men step out suddenly they are liable to be hit by machine, and I am sure all persons driving road would dislike very much to have such an accident, and then be up for manslaughter. All we ask is that the auto drivers use due precaution, and not speed along where repairs are in progress. I would further ask them to avoid driving on the new patches as much as possible. This can be done by driving astride of the new patches.

Violators of the speed law as outlined above are liable to find themselves before a magistrate, so in order to avoid same drive with caution and slow speed.

Thanking you in advance for printing this in your valuable columns, I remain,

Yours truly,
L. T. DOWNEY,
Resident Engineer S. R. C.
Cumberland, May 31, 1916.

Pause Once a Year.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Last Sunday in the Methodist church at Mt. Lake Park, members of the bible class escorted a few old soldiers of the civil war to the rostum, and there Dr. Wright presented each one with a silk flag as a memorial and appreciation of their services.

When I looked into their faces it occurred to my mind that it is beyond our conception to realize the hardship they had while in service and the aches they now endure.

When men die in battle in defense of their homes or for principals which they wish to leave as a heritage to their children, the next generation would be ungrateful indeed if they could not pause at least once a year to remember the devotion of the heroic dead and decorate their graves, and endeavor to cheer and brighten the lives of the living soldiers.

Notice To Tax-Payers

This is to notify the Taxpayers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1916 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 45, Chapter 566, Acts of 1898, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills:

This is to notify all taxpayers that no discount will be allowed for the prompt payment of State taxes levied for the year 1916.

Chapter 650 of the Acts of 1916, provides that "the state taxes are due and payable on the first day of July succeeding the levy, and if not paid on or before September first, interest shall be charged from said first day of September. Said state taxes shall be in arrear on and after the first day of January succeeding the date of the levy, and it shall be the duty of Collectors, Treasurers and other officers who may be charged with the collection of the same immediately thereafter to proceed to collect said taxes in accordance with the provisions of law for the collection of delinquent taxes. It shall also be the duty of the Collectors or County Treasurer or other officers collecting said taxes to make monthly returns and remittances to the Comptroller of the amounts thereof collected from time to time."

THE BROKEN PLEDGES.

There is one plank of the Democratic platform of 1912 that will certainly not be repeated in the platform at St. Louis in 1916. That is the closing paragraph which asserts that "our pledges are made to be kept when in office as well as relied upon during the campaign." To insert that plank in the platform of 1916 would make the Democratic national convention the laughing stock of the whole country. The convention itself could not restrain its expression of mirth over such an assurance as that.

The first pledge in the Democratic platform of 1912 related to the tariff threw our markets open to competition with the products of cheap labor in Europe and Asia, with the result that our factories were either closed or went on part time, employes were thrown out of work, their purchasing power was reduced and the injury was reflected upon every legitimate industry in the United States. That injury was overcome by the outbreak of the European war, which established an almost absolute protection of American industry from foreign competition and created a market for our goods unequaled in our history.

The next plank in the platform of 1912 pledged the Democratic party to "reduce the cost of living," but government records show that the cost of living increased, even before the outbreak of the European war, and that cost has risen by enormous stride ever since.

The next plank pledged the Democratic administration to a vigorous enforcement of the criminal as well as the civil laws against trusts, the party having asserted that the record of the Republican party in this respect was one of failure. Upon this pledge the Democratic party secured many of its votes, but it has absolutely nothing in its record to show that any illegal trust has been successfully prosecuted, either civilly or criminally.

The next plank pledged the Democratic party to keep each of the coordinate branches of the government within its own bounds and not to permit one to enroach upon the just powers of any of the others. Notwithstanding that pledge, it is notorious that the Democratic majority in Congress has accepted dictation from the White House in matters of legislation.

The income tax and popular election of Senators were the next planks in the platform, but upon these there was no issue, as the Republicans had already submitted the consitutional amendments for these measures to a vote of the states, and they were advocated by both parties.

The next two planks advocated presidential primaries and a single term for the President, both of which pledges have been ignored or violated.

The next important pledge was protection of the personal and property rights of American citizens at home and abroad, and the upholding of the honor and dignity of the nation—a pledge that has been so frequently violated as to make it hazardous for a man to claim American citizenship in our nearest sister republic.

A "return to simplicity and economy," and "reduction in the number of public offices" came next in the Democratic platform of 1912—a pledge that has been followed by increase in office, multiplication of appropriations, and public extravagance combined with inefficiency in public service.

The establishment of a merchant marine "without imposing additional burdens upon the people" was the next important pledge upon which the party made an issue in the last campaign. The only effort toward the fulfillment of that pledge has been an appropriation for government purchase of ships and the expenditure of an unknown sum of money, beginning with an appropriation of $50,000,000.

That pledge was followed by one for the exemption from tolls of American ships engaged in coastwise trade passing through the Panama Canal, a pledge that was not only ignored but expressly and openly violated at the earliest opportunity.

Honest enforcement of the civil service law to the end that merit and ability shall be the standard of appointment came next in the Democratic platform. Instead of keeping that pledge, the Democratic Congress has at every opportunity passed laws which set aside the civil service rules and regulations, and the President has issued an unprecedented number of executive orders permitting deserving Democrats to be placed in the classified civil service without their taking the competitive test to determine their merit or ability.

Extension of the rural delivery service was another pledge. The character of extension this administration has made in the rural delivery service has been such as to bring protests from farmers' unions, from state granges, and from local patrons of the rural mail service.

There were other minor promises in the Democratic platform which cut no figure in the last campaign. The foregoing enumeration of important promises that have been ruthlessly broken are sufficient to make it manifest that the platform of 1916 will contain no assurance that "our promises are made to be kept when in office as well as to be relied upon during the campaign."

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Proper Amusements.

Perhaps I have said enough about cards. Let me in this give some suggestions as to proper amusements. It is admitted that there is need of amusement--that is proper recreation. It is well to heed Paul's injunction to use this world as not abusing it.

When do we abuse the world? Whenever we allow it to take the place in our hearts that ought to be occupied by the Saviour. He must have the first love, the chief place in our affections. We do it when we banish the future world from our affections and allow our thoughts to be wholly absorbed in things of this world. If we carry the lawful use of it to excess, we are guilty. Things lawful in themselves, if carried to excess become an abuse. We are to use the things of this world as sojourners; with a generous spirit. This is the duty of all.

God has made this world for the enjoyment of his children and for their comfort, but they are to hold it lightly. He that would get the greatest amount of pleasure from the world must use it sparingly.

Two men were walking in a garden when each plucked a rose. One handled his very carefully, smelled it sparingly and seldom. The other squeezed his in his hand and kept it to his nose almost constantly and in a short time both color and sweetness had gone, while his friend's retained sweetness and fragrance. Emblems of the best and sweetest creature enjoyments of the world. Used and enjoyed moderately they may yield pleasure a long time. But if the affections seize on them too greedily and squeeze them too hard, they will soon wither in our hands and the comfort of them is lost, either because the soul surfeits on them, or the Lord takes them away because our affections are excessively placed on them. It is said if you prescribe limits are you not liable to make the Christian life a system of hardships and privations? There must be a limit, so we will place it just where the word of God does, God wants us to be happy. This then is an innate desire. We feel a desire for recreation. It is necessary. Anything that makes us healthier in body and clearer in mind, that invigorates the immortal powers, is Christian recreation. It is an infringement on Christian liberty to restrain others from this. Whatever pleasure or play tends to improve body, mind and soul is proper. A necessity of our nature drives us to seek recreation, but this propensity sometimes leads us to dangerous extremes, when it becomes satiation. That which makes us feel worse after participation than we did before is not good and whatever play or pleasure inflames the evil passion of our nature is sinful. Nor is anything, however fascinating it may be, that is not in accord with the principle of the Bible, to be indulged. This is the principle to which every popular amusement that solicits the support of the church, must be submitted. Why not let amusements alone is asked? The truth is that we cannot close our eyes to the fact that fashionable amusements of the day are destroying vital godliness in the heart of those addicted to them. I know it is sad. There is a time for every purpose under the heaven. Solomon was on the throne. He sought pleasure in the things about him for a while. He tried to gratify that innate desire for happiness but failed. Nothing was spared to contribute to his happiness, but the pleasure turned into loathing and disgust. He pursued the phantom until he was exhausted, it was an ignus faturs. He found that earthly pursuits had no abiding bliss and he turned away saying, "vanity of vanity, all is vanity." He warns, cautions and entreats against a course of sin.

But we must have recreation. We cannot toil all the time.

Man is fitted for enjoyment as well as labor and is susceptible of pleasurable emotions. Why that thrill through your frame when music swells? What causes the eye to dilate and the nerves to tingle with delight? It is because God has given you a physical system that is like a harp and may be touched to any tune. A very flood of happiness may pour into the soul through the gates of the senses. We are capable of pleasure and seek it, hence when the days work is over many go to places where they find it. Let this desire be directed in the proper chanel.

Sinful amusements and worldy pleasures can have no place in the church, but proper and innocent ones may. Relaxation we must and will have and if we cannot get it at home we seek it away. How sad the complaint of parents that they can't keep the children at home, they don't seem to love it, and so they wander away from a mothers influence and a fathers admonities. Have they made home attractive? Let them provide good and entertaining books and innocent amusements that secure the attention of the young. Let the father wear a frown and the mother be fretful and the atmosphere of home will be chilled by parental disputes, fault finding and absence of sympathy and of course the children will go. Make it pleasant and they will stay. Give them all the music they want. Subdue bitterness and be happy in the presence of the children. It will not hurt you to romp a bit with the youngsters instead of driving them into the yard or street, or to your neighbors.

If no legitimate pleasure is furnished, they will seek the vicious. Go to a place that cannot or will not support literary societies, circulating libraries, concerts, and you will find second class theatres in full blast, gaming tables popular and ball rooms a success.

If the young can't find their recreation in innocent ways, they will resort to questionable, and when that state of things exists, pure religion goes out and sin reigns. Do the children want battle dore, let them have it. Are they inclined to calesthemes, encourage that. Gymnastic poles and bars was the celebrated McCheym's method of recreation.

Do the boys want to play chess, by all means teach them how. It's a splendid mental disciplin. The gymnasium is free from dissipation and recuperates the energies. It is a good cure for dispondency, and a torpid liver which is the cause of a vast amount of our blues. You have no right to be an invalid if you can help it.

Go into society, for you should cultivate your social nature. Social visiting may be most profitable of all recreations. Social visiting in homes would enable young men to see men and women as they really are, and not as they appear in society and public life. They would get a deeper insight into nature and know more of life at home, and be better able to select a proper life companion.

Enough for the present.

IN the Low Corn King catalogue it takes pages to tell about the good construction that backs up the "8-foot-wide spread from a narrow 45-inch box." Here the space is limited.

See the spreader and study these things: The simple worm and worm gear which drive the apron can be reversed, doubling the wear qualities. The gear is entirely enclosed, away from dust and dirt. The relation of beater and apron is just right to do the best work on the manure with the least power. Low Corn King is a steel spreader—frame, beater axles, wheels, driving parts—all of light, strong, compact steel. You return the apron by a convenient foot lever—no hand cranking, no getting down from seat.

These things—remember—back up the even, satisfactory 8-foot-or-better wide spread. Get acquainted with the Low Corn King spreader. See the local dealer who sells it.

CHAPTER——

AN ACT providing for the issuing and sale of bonds by the Mayor and Council of Grantsville for constructing, erecting and maintaining water works and sewerage in said town of Grantsville, condemn such land as may be necessary for the building of said works, and to levy taxes on the assessable property of said town to redeem said bonds and to pay the interest thereon.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That for the purpose of establishing, constructing and maintaining water works capable of furnishing the residents of said town with a good and sufficient supply of water for ordinary purposes and fire protection, and for establishing, erecting, constructing and maintaining a sewerage system in said town for drainage and sewerage purposes the Mayor and Council of Grantsville be and they are hereby authorized and empowered and directed to issue bonds in the name of the Mayor and Council of Grantsville to an amount not exceeding Fifteen Thousand Dollars ($15,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose aforesaid. The said Bonds shall be for the sums not less than One Hundred dollars ($100) each nor more than Five Hundred dollars ($500) each, to be signed by the Mayor and President of the Council and countersigned by the Clerk of said Council with the corporate seal of said town there to be affixed, bearing interest at not less than Five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually in each and every year and dated on the first day of their issue; the said bonds shall be numbered serially. Bond No. 1 shall be due and payable Two years after date of issue, and thereafter each bond shall mature and be payable each consecutive year from the maturity of Bond No. 1, in the order of their consecutive numbers; provided, however, the Mayor and Council of Grantsville are hereby given the option to redeem any or all bonds outstanding Five years from date of issue or at any interest period thereafter; that all of said bonds thereafter shall be due and payable within Sixty years from the date of their issue, and shall be forever exempt from all county and municipal taxation for any purpose, and shall have printed on them a reference to the Act of Assembly authorizing the issue thereof.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and Council of Grantsville are hereby authorized and empowered to construct and erect water works and sewerage for said town and to contract for the purchase in fee simple or lease for a term of years, renewable at their pleasure, any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses or streams, and to use or occupy forever or for a term of years, any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses or streams, which they may deem expedient or necessary for the purpose of furnishing said town with water and maintaining said sewerage, and they are hereby invested with all the rights and powers necessary for the induction of water into the said town and the maintenance of said sewerage system. If for any cause the said Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall be unable to agree with any owner of real or leasehold property, springs, brooks, streams or water courses or any other material which partake of or in a necessary part of reality, or for any right of way which they may find necessary for the conduit of said water and sewerage in its entry into or in said town or if such owner is under any disability or incapacity to contract or absent out of the county or unknown the said Mayor and Council of Grantsville is hereby clothed with the power of condemnation under the right of eminent domain as provided in Section 251 of Article 23 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland as fully as if said section had been herein incorporated, and their manner of procedure of condemnation for the purpose of this Act shall in all particulars be the same as if provided by said section 251 of said Article 23. The said Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall have full power to fix schedules of rate for furnishing water and sewerage to private residences and other buildings, and the said Mayor and Council shall have power to collect the same as other taxes are collected and the income therefrom shall be applied, first, for expenses and maintenance, and afterwards for the payment of the interest on the bonds and sinking fund to meet the bonds at maturity.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the title of said water works and sewerage, and all lands, estates and water courses, waterways, conduits, pipes, machinery and all other parts hereto shall when completed or acquired vest in the Mayor and Council of Grantsville; and every person who shall willfully or knowing pollute any spring, stream, brook, water course, reservoir or standpipe in connection with the said water works or built or constructed by throwing any impure or deleterious substance or thing into the same, or by swimming, bathing or washing themselves or by washing clothes or any other thing therein, or by committing any nuisance in or near the source of supply or the reservoir or standpipe for said water works so as to pollute the same shall upon conviction of such offence be liable to a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars, nor more than three hundred dollars, for each offence, to be recovered by the Mayor and Council of Grantsville before a Justice of the Peace as other fines are recoverable, or to imprisonment in the county jail or the House of Correction for a term of not less than six months nor more than eighteen months or both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the Justice of the Peace, one-half of such fine to go to the informer and the balance to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville for the purposes of this Act.

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of redeeming said bonds at their maturity and for securing the prompt payment of the interest thereon, the Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall for the year of the issue of said bonds and annually thereafter until the maturity of said bonds, levy a tax on the assessable property of said town, not exceeding fifty cents on the one hundred dollars, to pay the interest thereof, and the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($250) of the principal of said debt for the payment of the same at maturity. The said sum of Two Hundred and Fifty dollars ($250) shall be held and invested by the Mayor and Council of Grantsville as a sinking fund for the redemption of said bonds at their maturity, and the said Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall, from time to time, deposit the money belonging to said sinking fund and the increment thereof in some safe depository, which pays interest on deposits, or shall invest the same in state or such other bonds satisfactory to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville as to them may seem best, or in the purchase or redemption of said bonds as may be offered for sale or redemption, and upon the purchase of any such bonds by the said Mayor and Council they shall be immediately cancelled by stamping across their face (cancelled by sinking fund), and no portion of said sinking fund so levied shall ever be diverted to any other purpose than to the purchase and liquidation of said bonds. The money collected each year by the treasurer or tax collector on account of taxes to the extra said sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Dollars ($250) shall be set apart for said sinking fund, and a separate account shall be kept thereof and be deposited to the credit of said fund, and no part of which shall be chargeable to insolvencies on account failure of assessments or collections.

SCE. 5. And be it enacted, That the money arising from the sale of said bonds (which said bonds shall be sold either at auction or by sealed bids, after due advertisement thereof to the highest responsible bidder), shall be deposited in bank to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville, and subject to their check, and the clerk of said town shall keep a book, to be especially provided for the purpose, of the names and addresses of the purchasers of the bonds sold, and the amount realized on the sales together with the serial numbers of the bonds.

SEC. 6. And be it enacted, That in any prosecution before a Justice of the Peace under Section 3 of this Act, the accused and the Mayor and Council of Grantsville shall have the right to an appeal to the Circuit Court for Garrett County, within thirty days, and a jury trial. Any person or persons convicted before a Jnstice of the Peace under Section 3 of this Act who shall be held by recognizance or be committed to the county jail to appear before the next regular jury term to the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

SEC. 7. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and Council of Grantsville be and they are hereby authorized and empowered to negotiate, sell and dispose of the said bonds as hereinbefore provided in Section 5 of this Act, or so many thereof as so the Mayor and Council may be deemed necessary for the purposes of this Act. And the said Mayor and Council are fully authorized to make all necessary rules and regulations, and to pass all necessary ordinances, with penalties for their violations, and to do all other necessary acts for the proper managing, maintaining and repairing said water works and sewerage systems and for the protection thereof.

SEC. 8. And be it enacted, That the funds realized from the sale of said bonds shall be applied to the purposes of this Act, and shall be paid by check signed by the Mayor and President of the Council and the Mayor and said Council of Grantsville are hereby authorized and empowered to pass such orders for the payment of money due for the construction of said water works and sewerage, or to the contractor or contractors for the construction of the same, as shall, from time to time, be due or earned by the contractor or contractors or parties doing the work in the prosecution of said work, and also from time to time, to pass orders for the payment of property purchased or condemned, and for material furnished in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, and may in its discretion employ a competent hyerographical engineer to suuperintend the work of constructing such water works and sewerage system.

SEC. 9. And be it enacted, That on the first Monday in April, 1917, on date of regular municipal election to be held in the town of Grantsville, wnich election shall be held in the same manner, and under the same regulations as other municipal elections held in said town, there shall be placed on the ballots at said election for the purpose of submitting the question as to whether this Act shall take effect to the legal voters of said town, and all ballots at said election shall have printed on them the words, "For water and sewerage," and the words "Against water and sewerage," and all voters desiring to vote for the provisions of this Act shall mark out the words "Against water and sewerage," and all voters desiring to vote against the provisions of this Act shall mark out the words "For water and sewerage." And if the judges of election shall decide that a majority of the votes cast are for "water and sewerage" then this act shall be in full force of law, otherwise of no effect. The Judges of Election shall under their hands, immediately after said election, certify to the Mayor and Council of Grantsville the result of the said election.

SEC. 10. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect on the first day of June, 1916.

CHAPTER 514.

AN ACT to incorporate the town of Accident in Garrett County, Maryland.

WHEREAS, at a meeting of the male citizens and residents of the town of Accident, in Garrett County, Maryland, held on the first day of January, 1916, it was decided by a vote of said citizens and residents of said town attending said meeting that an application should be made to the General Assembly of Maryland for a charter of said town "of Accident."

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the citizens and inhabitants of the town of Accident in Garrett County, State of Maryland, are hereby incorporated by the name of the "Mayor and Council of Accident," that by that name they have perpetual succession, may sue and be sued, may have and use a common seal, and may purchase and hold such real, personal and mixed property as may be required for the purposes of said corporation, and may dispose of such property when necessary for the benefit of said corporation: and all the property and funds of every kind belonging to said corporation are vested in the Mayor and Council of Accident.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, The corporate limits of the town of Accident are hereby declared to be as follows: Beginning at the Northeast corner of John Garringer land on the west side of the State Road, thence South 27 degrees West, 4 perches South 66 degrees East, 100 perches to stake, stone and pointers, thence North 35 degrees East, 160 perches to 6 feet Northwest of Service tree thence North 26½ degrees West, 161 perches to stake on West side of State Road near a culvert, thence South 72½ degrees West, 96 perches to corner at stone fence, thence South 42½ degrees West, 113 perches to a locust tree, thence South 25 degrees East, to place of beginning.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That said corporation shall be governed by a Mayor and six councilmen, and that Frederick Burkhard, of said town be and he is hereby named Mayor of said town for a period of two years from the date of its incorporation ending the first Tuesday in March, 1918, and that Adam Richter and Robert A. Ravenscroft be and the same are hereby named and designated as the councilmen for the first two years from the date of its incorporation, ending on the first Tuesday in March, 1918, and that Floyd C. Diehl and Henry M. STRIKING FEATURES OF NEW SCHOOL LAW

Rigid Requirements Necessary For Superintendent to Be Qualified.

The new public school law of the state carries with it many radical changes in the government of the school system of Maryland.

Below are a few of the salient changes therein. The law was based upon the report of the survey of the schools which was made by the General Education Board of New York City, assisted by a similar board composed of citizens of Maryland. These two boards also formulated the law and recommended immediate passage thereof, which was supported by the state administration and the state department of schools; nor was it possible to make any amendments to the proposed legislation without the approval of these two state authorities. A few of the radical changes made in the state school law are briefly given below, additional ones to be published in these columns next week:

The Governor and the State Superintendent of schools are removed as members of the State Board of Education.

The state department of education shall be provided with an assistant state superintendent, a supervisor of state-aided high schools, a supervisor of rural schools, a white supervisor of colored schools and such other clerical and professional assistants and agents as may be authorized by the state board.

The County Boards of Education shall be composed of citizens of the county, appointed by the Governor direct, without the usual confirmation of the State Senate, party affiliations or political preference to have no bearing upon the Governor in making an appointment as have prevailed formerly in this state; to quote the Bill: "The members of the Boards shall be appointed solely because of their character and fitness."

District boards of school trustees shall each be composed of three members, appointed from the residents of the school districts by the county boards of education for a term of three years, so arranged that one, only, after 1917, is appointed each year.

The state department of schools, assisted by the county board of education, shall direct the required taking of a biannual census of all the children in the state between the ages of 6 and 18 years inclusive, to be taken first in the year 1918 and every two years thereafter.

The state superintendent of schools, subject to the rules and regulations of the state board of education, shall pass upon all plans and specifications for the remodeling of old school buildings or the construction of new school buildings costing $300 or more.

The county board of education shall appoint, on the written recommendation of the county superintendent, all principals and assistant teachers.

The county board of education shall submit to the board of county commissioner a budget of necessary expenses for conducting the schools for the next school year and the board of county commissioners are "authorized, empowered, directed and required to levy and collect such tax upon the assessable property of the county as will produce the amount requested to be raised by local taxation in the annual budget of the county board of education."

The county board of education shall provide for at least an annual audit of its business and financial transactions by accountants approved by the state superintendent of schools,

The county board of education shall hold an annual meeting in May. At this meeting the board shall elect one of its members to serve as president and one to serve as vice president. It shall appoint during the month of May a superintendent of schools for a term of four years, from the first day of August next succeeding his appointment.

No person shall be eligible for appointment to the office of county superintended of schools who does not hold from the state superintendent of schools a certificate in administration and supervision as provided for in section 55 of this article, nor shall the appointment of any person by the county board of education to the position of county superintendent of schools be valid without the written approval of the State Superintendent of Schools. Provided that all county superintendents of schools holding office at the time when this act shall take effect, shall continue to serve to the end of the term for which they were originially appointed, and until their successors qualify, unless removed, as hereinafter provided, and shall also be eligible for reappointment; and provided, further, that all county superintendents of schools shall be paid, beginning with the school year 1916 1917, on the basis of the salaries hereinafter specified. The salary of the county superintendent of schools shall not be diminished during his term of office. The county superintendent of schools shall devote his entire time to public school business and shall receive such compensation as the county board of education shall direct, provided that no county superintendent of schools appointed to office under the provisions of this section, or continuing in office under the provisions of this section, shall be paid an annual salary of less than eighteen hundred ($1,800) dollars, and the State of Marylandshall, as hereinafter provided, pay out of the General State School Fund to the treasurer of the county board of education, one-half of the annual salary of the county superintendent of schools, up to and including an annual salary of three thousand ($3,000) dollars. County boards of education may, in their discretion, pay to a county superintendent an annual salary in excess of three thousand ($3,000) dollars, but the State shall not share in the part payment of said excess. The State superintendent of schools may remove any county superintendent of schools appointed under the provisions of this section or continuing in office under the provisions of this section, for immorality, misconduct in office, insubordination, incompetancy, or wilful neglect of duty, upon making known to him, in writing, the charges against him, and upon giving him an opportunity of being heard in person or by counsel, in his own defense, upon not less than ten day's notice. In case of vacancy due to any cause, the county board of education shall fill the vacancy and the appointment shall be for a full term of four years, and until a successor shall qualify."

Section 55, herein referred to, reads as follows: "A certificate in administration and supervision, valid throughout the State for three years, renewable on evidence of successful experience and professional spirit and require of all county superintendents, may be issued to persons who are graduates of a standard college or university, or who have had the equivalent in scholastic preparation; who have completed in addition one graduate year's work in education in a recognized university, including public school administration, supervision and method of teaching, or who have had the equivalent in scholastic preparation, and who have had two years' experience as a teacher."

ALLEGANY MAN HEADS BANKERS

The twenty-first session of the Maryland State Bankers' Association was brought to a close at Atlantic City on last Thursday. Opinion among the members is that it was the most successful convention of the association, both as to attendance and in the interest and character of the discussions.

The following officers were elected and installed:

President, James M. Sloan, president of the Lonaconing Savings Bank; first vice-president, Harry J. Hopkins, president of the Farmers' National Bank, Annapolis; vice-presidents, William E. Bratten, cashier of First National Bank, Snow Hill; Clifton K. Wells, assistant cashier of First National Bank, Baltimore; Francis S. Carmody, president of the Farmers and Merchants National Bank, Mount Pleasant; Nervin J. Brandt, cashier of First National Bank, Hagerstown; E. E. Reindollar, president of the Brimie Trust Company, Taneytown; Henry B. Reinhardt, cashier of State Bank of Maryland; William H. Conkling, president of the Savings Bank of Baltimore; Channing Rudd, Alexander Brown & Sons.

THE Frederick Post is taking a straw vote for Presidential candidates among its readers. "There does not seem to be as much Hughes as Roosevelt sentiment in Frederick county at this stage of the contest," the Post finds. One voter for Woodrow Wilson gave him this encomium: "As wise as Washington, as courageous as Jackson, as patient as Lincoln."

May H. Cassidy, Plaintiff v. Rosco C. Cassidy, Defendant.

No. 2067 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill states that on the 4th day of March, 1912, the plaintiff was married to the said Rosco C. Cassidy at Grafton, West Virginia, with whom she resided in said town for about a month after their marriage, and then moved to Cleveland, Ohio, and there resided with her husband for a period of about eight months, at which time the plaintiff was to make a visit to her parents in Garrett county. On this trip her husband accompanied her as far as Wheeling, W. Va., and then told her that he would follow her in two weeks, and upon her return to her home in Garrett county she received a letter from him dated Illinois stating that he was going as far away as he could and that he would never live with her again.

The bill further states that the conduct of the plaintiff towards her husband has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, and that the defendant has without just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and declared his intention to live with her no longer.

That such abandonmhnt has continued uninterruptedly for at least three yeaas and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond hope of reconciliation.

That there was one child born of said marriage, viz., Cora, about three years of age.

That the plaintiff has resided in Garrett county more than three years prior to the filing of this suit, and that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

The bill prays for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant, guardianship and custody of said infant child, general relief and an order of publication.

It is thereupon, this 31st day of May, 1916, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in Equity that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county once in each of four successive weeks before the 1st day of July, 1916, give notice to said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, 1916, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

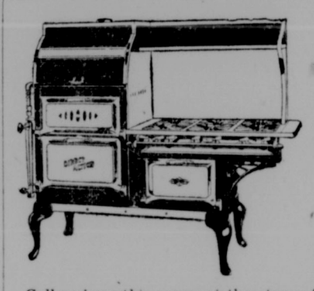
Do You Use Gas?

If you do come to W. E. Shirer and inspect and have demonstrated to you the Direct Action Gas Range, with the regular cooking top and the Direct Action Oven with the fireless cooker convenience added. The oven is the most essential part of all ranges and this range possesses the most marvelous oven yet produced which is a cooking oven as well as a baking oven and can be used to boil and bake at the same time.

The oven of this gas-range is operated on a distinctly new principle. The burners are placed in the oven itself; hence the name, "direct action." In design the range is on efficient cabinet type with a comfortable working height of thirty-two inches. Connected with the oven is a thermostat which reduces automatically the amount of gas allowed to flow through the burner at any temperature indicated. Thus at 200 degrees F. only a sub flame burns, while if the thermostat is set for a temperature of 300 degrees F. the furners show a full flame until 325 degrees F. is reached, when the supply of gas is cut off and the flame is reduced to a mere pin-point, capable of maintaining the temperature set. With this arrangement an oven of known temperature can be indefinitely maintained, and this is a marked advance in gas-cookery. The food is first placed in the oven, the gas is then lighted, and the thermostat is set for the desired temperature. The practical results obtained in this oven, as well as the temperature readings, show it to be an excellent investment.



Call and see this range at the store of W. E. Shirer any day or if you phone W. E. Shirer he will demonstrate to you any evening. This range must be seen to be appreciated.

Porter L. Custer, et al., vs. Amanda Custer et al.

No. 1691 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this petition is to procure an order from the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in equity, authorizing and directing the Trustee named in the decree in this cause to pay over a certain amount of money audited to Ora Crissie to the petitioner, Patrick S. Fazenbaker.

The petition, after setting out the filing of the original bill, the passage of a decree of sale and the appointment of the trustees, states, that after the passage of said decree, but before the sale of said real estate to-wit: on the 1st day of November, 1915, the said Ora Crissie, together with her husband, sold and conveyed to the said Pytrick S. Fazenbaker, all their rights, title and interest in the real estate in the proceedings mencioned, and executed and delivered a deed therefor which deed has been already filed in this cause with the petition of the said Fazenbaker praying that he be admitted as a party defendant therein, and is now prayed to be taken and considered as a part thereof.

The petition further states that there has been an audit stated in said cause, and prays that the amount audited to the said Ora Crissie may be paid over to said petitioner.

It is thereupon, this 2d day of May, 1916, ordered, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in equity, that the petitioner, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, once in each of four successive weeks, before the 24th day of June, next, give notice to the said Ora Crissie of the object and substance of said petition, warning her to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 1st day of July, next, to show cause, if any she has, why an order ought not be passed as prayed. And it is further ordered, that in lieu of such publication, a copy of this order may be served personally upon the said Ora Crissie, on or before the 20th day of June, 1916, in accordance with Section 127 of Article 16 of the Code of Public General Laws of the State of Maryland, warning her to appear and show cause as aforesaid.

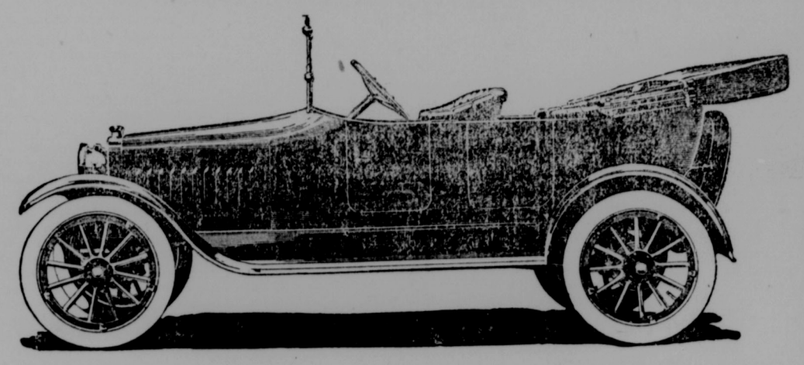
SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people



Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $5,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle tne question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

C. F. ZITTEL, Dramatic Editor, New York Journal.

A RECORD BREAKING RUN

Dr. W. W. Grant, in His Ford, Made Roundtrip to Pittsburgh Sunday.

Dr. W. W. Grant, of Oakland, in company with Mr. A. T. Matthews, left here Sunday morning about eight o'clock with the intention of driving in his Ford automobile to Hagerstown and return. Upon reaching Keyser's Ridge Dr. Grant decided to go west instead of east on the National road, and heading in that direction he ambled along to Pittsburgh where after spending upwards of two hours the return was made to Oakland, reaching here about eleven o'clock Sunday night and covering a distance of approximately two hundred and seventy-five miles.

So far as can be learned Dr. Grant is the only local automobilist who ever made the round trip to Pittsburgh from Oakland the same day.

Special Services in Baptist Church

On next Sunday (June 11) Rev. C. W. Hudson, of Achilles, Va., will preach in Deer Park at 11 o'clock a. m.; at Ferndale Baptist church at 2.30 o'clock p. m., and at Loch Lynn Baptist church at 7.45 o'clock p. m. During the following week Rev. Hudson will assist the pastor in a week's special meeting. A hearty invitation to attend these services is extended to all.

Few Hens, Many Eggs.

County Commissioner George Warnick of Bloomington, is the owner of a nice home and the proprietor of a paying mercantile business in his hometown, but these are matters of secondary consideration with the genial Commissioner-merchant since his twenty-seven hens of various breeds and all colors have established a record in egg production. Commissioner Warnick is as proud of his twenty-seven hens as is the proprietor of Pittsburg's "fifty-seven" varieties, for these hens during the month of May produced five hundred and ninety perfectly good and strictly fresh eggs. Who can beat this record? Competion is free and open to all.

Who Made Wedding Trip On First B. & O. Train, Visits Oakland Relatives.

Mrs. Mary Townshend, of Baltimore, who is a sister of the late Singleton Townshend, well known and remembered by many Oakland people as a merchant and good citizen, is in Oakland on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Naylor and other relatives, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Lena Townshend, superintendent of the Red Cross Hospital at Hot Springs, Va.

Mrs. Townshend is a daughter of Leonard Townshend, who died more than half a century ago, and was born on what is now the Meshech Mattingly farm at Hoyes, later removing with her parents to the Armstrong farm, now owned and occupied by Mr. John T. Mitchell, adjoining Oakland. Here Mrs. Townshend became the bride of John Townshend in the year 1851. The couple left for their wedding journey on the first Baltimore and Ohio passenger train running eastward from Oakland.

Mrs. Townshend is well preserved notwithstanding her advanced years and takes a keen interest in the happenings of the day.

Annual Memorial Service.

Oak Lodge, 8', Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will hold its annual memorial services at the Loch Lynn Heights Baptist church at the hour of two-thirty o'clock on Sunday, June 18th. All members of the order are requested to be present, and the public is cordially invited. Rev. A. R. Snedegar, of Bloomington, will deliver the address. A special musical program will be rendered.

THE DEATH RECORD.

THOMAS H. LAYMAN.

Thomas H. Layman, aged 63 years, died at his home, the Halfway House, seven miles east of Grantsville on the National Pike, on last Thursday evening after an illness of severrl weeks of cancer of the stomach, his funeral taking place Monday after services conducted by the Rev. W. W. Morris, a former pastor, in Mount Zion Methodist Episcopal church, near the home of the deceased, which service was attended by a large number of friends, relatives and acquaintences of Mr. Layman and his bereaved family. Mr. Layman was born near Grantsville and was a son of George L. and Henrietta McKenzie Layman. He was one of the most progressive farmers of Garrett county and resided almost his entire lifetime upon the farm where he died. Politically Mr. Layman was a Republican and as such was elected about the year 1873 as one of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county and reelected as such a year or two later, when he was made president of that body. In 1873 he married Elizabeth Pope, daughter of the late Philip Pope, who survives him along with their three children, Charles Compton, Winfield Scott and Mrs. Forest Michael, the latter a resident of Cumberland. He is also survived by a number of brothers and sisters, the majority of whom reside in the west, Mrs. Ralph Engle, of Grantsville, being the only sister remaining in Garrett county.

MRS. FRANCES HERRING DIXON.

Mrs. Frances Herring Dixon, wife of Mr. Garrett V. Dixon, recently of near Friendsville, and mother of County Commissioner D. M. Dixon died, at the home of the latter in Oakland last Friday morning at an early hour of dropsy, with which she had been a sufferer for a number of months. Mrs. Dixon with her husband retired from their farm on Blooming Rose early this spring and were planning to spend the summer with their daughter at Keyser, West Va., after making a round of visits to their children in this county, and were on their way to their objective point when the deceased lady was taken ill. Mrs. Dixon was born near Friendsville in the year 1842 and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Herring. In the month of December, 1861, she was married to Mr. Garrett V. Dixon, and to this union there were born thirteen children, eleven of whom with her husband survive. The children are as follows. Darius McClelland, of Oakland; James, of Keyser, Arthur, of Friendsville; Asa B. and John, both of near Accident; Mrs. Mary E. Green, who resides in the west; Mrs. Estella Sanders, of Johnstown, Pa.; Mrs. Mary Moore, of Keyser, West Va. Mrs. Dixon was a member of the Friendsville M. E. church for more than thirty-eight years and was buried from that edifice on Sunday morning, the Rev. Statler officiating. She was an excellent woman, loved and respected by everyone with whom she came in contact; a model wife and devoted mother; kind and gentle and inspiring others to live as they should. Mrs. Dixon's death was the first to occur in the immediate family within the period of thirty-eight years.

CIRCUIT COURT IN SESSION.

Large Number of Civil Cases Continued. Mr. E. E. Sollars of Oakland is Forman of Grand Jury.

The June term of the Circuit Court for Garrett county opened last Monday morning, with Judge M. L. Keedy, of Hagerstown, on the bench, Judge Henderson drove up from Cumberland Monday morning and was present at the opening of the court, but returned to Cumberland the same morning. He will return next week, at which time the Criminal docket will be taken up.

Judge Keedy, in his charge to the Grand Jury, of which Mr. E. E. Sollars is the foreman, elaborated considerably upon the duties of this body and called specific attention to the several important laws the violation of which it was the duty of the jury to investigate.

There will be in the neighborhood of 150 witnesses examined by the Grand jury.

The Appeal and Trial dockets were taken up on Monday morning and quite a large number of cases were continued. The following cases were disposed of:

APPEALS.

A. Shartzer vs E. J. Shank; tried before the court; judgment reversed and judgment for appelant for costs.

Board of Election Supervisors vs N. C. Browning; tried before the court and judgment reversed; each party to pay own costs.

Emma Specht vs C. R. Savage; tried before court; judgment reversed and costs to appellant.

Ford Motor Co. vs John Felty; trial; attachment quashed and case dismissed with costs to appellant.

Lincoln Callis vs Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn; trial; judgment reversed by agreement of council, each party to pay own costs.

TRIALS.

Lloyd Skiles vs Walter Coddington; settled; each party to pay own costs. Same in case of Adolphus P. Enlow vs vs Walter Coddington.

Marie Mills vs. W. E. Stanton; continued by consent of counsel, with certain stipulations.

Garrett County Telephone Co. vs Bridget C. McAndrews; removed to Allegany county by order of the court.

The petit jury was summoned for today and a number of jury trials will be taken up this morning.

SARAH ELIZABETH BANKS.

Sarah Elizabeth Banks, colored, aged fifty years, daughter of the late Baker Banks, of Oakland, died at her home on Water street Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock of organic heart disease, with which she had been a sufferer during the past two or three years. She was well known and highly respected. Her funeral will occur today.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

Association Plans Extensive County Campaign.

The Maryland Association for Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis will hold its Annual Meeting on Friday afternoon of this week at Osler Hall, in the Medical & Chirurgical Faculty Building. Dr. Henry Barton Jacobs, the President of the Association, will preside. At 4:30 P. M. there will be a business meeting of the Association, and at 5 o'clock the meeting will be open to the general public, when the Rev. Samuel McComb, D. D., Canon Missioner of the Cathenral of the Incarnation, will deliver the main address of the day. Dr. McComb's subject will be The Class Method of Treating Tuberculosis, to which plan Dr. McComb had given considerable study and personal attention before he came to Baltimore. It sufficient interest is shown in the idea, it is probable that the class method will be tried out in Baltimore in the near future.

According to its Executive Secretary, the Tuberculosis Association had a very successful sale of the Red Cross Christmas Seals this past season, the state sale totaling 980,000, exceeding that of 1914 by about 265,000 Seals, and the next highest sale, in 1911, 376,000 Seals. This substantial increase, together with the funds received through the campaign of the Alliance of Charitable and Social Agencies last December, will permit the Association to develop its work in an extensive way, and also, to extend its activities over a larger field. The Association has added to its staff as an assistant to Robert C. Powell, its Executive Secretary, Mr. Alden Anderson, formerly a Yale graduate student in Economics and Sociology, and lately, in children's work in Boston. Mr. Anderson will be in charge of the Association's educational and organizational County Campaign, to be conducted throughout the state between May 1st and October 15th, when a full week will be spent in each county; by lectures, motion pictures, surveys, and a wide distribution of the society's literature, it is hoped to educate the people not only as to the dangers, treatment, and prevention of tuberculosis, and the proper and adequate means for its control, but also, to impress upon them the necessity of having county anti-tuberculosis committees fight the disease at close range in their respective counties, and to bring about the formation of such committees. The Association has already purchased a Ford car which is being fitted with a commercial body and furnished with other equipments for an extensive field campaign. Mr. Anderson and his helper when enroute will camp out nights and illustrate as they go along, the value of sleeping in open-air. Already several organizations and prominent people in the various counties have become interested in the campaign and have offered their co-operation.

Other items on the Association's program for the year, will be a study of the tuberculosis dispensaries' situation with a view of ascertaining how fully the present facilities of this kind meet the needs of the community, the further investigation of the state's negro tuberculosis problem, and the working out of the plans for the extension of the open-air classes, particularly in connection with the public schools. The Association is also developing plans for the construction and distribution of a simple open-air sleeping and sitting device which it is hoped can be furnished free or at a small cost on recommendation of the Health Department, to tuberculosis patients in the most congested sections. This device will permit the patient to have the advantages of sitting or sleeping in the open air which would be impossible under conditions where a whole family occupies one or two rooms and the opening of windows would cause great inconvenience and possibly jeopardize the health of the patient's family, if there was insufficient fuel, wearing apparel or bed clothing.

Kitchener and Staff Lose Lives When Mine or "Sub" Sinks British Battleship

Officials Give Up Hope of Finding War Minister—Arrange for Memorial Service.

Navy to Mourn for Week—Cruiser Was Sunk Off Orkney Islands Says Admiralty--Bodies of Crews Found By Searching Parties.

LONDON, June 6.—All Britain was stunned tonight by grief over the tragic loss of Earl Kitchener, who with his entire staff as Secretary of State for War, was drowned off the Orkney Island when the cruiser Hampshire, on which they were voyaging to Russia, was sunk either by a mine or torpedo. The casualties probably will total five hundred.

Official hope of Earl Kitchener being found alive was indicated as entirely abandoned when the press bureau announced tonight that memorial services would be held in St. Paul's at a date as yet unfixed.

An early order also was issued by the King directing that officers shall wear mourning for the late war secretary for the week commencing tomorrow.

As soon as the first shock of the news had passed a meeting of the British war council was called. It was reported following this meeting that General Sir William Robertson, chief of the Imperial staff, whom Earl Kitchener left in charge of the war office, probably would succeed Earl Kitchener as head of the war office.

The news of England's greatest personal loss since the war, which has stunned London, already used to shocks, was issued in the following formal bulletin:

"The Admiralty reports with deep regret that the ship Hampshire, with Lord Kitchener and his staff on board, was sunk last night about 8 o'clock off the Orkney Islands by a mine or a torpedo.

"Four boats were seen by observers on the shore to leave the ship. Heavy seas were running, but patrol vessels and destroyers at once proceeded to the scene.

"The whole shore has been searched from seaward, but it is greatly feared that there is little hope for any survivors.

"No report has yet been received from the searching party on shore."

A late announcement from the Admiralty said that the searching parties, sent out in boats along the coast, had found only bodies of the drowned and one capsized boat. There was still the faint hope that possibly some might have reached shore and proceeded inland in search of aid. On account of the high sea, however, this was not considered likely, and the Admiralty did not encourage the hope of any survivors being found.

It was stated that the Hampshire was on her way to Russia, where Kitchener was to hold conferences with the officials at Petrograd.

The Hampshire was in command of Capt. Herbert J. Savill. The report of the loss of the ship was telegraphed to the Admiralty by Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, commander of the British home fleets.

Lord Kitchener had been Secretary of State for War since August 5th, 1914, the day after which declarations of war were exchanged between England and Germany.

The death of Kitchener, the one strong man in whom the British Empire had put its trust since fighting began in Europe, came as a terrific and staggering blow.

Lord Kitchener was 66 years old, having been born in Ballylongford, County Kerry, Ireland, on June 24, 1850.

Public consternation and amazement followed the announcement that Lord Kitchener and his staff were sent to their deaths by a mine or torpedo.

Crowds gather in Whitehall about the war office, seeking further details, following the formal announcement of the loss of "K. of K."

The flag on the war office was at half mast and the blinds of the office were drawn.

The crowd received no further information, and the air of the officials indicated clearly that they held no hope that Kitchener might have escaped.

Surprise was expressed that a cruiser bearing the Minister of War could have been destroyed either by a torpedo or a mine. It is probable that the question whether the cruiser had an escort and whether she was provided with any protection against submarines will be put directly to the government.

Many comments were heard in the crowd about the war office. Many remarked that it "was lucky it didn't happen before conscription became effective." They referred to the great power of Kitchener's name in stimulating voluntary recruiting.

Married.

LEWIS—SMITH—Miss Anna Smith, of Oakland, Md., and Mr. William Lewis, of this city were quietly married on Saturday evening at the parsonage of the Methodist Protestant Church by the pastor, Rev. J. Alfred Selby. The bride wore a navy blue jacket suit stylishly designed, with hat and other accesories to harmonize. The young couple will begin housekeeping at once, and will reside on east Seventh street. Mrs. Lewis, whose home is in Maryland, has filled a position for some time in Fairmont, is an attractive and accomplished young lady. The groom is a popular employe of the Amicon Produce Company, of this city, and is a young man of fine characteristics. Both young people are well and favorably known and the news of their marriage will be of interest here and elsewhere. Parkersburg Sentinel.

REPUBLICANS IN BIG CONVENTION

National Gathering Opened Formally in Chicago.

CROWD FILLS THE COLISEUM

Senator Harding Of Ohio Is Elected Temporary Chairman and Delivers the Keynote Speech—Committees Are Named.

Chicago, June 7.—The Republican party opened its great quadrennial show—the national convention—today before a capacity house. Despite the fact that the proceedings of the first session were to be only preliminary formalities, the people flocked to the Coliseum by the thousand and poured through the many entrances in solid streams for hours. When Charles D. Hilles, chairman of the national committee, arose at eleven o'clock and took up the gavel to call the convention to order there was not one vacant seat in the immense structure.

It was a fine setting for an important event. The Coliseum was decorated as never before, with flags and bunting draping the girders and galleries and covering all bare spots on the end walls. Up in a gallery at the south end of the hall a brass band was pouring forth patriotic and popular airs. Back of the speaker's rostrum, where sat Mr. Hilles and his working force of 35 men, were grouped many members of the diplomatic corps who had come on from Washington, and the distinguished guests of the convention, among them all living ex-chairmen of Republican national conventions. To the right and left of these were placed the members of the national committee and their guests.

In the body of the hall, directly in front of the speaker's stand, were the 991 delegates gathered about their state standards, and back of them 991 alternates. Just below the rostrum and on both sides of it were the 425 working newspaper men, and in the galleries all around the hall were the thousands of spectators who had been fortunate to obtain admission tickets.

Convention Begins Business.

Mr. Hilles was heartily applauded when he stood before the throng, gavel in hand. He spoke but briefly in calling the great gathering to order, and called on Rev. John Timothy Stone, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Chicago, to deliver the invocation. Dr. Stone's eloquent and impressive prayer was followed by the reading of the call for the convention by James B. Reynolds, of Massachusetts, secretary of the national committee.

Mr. Hilles then called for nominations for temporary chairman. Of course the selection of United States Senator Charles Warren Harding of Ohio for that position had been all settled long ago and his election by unanimous vote was only a formality. Senator Harding is an imposing figure, and as he accepted the gavel from the hands of Mr. Hilles he was enthusiastically cheered.

Chairman Harding's Address.

Chairman Harding launched at once into his "keynote" speech, and did not belie his reputation for eloquence and deftness of phrase. He began with a warm plea for harmony in the party ranks, coupled with the confident assertion that such harmony already was an assured fact. With unctuous sentences he skillfully oiled the way for the smooth return of those who left the party four years ago to follow the Bull Moose standard, and he declared to them and to the world that he did not believe there was a really reactionary Republican among the delegates.

As might have been expected, Mr. Harding early in his address took up the subject of national defense. His utterances on this topic were reasonably emphatic and in line with the preparedness sentiment that has been spreading over the land. Our national unselfishness has been proved since the great war broke out, he said, and our national weakness in defense revealed. The foreign policy of the Democratic administration, both in relation to Europe and in the matter of Mexico, was dealt with in a few caustic sentences, and the plan to "turn loose" the Philippines also was scored.

The speaker devoted some attention to the need, from a Republican point of view, for a protective tariff, and then turned to the topic of Americanism. Here he once more let his eloquence have full play, and his call for loyalty, devotion and love for the United States on the part of every one of its citizens was answered by a roar of cheers.

"Verily, it is good to be an American. And we may rejoice to be Republicans," he concluded.

Routine Business Transacted.

When the band music that burst forth at the end of Senator Harding's speech was over and the assemblage quieted down again, the other temporary officers were nominated and elected, and the chairmen of the various state delegations were called on to send up the names of the men selected by the delegations to represent them on the committees on credentials, permanent organization, rules and order of business, and resolutions. MEXICAN CAMPAIGN

Mexican forces massed in strategic positions, so as to menace the 13,000 American troops in Gen. Pershing's command, number 30,000 in Chihuahua and 17,000 in Sonora.

Although highly incensed with the tone of the Carranza note, and particularly with its suggestion that the troops are being kept in Mexico for political reasons, United States officials are inclined to the belief that it was written largely for home consumption.

The text of the 8,000-word note from General Carranza, which, while objecting strongly to the continued presence of American soldiers on Mexican soil, was described as being "less than an ultimatum," was made public.

Rumors transmitted by the border military commanders as matters of information for the War Department said 22,000 Carranza troops were mobilized near Chihuahua City.

Americans and other foreigners, as well as Mexicans, of Mexico City, not in the military service are turning over their firearms to the authorities, in compliance with an order of the military commandant. Evasion of the order will be punished severely.

THE PEOPLE'S FORUM.

Proper Amusements.

I might refer to the social gatherings where youth with merriment and wit are assembled. They abound in the forms of the various benevolent socities where both sexes attend. Mere pleasure should never be substituted in these gatherings for utility. In these and in evening parties let there be freedom of social enjoyment, never however losing sight of the fact of our accountability. There are a variety of parlor games that add to the interest of a party and help make the occasion pleasant.

The "Russian game of gossip" illustrates one of the evils of society and shows the folly and wickedness of gossip. The game of the Poets is literary and gives a good opportunity to show your knowledge of the poets.

The game of Characters, when by questions we learn and give out our inforn ation on the freak characters of different countries and cities and of the world.

Charades! Yes, a bit prosy now because they require mental exertion and if rightly conducted may be made an educator. Other games to which the ingenuity of the young can devise draw the mind from serious and toilsome duties and fit it to resume life's duties with new zeal. Though they may be called tame, they blend utility with amusement.

Why not spend an evening in reading and recreation. Let one read for the benefit of the company. There's amusement and profit. Everyone should find time for reading. Select books of history, biography, travel, science, morals and religion. You thus learn of the past, get the advantage of the travels of others and travel with them where they travel. We can fathom the deep places of the sea or make the acquaintance of the great and noble of earth.

Reading combines pleasure, recreation, profit and amusement. It need neither poison the mind nor exhaust it. It is invigorating, furnishes relaxation, and fits for the duties of life and enlarges the soul.

Here is where the benefits of a good reading room comes in. We have opportunities to enjoy ourselves without being patrons of vice and we can easily secure them, Traveling is a factor in our education and affords something to talk about, and after all isn't it true that the chief reason why society is compelled to resort to childish amusements is the lack of ability to talk fluently.

Contact with the world gives expansion of soul. The cost of traveling places it beyond the means of most people, yet is it not true that many in five years spend enough on dances, theatres, movies etc, to give them a trip to Europe or the Golden Gate. Many a young man in one year squanders enough to pay his fare to N. Y., and home by the Lakes. Who shall despise the luxury of a ramble in the woods with a gun or a fishing excursion; or a croquet or tennis party or a game of ball.

There is an amusement that is a delight to all. The songs of home chase dull care away. Music gladdens the heart and soothes the spirit. "He that hath no music in his soul is fit for treason, anarchy and spoils." Music is God given and ennobling and though the vileness of man has dragged it down into vicious uses it may be made, as it was designed to be, a means of an elevated moral culture. It is soul inspiring to be reared amidst the melody of musical instruments and the sound of voices, and it has a fascination for all.

You can sing your way into the heart when every avenue of the being is closed against other means. The ancient Hebrews every where mingled it with joy and sorrow. It was their chief source of amusement. Luther recieved his baths with songs and notes of his flute.

Greeks and Romans went to battle to the sound of melody. If you want to enthuse a Highlander sound the bagpipe. Would you nerve the wavering column for the fearful charge, let the band strike up some enlivening air. Music has an incalculable influence on young natures. It rests the body and mind, dispels sadness, routs the unruly temper, quiets rising pasisons, brightens the soul and sweetens disaster. What better amusement than a good concert? It elevates your thoughts to heaven.

How the pleasure of doing good lights up the eye, dispels the gloom and quickens the pulsations of the heart, a word fittly spoken; a kind act, or a part of our money spent for the relief of suffering. The joy of doing good is recreation of the grandest kind. As I looked at the rapids of Niagra, one day, the guide showed me the place where a party left to make the other shore. Though warned of his danger he persisted in relying on his skill and strong arm. He was powerless in the rapids and was soon swept over the falls. How like that foolish man are those who think there is no danger of their being led into extremes or destruction, but self reliantly embark on the dangerous stream of worldly pleasures. Even though they be right in themselves it is foolish to use them to excess, for, though it affords gratification to the senses, is liable to end in darkness and death. There is one however that exceeds all others in importance and relaxation from toil. It is religion. Some think it a drudgery. If so then they haven't enough of it. It brings holy satisfaction, comfort in sorrow and centers the mind on a pure object. It affords communion with God which is better enjoyment than all the hollow shams of the world, and dispels the shadows that fall over the sinner's path.

Lose not sight of the fact that soon you are to lie in the grave. Think of the great future. You are formed for noble ends. You will be with angels demons. Though pleasure calls with a siren voice and companions urge you into folly, though every thing conspires to silence the voice of God's word, turn from them.

"The stars shall fade away, the sun grow dim with age and nature sink in years, but thou mayest flourish in immortal youth, unhurt amidst the war of elements, and the crash of worlds."

It is proper to seek amusement. Nothing in nature or religion that forbids the enjoyment, in a proper manner and to a reasonable extent of all the facilties that God has given us. Whenever we debase we wrong. There is no excuse for plucking the poison flowers of sin. Reason, conscience, experience and revelation unite in declaring, "the way of the transgressor is hard." We may think we are drinking of the sweets of pleasure for a season, and the heart may beat gaily in its fancied security, yet the end thereof is death, for in satan's garden every tree is laden with poisoned fruit and death is the result of eating.

JOANNES.

Former Assemblyman Green Writes a Letter From The Far West.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Would you give space in your paper for a few lines from a former citizen of Garrett county. For a long time I had intended to write you and through your paper reach my friends, but through considerable business I have continually neglected to do so. You and my many friends will remember me as a former school teacher and a "dabbler" in politics. In this latter connection I became very unpleasantly embroiled in a libel case.

Soon after coming to North Dakota I fell into an old fashioned Methodist revival meeting and made my peace with God. I also wrote to the injured individuals in Garrett asking their forgiveness and heartily forgiving them, and I want to say to any who may have felt offended or harsh at me, I ask their pardon and freely give mine.

I would like to extend my hands across these 1500 miles to all my friends and acquaintances in rememberance of the best days in the past. In my younger days I felt called into the ministry, but like Jonah I refused to go and God had to take me through the deep waters of disappointments. However, I have found that our disappointments are God's appointments at times. I have gone into the ministry and am joyfully laboring in the Lord's vineyard.

I have been married nearly four years and have a little daughter 15 months old.

This is an agricultural state, wheat being the principal crop. However diversified farming is proving more profitable.

The school system in this state is very good, but the country schools are small, having from four to fifteen pupils.

I would be glad to hear from my old friends. I have not forgotton them and the scenes of our friendships are still frese in my memory.

"With malice toward none and charity for all,"

I am, sincerely,
L. F. GREEN.

General William Tecumseh Sherman and family arrived in Oakland to spend the summer, their stopping place being the Oakland Hotel.

GROW BUCKWHEAT

Puts Soil in Fine Mellow Condition and Destroys Weeds.

Buckwheat is at present grown in this country almost wholly in the States east of the Mississippi River and north of the cotton belt. About seven-tenths of the crop is grown in the two States, New York and Pennsylvania, but it is important in several other States, principal among which are Michigan, West Virginia, Virginia, Wisconsin and Ohio. In the more northern States buckwheat can be sown over practically the entire area without reference to elevation, but farther south it is confined to the uplands and mountainous sections.

Buckwheat should be sown on land prepared as for corn. It is an excellent crop to sow where corn has been planted but where a stand has not been secured. Best results are obtained where the land is plowed early and is well prepared, but fairly good results can be obtained by sowing immediately after plowing and harrowing.

Buckwheat should generally be seeded at the rate of 3 or 4 pecks per acre. If the soil is fertile and a drill is used and the seed is of good vitality, as little as 2 pecks may be sufficient. As much as 5 pecks are sometimes sown. It is best to use a grain drill, but this is not essential, as the seeds can be broadcasted and harrowed in with satisfactory results. It should be sown from one-fifth of an inch to 2 inches deep, depending on the condition of the soil.

There is probably no other crop that will produce better on infertile, poorly tilled lands than will buckwheat. It is well suited to light well-drained soils, such as sandy loams, and to the silt loam soils. It needs but little lime, growing well in acid soils without lime, where alfalfa and red clover would not succeed. When the soil is poor, it is profitable to use fertilizer, but where good wheat or corn crops can be produced without fertilizer, it is unnecessary for the buckwheat crop. On the poorest hill land a small application of nitrogen and phosphorus is advisable, but generally nitrogen is not needed. The plant responds very readily to applications of phosphates, however. Low-grade fertilizers containing phosphorus and a small amount of potassium can be used to advantage on the crop where the land is poor.

Three varieties of buckwheat are commonly grown in the United States, Japanese, Silver Hull, and Common Grey, the first two being most generally used. Japanese has a large dark-colored seed, while the Silver Hull has a smaller seed, glossy or silvery in appearance. These two varieties are of about equal value, when yields are considered.

Buckwheat is very sensitive to cold and is killed by the first heavy frost. It fills best in cool weather, however, and so the sowings are deferred to allow only time for the crop to mature before frost occurs. Under the most favorable conditions a buckwheat crop will mature in 10 weeks, but the average time is about 12 weeks. When seeded the last week in June or the first week in July in New York and Pennsylvania and about a week earlier in Michigan and Wisconsin it is most likely to escape injury from hot weather, which with drying winds and hot nights, causes the flowers to blast and fail to produce seed. The seeding time for any locality is determined fairly accurately by allowing it a period of 12 weeks for growth before the first killing frost is expected.

The farmer does not need expensive machinery for harvesting the buckwheat crop. An old-fashioned cradle, although it requires hard labor, does the harvesting well. The drop reaper, however, is one of the most satisfactory machines for harvesting. Many farmers use the ordinary binder, which practice is advisable where it can be followed. Cutting is begun as soon as the first lot of blossoms have disappeared, or often just before the first frost is expected. Buckwheat will mature its seed in a few days, if, after cutting, the crop is left in loose bundles where they are dropped from the cradle or reaper. It should then be set up in small shocks and tied near the top with some strands of the straw bent upward from the sides of the shock. The cut buckwheat is usually left in the field in the shocks until threshing time, when it is drawn in and threshed either with the flail or by machinery.

The farmer need generally have no fear of this crop being damaged by either insect enemies or fungous diseases, as the buckwheat plant is but little affected by either of these. It is an excellent crop for destroying weeds and for renovating and putting the soil in fine mellow condition.

GRANTSVILLE.

The Communion season was observed at the Casselman Mennonite church, the past week, beginning with a series of evening services, the preparatory service on Saturday, and the sacrament of the Lord's Supper on Sunday morning. A large number of communicants was present, together with a crowd of strangers and members of other churches, the little edifice being crowded and many standing outside. One unaccustomed to the rites and ordinances of this religion may feel a slight surprise as the ceremony proceeds, but what impresses one most of all is the reverence and simplicity manifest. The singing is conducted without any instrumental accompaniment, the many voices keeping almost perfect time in the sweet old hymns. The sacrament differs slightly from that in many other churches and is followed by the rite of feet-washing, each brother, girding himself with towel and carrying a baisin of water, performs this humble task in quiet humility and love for his neighbor. The sisters perform a like service for one another. This is done in commemoration of the example of our Master whenHe walked upon earth. The services were conducted most ably by Rev. Saylor from Johnstown, assisted by Revs. Ed. Miller, G. D. Miller, N. E. Miller and H. M. Gelnet, all of Springs, Pa.

At the Amish church the communion service was also held quite similar in character to that of the Mennonites. Many notable speakers were present. The German language was used.

In the village, services were held in St. Stephen's Roman Catholic church in the morning, by Rev. Father Aloysius; in the Reformed church in the morning, by Rev. L. N. Wilson, and in the Lutheran church in the afternoon by Rev. E. E. Onev. There were also services at the Lutheran church in the Cove, in the morning, a number of Grantsville people being present.

A party was given to Master Clyde Miller by his mother, Mrs. Clarence Miller, on Saturday in honor of his fourth birthday. The little guests included Mabel, Lelia and Evelyn Younkin, Jane and Ella Bowen, Viola and Evelyn Swauger, Mildred Bonig, Paul Livengood, William Bevans, Harold, William, Willis and Ralph Younkin, Rexford Bittinger, Luther and Glenn Miller and Clyde Bender. A birthday cake, with four candles which were lit for the occasion, was the center of attraction, and icecream was among the refreshments. The little hostess was assisted by Mrs. Mark Bender, Mrs. L. T. Bittinger and Miss Edna Bender, in caring for the wee tots, all of whom enjoyed the occasion immensely.

Oliver Buckle, the Bittinger mail carrier, uses a motor truck now, on his route.

Mrs. Mary Miller is undergoing treatment following an operation of the head at the Allegany Hospital, Cumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Deal and child of Accident, and Harvey Deal, of Addison, were guests of their sister, Mrs. Joel Miller, on Sunday.

Automobile parties are seen in large numbers here each day and particularly on Sundays, all the hotels being kept busy all day long. Last Sunday the Nationol served dinner to sixty-five guests.

Wm. Gnagey and sister, Mrs. Clarence Loechel, attended the funeral Jonas Speicher, at Accident, on Monday.

Mrs. Mary Taylor, of Cumberland, was a guest of Mrs. Eva Bevans on Sunday.

The following men were in Frostburg on Sunday some of them attending the ball game at that place: U. M. Stanton, Edgar Roberts, Tom McKensie, Arthur Johnson. D. W. Dorsey, Eugene Younkin and Wm. Miller.

Mrs. Geoage Younkin, son Floyd and daughter Elinor were guests of the former's father, Jacob Beckett, of Cove, on Saturday.

Gilead Broadwater and daughter, Mrs. Eva Bevans, and children and Mrs. Mary Taylor and child were Somerfield visitors Sunday, making the trip in Mr. Broadwater's new Dodge car.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Piot of Meyersdale were Grantsville visitors Sunday.

Mrs. C. S. Zeller has been elected delegate to the Lutheran Sunday School Convention which meets at Johnstown the latter part of June.

Floyd Younkin and Earl Miller are going to Pittsburgh this week to get employment in the Westinghouse works.

Mrs. Charles Zeller and Miss Christine Winterberg spent Wednesday in Springs, guests of Mrs. Menno Miller and her mother, Mrs. D. S. Maust.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Engle, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Loechel and Dr. Lloyd Loechel of Elk Lick were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Loechel, Sunday.

Miss Lena Stanton and Guerney, Dalton and Eugene Miller and Fern Folk are recovering from measles.

Mrs. M. J. Miller spent Saturday in Grantsville, guests of Mrs. C. S. Zeller.

BRIEF PLATFORM VIEW OF HILLES.

Only Planks Dealing With Vital Questions Will Be Inserted.

Chicago, Ills., May 29.—Chairman Charles D. Hilles, of the Republican National Committee, tonight expressed the opinion that the platform which will be adopted by the convention next month will be unusually brief and deal only with the most vital public questions. From information obtained in talking with party leaders on the subject he believes the principal planks in the platform will include the following:

A statement on Americanism.

A statement on preparedness or adequate military and naval defense.

A declaration in favor of protective tariff to be prepared by a non-partisan tariff commission created by Congress with special attention to the needs of this country after the close of the European war.

A declaration in favor of a merchant marine.

A statement dealing with the alleged shortcimings of the Democratic administration.

On the question of national women suffrage, Chairman Hilles said there was a difference of opinion and he did not know what action the convention would take on the subject.

LINCOLN'S TARIFF POLICY

Tne following was the Republican party's tariff plank in the platform of 1860:

"That while providing revenue for the pupport of the general government by duties upon imports, sound policy requires such an adjustment of these imposts as to encourage the development of the industrial interests of the whole country; and we commend that the policy of national exchanges which secures to the workingman liberal wages, to agriculture remunerative prices, to mechanics and manufacturers an adequate reward for their skill, labor, and enterprise, and to the nation commercial prosperity and independence."

It is not true, as President Wilson has asserted, that the Republican party has not had a new idea in thirty years, but we challenge him to run for re-election on a tariff policy that directly challenges the Republican tariff policy as expressed 56 years ago.

COMPULSOSY SUFFRAGE.

In America we have discussed and tried out at one time or another pretty much all kinds of suffrage, but little or nothing has ever been suggested in the way of Compulsory Suffrage. A big daily making a specialty of foreign news contained a long account the other morning of the recent Presidential election in Argentine Republic, a paragraph of which follows:

"The law which made voting secret, also made it compulsory and every voter who does not vote is fined 20 pesos. In order that attention may be better focussed on the election all forms of amusement are prohibited during the hours the polls are open. Another feature which seems strange to North Americans is that real interest in the Presidential campaign is confined to the week preceeding the election. In fact, the Radical party did not nominate its candidate until a few days before the election."

There is always great excitement about election time in this country about "getting out the vote," this operation being left to the respective political parties, the idea being of course that the several parties were interested in the enterprise to such an extent that they would provide the means out of their own war chests to transport the greater part of the electorate to the polls in automobiles. Therefore no one seems to have thought of the expedient of furnishing any other incentive to the people to express their own will. This of course is an economic waste, and the money squandered by the various political parties in gasoline each year could much better be spent in legitimate advertising and printing in the exploitation, in simple form, of the various campaign questions in order that those who ordinarily have to be lugged to the polls in automobiles would know what they were voting for and be anxious to do it, which would have the two fold advantage of distributing patronage where it would do the most good and at the same time have the effect of submitting the selection of office holders and the consideration of public questions to a wiser and better informed electorate. A fine of 20 pesos (presumably $2.00, as the financial aspect the world over seems to be that amount) would, we imagine, have a most accelerating effect of those many individuals, good and free men, who rejoice in the liberty of American citizenship and suffrage and who would fight like furry were it denied them yet have to be paid to take it, and would in the long run inculcate a most wholesome interest in our elections which now must frequently be stirred up by disgruntal citizens jumping from one faction or party to another and back again as long as such gymnastics have the effect of keeping them on the map and out of office. Authority is unanimous that the elective franchise is a privilege and duty of American citizenship, just as much as a duty as it is a privilege, and it must be recognized that the thousands and thousands of dollars spent each year in the transportation of American citizenship along the line of its solemn duty could easily be saved by an act of the Legislature making it inversely interesting by requiring those who refuse to be interested to pay a fine of 20 pesos ($2.00).

COMMON FOLKS.

It was Abraham Lincoln—well do most of us remember!—who said that God must have loved the common people, seeing that He made so many of them.

How that sentiment has often cheered our hearts! Somehow, we had suspected it all along. But, as he had a way of saying, this "made it bindin'!" And, best of all, he was one of us, and not ashamed of the fact.

Nor was he alone of the great who have seen in the common people a far greater measure of attraction than was ever presented by their so-called betters. All sorts and conditions of men, in so far as they posses the slightest appreciation of literary genius, admire the writings of Dickens and Thackeray. More than that, they admire Thackeray and Dickens. What is the secret? Probably this, that Dickens had the most wonderful sympathy for the common folk of whom he wrote, although it has been said of him that he could not portray titled greatness, as witnessed in his unsatisfying delineation of a Lady Dedlock.

THE STATE FORESTRY SERVICE

Will Enforce Law Against Advertising Signs on Public Highways On June 1st.

Since the Roadside Tree Law went into effect a little more than two years ago the State Board of Forestry, Baltimore, Md., which is charged with its enforcement, has by means of Forest Wardens throughout the State been engaged in the elimination of advertising signs, supervising the trimming of trees and assisting in the planting of other trees along the highways. This in itself is a big task when there are more than 16,400 miles of roads to cover and more than 2,000,000 trees to be given protection and care.

This law, among other things, makes it a misdemeanor punishable by fine to place any advertising signs within the right-of-way of a public highway, or on private property without the written consent of the owner. While most of the roads are comparatively free of unlawful signs, there are many violations of the law even after two years of publicity and the constant tearing down of signs by the Wardens and others.

It is the plan of the State Forester, beginning June 1st, 1916, to make a complete canvass of the State to see that all illegal advertisements are destroyed and to prosecute all violators of the law. The law has been generally posted and sufficient public notice has been given of its provisions. Advertisers should lose no time in removing their signs before the State Forester's men find them and use them as evidence against the advertisers.

BRISCOE

"The Best-liked Car in the Country"

For real comfort, try "BRISCOMFORT"

We had to coin a word to express the real solid comfort of the Briscoe Twenty-four.

Briscoe-line gondola body, with seats swung at just the right "lazy-back" angle. Four full elliptic springs, with sofa-type seat-springs, make every ride a joy-ride.

And you can stretch out luxuriously in the Briscoe—there's plenty of body-room, knee-room and leg-room. You'll be especially interested in the extra leg-room in front—made possible by an ingenious and exclusive Briscoe feature.

Every riding comfort, too. Electric starting and lighting, real one-man top, tilted eye-saver windshield, demountable rims, electric horn, speedometer—all that you want to make a "car complete."

A Meal for Every Hour's Work

WE never claimed that a Mogul 8-16 kerosene tractor would take the place of horses entirely, but we do claim that a Mogul 8-16 and a few brood mares will make more money for a farmer than he makes when he uses horses for all his work.

You may not realize it, but work horses are expensive. Do you know that in the course of a year, you give each one of your horses a square meal for every hour's work he does for you. It's a fact.

Get a Mogul 8-16 for all the hard work, keep a few brood mares for the light work, and to raise colts, and see what a difference there will be in your net profits at the end of the year. And now is the time to decide. Come in and see the tractor, and find out what it is doing for other farmers.

NEW LAWS ARE NOW IN EFFECT

Acts of Recent General Assembly Became Operative June 1st.

All laws enacted by the recent General Assembly, unless otherwise designated went into effect June 1st. One exception—the act making changes in the automobile laws—will become effective July 1. The act creating the State Penal Board will become operative on October 1. Emergency laws become effective on the dates of their passage. In only one case will there be a resort to the referendum. This is a law creating a bond issue in Wicomico county. Voters in the county have asked for the privilege of saying at the next election whether they approved the proposed loan.

While the laws became operative June 1st, the general public and those most interested in them, including courts and lawyers, will remain in ignorance of the changes until the Acts of the General Assembly of 1916 shall have been issued. No date is fixed for the appearance of the volume. In former years months have elapsed before the laws have appeared in print. The public is further handicapped this year because the Attorney General selected only a limited number of laws of the vast number enacted for publication in the newspapers.

Among the more important state-wide laws that went into effect is one that discontinues the discounts on payments of state taxes. By this change it is calculated the state will save annually $100,000. Another law transferes to the State Tax Commission all corporation taxation questions.

Other important laws becoming effective are:

Regulating saloons in Baltimore county.

Increasing traders' and other licenses, imposing taxes on different industries and enterprises and levying $100 additional on all saloons and increasing the taxes on hotels and theatres.

Abolishing commissions for collection of taxes in Baltimore.

Repeal of all continuing appropriations.

Closing all saloons in Sandy Hook district, Washington county.

State bond issue of $2,000,000 to pay deficit in treasury and for other purposes.

Repealing gallon-a-month law for Talbot and Queen Annes counties.

To provide for working of convicts on public roads.

Appropriations of $12,000 to establish a lime plant in Southern Maryland.

Wider use of public school buildings in Baltimore.

Licensing of camp-meetings on the Eastern Shore.

Anti-treating law for Carroll county.

By the Acts of the General Assembly several state boards are abolished or their duties combined with those of other boards, while several new boards were created.

The Conservation Board, which held its first meeting od June 5, absorbed the Shellfish Commission, the Fish Commissioners and several other departments. The State Board of Agricultural will take up the duties of the Live Stock Sanitary Board, the State Tobacco Warehouse, the State Board of Immigration and other departments.

WILL Dead Man Hill be known as Dead Man Mountain after the war?

WHAT's the civil service law between deserving Democrats and the jobs?

APPARENTLY Carranza is at last taking kindly to American methods. It is reported that he is about to send us another note.

THERE is not likely to be any great commotion in the convention hall when the Leonard Wood delegates go over to Col. Roosevelt.

IT IS scarcely surprising that none of the candidates for the G. O. P. nomination are claiming the votes of the delegates from the District.

THE Supreme Court of the United States having decided that taxicabs are common carriers the smart set will probably refuse to ride in them.

SINCE Gen. Pershing's punitive expedition entered Mexico 11,750,000 pounds of food and forage have been shipped to it. And yet the Carranza government wants it to leave.

THE New York Central Railway has been ordered to run a train a day each way on one of its branches, which is ten miles long, to accomodate ten passengers. In the long run the company would probably save money by paying the ten to move.

THE administration is said to be planning revenue legislation that will make the cost of the national defense fall principally on the rich. The net result will be a considerable increase in the number of preparedness advocates, though the enthusiasm of a few will be cooled.

BRIDGES between New York and Brooklyn were closed to traffic as the battleship New York steamed down the East River. Rather a significant change since the days when upon such occasions the bridges were filled with patriotic and enthusiastic Americans waving salutes.

THE official record of casualties, beginning with the Columbus, N. Mex., raid, and including the operations of the punitive expedition to date, shows thirty United States Soldiers and twenty-four civilians killed, and six United States officers, seventy-six soldiers and seventy-one civilians wounded. And Villa is still at large.

A DEFENSIVE OR PREPAREDNESS TARIFF.

With one exception the movement for preparedness in the United States meets with the approval of all parties and is sure to be successful. The result, in all particulars save one, will be such preparation as will make the United States secure against any emergency that is now to be foreseen.

The one preparedness subject upon which opinion is divided is the tariff.

A wise tariff system is as much a necessity of preparedness as adequate military or naval equipment. From the tariff comes part of the sinews of war. More of the revenue should be derived from the tariff.

A protective tariff is a defensive tariff, a preparedness tariff. Protection means defense and defense means preparedness.

Properly constructed, a protective tariff would not be a special-interest tariff or a breeder or shield of monopoly. It would be a system of economic defense against the world and a vital part of national preparedness in anticipation of war.

The greatest work of statesmanship that any party could perform is the planning and enacting of a preparedness tariff. Call it protective, defensive or preparedness or any other suitable name, so long as it is in fact a tariff that protects, defends and prepares American industry.

The words "tariff for revenue only" are weasel words, when applied to the present tariff. It does not yield sufficient revenue, nor does it protect or defend American industry. It is a failure, and until it is superceded by a genuine defensive tariff the industries of the United States will not be prepared to withstand a possible war.

A true defensive tariff would yield sufficient revenue to pay all the cost of military, naval and industrial preparedness without imposing upon the people. It would stimulate industry during peace and shield it during war.

If the Democratic party is in favor of national defense, it should be in favor of tariff defense. If it desires peace with all nations now and after the European war, it should favor a tariff that will encourage, develop and protect American industry. That industry can be encouraged to produce all the military and naval equipment required to make the United States impregnable and keep it amply supplied during any war that may come.

The American market belongs to the people of the United States. It is the richest market in the world. It should be used as a means of raising all the revenues needed for the government and the defense of the nation. The same process employed to raise revenue would encourage, defend and protect home industry, thus doubly insuring the country against outside dangers.

No goods produced by a foreign nation should be permitted to enter the American market in competition with home goods without paying tribute to the Treasury and to national security. After the war the American market will be flooded with cheap goods unless Congress erects a defensive barrier to protect American labor and industry. It would be folly to permit foreign nations to build up their shattered fortunes at our expense while we failed to collect enough from them to build up the national defenses.

THE COUNTRY NEWSPAPER.

When William Allen White writes of a little town he writes with sympathy, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. He lived in one and loved it, and put on the map when in his own "country newspaper" he printed the editorial What's the Matter With Kansas? He is one of those happily constituted writing mortals who in a single "coup d'oeil" commanded a sweep of the horizon, and commanded it accurately; and his resultant comment is more nearly American than anything we get in the way of literature from our poetasters and dilettani who, before the war broke, spent most of their time in a deck-chair or a ruined abbey or a cafe chantant.

To this open-eyed and tender-hearted Kansas editor the newspaper of a country town is a voice and a confidence of voices. He hears it speaking in a language known of the man in the street, the clerk at the counter, the hired man in the hayfield or the furrow and the girl who sweeps and dusts with a towel round her head and is singing at her work. "Provincial" these papers are, because they practice the fine art of specialization in the range of interests in their own community, among the persons everybody knows. The urban editor with his starched collar and his chin in air is only trying to do the same thing on a grander scale, more noisily. The little paper true to the life of its own town fits its constituency, gauges the popular taste and is truthful, or it is immediately penalized.

The home town paper deserves and is justly entitled to the united support of every loyal citizen.

Hughes to be Named By G. O. P. at Chicago

Republicans will Make Concessions to Progressives by Strong Plank

CHICAGO, Ill., June 7.—At the end of the first day's session of the Republicans and Progressive conventions hope of harmony was being rapidly abandoned by all hands. Here is the situation which delegates will take when they return to the trenches tomorrow:

The republicans have made up their minds to nominate Justice Hughes in the belief that if Hughes is nominated Roosevelt will refuse to accept the Progressive nomination.

The Progressives have determined upon the nomination of Roosevelt because of their confidence that if Roosevelt is nominated Hughes will not accept the Republican nomination.

At tomorrow's session of the convention Senator Borah will make an attempt to extend the olive branch. He will ask for the appointment of a committee of three to confer with "any party" with a view to uniting on candidates and platform.

Of course "any party" means the Progressive party. The old guard and the Hughes people will make a fight on this proposal and it is by no means certain it will be accepted.

It was decided tonight that Senator Albert B. Fall of New Mexico will make the speech nominating Theodore Roosevelt for President from the floor of the Republican National convention.

From the best information that could be gathered here tonight, both these inferences are wrong. Hughes, there is every reason to believe, will accept the nomination if it does not involve a split in the regular Republican party. Roosevelt, his supporters vehemently declare, will cheerfully accept a progressive nomination and start another third party movement rather than support Hughes.

The strategy of the situation has therefore shifted to Oyster Bay and to Washington. Politicians today who had their ears to the ground tonight have their ears to the long distance telephone. A few words from Hughes would make his nomination certain on the first ballot. Unless effective opposition arises within twenty-four hours it will come on the third or fourth ballot anyway.

A few words from Roosevelt, however, would have little effect upon the Progressives. That herd of long horns have already started a stampede. Their convention today was in a nature of a riot for Roosevelt. They have consented to wait until Friday before making any nominations. But Friday, unless somebody ropes and ties them, nothing can prevent their going over the fence out of the Republican party corral for ever and ever.

What the platform is to be will make no difference with these people. Roosevelt and his speeches are their platform and they will accept no other.

The Republicans will make concessions. Tonight a radical preparedness plank is under discussion by the resolutions committee of the main convention. The fact that Senator Lodge, Roosevelt's friend; Senator Borah, an advanced Progressive advocate, and Senator Fall, of New Mexico, who believes in intervention in Mexico, are all members, make a strong pronouncement certain.

The Republicans are also considering a suffrage plank. They will go the whole distance for the Progressives on the platform. In fact, Frank H. Hitchcock, representing the Hughes forces, said tonight that the Hughes wing of the party would make no platform fight whatever as against the Progressives.

Senator Harding will be permant as well as temporary chairman and will take formal charge of the proceedings tomorrow.

These will consist first, of making up the permanent roll by the credentials committee; second, of listening to and adopting the platform which is now forming in the hands of the committee on resoulutions.

Friday will be devoted to nomination speeches. Unless plans are changed there will be not more than one ballot, if any, on that day.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mrs. Skyles, of Washington, and Mrs. Martin, of Woodstock, Va., have the Allegany House open for guests.

Mrs. Stone, of Kingwood, W. Va., spent part of Thursday in the Park. Mrs. Stone has been on several occasions a Park guest.

Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock, Mrs. Wm. White, of Loch Lynn, departed this life. Mrs. White had been ill for many months and was quite a sufferer. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Queer, and was twenty-eight years old. She is survived by her husband, mother, two sisters and a brother. The funeral took place in the Baptist church, Loch Lynn, Sunday, 10 a. m. The services were conducted by Rev. Jones. The interment took place in the White graveyard.

A party of Pennsylvanians lunched at Crystal Springs Sunday. They had five automobiles.

Mrs. George W. Atkinson, of Washington, D. C., was a week-end visitor at the Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Lee, of Clarksburg, W. Va., were week end guests of Hotel Chautauqua. While here they rented Miss Water's cottage.

Rev. Henry Friend conducted the sacramental services in the Rowlesburg Methodist Episcopal church last Sabbath.

The Men's Bible Class, connected with the Methodist church, held a public meeting in the church Sabbath evening. Short addresses were made by Messrs. Flanigan, Rudisill, Enlow and Wright.

Mrs. Captain Skyles and Mrs. Gertie Thraves went to Washington, D. C., Monday to attend a wedding.

C. F. Dawson had business in Piedmont Wednesday.

Thomas Callis has been appointed Park policeman and has entered upon his duties.

Mrs. C. W. Baldwin, of Baltimore City, opened her cottage on the first.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kahl are happy over the arrival of a nine pound son on the first of the month.

Mrs. Ella B. Sheets, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was a week-end visitor at the Park, the guest of Mrs. L. A. Rudisill.

Henry Casteel, of Grafton, W. Va., looked over the Park Friday and like everybody else, pronounced everything in first class shape.

The Pentecostal Encampment commences tomorrow. Special attention will bo given to the singing. The meetings will continue to the 25th. Rev. Reckley, of Cumberland has been on the grounds the past few days arranging for the encampment.

The Carpenter cottage will be occupied by Mrs. McCourtney, of Washington, D. C.

Mr. Swartzell and family, of Washington, D. C., will occupy Mrs. Pierce's bungalow this summer. Mr. Swartzell is a prominent Epworth League worker.

The ice wagon is making regular trips over the Park, Lorenzo Calhoun is the ice man.

Mrs. J. G. McLain has very much improved her delightful home by a coat of white paint.

Professor May has contracted for some noticeable improvements to his cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Power Allen went to Cumberland Friday to attend the graduating exercises of the high school of that city. Their son was among the graduates, with high standing. The young man will take a course in electricity in one of the best colleges of the country.

Superintendent F. E. Rathbun delivered a very interesting and enthusiastic address on education, which was greatly appreciated by the large number present.

R. E. Sliger, President of the Board of School Commissioners, paid fitting remarks to Prof. H. A. Ziel for the able manner in which he has carried the education work, and to the graduates for their accomplishments. The trustees and patrons were highly commended for their loyal support. Mr. Sliger then presented the graduates with their diplomas.

The middle class then entertained for the Seniors at a banquet at the Browning House. Mr. Sliger, Prof. Rathbun, and Prof. Ziel were the invited guests. A very enjoyable season of fun, music, and the goodthings was then participated in.

Mr. Livengood is preparing to reopen his saw milling operation in District No. 3, when he will employ a number of men.

Mr. Jonas Weitzell, one of Garrett county's most progressive farmers, was in Oakland Monday on business and while in the city called at this office for the purpose of having an advertisement inserted in these columns offering his farm of 270 acres, located in the Fairview section of the county, twelve miles west of Lonaconing and near the National Road, for sale. The property is one of the best in that part of Garrett county and interested parties would do well to get into communication with Mr. Weitzell concerning its purchase. See his advertisement in another column of this paper today.

PUTTING ALL STATE ROADS IN SHAPE

Patching Up Highway Preparatory to Annual Coat of Oil.

All state roads in Allegany and Garrett counties are undergoing extensive improvements prior to applying the annual coat of oil to settle the dust and preserve the road bed. Several portions of the state roads in both counties are being resurfaced while others are only being patched up where holes have become worn in the road bed. Among these undergoing repairs in Allegany county are the Baltimore Pike east of Cumberland, and the cross-over road from the Baltimore Pike to the Bedford road at the Lippold farm three miles east of Cumberland.

The greater portion of the cross-over road is being resurfaced while many stretches on the Baltimore Pike are also being extensively improved in this manner. The longest stretch on the Baltimore Pike is between the Moses Wilson farm, four miles east of Cumberland, and the foot of Martin's Mountain. Other portions of the road between Cumberland and the foot of Polish Mountain are also undergoing minor repairs. The new road leading from the Mt. Savage road at Corrigansville to Ellerslie is also being resurfaced.

In Garrett county the state road is being repaired from Oakland to McHenry a distance of twelve miles. Leo T. Downey, resident engineer for Allegany and Garrett counties has issued a warning to all motorists to take due precaution while traveling over the sections of road that are being repaired. According to Engineer Downey automobiles traveling over freshly patched roads tear stone loose when driven at rapid speed. It will also safeguard those traveling on foot as well as the men working on road.

Federal Aid For Anglers

By FREDERICL J. HASKIN.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 4—The United States Bureau of Fisheries is now having constructed a large all-steel car, which is to be the most perfect vehicle for the rapid distribution of live fish that it is possible to build. For years the Bureau has been shipping fry and fingerlings all over the United States by means of half a dozen old wooden cars. This new steel vehicle which is sixty feet long and will carry some seventeen tons, will be a great addition to its facilitis for distribution.

This increased carrying capacity will almost certainly be taxed by a new undertaking of the fish commissioners. By means of the bulletins which the Bureau publishes, and every other avenue of publicity open to them, they have been urging American farmers and small town and country dwellers generall, to take up the cultivation of fish on their own premises. To any individual who is able to show that he has a pond suitable for the propagation of fish, the government will furnish fry or fingerlings of the proper species.

The argument in favor of private fish culture are unanswerable. In the first place it is not an expensive undertaking. On nearly every country place there is a bit of land which is not used for anything else, and to which water there may be brought from some spring or stream. The excavation or dam-building in many cases will not cost more than twenty-five or thirty dollars. The pond may often be used for irrigation or for watering stock as well as for fish.

Even a small pond, with an area of no more than a quarter acre will produce more fish than one family can possibly use. In this way an inland farm, where fish is now a rare delicacy, may be abundantly supplied with it. The rapid rise in the price of meat makes this an especially valuable addition to the food supply of any household.

The raising of fish on farms is an ancient industry which has not been neglected in any of the older countries. In Germany and Austria many of the small landowners raise fish, and many Austram villages have municipal fish ponds. In the Philippines the industry has been carried on for a long time, especially on the lowlands about Manila Bay, where there are acquatic properties valued at $3,000,000.

Some of the state fish commissioners have been trying to encourage private fish culture for many years, and there are successful fish farmers scattered all over the United States.

A typical small producer is Mr. Samuel Bailey, of Kansas, who has a fish pond on top of a hill, where he supplies it with water by means of a wind mill. It has an area of only a quarter of an acre, and cost only about $25 to dig, but it is abundantly stocked with bull pout (a small cat fish) and crappie, and will soon be yielding an abundant harvest of fish in addition to irrigating the family garden.

A large enterprise is now being undertaken in Columbia county, New York, by a man who owns a piece of land upon which is a lake about two miles wide. This owner has gone in for commercial fish production on a large scale. He has placed the property in the hands of an expert, and a series of small ponds are being constructed along the lake shore for the propagation of bass and perch to be sold in the market.

An idea of how rapidly fish will reproduce may be gained from the experience of Carl H. Thompson, of Warren, Indiana. He constructed a pond 120 feet long by sixty feet wide, and from four to six feet deep in which he released four pair of small mouth black bass. Fifteen months later he took out 1017 bass which averaged a pound in weight, while in addition there were a number of yellow perch that had slipped in accidentally.

If you wish to obtain from the government, fish with which to stock a private pond, you will be required by fish commissioner to give an exact description of the body of water which you propose to stock, including its depth, size, summer temperature, vegetation, and various other matters. The kind of fish which you can raise depends entirely upon these conditions. Generally speaking, the more desirable species require clearer and colder water, and many inland dwellers are unable to raise any of the game fish, such as bass or perch, because of the high summer temperatures, and lack of a cold water supply. Fish of a lower type, however, will survive and grow under almost any conditions. Thus carp can be raised in all parts of the country. The fish commissioners have recently been making a study of the buffalo fish, a denizen of the muddy western rivers belonging to the sucker family.

Although not a game fish, and not as delicately flavored as bass and perch, the buffalo will thrive almost anywhere, and he is very likely to become the most popular "farm fish" of America.

Few persons realize how much the fish supply of most of our inland waters depends upon artificial propagation. The shad that run up our Atlantic rivers and supply many of our largest cities with fish are of hatchery origin. Without federal aid the shad of the Potomac would have ceased to exist many years ago.

The game fish of many small streams are also dependant upon constant restocking and especially is this true of th brook trout. Recently rainbow trout from California have been introduced into some of the Allegheny streams where the native trout has been exterminated, and they are now rapidly multipiying. Their presence has been reported in a number of small streams near Wytheville, Virginia.

Another experiment of this sort proved itself successful this year when a good sized catch of humpback salmon was reported from the Penobscot river in Maine. The humpback salmon is a native of the Pacific coast, and was introduced into the Atlantic a few years ago.

The size and efficiency of the organization which thus keeps a nation supplied with fish and fishing is impressive. During the year 1915 the Bureau produced over four billion fish and ova, and distributed some 58,000,000 fish of fingerling or larger size. Egg collecting and hatching operations were conducted in thirty-two states and Alaska, while the distribution extended into every state and territory. The greater part of the output is planted in public waters on advice of government or state experts, but most of the fish suitable for ponds and small lakes are consigned to individuals. This distribution of fish to individuals in all parts of the country last year required 637,716 miles of railroad travel.

In addition to propogating a large number of species of food and game fish, the bureau several years ago took up experimental work with the famous diamond-back terrapin, which was a widely used delicacy several years ago but is now very scarce. The diamond-back has been very successfuly raised in captivity by the government experts, and some have already been released to multiply in the wild state.

This year still another new experiment is to be conducted in the propagation of frogs. A large number of persons have written to the bureau for information about raising frogs in captivity, and this experimental work is being undertaken in order to solve the problem.

SOARING PRICE OF MEAT.

The price of beef on the hoof in the Chicago market has gone up from $6 a hundredweight in 1911 to $9 this year. The stock-raiser says he is getting little advantage from the increase. The packer and the butcher complain that they have to skimp along on a narrow margin of profit, while the public knows that meat is so high now as to be a luxury. Even assenting to the indictment, frequently brought, that the American housewife is wasteful in buying and does not know how to handle the cheaper cuts to advantage, the fact remains that the once despised cheaper cuts are commanding a price that can no longer be regarded as negligible.

Fortunately, there are other things to eat, and equally fortunately the American people can cut down considerably on their meat allowance and still consume an amount that the people of other countries would consider an abundance for all their physicial needs.

It is reasonably certain that, with the disappearance of the great ranges, meat will never again find the low level the United States enjoyed for so many years, but it seems just as certain that if the high prices at present prevailing continue for any great length of time, the invitation to Eastern farmers and to others throughout the country who can raise cattle, hogs and sheep on a small scale to enter the field and seek profit in it will not be neglected. It is further to be anticipated that the day will come—though we trust it may be long postponed—when the demand will be considerably curtailed by inability to buy. The era of high wages has, of course, much to do with the upward tendency of the market.

SEDAN, way out in Chautauqua county, Kansas, has a population of only 1,000, but that didn't prevent J. H. Edwards, the leading merchant, from spending $2,200 in advertising last year. Mr. Edwards went to Sedan a few years ago with practically nothing, and now owns a big store, a new home, a farm, automobile and a fine team, and claims the success af his business was made possible by liberal advertising, mostly in the newspapers.

WILSON TO WRITE DEFENSE PLANK

Preparedness and Foreign Policies to Be Chief Points in Platform.

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—Preparedness and foreign policies are to be the principal planks to be written into the Democratic platform that will be drafted here week after next, when the Democratic National Convention is held. That President Wilson will sketch these main planks of the party platform is the understanding of members of the sub-committee on arrangements of the national committee which held another meeting today.

It was suggested that the President has already drawn the main planks of the platform, and that they will be placed before the committee on resolution by Senator William J. Stone of Missouri, or some one who has the confidence of President Wilson. There were reports today that Senator Stone would be made chairman of the committee on resolutions.

Members of the committee say that the plank on preparedness will be trenchantly drawn. The tariff and monetary questions have been settled, according to the committee members, and they will be only lightly touched on in the platform.

Speaker Champ Clark may be made permanent chairman of the convention if he finds that his duties in Congress will permit. That was the understanding of party leaders here today.

President Wilson and Vice-President Marshall will be nominated as the Democratic party standard bearers early Saturday morning at the final session of the convention.

Plans for the convention have been practically agreed upon by National Chairman McCombs and the committee on arrangements.

"We plan to reach the vote on President Wilson about 1 o'clock Saturday morning," said Chairman McCombs tonight, "and expect to proceed with the nomination for Vice-President thereafter. There will be no limitation on the length of seconding speeches, but we see no reason why we should not conclude our work some time Saturday morning."

An 8-foot Spread From a 45-inch Box

IN the Low Corn King catalogue it takes pages to tell about the good construction that backs up the "8-foot-wide spread from a narrow 45-inch box." Here the space is limited.

See the spreader and study these things: The simple worm and worm gear which drive the apron can be reversed, doubling the wear qualities. The gear is entirely enclosed, away from dust and dirt. The relation of beater and apron is just right to do the best work on the manure with the least power. Low Corn King is a steel spreader—frame, beater axles, wheels, driving parts—all of light, strong, compact steel. You return the apron by a convenient foot lever—no hand cranking, no getting down from seat.

These things—remember—back up the even, satisfactory 8-foot-or-better wide spread. Get acquainted with the Low Corn King spreader. See the local dealer who sells it.

FRENCH LINES PIERCED AGAIN

Germans Take the First Line Trenches Near Vaux and Douaumont

ITALIANS DEFEAT AUSTRIANS

London.—Attacking in force from the Thiaumont Farm to Vaux the Germans on the Verdun front, after several assaults, penetrated the French first line trenches between Fort Douaumont and Vaux pond. This gain the Paris War Office admits, while emphasizing a French success at Le Mort Homme.

Groups of German aeroplanes threw bombs on the city of Bar-le-Duc. Eighteen civilians were killed and 25 wounded.

French troops have captured 400 yards of German first line trenches by a counter attack southeast of Dead Man Hill and Caurettes Height. Southeast of Dead Man Hill the French obtained a foothold in the first line trenches over an extent of 400 metres.

East of Obert-Sept (southwest of Altkirsch, Alsace) a German reconnoitring detachment penetrated French positions over a width of 350 metres and a depth of 300 metres and returned with booty and prisoners.

A British biplane was brought down west of Cambrai in an aerial battle.

The complete repulse of a German attack on the eastern slopes of Dead Man Hill was announced by Paris.

The Germans have thrown more than 75,000 fresh troops into action at Verdun since a week ago. At least five new German divisons have been engaged on both banks of the Meuse.

Since February, 1,000,000 Germans have been in action at Verdun, according to War Office figures. Of this number, it is estimated by Paris that 300,000 have been killed or put out of action.

The Turks took the offensive against the invading Russians in the Caucasus on a front of about 20 miles. The Turks recaptured Mamachatoun.

GERMANS GAIN AT VERDUN.

London.—The 100th day of the great battle for Verdun was marked by German gains over a front of 2 miles west of the Meuse. Paris admitted the abandoning of the Bethincourt-Cumieres road, which the Germans have been seeking to break since early in April. The War Office conceded losses in the Guarettes Wood, south of Cumieres, and on the slopes of Le Mort Homme.

Overshadowing even the developments before Verdun, the Balkan situation, since the Bulgarian invasion of Greek territory a few days ago, became the foremost subject of discussion and speculation in Berlin, Paris and London. Events of far-reaching consequences upon the ultimate outcome of the war are looked for in Macedonia in the immediate future.

Already the ultra-optimistic Teutonic prediction is heard: "The Anglo-French expedition at Salonica will be thrown into the Aegean Sea." More conservative elements predict some of the hardest fighting of the war in the event the German, Austrian, Bulgarian and Turkish armies should clash with the British. The Bulgarian advance into Macedonia was made as the result of a secret agreement between the Greek and Bulgarian governments, according to diplomatic sources in Rome, Greece welcoming the invasion because of the Allies' roughshod methods in blockading all Greek ports and occupying all available islands for naval bases.

The Austrians have begun another attack against the Italians in the Posina region of Italy, southwest of Posina, and further north along the upper reaches of the Astico River, on the Austro-Italian border. South of Posina Austrians prepared for their offensive with a bombardment, but, Rome says, the Italians, after a desperate struggle against the Austrian infantry, retained their positions.

On the Russian front the Germans attempted an offensive northeast of Augustinhof, but were driven back to their trenches by the Russians.

U-BOAT SHELLS ELBA CAPITAL.

Austrian Bombards Blast Furnaces, Then Sinks Steamer.

Berlin. — Bombardment of Porto Ferrajo, capital of the Island of Elba, in the Mediteeranean, by an Austrian submarine is reported in a statement issued by the Austro-Hungarian Admiralty. The announcement says:

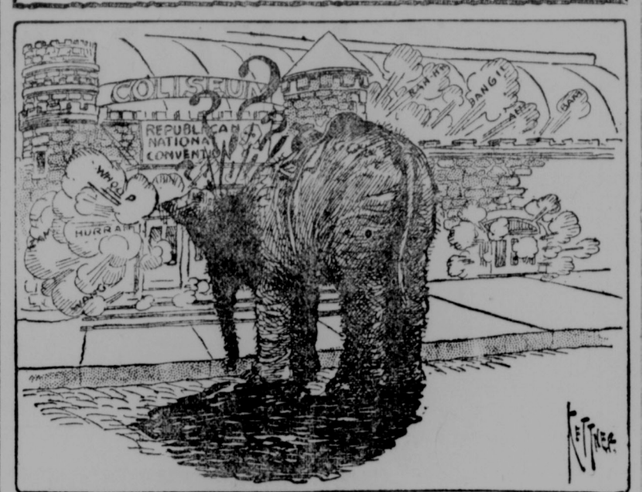
An Austro-Hungarian submarine on the morning of May 23 very successfully shelled important blast furnaces at Porto Ferrajo, on the Island of Elba.

DEPUTIES TO MEET IN SECRET.

French Chamber to Discuss Vital Matters Behind Closed Doors.

Paris.—The Chamber of Deputies probably will sit in secret session some time this week as the result of a decision reached at a conference of Premier Briand with representatives of all political factions. There will be a previous meeting at once of the Deputies of various parties to consider the conditions the Government declares it will be necessary to observe at a secret session.

WAITING FOR A MOUNT



THE GERMAN LOSS NOW PUT AT 18

British Figure Out Greater Losses for Germans.

DOES NOT NAME SHIPS

Berlin Declares All Has Been Told. Scarcely a Line Officer On Sunken British Vessels Was Saved.

London. — The British Admiralty issued a statement saying there was the strongest grounds for the belief that the British navy in the battle with the Germans off Jutland last week had accounted for a total of 18 German men-of-war, and that there was nothing to add to or subtract from the original announcement of the British losses.

The statement gave the German losses as two battleships, two dreadnaught battle cruisers, four light cruisers, nine torpedo-boat destroyers and a submarine.

Less Pessimism Felt.

The pessimism which prevailed as a result of the Admiralty's original statement of losses, which now is considered to have been needlessly candid and conservative in under-estimating the extent of the German losses as compared with those of Great Britain, has been greatly lessened by the latest statement.

A dispatch from Copenhagen says rumors are current in Hamburg that two additional German warships than those announced in the German communication—the battleship Westfalen and the battle cruiser Lutzow—were sunk in the battle. A wireless dispatch received here from Berlin said the German Admiralty admitted the loss of the Westfalen.

The admiralty statement declares that the German losses in the fight were not only relatively, but absolutely greater than those of the British. Maintaining its practice of caution, the admiralty still refrains from giving the names of the lost German ships.

Scarcely An Officer Saved.

The official list of the casualties among officers shows that hardlly a single officer of the line escaped from the British cruisers sunk in the battle. An additional casualty list of petty officers shows that 43 of them were saved from the Queen Mary, Invincible, Fortune, Ardent and Shark. None was saved from the Indefatigable, Defense, Black Prince, Tipperary, Turbulent, Nomad or Nestor.

The list gives the names of 65 men killed aboard the Warrior and of 27 men wounded. On the other ships engaged in the fight, 115 men were killed and 85 wounded.

Germans Started It.

London.—In a terrific naval battle off the Coast of Jutland on May 31 the Germans sank 14 British warships, 3 battle cruisers (the Invincible, Queen Mary and Indefatigable), 3 light cruisers and 8 destroyers.

The German Admiralty claims the additional loss of the dreadnaught Warspite, but at a late hour the British Admiralty does not include the vessel in its list of losses. The British report mentions the light cruiser Warrior, not yet claimed by the Germans.

The German losses are the battle cruiser Doerfflinger, the pre-dreadnaught Pommern, the small cruisers Frauenlob and Wiesbaden and several destroyers.

Zeppelins took part in the conflict which raged during the afternoon of Wednesday and until daybreak on Thursday.

There are no accurate reports of loss of life, but there is no doubt that several thousand officers and men perished. The British ships lost were manned by approximately 7,000 men, more than 2,000 men were aboard the German vessels put down.

The British ships lost cost approximately $70,000,000 to build, the German ships $20,000,000.

IN PROCLAIMING FLAG DAY PRESIDENT ASKS REAL "UNION"

President Wilson issued a proclamation calling upon the people of the United States to celebrate Flag Day, June 14, with patriotic exercises. The proclamation follows:

My Fellow-Countrymen — Many circumstances have recently conspired to turn our thoughts to a critical examination of the condition of our national life, of the influences which have seemed to threaten to divide us in interest and sympathy, of forces within and forces without that seemed likely to draw us away from the happy traditions of united purpose and action, of which we have been so proud.

I therefore suggest and request that throughout the nation, and if possible in every community, the fourteenth day of June be observed as Flag Day, with special patriotic exercises, at which means shall be taken to give significant expression to our thoughtful love of America, our comprehension of the great mission of liberty and justice to which we have devoted ourselves as a people, our pride in the history, and our enthusiasm for the political program of the nation, our determination to make it greater and purer with each generation, and our resolution to demonstrate to all the world its vital union in sentiment and purpose, accepting only those as true compatriots who feel as we do in the compulsion of this supreme allegiance.

Let us on that day rededicate ourselves to the cause of the nation, "one and inseparable," from which every thought that is not worthy of our fathers' first vows of liberty and right shall be excluded, and in which we shall stand with united hearts for an America which no man can corrupt, no influence can draw away from its ideals, no force divide against itself—a nation signally distinguished among all the nations of mankind for its clear, individual conception, alike, and its duties as, privileges, its obligations and representatives.

WILSON WITH CONFEDERATES.

Attends Memorial Exercises At Arlington Cemetery.

Washington.—President Wilson attended memorial exercises held in the Confederate section of Arlington National Cemetery Sunday, but did not speak. His appearance was unexpected, as he previously had announced he would be unable to attend. He was enthusiastically received by a large crowd.

Senator Vardaman, the orator of the occasion, defended the right of the Southern States to secede and declared the answer to the question, "Is it well that the Confederacy failed?" rested with the way the general government used its power.

Secretary Daniels occupied a seat at the speakers' platform.

SENATOR BURTON IDEAL CANDIDATE

An Intimate View of Him In 1912 Campaign.

IS STRONG FOR FAIR PLAY.

On One Notable Occasion Declared That He Would as Soon Think of Assaulting a Man as Misquoting Him. Great Statesman and Prodigious Worker, Says Isaac M. Meekins.

When the presidential campaign in 1912 was in full blast the chairman of the Republican national committee requested me to do some campaigning for the committee. I was called to New York and informed that the committee had decided to put on what it pleased to call "The Tariff Special." This was a train with which it was intended to trail Woodrow Wilson's western trip and cover each point touched by the Democratic presidential nominee. I was told that Senator Theodore E. Burton was in charge of the train and that I had been selected to accompany him on this trip. I joined the senator at Indianapolis, and in less than a half hour he had my complete confidence and I felt that I had known him all my life. His manner was easy, open and frank. He was positive, but not abrupt.

Very soon I began to learn some of the qualities of the distinguished senator. Among the first was an illustration of his scrupulous sense of fair play. On the train out of Chicago an Iowa newspaper man called Senator Burton's attention to a passage in Woodrow Wilson's "History of the American People" wherein he describes the panic of 1893-4 and concludes by saying, "Not until the year 1897, when the new Republican administration came in power, did the crisis seem past." This bit of information interested me vitally. I was curious to know what Senator Burton would do with it—how he would handle it. I fully expected him to use this item in his very next rear end platform speech. But he did not. I went to him and asked him why he did not make use of that quotation from Wilson. "I shall make use of it as soon as I have an opportunity to verify it," he replied. "I shall look it up as soon as I get to a public library." Late the next night in the Denver Public library I found Senator Burton poring over a volume of Wilson's "History of the American People." "I have found the statement," he said, "and now I shall use it." "I should have used it before," I told him. "But I could not afford to do that!" he exclaimed. "I would as soon think of assaulting a man as misquoting him."

Courteous and Considerate.

An incident which occurred at Denver is so good an illustration of Senator Burton's fine courtesy and consideration for others that I think it worth while repeating. Although this was one of the most attractive points in our trip, he proposed that I should on this occasion make the set speech. Although I protested, it was finally arranged that he would take only fifteen minutes and give me the balance of the time. A splendid audience greeted us that night; several thousand were gathered in a theater. Senator Burton opened the meeting and was at his best. The audience responded to him immediately, and he could have held the attention of the men and women gathered there for hours. I tossed him a note telling him that he should hold the platform and not confine himself to the agreed fifteen minutes; that the audience was his and never mind me. After speaking just fifteen minutes Senator Burton sat down. That night on our train, chatting with the press reporters, I asked Senator Burton why he did not continue his speech. "Because I had to keep my promise," he said. "I would no sooner trespass upon another man's time than I would trespass upon his pocketbook."

Had I been a member of the president's cabinet Senator Burton could not have been more considerate of my feelings and my comfort in every particular than he was during this entire trip. I was as unknown to him as to the reader of this little story. Herein is revealed the real man.

Traveling brings out the true character of the man. After close association with Senator Burton for a number of weeks I can say of him that he is not only a statesman and philosopher and in many respects a genius, but he is a sympathetic, honest, brave gentleman, personally kind, gentle and sincere. Campaigning in 1912 for the Republican nominee was fraught with many difficulties and embarrassments. By reason of these very difficulties and embarrassments I found that difficulties do not discourage Senator Burton; neither do failures frighten him. With extraordinary celerity of perception he finds his way out of every difficulty and out of every embarrassment. During my entire association with him I never once heard him complain.

Statesman and Worker.

In addition to the refinement of character which he possesses, Senator Burton is endowed with a great mind, is a great statesman and a prodigious worker. A man may be a great statesman and then lack those fundamental human qualities which the average American voter is inclined to expect of any candidate for the presidency. Since the advent of the Man of Galilee people everywhere have demanded the humanities of their leaders. Prudence, justice, duty, kindness, consideration, service and honesty weigh more in the scales of public opinion than wisdom and learning. But combine these attributes and we have all that is best in human character.

I am a delegate to the Republican national convention at Chicago, which meets June 7. I am not committed to any candidate for president. I am free to vote for whomsoever I please and to change from one to another candidate as my judgment shall indicate. However, knowing Senator Burton as I do, I felt that I wanted others also to know him as he is. To my mind he is a presidential possibility who possesses all the requisite qualifications in full measure. Besides making a great president he would make a good party man. Senator Burton believes in the Republican party. While he would not permit partisanship to interfere with the duties of the great office to which he aspires, yet he can be counted on to solidify the party and set it as a nail in a sure place. There is not a disloyal fiber in his great nature, not a suspicion of ingratitude in his character. He would cherish the organization that placed him in the highest and most honorable official position in the world.

If Senator Burton is nominated and elected president every citizen of the United States can have his cause heard at the White House, if he has a cause, and in party matters the humblest of our rank and file will be heard and considered. Mr. Victor Murdock said the other day, "Colonel Roosevelt is a natural man." So is Senator Burton. There is a quiet reserve and dignity about Senator Burton, but only that which is perfectly fitting for a president of the United States, while there is none of the happy-go-lucky spirit about him. The genial warmth of his spirit and his kindly and sympathetic manner are totally inconsistent with any suggestion that Senator Burton is cold blooded. Senator Burton is a man of deep sentiment without being sentimental. There is a vast difference between sentiment and sentimentality, just as there is a vast difference between kindly consideration and cold insensibility. But every man can expect of Senator Burton a quiet consideration of an issue or a cause, an honest conclusion and a gentle, kindly and sympathetic announcement of that conclusion at any time, any place, under any and all circumstances.

PRESS THINKS WELL OF SENATOR BURTON

Logical Man to Oppose Wilson, Says Asheville Citizen.

While political leaders are for one man or another, for one purpose or another, it is found that Republicans seeking success this year want a man of strong Republican convictions, a man of experience in public affairs and a knowledge of the needs of the country.

Just what is thought of Senator Burton in different parts of the country may be seen by the comments of different papers of recent date.

Says the Olean Evening Times of New York:

"The candidacy of Senator Theodore E. Burton is being pushed with an energy and vigor by his friends who know him best and his Washington associates who know him as a legislator that bid fair to land the nomination at Chicago. No other man now before the public as a candidate is getting the favorable comment in this relation as Senator Burton."

The Sioux Falls (S. D.) State Forum says:

"The Forum believes that for pure statesmanlike ability, knowledge and needs of the country and how best to meet them Senator Theodore E. Burton is the best man of the entire list. He is right on the tariff, right in his Americanism, right in his ideas of governmental service and one of the real leaders of the country."

Wheeling (W. Va.) Intelligencer:

"Development of sentiment among West Virginia Republicans has been altogether favorable to Theodore E. Burton. As matters now stand he will undoubtedly have the West Virginia delegates to the Republican convention."

Asheville (N. C.) Citizen:

"Senator Burton is the logical man to oppose President Wilson, because he combines the advantage of representing both Republican and Progressive elements without having any of the objectionable characteristics that bar others from leadership."

Burton of the Grant Family.

Theodore E. Burton belongs to the Grant family. He is a descendant of Mathew Grant, who came to Massachusetts in 1630. On one of the few occasions when Senator Burton talks about himself he said: "The Grants have been unemotional men. They believe that Ulysses S. was as typical a Grant as was the venerable Mathew, the founder of the clan. Traveling by steamer on the James river, an explosion occurred, which caused every one but Grant to spring from his chair in great alarm. 'It is unbecoming an officer,' the general rebukingly said, 'to show even momentarily any fear or excitement.' A Grant," the senator added, "when he is a Grant can't be rattled by an earthquake."

STRIKING FEATURES OF NEW SCHOOL LAW

Rigid Requirements Necessary For Superintendent to Be Qualified.

Continuing the article published in the last issue of this paper, in which were set forth in brief, many of the radical changes in the State school law of Maryland, there are here set fourth a few of the additional features thereof.

"The county superintendent shall nominate, for appointment by the county board of education, all principals and all assistant teachers, shall assign them to their positions in the schools, transfer them as the needs of the schools require, recommend them for promotion, suspend them for cause and recommend them for dismissal."

In each county employing not less than 100 teachers, there shall be appointed at least one primary grade supervisor, no person shall be eligible for appointment as a supervisor who does not hold from the state superintendent a certificate in supervision; one-half of the salary of the supervisor is to be paid by the State.

The county board of education in each county shall with the written approval of the state surerintendent of schools, also appoint at least on attendance officer, whose duty it shall be to compel the regular attendance of children at school; one-half the salary of the attendance officer is to be paid by the State.

There shall be employed in each county at least one statistical and stenographic clerk.

The district boards of school trustees lose authority to contract with teachers for their employment, that authority in the new school law, abiding in the county board of education as set forth in the first citation of the law in the first part of this article; the trustees are to see that the school properties are in good condition, and to remove or report any irregularities in the conduct of the schools and to approve or reject as correct or incorrect the various reports of the teachers to the board of education.

"No new school house district shall be formed containing less than fifty children between the ages of 6 and 14 years; nor shall any new school district be formed if any one of the old districts affected has, after the formation of the new school house district, less than fifty children between the ages of 6 and 14 years, except in such unusual instances as may be approved by the state superintendent of schools."

"Elementary schools shall be kept open for not less than one hundred and eighty (180) actual school days and for ten months in each year, if possible, and shall be free to all white youths, between six and twenty years of age."

"Whenever the average daily attendance in any school for any two consecutive terms is less than 12 pupils the said school may be closed by the county board of education, and transportation provided, in the discretion of the board for the pupils."

"There shall be held in each school, once a year, a public exhibition of school work, of which due notice shall be given, that parents and other interested in education may attend."

After September 30, 1916, the examination of applicants for teachers' certificates becomes a state function with the result that the county superintendent loses all previous authority therein. After that date, teachers' certificates will be issued by the State and not by the county superintendent.

"The district board of school trustees shall have power to suspend and expel pupils for cause; provided, that an appeal shall lie to the county superintendent, whose decision shall be final."

"The board of public school commissioners of Baltimore City and each county board of education shall adopt and purchase, subject to the provisions of this article, text books, supplementary readers, materials of instruction, stationery and school supplies for use in the public schools of said city and of the several counties of the State."

In state high schools of the first group, agriculture may be substituted for manual or industrial training.

"After all deductions are made from the General State School Fund, the State Comptroller shall apportion on or before the last day of September, the remainder of the General State School Fund of each year to the several counties and the city of Baltimore, as follows: Two-thirds shall be apportioned on the basis of the population between the ages of six and fourteen years as given by the latest available biennial school census; provided, that the latest Federal Census shall be employed until the biennial school census becomes available; and one third shall be apportioned upon the basis of the aggregate days of school attendance during the preceding school year as certified to by the state superintendent of schools, provided that the attendance of pupils in a state aided high school shall not be counted in apportioning the General School Fund."

School attendance becomes compulsory under the new law, prevailing as follows, with severe penalties for violations thereof; children 7 and 12 years of age are required to attend school every day; children 13 and 14 years of age are required to attend school at least 100 days a year, beginning not later than November 1st; children 15 and 16 years of age are required to attend school at least 100 days a year, beginning not later than November 1st, unless legally employed elsewhere; there is provided in the law ample local authority to excuse children from its requirements whenever they present just and satisfying reasons therefor.

May H. Cassidy, Plaintiff v. Rosco C. Cassidy, Defendant.
No. 2067 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill states that on the 6th day of March, 1912, the plaintiff was married to the said Rosco C. Cassidy at Grafton, West Virginia, with whom she resided in said town for about a month after their marriage, and then moved to Cleveland, Ohio, and there resided with her husband for a period of about eight months, at which time the plaintiff was to make a visit to her parents in Garrett county. On this trip her husband accompanied her as far as Wheeling, W. Va., and then told her that he would follow her in two weeks, and upon her return to her home in Garrett county she received a letter from him dated Illinois stating that he was going so far away as he could and that he would never live with her again.

The bill further states that the conduct of the plaintiff towards her husband has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, and that the defendant has without just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and declared his intention to live with her no longer.

That such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond hope of reconciliation.

That there was one child born of said marriage, viz., Cora, about three years of age.

That the plaintiff has resided in Garrett county more than three years prior to the filing of this suit, and that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

The bill prays for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant, guardianship and custody of said infant child, general relief and an order of publication.

It is thereupon, this 31st day of May, 1916, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in Equity that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county once in each of four successive weeks before the 1st day of July, 1916, give notice to said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, 1916, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

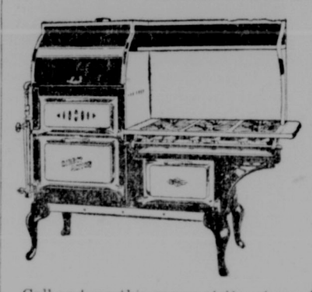
Do You Use Gas?

If you do come to W. E. Shirer and inspect and have demonstrated to you the Direct Action Gas Range, with the regular cooking top and the Direct Action Oven with the fireless cooker convenience added. The oven is the most essential part of all ranges and this range possesses the most marvelous oven yet produced which is a cooking oven as well as a baking oven and can be used to boil and bake at the same time.

The oven of this gas range is operated on a distinctly new principle. The burners are placed in the oven itself; hence the name, "direct action." In design the range is on efficient cabinet type with a comfortable working height of thirty-two inches. Connected with the oven is a thermostat which reduces automatically the amount of gas allowed to flow through the burner at any temperature indicated. Thus at 200 degrees F. only a sub flame burns, while if the thermostat is set for a temperature of 300 degrees F. the furners show a full flame until 325 degrees F. is reached, when the supply of gas is cut off and the flame is reduced to a mere pin-point, capable of maintaining the temperature set. With this arrangement an oven of known temperature can be indefinitely maintained, and this is a marked advance in gas-cookery. The food is first placed in the oven, the gas is then lighted, and the thermostat is set for the desired temperature. The practical results obtained in this oven, as well as the temperature readings, show it to be an excellent investment.



Call and see this range at the store of W. E. Shirer any day or if you phone W. E. Shirer he will demonstrate to you any evening. This range must be seen to be appreciated.

Porter L. Custer, et al., vs. Amanda Custer et al.
No. 1691 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this petition is to procure an order from the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in equity, authorizing and directing the Trustee named in the decree in this cause to pay over a certain amount of money audited to Ora Crissle to the petitioner, Patrick S. Fazenbaker.

The petition, after setting out the filing of the original bill, the passage of a decree of sale and the appointment of the trustees, states, that after the passage of said decree, but before the sale of said real estate to wit: on the 1st day of November, 1915, the said Ora Crissle, together with her husband, sold and conveyed to the said Patrick S. Fazenbaker, all their rights, title and interest in the real estate in the proceedings mencioned, and executed and delivered a deed therefor which deed has been already filed in this cause with the petition of the said Fazenbaker praying that he be admitted as a party defendant therein, and is now prayed to be taken and considered as a part thereof.

The petition further states that there has been an audit stated in said cause, and prays that the amount audited to the said Ora Crissie may be paid over to said petitioner.

It is thereupon, this 3rd day of May, 1916, ordered, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in equity, that the petitioner, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, once in each of four successive weeks, before the 24th day of June, next, give notice to the said Ora Crissie of the object and substance of said petition, warning her to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 1st day of July, next, to show cause, if any she has, why an order ought not be passed as prayed. And it is further ordered, that in lieu of such publication, a copy of this order may be served personally upon the said Ora Crissie, on or before the 20th day of June, 1916, in accordance with Section 127 of Article 16 of the Code of Public General Laws of the State of Maryland, warning her to appear and show cause as aforesaid.

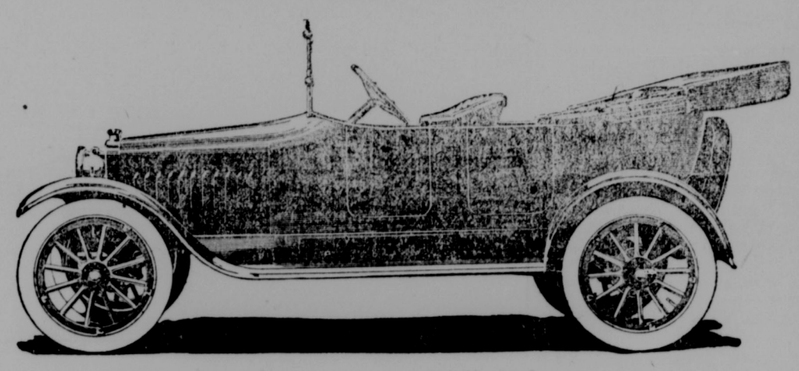
SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people



Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $3,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle the question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

VOLUME 41. OAKLAND, MARYLAND THURSDAY, JUNE 15, 1916. NUMBER 16

JUNE GRAND JURY FOUND MANY INDICTMENTS

Body Was Discharged Last Friday Morning After Making Its Report.

Last Friday morning the grand jury for the June term of the Circuit Court, which convened on Monday preceding with Associate Judge Keedy of Hagerstown on the bench, made its report and was discharged from further service at this time, the report in full appearing below.

The grand jury in its labors, examined 151 witnesses and found 71 indictments, the greatest number ever returned by any previous jury in the history of the county, many of the indictments being for forgery, bootlegging and in one or two instances upon more serious charges.

The report of the jury is as follows:

To The Honorable, the Judges of the Circuit Court for Garrett County:

The Grand Jury for the June Term, 1916, of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, beg leave to report that we have concluded our labors, and have to the best of our ability performed the duties devolving upon us as members of this body, and we now desire to report our proceedings and receive our discharge.

We have had before us and examined 151 witnesses, and have found 71 presentments and 71 indictments.

We have found presentments in all cases in which we believed the evidence justified, and have ignored trivial cases and those cases in which the evidence did not appear to warrant presentments.

We have examined the several County Buildings, in accordance with your Honor's instructions.

We find that the Court-house is in need of some repairs. The composition caps on the columns of the court house should be renewed at once, as there is imminent danger of the bricks above the tops of the same falling out. The porch floors should be repainted. There should be a light placed at the steps descending to the toilet in the basement. We further recommend that the blocks under the porch should be repainted with cement, as the blocks are becoming loose.

We found the jail in good condition and neatly kept. We believe that the stairway in the jail should be enclosed by a partition and a door at the foot of the stairs, so that the women and men may be separated when they are allowed in the corridors, as it is impossible to keep them in the cells all of the time. The spouting on the jail is all clogged and should be opened and repaired at once.

This Grand Jury has been informed that some of the recommendations regarding repairs, made by previous Grand Juries, have been ignored, and this Grand Jury desires to emphasize the necessity of the County Commissioners taking prompt action for the preservation of the County Buildings and thus save further expenses caused by delays.

We desire to commend Sheriff Ashby for the cleanly manner in which the County Jail is kept.

We desire to acknowledge the courtesy shown us by His Honor, Judge Keedy.

We wish to commend the several County officials having the records of the County in charge, for the neat manner in which we find the records are kept.

We cannot close this report without extending our thanks and sincere appreciation to Mr. E. Ray Jones, State's Attorney, for the valuable assistance he has rendered this Jury in the conduct of its investigations.

We beg to be discharged.

Respectfully submitted,

E. E. SOLLARS,
Foreman.

WILLIAM MORGAN WILL SERVE SIX YEARS IN PEN

Sentenced Yesterday By Judge R. R. Henderson for Attempting Murder.

In the Circuit Court yesterday a large number of criminal cases were disposed of, the most interesting one claiming the attention of the Court and a host of witnesses from Selbysport being that of William Morgan, who one night during the past winter became embroiled with his brother-in-law, Orville Frazee, and shot him with the avowed intention of taking his life. Morgan and his wife had parted some months preceding the quarrel between the two men and claiming that young Frazee was in part responsible for the existing conditions made the assault. After hearing the evidence of a number of witnesses in the case and Morgan's own statement, who entered a plea of guilty, the Court gave him a sentence of six years in the penitentiary.

Henry Barnard, of Bloomington, who entered a plea of guilty on Monday to the indictment charging him with having forged a large number of scalp certificates and collecting the money upon the same from the County Treasurer, was given the minimum sentence, two years in the penitentiary.

Other cases disposed of by the Court were as follows:

State vs. Henry E. Felty, larceny; partly tried and postponed.

State vs. Asa Glotfelty, statutory rape; plea of guilty confessed and paroled.

State vs. Earl Friend, burglary; jury trial; not guilty.

State vs. Earl and Elsie Friend, larceny; dismissed by order State's Attorney.

State vs. Wesley Friend, larceny; same order.

State vs. E. J. Frantz; sale of liquor; tried before Court; not guilty.

State vs. Clarence O'Haver, bastardy; plea of guilty confessed; paroled upon condition he pay $4 per month for the term of twelve years for support of child.

State vs. Walter Green, larceny of two head of cattle; plea of guilty confessed and paroled.

State vs, Harper McRobie and Walter Masters, burglary; plea of guilty; paroled.

State vs. Herbert Masters, receiving stolen goods; verdict guilty; paroled for five years.

State vs. Perry and Percy Frantz, sale of liquor; tried before Court; verdict not guilty.

State vs. B. F. Walter, four charges of forgery; plea of guilty; paroled.

State vs. Etta Masters, receiving stolen goods; tried before Court; guilty and paroled.

State vs. Asa Glotfelty, bastardy; plea of guilt; order of Court that he give bond in the sum of $400 for support of child.

State vs. Lynn Morgan; burglary; tried before Court; guilty; paroled.

State vs. John Jokes, sale of liquor; paroled.

State vs. Charles Liller, giving away liquor at place of business; plea of guilty; sentence withheld by Court.

State vs. Joseph Polidari, sale of liquor; plea of guilty; $100 and costs.

State vs. Philip Polidari, same; stet.

Joseph Polidari, same; plea of guilty; $100 and costs.

This morning the remainder of the criminal docket will be taken up by Judge Henderson and it is expected that Court will adjourn tomorrow.

The petit jury was discharged yesterday morning but may be recalled by Judge Boyd some time the latter part of July to sit in a case set for trial at that time.

STATE LAWYERS AT DEER PARK

Features of Annual Convention Which Will Open Thursday, June 29.

Besides the innovation of meeting in the mountains instead of at the seashore the annual gathering of the Maryland State Bar Association at Deer Park this year will begin in the evening instead of in the morning. Arrangements have been made for a special train over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, leaving Camden Station, Baltimore, at 10 a. m., on Thursday, June 29, and arriving at Deer Park at 4:15 p. m. The first session, scheduled for that evening, will be given over to the address of the president. Judge Hammond Urner, of Frederick, and the submission of reports by the standing committees.

On the following morning Chief Judge A. Hunter Boyd of the Court of Appeals, Joseph C. France and Joshua W. Miles will read papers on the question of how to improve the practical administration of Justice. These papers, which will be limited to 20 minutes, will be followed by a discussion.

The Friday evening session will be devoted to a discussion of proposed changes in the rules of evidence in reference to hearsay testimony and the incompetency of parties as witnesses on account of the death or disqualification of other parties to the transactions in issue. On the former question the speakers will be Benjamin A. Richmond, Osborne I. Yellott and J. Walter Lord, and on the latter Judges James P. Gortner and Carroll T. Bond and W. Stuart Symington. Each speaker will be limited to 10 minutes and three-minute talks will follow. Former Judge Alfred S. Niles will preside at this session.

On Saturday morning the annual address will be delivered by H. Snowden Marshall, United States District Attorney, of New York. There will be afternoon sessions at which the regular business of the association will be conducted.

The meeting will end with the annual banquet on Saturday night, July 1. George Whitelock will be toastmaster. The banquet is free to members of the association.

In the circular sent members of the association by James W. Chapman, Jr., secretary, attention is called to the fact that since the decision of the executive council to hold the meeting at Deer Park, the Legislature of Maryland has passed a law regulating the distribution of liquors in Garrett county. In consequence of this no wine will be served at the banquet and it will be "dry."

It will be the first time in years that the association has met in the State, and it is hoped by the officers that the attendance will be larger than ever before. Many tidewater members were kept away, it is said, by the fact that the gatherings were at the sea-side year after year, and it is supposed that Deer Park will appeal to them especially.

Nurses Maids of Honor at Wedding.

David Humbertson, 28 years old, and Miss Mary Friend, 16 years old, both of Friendsville, Garrett county, Md., were married in the sun parlor of the Western Maryland Hospital at 9:30 o'clock Friday morning by Rev. Wilbur M. Snyder, pastor of Melvin Chapel Methodist Protestant church. This is the first wedding in the hospital.

Orval Friend, brother of the bride, is a patient at the hospital and was unable to leave the institution to attend the wedding. For this reason permission was secured to have the ceremony performed in the hospital. Surrounded by a number of nurses and patients the ceremony was performed and everyone present wished them a happy voyage over the matrimonial sea. The congratulations were followed by a rice shower.—Cumberland News.

Red Men to Attend Worship.

All members of Youghioghney Tribe No. 151 Improved Order of Red Men, are requested to meet at their hall in the K. of P. building, June 18th, at 10:15 a. m. for the purpose of attending services at the Episcopal church. Visiting brothers invited.

UNITED REPUBLICAN PARTY SUPPORTED BY COLONEL FACES FOE

News Flashed from Oyster Bay to Chicago Brought Cheer to Republicans and Gloom to Progressives Hughes Statement on Americanism Converts Roosevelt

President Wilson, in his campaign for re-election will be opposed by a reunited Republican Party, led by Charles Evans Hughes, of New York, as the Republican candidate for President and Charles Warren Fairbanks, of Indiana, as the candidate for Vice President.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will give his full support to the Republican ticket. This word, flashed over the wires to the friends of Roosevelt, brought cheer to the Republicans and gloom to the Progressives. There will be no third party movement. This is certain. There may be some attempt to revise the remains of the party under the leadership of Hiram Johnson or Victor Murdock, but it will be a bob-tailed movement, causing little if any embarrassment in the regular Republicans.

Nominated unanimously by the Republican convention, at the close of the most eventful week in the National politics, Justice Hughes made certain the support of Colonel Roosvelt by the issuance of a statement, taking a firm stand on Americanism and Preparedness.

The knowledge that Colonel Roosevelt will support the ticket has wiped out the resentment, which, the present convention demonstrated, has been smouldering against him ever since he left the Republican Party in 1912. A firm and unflinching support of the Republican candidates without a doubt will restore Colonel Roosevelt to his dominant place in the Republican Party.

For three days the conventions of the Republican and Progressive parties labored through winds and rains. Saturday they ended their deliberations amidst a burst of glorious sunshine. Each convention has chosen to go its separate way, hence, for the present, at least, there are two sets of candidates. Here they are:

Republican nominations:

For President—Charles Evans Hughes, of New York and of the Supreme Court of the United States.

For Vice President—Charles Warren Fairbanks, of Indiana, former Vice President of the United States.

Progressive nominations:

For President—Theodore Roosevelt.

For Vice President—John M. Parker, of Louisiana.

Such is the situation as presented by the two conventions, but it is confidently predicted that the atmosphere will clear before long and that the Roosevelt ticket will disappear. After the Progressive convention had hurled—that is the word that fits the occasion—after the convention had hurled him into the nomination, he got in touch with it. He gave the delegates to understand that if they expect him to accept off-hand they would be disappointed. He would have to await developments. He did not yet know the views of the Republican candidate on the issues of the day. If, when Justice Hughes had spoken, his position was not satisfactory to the Progressive committee, then would be the time for action. He wanted his own letter to the convention to be taken into consideration by the Progressive committee. He wanted the statement of Hughes, when it should appear, also to be considered. Then the committee and Roosevelt himself would consult and determine what to do.

This attitude of Roosevelt is precisely what Republican leaders have assumed that it would be. They contend that Hughes has been nominated not by machine work, but as the result of his own popularity among the people. They point to their platform as one truly "Made in America." The Republican leaders have believed all along that Hughes would plant himself firmly, as he has done, upon it and meet every possible requirement of Roosevelt as to Americanism, preparedness and the problems that Roosevelt has made his own.

The nomination of Roosevelt was inevitable. The Progressives who have taken part in the convention know Roosevelt only. It is doubtful if he could have swung them to any other man. Only a positive refusal to run could have prevented them from naming him.

And the nomination of Hughes, be it said, if not also inevitable, was virtually so. The Hughes movement was much stronger than Republican leaders who desired to nominate someone else realized before they arrived in Chicago. In a multiplicy of candidates there is division. From the start it has been the field of candidates against Hughes. Into this field Roosevelt could not have plunged had he seen fit to do so. A word from him that he would not accept Hughes would have made much difference.

Could he have been prevailed upon to indicate a preference for someone else, a forceful and promising combination could have been formed against Hughes. But Roosevelt refused to take a hand. His representatives here, in all their conferences with Republican leaders, have always fallen back upon Roosevelt. When Roosevelt, realizing at last, after his name had gone before the Republican convention, that there was no hope for him in that quarter, suddenly sprung the name of Henry Cabot Lodge on both conventions this morning, he was too late. Things had gone too far. He was helpless in the hands of his own people and hopeless as to any effect he might produce in the Republican ranks.

The preliminary statement of Justice Hughes made after his resignation from the Supreme Bench is regarded by Republicans as a complete answer to all doubts expressed concerning his position. Chairman Harding and all the other important figures of the Republican convention received with gratification and unconcealed joy the declaration of Hughes that he stands by "The firm and unflinching maintenance of all the rights of American citizens on land and sea;" that he "believes in thorough-going Americanism;" that he is in sympathy with the "firm protective upbuilding policies essential to our peace and security." They consider the declaration of Hughes to be strong in every essential, especially that portion of it where he says:

"I stand for an Americanism which knows no ulterior purpose, for a patriotism which is single and complete. Whether native or naturalized, or whatever race or creed, we have but one country, and we do not for an instant tolerate any division of allegiance."

And the Republican leaders believe the Progressive convention has been held in vain.

The story of the last hours of the controversy which has been keeping Chicago in a political turmoil can be quickly told.

It has been the policy of the Republican leaders to give Roosevelt and the Progressives every possible opportunity to press their claims. No effort has been made to interfere with Roosevelt delegates, or to coax them away. When on Thursday the Progressives sent an invitation to the Republican Convention to appoint a committee of conference, that invitation was accepted unanimously. The conference committees, as everyone is aware, met on Thursday night and the Progressives used up all the time in urging Roosevelt.

It was realized by the latter that the Republicans would be in a much better position to talk after the Republican Convention had given opportunity for a trial of strength between the Republican candidates. It was fully understood that the name of Roosevelt would be presented to the Republican delegates and that he would have his chance in the convention. A ballot or two would clear the atmosphere and reveal the trend of the minds of the delegates. Besides, there was still a lingering hope among the Progressives that something might happen to turn the Republican Convention to their leader.

And so the conferees reached an understanding that the Republican Convention should push on to balloting some time during the session of Friday, and when the test of strength had been made, it would adjourn to give the joint harmony committees another opportunity to get together if they could.

That was why the Republican convention was kept in continuous session from eleven o'clock yesterday morning until ten o'clock last night. Roosevelt received 65 votes on the first ballot and but 81 on the second, while Hughes finished with 328½.

The Hughes men wanted to force another ballot feeling that they could win without trouble, but anti-Mughes leaders combined with the members of the Conference Committee, which was a Hughes committee in sentiment, to secure an adjournment, the former in order that they might thresh out the situation, the latter that they might keep faith with the Progressives.

Meanwhile George W. Perking and his co-workers were having the time of their lives to prevent the Progressive convention from shouting Roosevelt into the nomination yesterday and last night.

With the nomination of Hughes impending the Republican conferees went into session with the Progressives and carried the news to them. But they found the Progressives adamant. They discussed matters until after midnight and adjourned to meet again this morning previous to the assembling of the conventions.

While this conference was going on, the anti-Hughes leaders and representatives of the various candidates got together to discover if some way could be found to stem the Hughes tide. Weeks was plainly out of it. Sherman had gained nothing on the second ballot. The East looked askance at the West and the West distrusted the East. It was found that anything like harmony was out of the question. It has been stated time and time again in these dispatches that the outlook for beating Hughes was anything but brilliant. The Illinois men got in touch with Sherman and he advised them to turn in for Hughes. Burton was inclined that way. That settled the matter. It was agreed that Hughes would be the man.

That was the situation when the two conferences committees met this morning. The Progressive conference reported to the Republican Committeemen that the sentiment of their convention was overwhelmingly in favor of Roosevelt as the one man who ought to be made the standard bearer of a united party. Did the Republicans have anything else to offer? They did have. They said to the Progressives in substance this: the ballots have proved that Hughes is going to be nominated by the Republican convention. Why not take him as your second choice? We offer him to you He has character, has rendered splendid service and he has been far removed from the differences that were engendered in 1912. He would unite the party, as for his silence in questions of the day that has been necessarily so because of his judicial position. But his earlier utterances give promise that he is in sympathy with the principles of the Republican platform.

In writing Senator Smooth's committee presented to the Progressives the name of Charles Evans Hughes. The promise of the Progressives was that the report would be submitted to the Progressive convention, and that promise was carried out. And it was presented to the Republican convention likewise when that body was called to order just before noon, an hour behind the schedule time. Smoot went into details and wound up be the remark that news had just come from the Progressive convention that it had tabled the suggestion of Hughes.

But meanwhile Oyster Bay had been getting busy. To the Progressive convention went a long message from Roosevelt himself, with a request that a copy of it be delivered simultaneously to the Republican gathering. His private secretary, Mr. McGrath, who has been here watching events for the Colonel, took it over in person. Senator Smoot attached it to his report and had it read to the delegates. Roosevelt, as everybody all over the land by this time knows, made a spirited plea for harmony; said it was the duty of the hour to sink indifferences "and come together, if by any possibility we can find a common ground." And then he offered Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, as a compromise candidate.

It was a splendid tribute that he paid Lodge, but it fell flat in both conventions. The Progressives would not listen, but proceed to the nomination of Roosevelt. As for the Republicans, they were given no time to think it over. They wanted none. They had sat in cold silence during the reading and were more than glad to hear Chairman Harding announce the next business in order was the calling of the roll for a ballot. John W. Weeks smilingly faced the intense gathering and gracefully withdrew his own candidacy. Congressman Rodenburg, of Illinois, immediately took Sherman out of the running. Med McCormick, of Chicago, who has been a strong supporter of Roosevelt, declared that the primary obligation was to support the nominee of his convention and abandoned Roosevelt.

Well, of course, everybody knows by this time that it was all over. And so it was. The stand which Roosevelt had taken was taken too late. Nothing could stop the Hughes wave, and as the ballot ran merrily along, recording the solid votes of State after State for Hughes it began to look like unainmity. But it wasn't quite unanimous. Eighteen and one-half delegates persisted in remaining true to Roosevelt, of whom Pennsylvania furnished three. South Carolina gave five votes to DuPont. North Carolina recorded seven for Lodge. There was one absent delegate. Hughes received a total of 949 1-2. Now, then, should the nomination be made unanimous? Chairman Harding put the question and a volume of "ayes" ascended to the canvas roof. "There are no "noes," smilingly declared Harding, and the selection of the candidate for President of The Republican Party was now a matter of history.

There were demonstrations. Oh, Yes, there were demonstrations and delegates moved around the aisles in processions bearing the standards of the States and there were shouts and the band added to the pandemonium. When it was all over and quiet had been restored Charles Warren Fairbanks was nominated for Vice President and the delegates struggled out of the Coliseum, not into mud and driving rain this time, but into the glorious and much appreciated sunshine.

The House By The Side Of The Road.

SAM WALTER FOSS

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn,
In the peace of their self-content;
There are souls, like stars, that dwell apart
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where the highways never ran—
But let me live by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
The men who are good, and the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban—
Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road—
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with strife.
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears—
Both part of an Infinite plan—
Let me live by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead,
And mountains of wearisome height:
And the road passes on through the long afternoon,
And stretches away to the night.
But still I rejoice when the travelers rejoice,
And weep with the strangers that moan;
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
They are good—they are bad—weak and strong,
Wise—foolish, so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban?
Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
And be a friend to man.

An Epistle On Gossiping.

To the Editor of The Republican:

While I am not a subscriber to The Republican I am a reader and I have learned to be a friend to it and its publisher as well as some of its correspondents through its devotion to good clean columns of religious items and letters, especially those written by "Joannes" on dancing, card playing, etc.

The subject which I wish to take up gossiping.

In a good many stages of our lives we find ourselves either indulging in this great evil or in the presence of some other fellow who is spending his time in talking about his neighbor or possibly his relatives, as the former leads to the latter. Now, some one may say visiting and hearing news as well as transmitting it is not so wrong as it is made out or they possibly may say in the way I do it I can see no harm at all, but let us see if you see it all or not.

Down through the ages comes the Divine inspiration, a promise as well as a warning in these words:—"God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."

I am not going to condemn proper visits and delivering of messages of divine authority or personal communication of necessity and benefit, but how many visitors carry this kind of news, so let us see the fruits of our labors in gossiping and self justification.

Visiting is the one frivolous excuse which many church members hide behind as their reason for being absent during the hour of worship at God's house. The visitor is not the only one deprived of going to church, but the visited has been kept away by the visitor and many times disappointed in being kept away from the mark that they had looked forward to as their goal. Then if the visited person or person's should become dilitory in their church duties from this great disappointment and finally go back to the world, who is held responsible before God? or what shall the visitor offer for an excuse for this deed?

Visiting in its bounds is a real necessity, but be temperate in all things. If some people were as temperate in visiting and gossiping as they are in church work, and especially some of the church members, a man would soon think he had no neighbors. For this one reason we should unanimously adopt this plan: first visit the church and next our neighbor, but first consider who is our neighbor; second, is the one we deem our neighbor desirous of our visitation at this time, and are we worthy of visiting or should we be visited?

Are our children worthy of making our neighbors' children their playmates or do they use such language as children should never hear. All these things should be considered for a child's influence among other children is greater than that of an older person.

We then turn from visiting to gossiping—what it does and where it comes from.

Gossiping may start from more than one cause.

First it may start from an idle joke. For example, when I was a small boy and was going to school a young fellow told an idle tale on me that should have happened in school. Some one else being present told it for the truth; the school ma'am heard it and I got a severe punishment for it while I was innocent but at the same time was defenseless.

You may take this for a foolish illustration, but such are the fruits of gossip.

People will tell idle tales on their neighbor or preacher or anyone else and the accused party or parties be just as innocent and defenseless as a lamb. Though these tales get into circulation and cause the accused party or parties to suffer heart aches and sometimes bloodshed which may result in a broken up home, a suffering widow, mother or child. And where does it all come from? The answer to this; in the heart of the individual which causes all strife, envy, murder, war and many other grievous things.

A king in Africa once asked one of his advisors to show him the city that first made war on its neighbor and he would conquer it at once. His advisor said, "I can show you the city, king, but you can't take it." The king said with my powerful army I can take any city; show it to me. What city was it and I will take it." His advisor said, "I will show you the city, but you will never take it, and the only one that can ever conquer it is the one that owns it. The city that first made war on its neighbor and is still making war on his neighbor and always will be is the heart of the individual."

This is the fruit of gossip. It was cause of the present war and was the cause of the Spanish and American war, and was the cause of the Franco-Prussian war and was the cause of the Civil war and in fact to some extent the cause of all wars.

Wars are not the only results of gossips, but a woman or man, who ever the gossiper may be, may be the cause of some family trouble. Besides, when gossiping you not only criticise the other fellow but you justify yourself before man and thereby judge the other man.

When we are taught through Divine inspiration to take heed when we think we stand lest we fall also that the strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and in another place these words: Therefore, thou art inexcusable, O, man, whosoever thou art that judgest for wherein thou judgest another thou condemnest thyself for thou that judgest doest the same things. But we are sure that the judgment of God is according to truth against them which commit such things.—Romans 2-1:2.

We see by this that it behooves us to look first to ourselves.

If we sow in the flesh we shall reap the same. For proof I will offer this as the fruit of sowing gossiping seed.

A woman who was a self-esteemed church goer remarked publicly that she would not sit in the choir with a certain young girl who had none of the best repute or had fallen. Later she leads the way for a young man to her daughter as her daughter's ideal. This young man was the fellow that lead the other young girl astray. The mother had tried to justify herself and judge the first girl. Is her reward that of honor or shame?

So, my dear people, first visit your church, not some particular denomination but some christian church and let your conversation with whoever you meet be against the devil and in favor of the gospel of Jesus Christ the Savior who refused to condemn the woman that was being accused by many men.

As this is my first letter it is open for either your approval or criticism.

In the mean time, I beg to remain, yours for eternal aid and happiness,

I. G. MILLER.

Moving Pictures.

The American people are a bit excitable. The masses are interested in anything new. They are easily stampeded by fads. There is an itch for something new. An eager desire for pleasure. They want to be gratified if not satisfied. If some new fad presents itself they are after it, like children after a butterfly in springtime. One of the modern fads is the "movies."

This fad is sweeping the country. It is draining it of millions of money. But this is not all. Nor the least by any means. In many places it is being used as one of the best means of breaking down the sanctity of the Sabbath. Even some professing Christians prefer these to the services of the church. Or perchance they may attend services in the morning and the movies at night. In Seattle, a little while ago, an earnest and very prominent Christian worker of our country, states that he learned there were on a Sabbath day, between 25,000 and 30,000 people attending the moving picture shows. He was informed that hundred's stood for a long time in a heavy rain before every place of amusement, waiting 'till there was room for them inside. Were the churches full? Hardly! Most of them not half full. Oh, you say that is the fault of the preacher. He should entertain the audience. It is not the fault of the preacher. He is not in the pulpit as a montebank, or a clown to make the people laugh, but he is there as the mouth piece of God, to warn the people of their danger, to exort them to a better life; to instruct them in things concerning the future life.

Such is the state of society, and of the human heart that the average one does not care for this. They put away all thoughts of God from them; they live for self and self-gratification and care not for the admonitions of the gospel.

Nor is Seattle alone in this. The same conditions exist in all the larger cities; and it is equally bad in the smaller places.

It is a new invention for amusing the people, but a very subtle and dangerous one. It is one of the most dangerous that has ever been foisted on the public. It appeals to children and youth and often they are the most frequent and regular attendants. In fact they compose the majority of those who attend.

The reading of novels, loose stories, stories of crime, hair breadth escapes and world adventures of the frontier is one of the worst things the young can indulge in. A hundred times worse is moving pictures.

You will see displayed on the canvass all forms of wickedness and crimes are presented in a popular and fascinating manner, and often various crimes are suggested to the young by this form of amusement. Harmful! No pen can adequately depict the harm which is being done and the evil seed which is sown into immature minds.

It is a craze that is sweeping the land like a besom of desruction and has already captured millions and which in its effects deadens the mind to everything else.

Stopping in a little city some time ago for a few nights, I watched the crowds going into two "Movie Halls." I have seen them stand on the street for a good while waiting to get a chance to get in, for the first rush filled the hall to overflowing, men, women and children, dreadfully anxious to get in. What was the attraction inside, that would lead so many to stand half an hour or more in the rain. Just moving pictures. But on that canvass were thrown beautiful pictures, wonderfully executed, but vilely suggestive some of them, and develish in their impressions. The home was carricatured. The marriage life was slurred and gross martal infidelity was portrayed in fascinating form, and a premium apparently put upon the villainy of the slick, oily tongued scoundrel that could break up a home and separate man and wife. And society has a plenty of such hell-hounds moving in its circles. Sniviling and smirking and foollsh, weak and vain women are allowing themselves to be caught in the devil's trap. While there were some fine pictures and some good things, the whole show was so mixed with evil and vile things that suggested wrong, and even portraying the villainy that it was productive of vastly more evil than good.

I admit that the movies may be, and often are used for good and may be made a factor for instruction. Properly used they may be made to do good, doubtless they are many times so used. But the movies of every night occurrence are not noted for their moral or religious effects, nor are they even concerned for this. It is the nickle they are after and right well are they succeeding.

Demons are dancing about the modern "movies" as displayed in our towns and cities, but angels weep as they see so many of the children and youth of the land started in a downward direction. "They are lovers of pleasure, more than lovers of God."

THE AVIATOR AN EARLY BIRD

To Bed At Dusk and to Fields At Dawn—Americans in an Aviation Camp.

Headquarters Of An Aviation Group—Behind the French Front., June 9.—The aviator is an early bird and here, where the nightingale abounds, it is a close race between them to bed at dusk and to fields at dawn.

The nightingales were rioting in song this morning when the pilots of the Frenco-American Flying Corps were making their way to the aviation camp and daylight had just peeped over the horizon when Captain H—, commander of the group, ordered; "Bring out the machines!"

There was nothing new in this to the seven American pilots who have been flying in different groups on different parts of the front for upwards of a year. All of them had been out with the nightingale a few hundred mornings, but it announced their first expedition together as a separate unit of the French aviation corps over German territory.

Long-planned machines resembling small sheds, and short-winged machines which in comparison dwindled to the proportions of devil flies, rolled on the field and were pushed on the run to their places until twenty-eight were lined up.

Captain H—— gazed at the low-lying clouds—excellent mask for a flotilla crossing the enemy's lines—and ordered: "Tell the Americans to be ready." The Americans, grouped behind their swift chasers, listened to final instructions from Captain T——, who commands the Frenco-American flotilla and is proud of it. The din was then too great for verbal orders to be heard, and a soldier with a white signal flag ran into the field while pilots and machine runners leaped to their seats. The flag was raised while the motors blazed like a swarm of gigantic bumble bees. The flag dropped and Captain T——'s big biplane rose to lead the column. The flag was raised and dropped at intervals of about thirty seconds, and each time a pair of the bigger machines followed until nineteen of them were filing toward the German lines.

The big machines were gone but the noise increased as the propellers of the smaller but more powerful and swifter biplanes were set in motion.

It was time for the Americans—specialists in speed. The first big plane was approaching the clouds when, with a bound, Captain T—— rose; then followed Lieutenant Delaage of the French Corps; Lieut. William Thaw, Pittsburgh; Sergeant Elliott Cowdin, and Corporal Victor Chapmon, New York; Sergeant Normen Prince, Prides Crossing, Mass.; Corporal Kiffen, Atlanta, Ga.; Corporal J. M. McConnell, N. C. and Sergeant Hall, Galveston, Tex.

These little biplanes with powerful motors are the fruits of the evolution of Aviation during the war—built to match the best German machines in speed, carrying only the pilot, a machine gun and the minimum requirement in fuel. Instead of rising gradually like their predecessors, they bound upward with an ascensional power heretofore unattained. They are so dangerous in a fight that the pilot has to go into the adversary's territory to hunt an engagement. That was what the Americans, especially chosen for these machines, were to do.

There were nine of these, together with nineteen of the big bombarding biplanes, in sight together for an instant; then the head of the line disappeared in the clouds. The "hunters," as the speedy machines are called, overhauled the last of the bigger fliers and went out of sight ahead of them, while Thaw's "Iris" and Captain T—'s "Fram," the two pet dogs of the camp, were still barking after them.

Even soldiers habituated to this spectacle for nearly two years never tire of it. They watch the last machine until it is out of sight, then turn back without comment to the sheds to await the return. The silence and solemnity of the camp after the bustle of the departure was depressing. The 70 soldiers of the camp knew that some of those brave boys might be missing when the roll was called again.

Time passes with marvelous rapidity on fighting expeditions, aviators say, but the two hours maximum wait in camp to see if they all get back, is always long. Watches are out after ninety minutes and eyes are turned in the direction taken by the fliers. At the ninety-ninth minute, perhaps, a speck appears high above the horizon.

"There they come," is the word that passes around the camp and everyone is on the field. "It's a chaser," says one. Number two is a bom-barder," says another. In a few minutes twenty-seven specks are counted; then there is another wait and voices are hushed. A "hunter" circles around the camp, dives downward at a dizzy pace, skims along the field without slowing up, until breaking against the wind it comes to a thrilling stop.

The faster machines, last away, are first back, fuel supply with them is sometimes a close fit and not a second is to be lost. Seven chasers land at the same breakneck pace, and with the same precision.

The eighth seems to flutter as it approaches, tips and dives fitfully. Field glasses are levelled at him. "He's had his tail piece carried away," cries one. "It's Thaw," says another, "and there's something wrong with his propeller." Alternately rearing, diving, and sliding on its wing, the machine comes down convulsively like a wounded bird.

"He's going to break a bit of wood!" exclaimed a French soldier, expressing in characteristic aviation language the prospect of a smash. The machine rears again, after a dive which took it dangerously close to earth; veers around abruptly against the wind, bumps along the ground a hundred yards and stops. "Thaw's one of the few pilots who could bring home a busted machine like that," said a soldier.

"But where's Chapman?" All the big biplanes are now in and pilots and soldiers are all searching the sky anxiously. Then a cry comes from the field. A speck has just emerged from the clouds. Chapman, driven out of his course by the shelling in which Thaw's propeller was damaged, had finally found his way, and lands now with the last drop of gasoline in his reservoir.

"The disgusting thing about it," said Thaw, while the mechanics were taking an inventory of the damage, "was that the fellow over there across the line wouldn't come out to fight.

GOVERNOR HUGHES FOR PRESIDENT

The nomination of Charles E. Hughes as the Republican candidate for the Presidency represents the subordination of preference to prudence, of ambition to expediency and of sentiment to reason. It is no disparagement of Justice Hughes' high character or of his distinguished abilities to say that he was not the first choice of a majority of those through whose votes his selection was effected. That is not surprising. Under all the circumstances, how could it have been otherwise? The former Governor of New York had no wide acquaintance among public men. Most of them know him only by reputation, and even the reputation he had made, great as it was, had its peculiar limitations. It was singularly narrow in its scope and restricted in its significance. Justice Hughes' public career had been one of exceptional, of extraordinary, of disconcerting brevity.

Ten years ago beyond the professional circle to which he belonged, and of which he was an esteemed member, he was practically unknown. It was not until he had so ably improved the opportunity which the investigation of the life insurance business afforded that he emerged into the public vision and won a widespread recognition as a man of integrity, capacity and force. So deeply favorable was the impression created by the manner in which he discharged his difficult and responsible duties upon that occasion that his future career was assured. In him the leaders of his party saw a coming man and after he had served a term as Governor of the State of New York his record was such that he could not be denied another. Then he was translated from the sphere of politics by his elevation to the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States, and the rest is silence.

The judicial position which he now occupied totally removed him from association with the world of politics or of affairs, and precluded the extensive and promiscuous acquaintance upon which political and personal popularity is so largely dependent. Under these conditions it was not possible that his following should have been of the emotional and enthusiastic kind. Those who saw in him the best man to whom, all things considered, the leadership of the Republican Party could be intrusted, those who preceived in him the strongest candidate for the Presidency it could name, did so rather with the head than with the heart.

Another factor which told heavily against him and which operated to dampen the spirit of his support, was the attitude of absolute disinterestedness which he felt it incumbent upon him to maintain. There is no justice, no merit, no pertinence whatever in the adverse criticism to which, on this account, he has been subjected. That was almost exclusively the criticism of an unscrupulous partisanship, of an alarmed and offended rivalry. Ever since his name was first mentioned as that of a man who might wisely be chosen to lead the Republican Party to next November's victory Justice Hughes' conduct has been wholly irreproachable. He has been blamed for failing to express his opinions on the issues of the day. He has been censured, especially by those who feared his popularity, for refusing to show the country precisely where he stood with regard to those questions which are occupying the public mind, the questions of preparedness, of Americanism, of an undivided and unshared allegiance. It has been said that he was under some kind of moral or political obligation to take the country into his confidence on these and germane points.

This is untrue. He could not have uttered a word in these connections without departing from the course he had marked out for his pursuance, or without derogating from the dignity of the exalted position which he occupies. He had let it be known that he was not a candidate for the nomination, that he would not raise a finger to obtain it, that he was well content to remain where he is, and his perfect sincerity in all this has been abundantly proved by his behavior, which in every respect and at all times has been quite impeccable. Never in the history of the country has such an impressive instance been presented of the office seeking the man.

And what is the explanation of this phenomenon? How has it come about that a man without a personal following, and whose name is not one to conjure with, has received the high honor which has been bestowed on Justice Hughes and has been named the standard bearer of the great party upon whose restoration to power the future prosperity and well-being of the country, as we believe, are contingent? It is because the people are satisfied that Hughes is a man whom they can safely trust; because they have unlimited confidence in his integrity, in his good sense, in his administrative powers, in his patriotic devotion; because they are very sure that he will make an efficient, broad-minded, impartial executive and that he will discharge the duties of the Presidential office with a single eye to the fulfilment of his official pledges and to the conservation and promotion of the honor and welfare of the Nation.

Such were the considerations which created the popular demand for Hughes' nomination, to which the action of the Chicago convention was a response. Such are the considerations which will attract to the Hughe's candidacy so strong a support as to insure a Republican triumph on the day when the will of the Nation is expressed.

BUT ONE PLACE FOR PROGRESSIVES TO GO

The Progressives find themselves in a state of suspended animation as a result of Colonel Roosevelt's refusal to run again on a third ticket. Going to Chicago with hopes raised high that they might outguess or outbluff the Republicans and force Republican indorsements of their own candidate, they have returned disappointed, sore, and some of them with blood in their eye and a knife up their sleeve. But Mr. William Allen White says in his article in today's News:

At the lodge of sorrow at the University Club of Chicago conference there was no word of bitterness for Roosevelt. The men about the table felt that he had been placed in a crucifying position. No lack of loyalty and no feeling of rancor seem to exist on either side. Every man in the group is at this moment planning an early pilgrimage to Oyster Bay. And the Colonel's judgment will weigh heavily in the council of the National Committee when it meets.

As the defeat of the Progressives at Chicago was clearly foreseen by all who looked over the situation unbiased by the enthusiasm for a leader that blinded the eyes of that devoted crowd, so one now can stand outside the circle and forecast, with little fear that after events will confound the prediction, precisely what Mr. Roosevelt will advise and what all but a handful of Progressives will proceed to do. The bulk of them are Republicans. They will, of course, wind up enthusiastic supporters of Mr. Hughes.

Take this State as an illustration of what has happened to the Progressives, even with Colonel Roosevelt in the field as an avowed believer in maintaining a separate organization. In 1912 they cast 57,789 votes for Roosevelt for President as against 54,956 Republican votes for Taft. The registration in Baltimore last fall showed how the party had disintegrated here. The total Progressive registration in this city was but 1169. In other words, the party had practically disappeared. It is composed of a few high-minded men who at the same time are eminently practical in the use of the ballot and who do not wish to fire blank cartridges.

While the Progressive organization has been far more powerful in Pennsylvania, Kansas, Michigan, California and a few other States than in Maryland, it is everywhere a Roosevelt party. When its convention met in Chicago the general agreement was that the delegates there actually were the party just as Mr. Bonaparte, Mr. Gaither, Mr. Williams and a handful of other gentlemen constitute the Party of Maryland. It is inconceivable in the circumstances that the Progressives will undertake seriously to enter the coming campaign. They have begun everywhere to act with the old parties, and it would have been difficult, at best, to wean them away again. Only one thing could have enabled them to set up house again for themselves. That was a third ticket headed by Roosevelt and fully backed by Perkins and those who have acted with him in not counting the cost of financing campaigns.

Not one critical observer in a hundred of the proceedings at Chicago ever had doubt of what the outcome there was going to be, or of what Colonel Roosevelt would do when the contest was over. There is even less doubt now of what the great bulk of Colonel Roosevelt's followers will do. Before long he will be found in the thick of the fight for Hughes and his devoted adherents will be back of him.—Baltimore News.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Tuesday morning this community was shocked to learn of the death of Miss Cora Weimer, which took place about 5 o'clock, at her home on G street. Miss Weimer was in her usual health Saturday, when she went to Oakland to attend to her duties as librarian of the public library of that city. Sunday she was not feeling as well as usual, but was able to be about. Monday a physician was called in to see her, but she was not considered in any danger. Monday night she retired as usual but about 5 o'clock the next morning the sisters were awakened by her heavy breathing. They immediately called their brother, but failed to arouse Miss Cora. In a few minutes she had passed into the beyond. She is survived by her sisters, Misses Lillie and Josie and brothers, Arthur and Charles. The deceased was 40 years of age. She was respected by everybody who knew her. Her life was most useful. As a public teacher she was unexcelled. The community was better because she lived in it. In her home life, in the church, as well as in social life, she was highly esteemed. To know her was a pleasure. She was a Christian; quietly she moved through life; we will miss her. Heaven is richer by her death. The loved ones have the warmest sympathy of the public.

"White Oaks," the home of Mrs. John G. McClain, has been greatly improved, and is now one of the attractive places of the Park.

The Hipsley Brothers are painting the Stone cottage and making it look inviting and cheerful.

Boating on the lake and lawn tennis are the outdoor sports enjoyed just now. The bowling alley will be opened in a short time.

A progam is being prepared for A Garrett County Day the first part of September. A rally of the old timers. A great picnic day for everybody.

W. L. Rugg, who is advertising the Moody Bible Conference in Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania, was a week-end visitor at the Park, getting rates for boarding during the conference.

Mr. Edward Johns, a banker of Bridgeport, Ohio, and one of the gentlemen who purchased a large block of the stock of the Mountain Lake Park Association, was a week end visitor here. He was looking over the property and program of the season, as well as investigating the needs of the future. Mr. Johns is a wide awake gentleman, and a good business man. He returned home Sunday night delighted with what he saw and the outlook for a good season.

The cold wet weather of the past week kept a number of people away from the Park. Notwithstanding the weather a number of cottages were opened, and the boarding houses secured a number of guests. The Mountain Lake Hotel had several automobile parties Sunday.

Superintendent Rudisill and Mr. Albert White went to Grafton Saturday and met the joint committee of the I. O. O. F. and went over the details of the reunion to be held at the Park either July 22 or 29. It will be a gathering of the Odd Fellows of Maryland, District of Columbia and West Virginia. There will be special trains, very low rate of fare, bands, addresses, music, and possibly the conferring of one of the higher degrees of the order. Mr White was elected secretary of the reunion committee.

The Pentecostal Encampment opened Friday evening. The attendance is increasing daily. The singing is fine. The attendance Sabbath night was quite large. They are an enthusiastic lot of people. The meeting will continue to the 25th, inclusive.

Browning's new grocery store is open for business. C. F. Dawson is in charge. The ice cream parlor will be ready for business in a few days.

Last Saturday letters were received at the Association office from persons living in Ohio, Michigan, Alabama, North Carolina, Kentucky and Pennsylvania enquiring about board for August. This is an indication that the Park is being liberally advertised.

The season's announcement will be ready for distribution the first of next week. Copies may be had at Harned's drug store and at the Association Office and Kesner's store at the Park.

The Camp meeting will open Friday evening, June 30. Meetings will be held, called Get-You-Acquainted meetings, on the veraneas of the Deacon ess Home, Hotel Chautaqua, Miss Harris home, and other points.

Miss Hicks is here putting the Deaconess Home in shape for guests. Quite a number of deaconess will be here this summer.

J. L. Echard is making a lawn tennis court on the grounds of Mr. Brent Maxwell.

Painters are busy on a number of cottages. The visitors this summer will be impressed with the spirit of improvement exhibited by the property owners.

Rev. Barnhouse, pastor of the U. B. church, is attending the district Conference at Weston, W. Va. He expects to be absent about one week.

Rev. Hudson is assisting Rev. Jones in a meeting in the Baptist church of Loch Lynn. Meeting every night. Rev. Hudson met with a warm reception from his former parishoners.

The interior of the Allegany House has been very much improved. The partition between the hall and the office has been removed, making a large and cozy office. Many rooms have been papered and made very home like and comfortable. The house under Mrs. Martin's management has been very popular and quite successful.

Once more our streets look like we were living within the bounds of civilization. A few more days of sunshine and everything will be in good order. Jack McGuffin has done good work with the road machine.

The services next Sunday, in the tabernacle, will be full of interest.

Miss Nellie Callis, who is living in Washington, D. C., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Callis.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Prevost, who spent the winter at West Union, W. Va., have returned to the Park and opened their cottage. Their daughter, Mrs. Lyle Schill, is delighted over the arrival of a son at their home. Mr. Schill is consulting catalogues of the Colleges to see where best send the young man to school. Congratulations.

P. T. Garthright, who spent the winter and spring at Richmond, Va., has returned to the Park.

Mrs. Mary Hamill, who has been quite ill, was able to be out on the front porch Tuesday afternoon.

Children's Day Service in the Mountain Lake Park Methodist Church next Sunday at 11 a. m. Great program; good singing. Sunday school at 10. Everybody invited. It will be a royal good time; do not miss it, spend the day in the Park. Preaching at night.

The lunch stand is being prepared for a big opening in a few days. Manager Malett and family are expected today. Then look out for a great display of souvenirs and good things for lunch and refreshment.

Juniors to Graduate.

Next Sunday evening at St. Paul's M. E. church the Junior class of the Epworth League will graduate into the Senior class when appropriate exercises befitting the occasion will be carried out. Special instrumental and vocal music will be rendered by the church orchestra and choir. The graduates are as follows, having been instructed for the past several years by Miss Grace Loar, who has been extremely interested in their advancement: Winifred R. Weimer, Mary Drake Naylor, A. Louise Harned, S. Reva Davis, Elizabeth P. Mitchell, Mildred L. Dixon Fannie L. Newman, Winona Jones, Ellen E. Smouse, Ralph R. Davis, Robert H. Porter, M. Carleton Hinebaugh, S. Townshend Naylor, Paul J. Ashby.

Mr. William Morris, of Fairmont, W Va., spent part of this week in Oakland.

Miss Mary Jamison, of Fairmont, W. Va., spent part of this week in Oakland, the guest of relatives.

An automobile, bearing a California state license tag, passed through Oakland Sunday bound eastward.

Miss Gladys Hamill, of Kitzmiller, is here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Hamill at their home on Liberty street.

Mr. L. C. Hamill, of Kitzmiller, spent Monday and part of Tuesday in Oakland, the guest of his brother, Mr. M. R. Hamill.

Mr. George W. Moon, one of the sterling citizens of District No. 1, visited Oakland on business Tuesday when he called at this office.

Mr. John Ault, who spent two weeks or more at Pittsburgh and Fairmont, where he visited his daughters, arrived home on Sunday last.

Mr. J. Brooke Boyle, of Cumberland, district manager of the Bell Telephone Company, spent Monday in Oakland on business for his company.

Mr. Herbert Shaffer, who has been attending the West Virginia University at Morgantown, arrived home last Thursday to spend the summer vacation.

Messrs. Sames H. and Daniel Wilson, both of near Kitzmiller, were in Oakland yesterday morning, having motored to town in company with Mr. Scott Harvey.

Mr. W. A. Smith, of Hoyes, spent Saturday in Oakland and at Deer Park, going to the latter place on business connected with the Garrett County Telephone Company, of which he is the president.

Mr. Roberdeau Annan, of Frostburg, and Mr. Tasker G. Lowndes, of Mount Savage, spent a few hours Saturday afternoon in Oakland.

Mr. O. S. Ridder, of near Red House, was taken to a hospital in Meyersdale, Pa., last Saturday to receive treatment for a cancerous affection of his face.

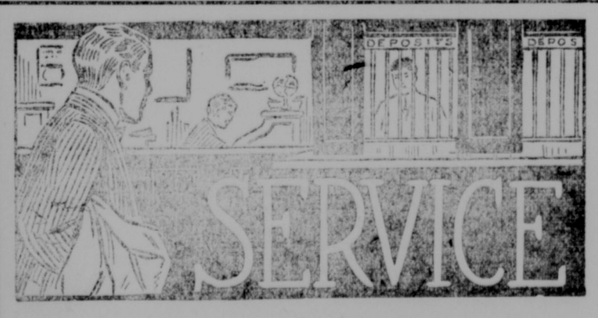
Mrs. Leah F. Sincell, who spent the winter with her children in Allegany county and at Keyser, W. Va., returned to Oakland last Wednesday night for the summer.

Mr. A. C. Browning, of Turtle Creek, Pa., is spending the present week with Garrett county relatives, expecting to return to his home next Saturday where he is a valued employe of the Westinghouse interests.

Mr. Neil Fraley, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Fraley, who is pursuing a law course in the University of Maryland, Baltimore, came to his home here on Saturday night and after spending Sunday with his parents returned to Baltimore.

Dr. R. A. Ravenscroft and son Mr. Randall Ravenscroft, left Oakland Tuesday afternoon for Baltimore, arriving there about midnight and left immediately on the return home in a new Super-Six Hudson roadster over the National road for home, arriving there yesterday morning in time for a late breakfast.

Noting the removal of Rev. Dr. W. W. Davis, secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, from his city home to Roland Park for the summer, the Towson Union-News remarks that he "will not by next fall have resided in the county long enough to vote for Congressman Talbott."



Our Distinct Aim

is to make and keep this Bank active, progressive and, in the fullest and best sense, an up-to-date institution. Its present gratifying condition may easily be traced to the satisfactory service and courteous treatment extended to all depositors.

You are invited to do your banking business here.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Shoch, of Crellin, accompanied by their sons and daughters, left Oakland yesterday morning in their automobile, bound for Maunch Chunch, Pa., in response to a telegram announcing the death of Mr. Shoch's brother.

Peter R. Smith, of Kingwood, who until a few years ago, wrote the weather forecasts for this paper and was forced to retire on account of advancing years, died at his home in Kingwood last Friday morning at the age of ninety years.

Miss Rebecca Thayer returned home Monday night from Poukeepsie, N. Y., where she has been for the past three or four years as instructor in English in Vassar College, the leading female institution of learning in the country. Miss Thayer will remain in Oakland during the summer months with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. A. Thayer.

Mr. J. B. Emory, of Bittinger, as executor of the estate of his father, the late George B. Emory, sold at public auction in front of the First National Bank in Oakland last Thursday afternoon, a Mitchell automobile belonging to the estate, Mr. James Treacy becoming the purchaser, paying $370 for it. The car is a seven passenger, 1914 model and a great bargain.

Messrs. W. S. and Charles Layman, of District No. 9, sons of the late Thomas H. Layman, were in Oakland on Monday where they transacted some business matters in connection with the estate of their recently deceased father. The Messers. Layman made the trip to and from Oakland over the new state road and were very much impressed with the beauties and productiveness of the country through which they traveled.

Mr. James Myers, until a few years ago a resident of Garrett county, when he removed to Kingwood, met with an accident at that place one day last week, when he fell from a wagon and very seriously injured. Mr. Myers is one of the few remaining old soldiers of Garrett county who fought under the Stars and Stripes and until his recent mishap was active in every day life.

Among the students who have returned to their respective homes from different schools for the summer vacation are Mr. D. Earle Smith, of Hoyes, from Maryland University, Baltimore; Morris Sincell, from Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg; Playford Naylor, from Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio; Joe McComas, from St. John's College, Annapolis, Md.; Harold Harned, from Western Maryland College, Westminister, Md.; and a number of others.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Weston, Miss Vincent and Miss DeBerry, all of Baltimore, were guests of former Senator and Mrs. R. A. Ravenscroft at Accident over Sunday, spending Monday in Oakland. The party motored from Baltimore to Oakland and pronounced the trip most enjoyable. Mr. Weston is connected with the navy department of the Customs Service in Baltimore and has been a close friend of Senator Ravenscroft for a number of years.

Prof. U. G. Palmer, of Verona, Pa., accompanied by his youngest son Teddy, arrived in Oakland last Friday afternoon where they spent several days with friends. Mr. Palmer will be remembered as the County Superintendent of Education who starte the educational interests of Garrett county on an upward scale and who left here a number of years ago to become the supervising principal of the Verona public schools, where he has been more than successful in his work.

A large delegation of those interested in the building of the proposed new highway from Oakland west to join the good roads now being built by the citizens of Preston county, West Va., went to Cumberland by automobile Tuesday morning to confer with the State Roads Commission relative to the location of the road. The delegation is favorably inclined to the route by way of Crellin. Among those going were Messrs. Edward E. Sollars, Henry K. Friend, Charles Reams, L. H. Horton, Frank Ashby, Joseph T. Glotfelty, Gilmor S. Hamill, Alexander C. Mason and a number of others.

Rev. C. W. Hudson held services at the Deer Park Baptist church last Sunday morning and was greeted by a large congregation. He was formerly in charge at Deer Park, as well as Loch Lynn and Ferndale, and moved to Alabama on account of poor health. In the far South, his family became ill, and Mr. Hudson is now back in Virginia, near his old home town. He was formerly a traveling salesman for a Baltimore firm, became converted, took a course at the Baptist Seminary near Louisville, Kentucky, was ordained and has been preaching ever since. While residing in Garrett county he made a great many friends. He is a good speaker and is thoroughly in earnest.

Judge and Mrs. Henry G. Sanders, of near Oakland, spent last Thursday as the guest of Garrett county's centenarian, Mr. Abraham Wilson, at Wilson's store, near Altamont. While he is yet confined to his chair as a result of the stroke of paralysis which he suffered about eight months ago, he is at the same time clear as to mind and discusses with his old-time vigor questions of everyday importance and is delighted to have his friends call upon him. His niece, Mrs. Feely, who has been his housekeeper for a number of years, is now planning for the proper celebration of her uncle's hundredth anniversary which falls upon July 11th next, at which quite a large number of the friends and relatives of the Wilson family are expected to be present.

Notice To Oakland Boys.

There will be a meeting of all boys between the ages of twelve and sixteen, who desire to become Boy Scouts, at the home of Rev. O. A. Bremer, Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

The purpose is the organization of a troop of Boy Scouts of America. Any boy between the required ages may come and be a scout, but he must have the written consent of either father or mother.

The purposes of the organization are:

1 The development of manhood.
(a) Absolute honesty in all things.
(b) The implanting of high ideals.
(c) Pure and clean speech.
II Physical development.
(a) A love for clean things.
(b) Out door life.—Woodcraft.
(c) Atheletic fetes.

This movement is being started with thehope that it will be a passtime and help to the boys in and about Oakland, teaching and encouraging the noblest traits of manhood, and the co-operation of all parents is most earnestly desired.

A Junior organization will be effected soon with boys between the ages of ten and twelve years.

Notice To Tax-Payers

This is to notify the Taxpayers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1916 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract of Section 45 Chapter 566, Acts of 1888, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills:

"This is to notify all taxpayers that no discount will be allowed for the prompt payment of State taxes levied for the year 1916.

Chapter 650 of the Acts of 1916, provides that "the State taxes are due and payable on the first day of July succeeding the levy, and if not paid on or before September first, interest shall be charged from said first day of September. Said State taxes shall be in arrear on and after the first day of January succeeding the date of the levy, and it shall be the duty of Collectors, Treasurers and other officers who may be charged with the collection of the same immediately thereafter to proceed to collect said taxes in accordance with the provisions of law for the collection of delinquent taxes. It shall also be the duty of the Collectors or County Treasurer or other officers collecting said taxes to make monthly returns and remittances to the Comptroller of the amounts thereof collected from time to time."

Summer Spray Important In Securing Clean Fruit.

C. E. TEMPLE,
Maryland Agricultural College.

When there is an over-production of peaches, the men who take good care of their orchards usually make some money in spite of the low prices, for in such seasons only the best peaches can be marketed; on the other hand, when there is less than a normal crop of peaches, the men who care well for their trees reap a rich harvest, for they produce, not only more perfect fruit, but also more of it than those who neglect the care of their trees. In the year 1915, there was an over-production of peaches in almost all peach-growing sections of the country and many peach growers lost money on their crop, but there is sufficient evidence now at hand to show that the present year is going to produce a light crop; at least in some sections of Maryland. This, coupled with the fact that the past season was especially favorable to the development of Brown Rot and Scab, it would seem that the present season will be an opportune time to do effective, profitable spraying.

It is with considerable satisfaction that we find practically all growers giving their peach trees the dormant spraying for scale and leaf curl; however, it is to be regretted that we find so few who realize the value or who have demonstrated the effectiveness of the self-boiled lime sulphur summer spraying for brown rot and scab. It is for those, then, who are not familiar with the summer treatment that this article is prepared.

At least three applications of self-boiled lime sulphur 8-8-50 should be given. One pound of powdered arsenate of lead or two pounds of the paste should be dissolved in water and added to the above for the first spraying when the shucks are splitting off, and for the second spraying which should be three weeks later. When only three spraying are given, the third should be made about a month before the fruit ripens. Wherever brown rot or scab is severe, other sprayings may be necessary to control the disease.

But the chemicals used are not expensive. For the three sprayings as outlined here, the chemicals will cost between $2.00 and $3.00 per hundred trees.

DAMAGE FROM PLANT LICE SHOULD BE PREVENTED.

E. N. CORY,
Maryland Agricultural College.

Plant lice (aphids) attack every growing crop, but the insects are so small and their attacks so insidious that they are usually overlooked until most of the damage is done. Curling of leaves and the wilting of terminal leaves and shoots is generally indicative of plant lice infestations.

Tobacco extracts must be counted upon as the best summer contract sprays for general use on sucking insects, such as orchard and truck crop plant lice, whose control offers one of the greatest problems with which the growers have to contend.

There are three orchard plant lice that are of major importance to Maryland; namely, the green aphis, which usually infest new growth rather late in the season; the rosy apple aphis, so called because of its reddish hue, which infest fruit buds, and the oat aphis, which is usually found around the swelling buds and which appears before either of the others. The rapidity with which these pests multiply necessitates prompt measures for their suppression.

Orchards that are sprayed extremely late in the spring are usually kept practically free of the oat and rosy aphis by this dormant spray, because there are usually sufficient warm days in the spring to hatch aphis eggs before it is too late to spray. Spraying in the spring as late as practical is recommended. If late lime sulphur applications are not practical, the grower should use a separate spray of "Black Leaf 40," at the rate of three-quarters of a pint to 100 gallons of water, to which has been added three-fifths of a pound of soap. This mixture will cost about $1.15 per 100 gallons. This should be applied when the aphids have clustered on the expanded buds. If later applications are necessary, due to the later hatching of eggs of the rosy and green aphids, the "Black Leaf 40" may be combined with the codling moth spray, but soap should be omitted in lime sulphur combinations as it forms an insoluble soap that will clog the nozzles.

IMPROVING MECHANICAL CONDITION OF SOIL.

Green manure crops improve the mechanical condition of soils by increasing the content of organic matter or humus. They give land a good texture and put it in good heart or as farmers often say, make the soil mellow, loose, friable, porous and easy to work, and will prevent its leaching, forming clods and becoming lumpy. The organic matter equalizes the water holding capacity of soils.

The use of deep rooted crops will open up the subsoil to the action of air, water and carbonic acid. Increasing the amount of vegetable matter or humus in soils will prevent the washing or gullying of land.

The use of cover crops will also prevent much loss and injury from washing and from wind.

They are also helpful in smothering out and clearing land of weeds.

IMPORTANCE OF SEED SELECTION IS URGED

Boys' Corn Club Members Are Advised To Use Great Care In Securing Seed For Their Acres.

In letters recently issued to the several hundred corn club members in the State, the county demonstration agents and club leaders are including some valuable suggestions regarding the selection of seed corn as furnished by Prof. Nickolas Schmitz, of the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station. In regard to securing suitable seed corn, Prof. Schmitz says:

"In growing a profitable corn crop, it is a mistake to go far from home for seed, particularly if a heavy yield the first year is desired. Seed brought in from a long distance and grown under diffierent conditions from those in your neighborhood, will not, as a rule, yield as well the first year as good seed of a good variety grown nearby.

Suitable Varieties.

"Usually, the larger-growing and later-maturing varieties of corn will yield more than the earlier and smaller-growing sorts. Be careful, however, that the variety you select is not too late in maturing and that the cob is not too large and has not too high a percentage of moisture, because a late-maturing, large-cob variety may mean a lot of rotten corn for you, and hence, a much lower yield. In sections where the growing season is long enough, such varieties as Boone County White, Collier's Excelsior, Giant Beauty, Reed's Yellow Dont, Johnson County, if grown near by, the long yellow variety grown in Frederick county and the white cap corn grown in Baltimore, Carroll, Cecil and other nearby counties, are as good as any for large yields. These varieties require from 125 to 135 days to mature.

Grading Important.

"Your seed corn should have a high germination, that is, you want as many kernels as possible to be live kernels. You can only make sure of this by testing your seed corn in the manner which we will describe later on. The best time to grade your seed corn for planting is when you are ready to shell it. Select only heavy, solid ears, with kernels of a uniform length, width and thickness. Ears with many kernels uneven in size should be thrown out. Before shelling the seed ears, remove all small and poorly developed kernels from them, as such kernels may produce only weak or barren stalks and lessen your chances of growing a profitable crop. When a corn planter is used in planting, it is always best to also take out the large and irregular kernels.

"Seed corn is best shelled by hand, letting the kernels drop into a coarsely meshed sieve, where off-sized kernels will be quickly seen. Remember that you expect a strong, and healthy corn plant to grow from every kernel you plant; you cannot afford to be careless in seeing that every poor kernel is thrown out."

WILT RESISTANT CABBAGE IS DEVELOPED.

C. E. TEMPLE,
Maryland Agricultural College.

For ten years, Mr. T. H. White, of the Maryland Experiment Station, has been devoting a part of his time to the production of a variety of cabbage that would be resistant to certain destructive diseases. He has developed a strain of the Flat Dutch type which is resistant to the yellows, this being one of the worst diseases of this cabbage plant.

The Extension Service of the Maryland Agricultural College in co-operation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, has arranged to conduct some demonstrations to show the value of this improved seed and to distribute it over the State. In order to secure a demonstration, the grower must agree to set the plants from the resistant seed in the same field with plants from commercial seed, and if possible, a field that had grown cabbage last year should be selected. He must also agree to keep a record of the yield of both the resistant and the commercial seed and to permit the public to visit the plots.

Applications for these demonstrations should be made to the County Agent or to the Director of the Extension Service, College Park, Md.

HOW OFTEN TO APPLY LIME.

The quantity of lime applied varies considerably in the various sections and at various times. This has probably been due in a large measure to the cost of lime and the relative distance it must be hauled. Recent observations seem to indicate that it is better to apply small quantities and make the applications at frequent intervals rather than to apply very large quantities at one time. The old practice of putting 100 bushels or more per acre is seldom practiced now. The kind of soil to which the application is made makes it necessary to vary the quantity. It is now pretty well recognized that on poor soils and on sandy soils, the quantity applied at one time should be small. The results of the test made by the Maryland Experiment Station indicates that from 10 to 20 bushels is ample for one application. The application should be made every four to eight years.

SOY BEANS FURNISH FEED AND FERTILITY

Well Adapted To Maryland Soils And Especially Valuable For Forage.

NICKOLAS SCHMITZ,
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Soy beans are well adapted to Maryland, and, like corn, thrive best on rich loam soils. It is, however, on soils too poor to grow corn profitably that soy beans will bring the greatest net profit. On such soils, when inoculated and fertilized with a little inexpensive fertilizer, they will produce nearly as much forage and seed as when grown on rich land. They will not grow as well as cow peas on poor sandy soils, but far better than cow peas on stiff clay soils. They will stand poor drainage better than either cow peas or corn.

Soy beans mature in from 70 to 150 days, making it possible to select varieties to fit any length of growing season found in Maryland.

Cultivation.

They require the same kind of preparation of seedbed as corn; and, as in the case of corn, it is better to thoroughly prepare the seedbed before planting than to depend upon cultivation for getting the soil in the proper condition.

For seed production, soy beans should be sown in rows 24 to 36 inches apart, far enough to cultivate, and 1 bushel of seed will plant 2 or 3 acres. The planting may be done with a corn planter or with a wheat drill regulated for planting 2 bushels of oats per acre and with the proper number of seed-holes closed to give the desired distance apart. The plants should be about 2 inches apart in the row.

For hay production, soy beans should be sown broadcast, 1½ bushels per acre; and for this purpose there is no implement better suited than the wheat drill. The seed should never be covered more than 1 inch, except in sandy soil, where they may be covered 2 inches.

Time to Plant.

Soy beans may be planted from any time after corn planting is finished until July 15th, depending upon variety, location and for the purpose planted. For hay and seed it is best to plant the forepart of June, to insure good curing weather for the hay and time for late varieties to mature seed before frost. For fall hog pasture, and for turning down as a green manure, they may be planted up until July 15th if an early variety is used.

Inoculation.

But few Maryland soils are naturally inoculated for soy beans, and, since they seldom thrive unless inoculated, it is necessary to inoculate whenever planting for the first time. To do this, 2 or 3 hundred pounds of soil taken from a field which has grown them should be broadcasted over each acre before seeding, and harrowed in immediately to prevent the bacteria from being killed by sunlight. Inoculation with artificial culture is not successful when the culture is applied and the beans allowed to dry before seeding. Much better results are secured when the beans are planted before the inoculating culture has dried.

PREVENT INJURY FROM FRUIT TREE BARK BEETLE.

T. B. SYMONS,
Maryland Agricultucal College Extension Service.

Orchardists should be careful to see that all dead wood is cut and removed from the orchard. Such dead wood, or diseased or sickly trees offer an opportunity for infestation by the Fruit Tree Bark Beetle or Shot Hole Borer. While the attack of this insect is usually confined to such wood, after becoming established in an orchard it may attack perfectly healthy trees.

The beetles bore into the bark and sap wood, where they eat vertical galleries or brood chambers, into which the females lay their eggs. The bored holes are about the size of a No. 6 shot.

The adult beetle is about one-tenth inch long, by a third as wide, and uniformly black in color. Trees or parts of trees seriously attacked by the pest are usually hopeless. Gum exudes from the holes of the beetles, and as the young develop into adults they eat their way out. Another injury by the insect is caused by their habit of attacking small twigs in early spring by burrowing into the base of bud.

Control.

The most effective means of control is cutting out all dead and diseased wood. Oftentimes a single limb of a good tree is attacked; in such case, the whole limb should be removed and burned. Slightly affected trees should be liberally fertilized.

The use of a thick lime-sulphur solution painted over the holes will serve to control the pest; also, kerosene emulsion soaked into the holes, will kill the insect, but usually the best treatment is the removal of attacked parts. Clean culture and keeping the trees in a healthy condition is the best preventative of this as well as many other similar pests.

At Last--A One-Adjustment Cream Separator

BEFORE you buy any cream separator, come in and look at the Primrose. But one adjustment is needed to keep it in perfect operating condition. This adjustment is a simple one for keeping the bowl at the correct height—an adjustment that you or your wife can safely make.

The adjustment is made from the outside of the separator by either raising or lowering the bearing containing the hardened steel point, upon which the spindle revolves. A slight turn with a screwdriver, perhaps once a year, does the work.

The Primrose is a well-constructed, close-skimming, durable cream separator, one it will pay you well to buy. When can you arrange to see it?

REPUBLICANS NOMINATE HUGHES; PROGRESSIVES TAKE ROOSEVELT

Supreme Court Justice Chosen on Third Ballot Fourth Day of Convention and Resigns Bench—The Colonel Named by Acclamation at Same Time—Harmony Efforts Are Fruitless Despite Eagerness to Patch Differences.

Chicago.—United States Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Hughes was nominated for president on the third ballot by the Republican convention. Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana was nominated for vice president.

The Hughes vote was 952½, and it required only 494 to nominate. The roll call was ended at 12:39 p. m., Saturday, and it showed only scattering opposition. Roosevelt had 18½ votes; Lodge had 7, DuPont 5, Weeks 3, La Follette 3.

Justice Hughes was told of his nomination by newspaper men while he sat at luncheon with his wife and two daughters at their home in Washington. He received the news without evident emotion, saying that he would later make a formal statement.

As soon as the Hughes victory was known to the large audience at the Coliseum the band started playing "My Country 'Tis of Thee," and the audience rose and cheered. Some of the delegates started a parade of state banners, but as a parade it wasn't a thrilling sight. Most of the people stood quietly on their chairs, after the first applause, and watched the show.

Roosevelt and Parker.

Colonel Roosevelt was unanimously nominated for the presidency by the Progressives in convention at the auditorium. John M. Parker of Louisiana was nominated for the vice presidency. There was real excitement at the Progressive meeting. The delegate action in naming the colonel brought out cheering and other evidence of enthusiasm that shook the building.

The Roosevelt nomination came just four minutes earlier than that of Hughes. What promised to be a record demonstration for the ex-president was curbed with difficulty by Chairman Raymond Robins, and the convention proceeded to finish its work.

As soon as the Republican convention opened at 11 a. m., Saturday, the members of the committee which had conferred with a Progressive party committee, regarding a candidate to agree on, announced through Senator Reed Smoot that the Republicans had decided on Hughes as the man. The reply of the Progressives regarding the Hughes suggestion was that they would submit it to their convention.

Shortly afterward came a communication from Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay suggesting Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts as second choice to himself in the Progressive convention, Mr. Smoot reported. The Progressives tabled Colonel Roosevelt's suggestion—which meant they would consider none but the ex-president.

The Conference Report.

"The support of Justice Hughes in the Republican convention," said the conference report by the Republican members of the committee, "respects spontaneous interest and belief in his candidacy, which have shown themselves in widely scattered states and among all classes and groups of voters. These have shown themselves without any formal organization in his behalf and are one ground for believing that the candidadcy would be acceptable to all groups of Republicans and would reunite them.

"His silence as to recent issues is the necessary result," the report continued, "of his judicial position. His earlier speeches and declarations, however, give ground for the assurance that he is in accord with the platform that has been adopted by the Republican and Progressive conventions."

After that, it was all done but the shouting. One after another favorite son delegations were released in rapid sequence to Hughes and the convention machinery went smoothly about its business.

Progressives in Gloom.

At the Progressive gathering there was gloom when Colonel Roosevelt's communication from Oyster Bay was read. The men and women who had come from all parts of the country, waving flags and shouting, in the expectation of going through another campaign under the leadership of their idol were tremendously disappointed when he asked them in his letter to unite the Republicans on the candidacy of Senator Lodge.

The "pep" seemed to fade out of the gathering. Delegates dropped back in thir seats stunned—and then came a few expressions of disgust. Demands of approval were made for the course which George W. Perkins and other leaders have followed in guiding the destinies of the Progressive cause so far as this.

At 3 o'clock p. m. Justice Hughes sent to the Republicans formal acceptance of the nomination and gave notification of his immediate resignation from the supreme bench.

By WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.
(Copyright, 1916, by W. J. Bryan.)

It is all over now. The dust has settled in the Coliseum. The hotels have undergone a thorough cleaning and scrubbing. Such street decorations as survived the long windy rainstorm which wet the first three days of the convention have come down. Delegates and professional politicians got out of the city as rapidly as possible. And Chicago prepared to catch up on its sleep and go back to home cooking.

This place has closed its eyes on a scene of mad politics. Yet there was a noticeable lack of enthusiasm as compared with the Republican convention of four years ago. The claims of candidates were not presented as aggressively as were the claims of President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt, the rival candidates in 1912. The tone is different.

At the last convention each side was asserting its claims to the control of the party machinery; each side was insisting that it was voicing the sentiment of the party. It was a conflict—one of the most memorable in our political history—between men who felt that the life of their party depended on the success of their efforts.

Each Side Afraid.

Each side was afraid that the other side would kill the organization, the stand-patters by refusing to meet the needs of the hour, the Progressives by a surrender of what Mr. Taft's friends called Republican conservatism.

This time the distinctions of four years ago disappeared, and there seemed to be no material difference between the programs of the two sides so far as they relate to issues or platform phraseology.

The password this time was "Hungry," and it opened any caucus door. The politicians are hungry for the offices from which they were separated by the Democracy's return to power. They are reinforced by the candidates for the United States senate and congress and for state and local offices.

Harmony Demand of Candidates.

These aspirants realized at the convention that in a presidential year much depends upon whether the tide is with the party or against it.

The special interests also are hungry. For the first time in many years they have found the atmosphere at Washington chilly and uninviting. "The old home isn't what it used to be." The lobbyists who visit Washington now are as watchful as wild ducks toward the end of the shooting season. The special interests are not willing to take any chances; the candidate who desires their support will have to show them that he is available. These two elements, the hungry politicians and the representatives of the hungry, favor-seeking corporations, sifted out the claims of candidates shrewdly and announced their choice eats.

There was a third factor which enters into the calculations here—namely, the fact that the Progressives were hungry also. They were responsible for the overthrow of the party's nominee four years ago, and they did not want to assume responsibility for such a Democratic victory this year.

The Hughes Boom.

There were some Progressives who steadily believed that Colonel Roosevelt was the strongest man who could be nominated, in spite of the fact that he had eliminated every outside element to which the party could appeal, as well as a large number within the party.

Early in the convention the drift went toward Hughes. His friends said he would have more votes on the first ballot than all of the favorite sons combined. This claim, of course, was not conceded by the other candidates, but the number of the delegates pledged to him seemed to grow in spite of the fact that he was soon receiving the attacks which are generally directed against a growing candidate. Senator La Follette was the choice of radical reformers, but there were very few of them in the convention.

At the opening Senator Cummins had a following among his neighbors. Senator Burton had a considerable personal following. Former Vice President Fairbanks had an earnest support, and Senator Weks' workers were in evidence.

Senator Harding's Speech.

Senator Harding's speech as temporary chairman was all that conditions and circumstances would permit. The great Webster said: "Eloquence exists in the man, in the subject and in the occasion." Eloquence had only one-third of a chance. It had the man. Senator Harding is an orator. The committee could not have selected a better man to open such a convention. He is both pleasing and imposing in appearance. He has an excellent voice and a splendid delivery, and he represented in his views and hopes that element of the party which was dominant in the convention. His speech possessed strength and humor and his thoughts were expressed in phrases that will be repeated by those who lack his skill in rhetoric.

The speech satisfied the audience, for it was just such an audience as would like that sort of a speech. He was greeted with enthusiasm on his appearance, his principal points were applauded enthusiastically and his conclusion brought forth another burst of enthusiasm. He may feel that he acquitted himself with credit and the convention found gratification in that fact that it got what it wanted in the way of a speech.

But the subject and the occasion were lacking. The subject was a restoration of the Republican party to power and there is no inspiration in such a subject to bring forth an epoch-making speech. The Republican party was put out of power because it had been guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors. It had converted popular government into a predatory oligarchy; it had betrayed the people and given them over to spoliation at the hands of the special interests. Favor seeking corporations had been permitted to take control of the instrumentalities of government and employ them for private enrichment.

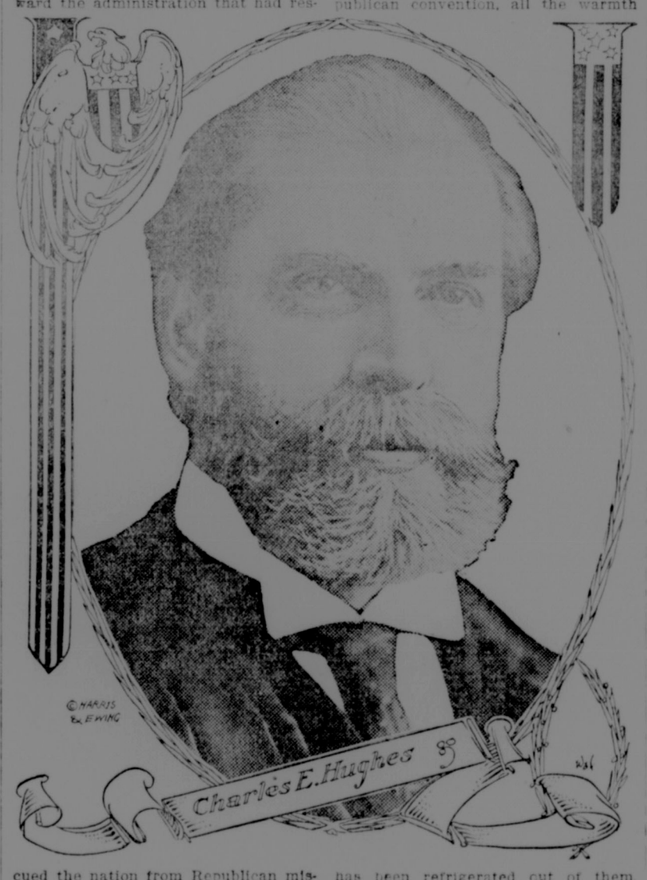
The injustice finally became so rank and the swollen fortunes so conspicuous that a large portion of the Republican party revolted.

More than half of the Republicans had the independence to leave the organization and, by bolting, they expressed their determination to rid the party of corporate domination, even if it were necessary to pass through a national defeat in order to make the party free.

As a result of the division in the Republican ranks the Democratic party came into power, and proceeded to put into law a reform program without parallel in the history of the country. In addition to facing domestic problems of great importance; in addition to having to deal with abuses that had grown in size until a remedy was more or less impossible without more or less of industrial disturbance—in addition to these home embarrassments, the Democratic administration inherited from the Republican administration a Mexican situation, and was soon afterwards confronted with a world war without a parallel in history.

Harding's Task Impossible.

Senator Harding's subject was the attitude of the Republican party toward the administration that had rescued the nation from Republican misrule and kept the country at peace amid distracting misrule on all sides. How could a partisan speaker satisfy a partisan convention without offending a universal sense of justice? The task was an impossible one.



The delegates had gathered to plan for the country's return to bondage to the interests, and Senator Harding would have disappointed the delegates if he had conceded to the Democratic administration any merit whatever. He did not disappoint them. On the contrary, he lived up to the highest requirements of partisanship and extolled the Republican record as flawless and pictured the Democratic record as a menace to prosperity at home and peace abroad.

His declarations on the subject of preparedness were sufficiently emphatic to arouse all the fears that have been assiduously cultivated by the manufacturers of munitions, and yet were not definite enough to inform the taxpayers of the burdens which the jingoes have in store for them.

Common Ground on Tariff.

It was not, however, until he reached the tariff question that he left out all the sails. He is a believer in protection for protection's sake, and he knows that protection is the issue on which the standpat Republicans and the Progressives were most nearly in agreement. They rival each other in devotion to the theory that a tax is a blessing when collected through the customhouse.

If the subject was a chilling one for impassioned eloquence, the occasion was no more encouraging. The delegates were not here to outline any constructive work; they had planned nothing from the experience through which they had passed.

They based their hopes of success upon a reunion of the two elements of the party, and felt confident that this reunion could be effected without commending any of the reforms accomplished by the Democratic party or pledging the Republican party to any remedial legislation.

"Let us forget our differences," was the Republican slogan. But will the public forget the riot of privilege? This is the program as outlined, in convention, if it is stripped of its drapery and plainly stated. The chief issue before the country will be whether the reforms which have been secured by twenty years' agitation are to be lost by the restoration to authority of those who by the misuse of power aroused the voters to revolt. No wonder those who are interested in the success of this program seek to divert attention from economic issues to so-called preparedness.

The two conventions in session in Chicago were vastly different bodies, as anyone discovered who attended them. The delegates to both conventions called themselves Republicans; they spoke in the same spirit of reverence of the history and traditions of the party,and they now look forward with equal hope and faith to the Republican party of the future, but they were as different in the spirit which animated them as if the delegates lived in different worlds and had nothing in the past or future to link them together.

The regular Republican convention was a cut and dried affair. Everything moved like clockwork, and a stately dignity prevailed except when the convention was enlivened by a joke. Then the delegates laughed just enough to show that they were human, and then fell back into the manner of men in a treadmill.

Moose Convention Spontaneous.

The Progressive convention was neither cut nor dried; it was a spontaneous body and most of the delegates felt like Henry Allen of Wichita expressed himself. He said he felt like a man in a powder mill with matches in his pocket. If any hotheads were sent to the regular Republican convention, all the warmth has been refrigerated out of them. But there was heat enough and to spare at the Auditorium. There wasn't ice enough in Chicago to keep their temperature normal.

At the Republican convention the committee on credentials reported on the contests, and the report was adopted without discussion. How different from four years ago!

The committee then gave temporary seats to a Taft majority, and that temporary majority proceeded to make itself a permanent majority, and then it completed the work for which it came into the political world.

This year there were few contests, and it did not matter which way they were decided. The real contesting delegations are several blocks away where with a friendly credentials committee to pass upon their claims all were seated.

But what an ill-fated omen to have the Republican party's claims to the nation's confidence presented by ex Senator Depew and ex-Speaker Cannon! If the convention had deliberated four years, it could not have chosen two men more responsible for the revolt of 1912, or more irritating to the progressive element.

Depew Against Reforms.

Mr. Depew was one of the most conspicuous representatives of the predatory group which finally became so repulsive to the Republican party that 4,000,000 Republicans preferred defeat rather than submit longer to its dictatorship.

What a campaign the Republicans made when they put him up to represent stand-pat Republicanism. "Laugh and forget our sins and your sorrows" might well have been the text of this distinguished humorist.

And Uncle Joe! In spite of his lovable personal qualities he succeeded in making Republicanism synonymous with Cannonism, and this contributed as much as any other one thing to the revolt which cost the Republican party more than half of its votes in 1912. There was only one thing that they could have done which would have aggravated the radicals more than the prominence given to the Messrs. Depew and Cannon, viz., to have made them members of the conference committee to confer with the Progressives on plans for the reuniting of the two parties.

Senator Borah followed Depew and Cannon, and presented what might be called a violent contrast. He was clear, forcible and earnest. He spoke as one conscious of the difference between Republicanism as it was in the beginning and Republicanism in its fallen state.

He manifested an interest in having the party respond to the advanced thought of today, but he neutralized the effect of his effort by his attack upon the administration's Mexican policy.

The American people do not favor intervention in Mexico.

Radical Crowd Fights.

The contest in the Progressive convention over the resolution inviting the Republican convention to appoint a conference committee was the first real debate of the conventions.

Ex-Secretary Garfield introduced the resolution and supported it in an argument which appealed to the judgment of the majority of the delegates. He referred to the resolution adopted by the Progressive national committee last January pledging the convention to do all in its power to bring about harmonious co-operation between the two wings of the party.

The resolution was at once combated by the more radical element in the convention led by ex-Congressman Murdock of Kansas and Congressman MacDonald of Michigan. Murdock warned them that they could expect nothing from the Republican convention, and favored proceeding with the nomination of Roosevelt.

Congressman McDonald went even further than Murdock and advised the Progressive convention to tell the Republican convention to depart thence and make its abode in the fiery realm where even a drop of water cannot be had to cool a parched tongue.

The speeches of Murdock and McDonald were cheered, and there were even suggestions of a stampede, but Pinchot, Bonaparte and Foulke supported Garfield, and their counsel prevailed. When the vote was taken, the yeas overwhelmed the opposition. But the fight indicated the spirit of the convention and the independence of the delegates.

Business Men's Meeting.

A business men's meeting was held in the Garrick theater at which several Roosevelt speeches were made to an enthusiastic audience. Alexander H. Revell presided and pictured Mr. Roosevelt as the only American who gives expression to the "true American spirit." Kellogg Fairbanks praised Colonel Roosevelt as the only man who could put the country in a state of preparedness for war.

Congressman Gardner added his indorsement of Roosevelt as the only candidate who knew what to do and how to do it. Mr. Gardner painted a dismal picture of the future unless the country elected the former president. The main features of the picture were "20,000,000 soldiers in Europe demobilized," " industries prostrated" and "countries bankrupted."

To his imagination, this country offers the only prize in sight for these fatigued troops, representing governments without credit and nations without industries, upon which to build credits. Mr. Gardner expected this country to be invaded unless Mr. Roosevelt was put in charge of the government and the government put in a state of preparedness.

One interesting feature of the meeting was that they all spoke of President Wilson's great political strength.

Woman's Party Organized.

A new party early entered the arena here. A woman's party was organized, but it soon showed symptoms of mannishness. Its announced purpose was to compel the other parties to take a position in favor of equal suffrage. But it must not be supposed that it represented a unanimous sentiment among the woman advocates of suffrage.

The women proved their claim to political consideration by manifesting a spirit of independence quite equal to that exhibited by men. Doctor Anna Howard Shaw, former president of the National American Woman Suffrage association, dissents entirely from those who desire to organize the women into an independent party.

"It is foolish for the woman's party to come here and say to the men that we women have great political power, that we hold the balance of power, etc.," she said. "It isn't true. What we must do is to co-operate with men, not fight them in politics."

Comparison of Meetings.

In size the standpat Republican convention had much the advantage. The Coliseum, in which the sessions were held, seats some twelve thousand, while the Auditorium, in which the Progressives met, could hardly accommodate four thousand.

In enthusiasm the Progressives had the advantage, probably because they came here with their candidate picked, and were all for him, while the regular Republican convention had so many favorite sons under consideration that the delegates were not at liberty to join in applauding any one aspirant.

Temporary Chairman Harding did not mention any candidate, while Temporary Chairman Robins set the Progressive convention afire by his eulogy of Colonel Roosevelt. While Senator Harding's chief points were greeted with applause, it was not the kind of applause that reverberates.

Platform Much the Same.

Roosevelt's name, on the contrary, was the signal for cheering, shouting, singing and parading that lasted more than an hour and a half.

It is some months since the Republican leaders conceived the idea of tying the protective system to the army and navy. It will be remembered that Congressman Mann included industrial preparedness in the qualified indorsement which he gave the administration's program. Protection was looking for a crutch, and it was quick to avail itself of the support offered by the preparedness propaganda.

It was very easy for a high-tariff advocate to support a policy requiring larger appropriations because larger appropriations compel larger tax levies. Regulars and Progressives alike recommend a tariff as a source from which to draw increased revenues. They defend taxes upon consumption on the ground that they are felt less than by direct taxes. It is the old defense, viz.: that by means of it more feathers can be obtained from the goose without squawking.

The Preparedness Idea.

Those who attempt to measure the sentiment in favor of bigger appropriations for the army and navy by parades must not overlook the fact that those who are pecuniarily interested in the return to a high tariff fall easy victims to any scares which give an excuse for the collection of more revenue.

Charles Warren Fairbanks.

"Don't rock the boat," is the advice which the politicians spread among the delegates as soon as they came in, and the delegates heeded the advice. They all felt that 1916 was to see a titanic struggle between the two great parties. All recognize that the restoration of the Republican party to power is not an easy task.

A great deal of bitter language has been employed in the past by progressives against standpatters, and by standpatters against progressives, and a great deal of feeling was stirred up. At the convention they worked over time trying to forget.

The Situation Queer.

Yes, it was a queer situation—those two conventions strikingly unlike in personnel and in the conduct of business and yet united in platform utterances.

At the regular Republican convention ex-Senator Depew and "Uncle Joe" Cannon were called upon to regale the audience with eulogies of the Republican party. What unwisdom to thus provoke the Progressives by exhibiting as specimens of the stand-pat Republicanism of today two men who had so much to do with bringing upon the Republican party the odium that stirred a majority of the members to revolt! One is reminded of the woman whose husband drank himself to death. After she had selected a modest casket for the remains, the undertaker asked what she wanted in the way of "trimmins." "Trimmins!" she exclaimed. "Don't mention trimmins; that's what Jimmie died of."

Had Real Debate.

The discussion in the Progressive convention over the resolution inviting the Republicans to appoint a committee to confer with a similar Progressive committee with a view to reaching a fusion on the ticket was a real debate. The delegates who participated were in dead earnest and the language which some of them used—and it was liberally applauded—betrayed a deep current of distrust with which a considerable portion of the convention viewed any proposition looking toward harmonizing.

But the conservative element of the convention won out by a large majority, and the conference asked for was granted by the Republican convention without discussion.

To illustrate the unity which they reached early in the matter of platforms attention is invited on five subjects.

First, they agreed in extravagance of language employed in criticizing the Democratic administration, and they agreed also in the care with which they abstained from any definite statement of the policy which they intended to pursue if intrusted with power. They united in deploring the calamities brought upon the country by what they described as the president's failure to defend American rights, and yet both conspicuously fail to point out wherein they would have a president act differently.

VALUE OF ALFALFA SHOWN BY RESULTS

New Jersey Farmer Has Been Growing Crop Since 1895 With Great Success.

"Alfalfa is the greatest stuff in the world," says John P. Nelson, of near Allentown, N. J., who has been growing alfalfa since 1895, and who now has 105 acres of "the finest in New Jersey." It took Mr. Nelson six years to get a good stand and to learn how to grow the crop, but since 1901 he has had no failures with it. He says: "Alfalfa fails only when you don't treat it right."

"The advantages of alfalfa are that when you get a stand of it, you don't have to reseed every year. How often I do not know, as I have some that has been mowed three times each year for six years and it is getting better right along. It makes the best kind of hay for all kinds of stock. Some of my horses eat it before they do their grain," declares Mr. Nelson. "Cows will give more milk when fed on alfalfa hay than they will on fodder corn. It's a grand thing for brood sows. When fed alfalfa they will keep in fine condition on half the grain they would use without it."

"The kind of soil on which to grow alfalfa, in my opinion, is a loam of reasonable fertility, where water will not stand for any length of time. If the ground is low, tile draining should be done. Plow deep, use at least a ton of lime per acre if the soil is sour, get the best possible seed and inoculate either the seed or ground or both," says Mr. Nelson. "My farm has always, until a few years ago, had a cow to the acre, furnishing lots of manure. This with 600 pounds of high grade fertilizer, drilled in, supplies the food for the growing plants. The same amount is used each year as top dressing. If we didn't have so much manure, more fertilizer per acre would be needed."

"The best stand of alfalfa I ever had was on 12 acres that had been in corn two years in succession. The ground was heavily manured both years after the corn was removed, and the usual application of 600 pounds of fertilizer applied. In the spring, as early as possible, I drilled in one and one-half bushels Canada field peas, cut them green for cows, and in August seeded to alfalfa," explained Mr. Nelson. He believes that three cuttings are best in New Jersey, but that four cuttings per year may be obtained through Maryland and Virginia, at the same time leaving a good stand over winter.

STARTING CROPS ON THE JUMP

Good Seed And Seedbed With Plenty Of Plantfood Needed.

Starting alfalfa on the jump requires that the seed bed be well prepared and that the plants be given plenty of plant food. Alfalfa requires a rather compact seed bed. Its preparation depends upon the preceding crop to a great extent. When seeded after early crops, such as potatoes, the need of summer fallowing is eliminated and the farmer gets a market crop during the same season. The general practice is to plow the ground early, harrow each week or ten days, until the weeds are killed and the fine, firm bed that is required is obtained. Many farmers have received good stands by seeding in the corn before the last cultivation.

To secure quality seed, it is best to test several different samples for purity and vitality. Five to 25 pounds per acre are recommended by various experiment stations. Often the best results cannot be obtained without inoculation. Commercial cultures recommended for alfalfa inoculation, can be secured. Lime must be added if the soil is sour, and from 200 to 500 pounds of a fertilizer high in phosphoric acid should be applied previous to or when the seed is sown. Profitable alfalfa culture is not difficult, if careful attention is given to details, from the preparation of the seed bed to the curing of the hay.

GROWS 990 BUSHELS CORN ON TEN ACRES

S. C. Goggin, Of Campbell County, Va., Uses Old Alfalfa Sod With Unusual Results.

Nine hundred and ninety bushels of shelled corn from a ten-acre field,—an average of 99 bushels per acre—is the record crop grown by S. C. Goggin, in Campbell County, Virginia, last year. The land upon which the corn was grown was an old alfalfa sod which for several years had been either mown or grazed to hogs. The corn was planted May 6 and 7, in rows three and one-half feet apart and the average distance of the corn in the rows was 15 inches. The corn was gone over twice with the weeder before it came up and given three shallow cultivations. Just before the last cultivation cow peas were planted, which were disked down to sow wheat.

Three hundred pounds of fertilizer was spread broadcast and harrowed in before the corn was planted. W. E. MacDonald, farm demonstrator of Orange County, in commenting upon this crop points out that alfalfa is valuable not only as a forage crop but also as a soil builder, as shown by Mr. Goggin's results with corn following alfalfa.

PROFITABLE FIELD OF CORN

Available plantfood gave it an early start and forced it to maturity.

Do You Use Gas?

If you do come to W. E. Shirer and inspect and have demonstrated to you the Direct Action Gas Range, with the regular cooking top and the Direct Action Oven with the fireless cooker convenience added. The oven is the most essential part of all ranges and this range possesses the most marvelous oven yet produced which is a cooking oven as well as a baking oven and can be used to boil and bake at the same time.

The oven of this gas-range is operated on a distinctly new principle. The burners are placed in the oven itself; hence the name, "direct action." In design the range is on efficient cabinet type with a comfortable working height of thirty-two inches. Connected with the oven is a thermostat which reduces automatically the amount of gas allowed to flow through the burner at any temperature indicated. Thus at 200 degrees F. only a sub flame burns, while if the thermostat is set for a temperature of 300 degrees F. the furners show a full flame until 325 degrees F. is reached, when the supply of gas is cut off and the flame is reduced to a mere pin-point, capable of maintaining the temperature set. With this arrangement an oven of known temperature can be indefinitely maintained, and this is a marked advance in gas-cookery. The food is first placed in the oven, the gas is then lighted, and the thermostat is set for the desired temperature. The practical results obtained in this oven, as well as the temperature readings, show it to be an excellent investment.

Call and see this range at the store of W. E. Shirer any day or if you phone W. E. Shirer he will demonstrate to you any evening. This range must be seen to be appreciated.

May H. Cassidy, Plaintiff v. Rosco C. Cassidy, Defendant.
No. 2937 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill states that on the 6th day of March, 1912, the plaintiff was married to the said Rosco C. Cassidy at Grafton, West Virginia, with whom she resided in said town for about a month after their marriage, and then moved to Cleveland, Ohio, and there resided with her husband for a period of about eight months, at which time the plaintiff was to make a visit to her parents in Garrett county. On this trip her husband accompanied her as far as Wheeling, W. Va., and then told her that he would follow her in two weeks, and upon her return to her home in Garrett county she received a letter from him dated Illinois stating that he was going as far away as he could and that he would never live with her again.

The bill further states that the conduct of the plaintiff towards her husband has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, and that the defendant has without just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and declared his intention to live with her no longer.

That such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three yeaas and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond hope of reconciliation.

That there was one child born of said marriage, viz., Cora, about three years of age.

That the plaintiff has resided in Garrett county more than three years prior to the filing of this suit, and that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

The bill prays for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant, guardianship and custody of said infant child, general relief and an order of publication.

It is thereupon, this 31st day of May, 1916, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in Equity that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county once in each of four successive weeks before the 1st day of July, 1916, give notice to said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, 1916, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

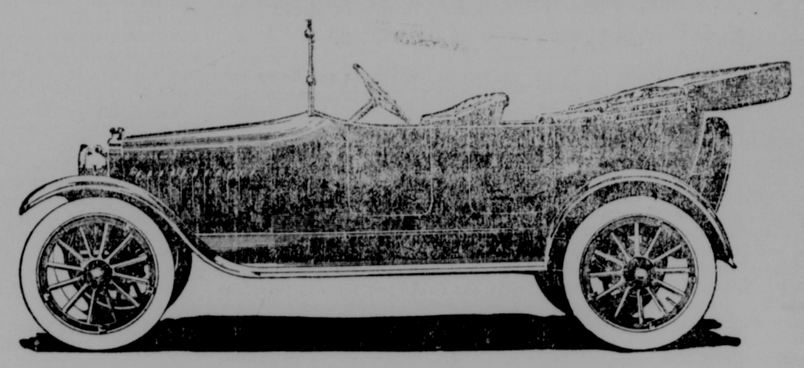
SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people



Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $5,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle the question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

C. F. ZITTEL, Dramatic Editor, New York Journal.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mr. and Mrs. John Callis, of Clarksburg, spent the week end in the Park. John hold a position with the Clarksburg Electric Light Company.

The Pentacostal encampment will close Sunday night. Last Sunday night the auditorium was crowded with people and Rev. McKinney preached a strong sermon. The baptism service held at the lake drew a large crowd of people to witness the baptism. The services next Sunday will be of unusual interest.

The old time camp meeting begins June 30th with a "Get-You-Acquainted Meeting" held in different parts of the Park. It is to be a reunion service.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hayden spent Sunday here, with his parents.

Dr. and Mrs. Logan Carr and Mrs. J. G. McLain and daughter, Miss Kate, motored from Baltimore to the Park last Friday.

The childrens' day service in the M. E. church last Sunday morning was a very delightful occasion. A large audience was present. The program was full of interest and a credit to those in charge.

The law regarding license for moving pictures may prevent the movies from operating in the Park. The license fee is prohibitive.

The date of the Odd Fellows' reunion has been fixed for July 22. The lodges of West Virginia and Maryland will meet on that date and enjoy a splendid program of fraternal greeting. It is thought they will be the largest crowd ever assembled in the Park.

A number of the young people had a marsh mallow roast at Crystal Springs Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Jaevis, of Clarksburg, was here Tuesday looking over the property she purchased recently and arranged for some improvements.

The extension of the porch at the bowling alley will greatly add to the comfort and happiness of the public. The Civic Club has a right to be jubilant over this their latest gift to the Park When the porch furniture is placed on the veranda it will be the great meeting place of our summer guests.

Professor May, of West Virginia, is making some improvements to his property.

Mr. M.A. Yost of St. Louis, and Mr. Hart Springfield, of Gainesville, Fla., are guests of Mrs. L. J. Cornwall.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MISS CORA WEIMER.

Died, at her home in Mountain Lake Park, Tuesday, June 13th, 1916, after a very brief illness, Miss Cora Weimer, daughter of the late Joseph ahd Martha A. Weimer.

The deceased was born at North Glade, Garrett county, Maryland, Nov. 16th, 1877, being at the time of her death 38 years of age. Her father died about 34 years ago and her mother Sept. 30th, 1910. She is survived by two sisters, Lillie and Josie, at home, and two brothers, E. A. Weimer, of Oakland, and Charles R., who makes his home with his sisters. She leaves besides her brothers and sisters a large number of relatives and a host of friends to mourn her loss. She taught in the public schools of the county for about twenty years and was one of the most successful teachers of the county.

At the time of her death she had charge of the public library of Oakland, Md. She was greatly loved and respected by all who knew her and will be greatly missed in the home, the church and the community. She was of a sunny disposition and always had a smile and cheerful word for all. She was converted in early childhood and joined the Methodist Episcopal church of which she remained a consistent member until God called her to live with Him.

Her funeral occured Thursday, June 15th, at 2 p. m., from her late home at Mountain Lake Park and interment was made in the Oakland cemetery. Rev. Paul L. Flanigan, pastor of the Mt. Lake Park M. E. church, conducted the funeral services. The pall bearers were young men of Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn, viz: Edward Chance, Walter Falkenstine, Delph Callis, Otis Cuppett, Chas. Harvey and George Callis. The flower girls were Louise Chance, Carrie Mann, Catherine Stevenson, Elizabeth Leighton, Mary and Francis Rathbun, former pupils of the deceased.

We will miss her, oh, how we will miss her. We cannot understand why she was taken from us when she was so much needed, but God knows best and doeth all things well and we bow in humble submission to His will and mourn not as those who have no hope, for we know that some day we will meet her in that upper and better world, if we live according to His Divine will while here on earth. Yes, we shall meet never again to part, for we know that she has gone to her heavenly home and will be waiting and watching for us.

Dearest Cora, thou hast left us,
Thy face no more on earth we see,
But in heaven we hope to meet thee,
There to live eternally.

A FRIEND.

Mt. Lake Park, June 20th, 1916.

MRS. MARTHA ANNE LOUGHRIDGE.

Mrs. Martha Anne Loughridge, wife of Mr. George F. Loughridge, of Oakland, died on Friday morning last after an illness of many months following an attack of the grip, aged nearly seventy-four years, the deceased lady having been born at Aurora, West Va., on September 18, 1842, and was the daughter of John D. and Margaret Stemple. On September 13, 1868, she was married by the Rev. J. H. Cupp, her husband, Mr. George F. Loughridge, a highly esteemed citizen of Oakland, along with their three daughters, Mrs. Nettie Thrasher and Misses Beulah and May, surviving her. Mrs. Loughridge was a long and much loved member of the Lutheran church and until failing health prevented she was always present at the public services. In addition to those of her family enumerated above she is survived by three sisters—Mrs. Swearingen, of Oakland; Mrs. A. F. Shuttlesworth and Mrs. Robert Pearce, of Aurora, and three brothers—Lafayette, of Albright; William H., of Aurora, and Henry Cupp, of Burlington, W. Va. The funeral of the deceased lady was conducted Sunday afternoon in St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church by the Rev. A. D. Appleton, rector of the local Episcopal church, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. O. A. Bremer, who was confined to his bed by illness. The sermon delivered by Mr. Appleton was a beautiful tribute to a triumphant life. The interment was made in the Oakland cemetery, the pall bearers being Messrs. George D. White, E. G. Naylor, Wade H. Hinebaugh, H. A. Loraditch, J. M. Stanton and Benj. H. Sincell.

Married.

ABERNATHY—ARONHALT.—Miss Isabell Aronhalt and Mr. Keith Abernathy, both of Garrett county, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony Sunday, June 18, at the home of the groom's grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. I. W. Abernathy, in the presence of a few intimate friends, Rev. Abernathy officiating. After the ceremony a bounteous dinner was served. The couple will reside at the home of the groom's grandparents. The community join in wishing them a long and happy married life.

PENDERGAST—TREACY—Mr. Edward Joseph Pendergast, of Grafton, and Miss Annie Agnes Treacy, of Oakland, were quietly united in marriage early last Sunday morning at St. Peter's Catholic church, by the pastor, Rev. James E. Connell, no one being present at the ceremony but the required witnesses.

The bride is a well known Oakland lady, having been connected with Treacy's Grocery for a number of years past. Mr. Pendergast holds a position with the Baltimore and Ohio R. R. Co., in Grafton, and is also well known here, having been employed in Oakland Oakland some time ago.

They are receiving the congratulations and best wishes of their friends, to whom the news of the marriage came as a complete surprise, no intimation of it having been given out before hand.

The newly-weds have announced as as yet no plans for the future, and we understand that Mrs. Pendergast will remain for a while in her brother's store.

SHOOTING AT FRIENDSVILLE

One Boy Shoots Another Who is in a Critical Condition

A boy named Miller, whose first name we are unable to learn, was shot and very seriously wounded at Friendsville last Saturday by another boy playmate. It seem that young Miller and his companion found a 32-caliber revolver, and the latter snapped the gun, which failed to go off. He then pointed it at the Miller boy and again pulled the trigger with the result that the latter was shot in the abdomen. The boy was rushed to Oakland in an automobile and taken to the Home Sanitarium, in what was thought to be in a dying condition. Dr. McComas, assisted by Drs. Broadwater and Hinebaugh operated on him, finding something like ten perforations through the intestines, which were sewed up and at this time he is getting along remarkably well, und hopes are entertained for his recovery.

NEW GERMANY

The farmers are all busy plowing for buckwheat.

Sam Broadwater and family have left for Akron, Ohio, where they expect to make their future home. We are sorry to see them go.

Ralph Wiland and Owen Crowe spent Sunday evening with Misses Bertha and Netta Broadwater.

Cornelius and Sheridan Broadwaters, of Westernport, spent Sunday with home folks.

The M. E. Sunday school will hold a home coming picnic Saturday, July 1st, in the grove by the church. All the former teachers and scholars of the Sunday school are expected home to spend the day. Amusement of all kinds throughout the day. Prominent speakers will be there to make addresses. The Lonaconing brass band is expected to furnish the music.

Mrs. Dave Broadwater, who was kicked by a cow some time ago and had her limb fractured, is improving rapidly.

Owen Crowe is employed by Sam Otto for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Broadwater motored to Cumberland Saturday last.

BITTINGER.

Special children's day services, with appropriate program, has been announced to be held in the Lutheran church in this village on next Sunday evening, June 25th.

At the annual business meeting of the Lutheran congregation, held here last Snnday afternoon, Melchor Hetrick was re-elected elder, and Josephus Glotfelty, deacon, for term of three years each.

Merchant O. C. Buckle motored to Lonaconing last Saturday and did some marketing.

Miss Leonora Wiley, a student at the Western Maryland College, returned to her home here last week for her vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Walburn and little son, of Jennings spent Sunday at Mrs. Walburn's home here.

The carpenters in charge of the construction of a large barn on Melchor Hetricks farm raised the frame of the structure very successfully on Wednesday of last week.

Quite a company of young folks from the Foxtown settlement attended church here last Sunday.

A Challenge

Is hereby given to any Sunday School in Garrett county to a contest, based upon the percentage of attendance, punctuality and number of givers as shown by its records closing with Rally Day.

OFFUTTS'

MOTHER OF HUGHES FORESAW NOMINATION

"Some Day My Boy Will Be President." —Republican Nominee Likes Detective Stories.

(FROM VARIOUS PAPERS.)

In Justice Hughes' nomination many Kingston, N. Y., residents believe they see the beginning of fulfillment of a prediction made by his mother that "some day my boy will be President," a view which was shared by his father, the late Rev. Dr. D. C. Hughes, who both lived there during the time Justice Hughes was Governor of New York.

Several thousand persons in Glens Falls, N. Y., tonight witnessed a street demonstration for Justice Hughes. Bands participated in a torchlight parade through the business section, red lights being used extensively. The procession was greeted with applause. The announcement of the nomination of the jurist, who was born in Glens Falls, was received this afternoon with great enthusiasm, and virtually every factory and mill whistle sounded continuous blasts for at least five minutes.

It was in his campaign for Governor of New York that Hearst called Hughes an "animated feather duster" a bit of persiflage that raised a guffaw but probably made votes for the gentleman whose ample beard suggested the metaphor. Charles E. Hughes found himself Governor of New York unpledged and unbossed, a unique situation.

The politicians smiled when Hughes told the people there was to be a business administration. He had scarcely taken office when they flocked in droves to Albany, demanding that the organization be recognized in this way or that. So and so had to be done because the organization wanted it.

"Gentlemen," said the Governor to one set of politicians, "I am not responsible to the Republican organization for my election as Governor. I am not responsible to any party leader or to all of the party leaders. I am responsible solely to the people: Good afternoon!"

In appearance Charles Evans Hughes is not a robust man. He is slight but well proportioned. His brown hair, which was once luxuriant, has become thin on top and upon his forehead, which is high and rather narrow. His hair has a liberal spainkling of gray. His blue eyes are wide apart and deep-set. He has a trick of allowing the lids to drop until they half cover the eyeball which gives him the expression of anything but alertness. At the same time he devitalizes his features in the same manner and assumes an ostensible attitude of consummate indifference. His mouth is large and regular, with exceedingly white teeth, shaded by a heavy brown mustache and thick brown beard, both of which are slightly silvered.

Those who have dealt with him personally profess to have found in him some semblance of Col. Theodore Roosevelt.

"There is something about the man that intimates Roosevelt," said a writer in the Review of Reviews when Justice Hughes was Governor of New York.

To the members of that now famous joint legislative Insurance Investigating Committee Mr. Hughes, save for what they had heard of him at second hand, was an unknown quantity, but they shared the common impression that he was a most precise and puritanical person of an abstemious and dyspeptic type. On the evening in question the committeemen met Mr. Hughes and held a private conference with him in one of the parlors of the Murray Hill Hotel. There were introductions and some chat and then one of the committee—I think it was Senator Tully of Steuben—suggested that the whole party go down to the cafe and have some refreshments.

With a sidelong glance at the dignified and bewhiskered lawyer whom none would wittingly offend, Senator Armstrong called for "a bottle of ginger ale." Senator Tully wanted "a little vichy and milk," and Assemblyman Rogers, noting the drift, ordered "a plain soda."

So it went all the way around the table. Everybody, in deference to the supposed prejudices of the principal guest, pulled a long face and requested a "soft" drink. It was my first meeting with Mr. Hughes, but I chanced to be seated opposite to him and I thought I detected a suspicion of a twinkle in his eye—a twinkle that I came to know well later on. Finally the attendant approached Mr. Hughes, the last of the circle. That dignity, with a face perfectly unmoved, said:

"I seem to be in a very abstenious company, but, as I am a bit tired after a trying day, you may bring me some Bourbon whisky."

The waiter turned to deliver the orders, but there was a laugh that went around the board and Senator Armstrong roared: "Hi, come back here, I want to change mine!"

He did change his and so did every other man in the party, and when Mr. Hughes' Bourbon arrived I noticed that he drank it "straight." There was a lot of laughter and explanation, and after it was all over those men, who were designed to shake certain lofty New York reputations into tatters during the coming weeks, understood one another better than they had.

"I saw that you gentlemen were abstaining," said Mr. Hughes, "because of supposed scruples on my part. The fact is, I don't often care for a drink of spirits, but when I want one or feel that it will help me I don't hesitate to have it."

In a chat with Mr. Hughes in the days before he went to the Supreme Bench comment was made concerning some of the books that adorned the shelves of Mr. Hughes' library and there was a reference to the dictum that a man may be known by the books he reads. There was some mighty solid reading on those shelves, I remember—Herbert Spencer's "Synthetic Philosophy," "The Descent of Man," Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," Walter Savage Landor's "Imaginary Conversations," the works of Thomas Carlyle, of Kent, Darwin, Huxley, Haeckel, and Locke "On the Human Understanding."

Mr. Hughes' eye swept the array. He was familiar, not a doubt of it, with all those. But he smiled as he blew the smoke from his cigar—he commonly smokes four or five dark perfectos in the course of a day—and then he made this to me, delightful admission:

"Don't you think we are all more or less incorrigible hypocrites about the things we like to read, or the things we think we like to read, or that we ought to like to read? Now, as for myself, and speaking with perfect candor, I must confess, especially when I feel mentally tired, that there is no reading that appeals to me quite so strongly as a good old blood and thunder swashbuckling romance or an old-fashioned detective story with a well sustained mystery running through it. I have never outgrown my affection for Dumas the elder nor for Gabordiau. But, after all, I do not care very much who wrote the yarn that diverts me, or whether it was written by a stylist or not, just so long as it has a rattling good story between its covers. There is nothing like that kind of a thriller for a wearied brain and a tired back."

Since Mr. Hughes became Mr. Justice Hughes I have often wondered whether he finds surcease yet from the enormous hair splittings of the law in the diverting pages of Sir Conan Doyle or E. Phillips Oppenheim.

He described his views on religion as these:

"They are not what my church friends would recognize as orthodox. I have rather free views, but I recognize that we have in the churches the greatest conservative force in our affairs and, if for no other reason than that, I feel that they should be supported. There is a lot of cant about some of them, but they have a great power for good, whether one agrees or not with the teaching of their minister."

He approves of the modern woman, although, so far as is known, he has never definitely expressed himself in favor of woman suffrage.

"I will not say that I like the modern woman better than the old woman, whom some very wise persons still insist on comparing to the former's disadvantage," was the way he put it some years ago. 'I see no reason why a woman should not practice law or medicine or be elected to Congress or build bridges if she wants to. You notice that I emphasize the 'if.'

"My private opinion is that she does not want to do them, although very good feminine authority insists that she does."

Justice Hughes has few recreations. He likes to play golf, though he swings a mediocre club. He is especially fond of mountain climbing and has made many visits to Switzerland. He likes fishing, and men who have helped him spend his brief vacations testify that he is a mighty good fellow out of doors, with nothing of the cold, austere Hughes about him. He reads as much as time permits and confesses that he is particularly fond of romantic fiction and of detective stories.

All eyes turned to the plain brick house at the corner of Sixteenth and V streets, Washington, where the family of Justice Hughes, with the exception of Charles E. Hughes Jr., and his wife and child, were assembled to hear the bulletins from the Convention at Chicago.

This house was built by Mr. Hughes in 1912, more than a year after he accepted the seat on the Supreme Court bench, which he resigned to become a candidate for President. It is a plain dignified, comfortable house, typical of Mr. Hughes.

The great apartment in the house is the library, which is the common meeting place of the family whose literary tastes and studious habits extend from the former Justice to baby Elizabeth, now 9 years old. She was born in the Gubernatorial mansion at Albany, when her father was Governor of New York State, and has developed into an embryo suffragist, following the views and teachings of her eldest sister, Miss Helen Hughes, who has lent her name and efforts to the cause of woman suffrage.

Mrs. Hughes is a slender woman of medium height. She is dignified and quiet, quick to see the humorous side of everything, gentle of speech and voice and firm in her opinions without being offensive. Her family and home are first, and it is among them that she spends the greatest part of her time.

The Hughes family always has a garden. If it is only window boxes in their city home there are always bright, growing things about them. Their summer place for some years has been Calumet Lodge, Lake Placid, N. Y. Here they summer out of doors almost literally.

In Washington they live the simple life as far as it is possible. Mr. Hughes invariably walks either from his home to the Capitol or vice versa. The other way, it is almost certain that Mrs. Hughes drives him in her electric brougham. It is a plain modest car. Miss Hughes drives it almost as frequently as her mother does.

Miss Hughes is far more interested in questions of national and international importance that she is in society and its frivolties. Her sister Catherine, however, has a taste for the butterfly life, and enjoys to the fullest the new dances, tennis, horse-back riding and all outdoor sports.

The girls' most constant companion is their mother, who enjoys the absolute confidence of her children and enters keenly into their frolics and into their troubles. Miss Helen Hughes was a close friend of Miss Helen Taft.

The Hughes family has not decided where it will spend the summer. Last summer Mr. Hughes spent the summer at a Maine lake resort, Owing to its inaccessibility he may choose an Atlantic coast resort for the summer campaign.

GRANTSVILLE.

A Children's Day service was held in the Lutheran church on Sunday night, and a very entertaining program was rendered. The offering, which was a liberal one, was for the Orphans' Home at Loysville, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Getty and Miss Carrie Dorsey were among the many from here who were in Frostburg on Flag Day.

Misses Bessie and Sarah Wiley and their aunt, Miss Ogilvie, of Cumberland, spent last week at the Casselman Hotel.

Daniel Betz, Tom Price and James Jeffries were Grantsville visitors on Monday.

Miss Ethel Broadwater spent last week in Frostburg and Cumberland.

Postmaster and Mrs. John Custer are rejoicing over the arrival of Woodrow Wilson, a young son, who came on June 7th.

Born—To Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Carney, June 8th, a boy.

Lewis Schrock has moved his meat market from the building next to H. C. Bonig's store into the room formerly occupied by Richard Schlosnagle as saddler. The present location in the building of the First State Bank, is much more roomy and comfortable than the former, and just as convenient to his patrons.

Norman Hoover, foreman in the logging camp at Jennings, Md., is in the Miners' Hospital at Frostburg, as a result of an accident in the woods last Friday, in which his left leg was cut entirely to the bone, the wound being above the knee. He was taken to the hospital in his brother George's car, immediately, and is improving under treatment.

Mrs. G. C. Keller, who spent her last previous birthday on the operating table of a Cleveland hospital in utter oblivion of her anniversary, enjoyed her natal day this year, June 12th, immensely, surrounded by tokens of love from her family and friends, and in better health than she had been for some time past.

Dr. Olin T. Broadwater, who graduated last week from the University of Maryland in Baltimore, is home for the present.

Misses Angela Getty and Vida Engle were Cumberland visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bonig and children spent Sunday with Guerney Shaw and his sisters, Misses Fannie and Lulu, at Hill Dale Farm.

C. H. Dill is learning to manipulate his new Dort car and is giving a number of his friends joy rides, evenings.

Mrs. Sam Bender and children from Trafford, Pa., spent last week with J. J. and C. A. Bender.

Mrs. Milton Younkin is better again after a week's illness.

Mrs. McCulloh from Friendsville treated several Grantsville people to a delightful ride to Oakland on Thursday, the party including Dr. and Mrs. G. C. Keller, Miss Ruth Keller and Miss Gertrude Hone. They took supper at one of the Oakland hotels while there.

Rexford Bittinger, Casper Locehel, Joe Delauy, and Clyde Bender have just recovered from measles.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bill, Mrs. R. C. Bowen and Miss Christina Winterberg motored to Lonaconing in Mr. Bill's car, Sunday, with Bruce Miller, as chauffeur.

G. D. P. PLATFORM FOR PROTECTION

Party Declares For Maintance of Rights Over Whole World.

In 1861 the Republican party stood for the Union. As it stood for the Union of States, it now stands for an United Power, true to American ideals, loyal to American traditions, knowing no allegiance except to the constitution, to the government, and to the flag of the United States. We believe in American policies at home and abroad.

We declare that we believe in and will enforce the protection of every American citizen in all the rights secured to him by the constitution, treaties and the law of nations, at home and abroad, by land and sea. These rights, which in violation of the specific promise of their party made at Baltimore in 1912, the Democratic president and the Democratic congress have failed to defend, we will unflinchingly maintain.

We desire peace, the peace of justice and right, and believe in maintaining a straight and honest neutrality between the belligerents in the great war in Europe. We must perform all our duties and insist upon all our rights as neutrals without fear and without favor. But we believe that peace and neutrality as well as the dignity and influence of the United States cannot be preserved by shifty expedients, by phrase-making, by performances in language, or by attitudes ever changing in an effort to secure groups of voters. The present administration has destroyed our influence abroad and humiliated us in our own principles. The Republican party believes that a firm, constant and courageous foreign policy, always maintained by Republican principles the best, as it is the only true way to preserve our peace and restore us to our rightful place among the nations. We believe in the pacific settlement of international disputes and favor the establishment of a world court for that purpose.

We deeply sympathize with the fifteen million people of Mexico, who for three years have seen their country devasted, their homes destroyed, their fellow citizens murdered and their women outraged by armed bands of desperadoes led by self-seeing conscienceless agitatore who, when temporarily successful in any locality have neither sought nor been able to restore order or establish and maintain peace.

We reaffirm our approval of the Monroe doctrine, and declare its maintenance to be a policy of this country essential to its present and future peace and safety and to the achievement of its manifest destiny.

We express our horror and indignation at the outrages which have been and are being perpetrated by these bandits upon American men and women who were or are in Mexico by invitation of the laws and of the government of that country, and whose rights to security of person and property are guaranteed by solemn treaty obligations. We denounce the indefensible methods of interference employed by this administration in the internal affairs of Mexico and refer with shame to its failure to discharge the duty of this country as next friend to Mexico, its duty to other powers who have relied upon us as such friend, and its duty to our citizens in Mexico, in permitting the continuance of such conditions, first by failure to act promptly and firmly, and second, by lending its influence to the continuation of such conditions through recognition of one of the factions responsible for these outrages.

We pledge our aid in restoring order and maintaining peace in Mexico. We promise to our citizens on and near our border, and to those in Mexico, wherever they may be found, adequate and absolute protection in their lives, liberty and prosperity.

We favor the continuance of Republican policies, which will result in drawing more and more closely the commercial, financial and social relations between this country and the countries of Latin-America.

We renew our allegiance to the Philippine policy, inaugurated by McKinley, approved by congress and consistently carried out by Roosevelt and Taft. Even in this short time it has enormously improved the material and social conditions of the islands, giving the Philippine people a constanly increasing participation in their government. And if persisted in, will bring still greater benefits in the future.

We accept the responsibility of the islands as a duty to civilization and the Filipino people. To leave with our task half done would break our pledges, injure our prestige among nations and imperil what has already been accomplished.

We condemn the Democratic administration for its attempt to abandon the Philippines, which was prevented only by the vigorous opposition of Republican members of Congress, aided by a few patriotic Democrats.

We reiterate our unqualified approval of the action taken in December, 1911, by the president and congress to secure with Russia, as with other countries, a treaty that will recognize the absolute right of expatriation and prevent all discrimination of whatever kind between American citizens, whether native born or alien, and regardless of race, religion or previous political allegiance. We renew the pledge to observe this principle and to maintain the right of asylum which is neither to be surrendered nor restricted, and we unite in the cherished hope that the war which is now desolating the world may speedily end, with a complete and lasting restoration of brotherhood among the nations of the earth and the assurance of full equal rights, civil and religious, to all men in every land.

In order to maintain our peace and make certain the security of our people within our own borders the country must have not only adequate but thorough and complete national defense, ready for any emergency. We must have a sufficient and effective regular army, and a provision for for ample reserves, already drilled and disciplined who can be called at once to the colors when the hour of danger comes.

We must have a navy so strong and so well proportioned and equipped, so thoroughly ready and prepared, that no enemy can gain command of the sea and effect a landing in force on either our western or eastern coast. To secure these results we must have a coherent and continuous policy of national defense, which even in these perilous days the Democratic party has utterly failed to develop, but which we promise to give to the country.

The Republican party stands now, as always, in the fullest sense for the policy of tariff protection to American industries and American labor, and does not regard an anti-dumping provision as an adequate substitute. Such protection should be reasonable in amount, but sufficient to protect adequately American industry and American labor and to be so adjusted as to prevent undue exactions by monopolies or trusts. It should, moreover, give special attention to securing the industrial independence of the United States as in the case of dye stuffs.

Through wise tariff and industrial legislation our industries can be so organized that they will become not only a commercial bulwark, but a powerful aid to national defense.

The Underwood tariff act is a complete failure in every respect. Under its administration imports have enormously increased in spite of the fact that the intercourse with foreign countries has been largely cut off by reason of the war, while the revenues of which we stand in such dire need have been greatly reduced. Under the normal conditions, which prevailed prior to the war, it was clearly demonstrated that this act deprived the American producer and the American wage earner of that protection which entitled them to meet their foreign competitors, and but for the advantages created by the war, would long since have paralyzed all forms of American industry and deprived American labor of its just reward.

It has not in the least reduced the cost of living, which has constantly advanced from the date of its enactment. The welfare of our people demands its repeal and the substitution of a measure which in peace, as well as in war, will produce ample revenue and give reasonable protection to all forms of American production in mine, forest, field and factory.

We favor the creation of a tariff commission with complete power to gather and compile information for the use of congress in all matters relating to the tariff.

The Republican party has long believed in the right supervision and strict regulation of the transportation and great corporations of the country. It has put its creed into its deeds and all really effective laws regulating the railroads and the great industrial corporations are the work of Republican congresses and presidents. For this policy of regulation and supervision the Democrats, in a stumbling and piecemeal way, are undertaking to involve the government in business which should be left within the sphere of private enterprise, and in direct competition with its own citizens, a policy which is sure to result in waste, great expense to the tax payers and in an inferior product.

The Republican party firmly believes that all who violated the laws in regulation of business should be individually punished. But prosecution is very different from persecution and business success, no matter how honestly attained, is apparently regarded by the Democratic party as in itself a crime. Such doctrines and beliefs choke enterprise and stifle prosperity. The Republican party believes in encouraging American business, as it believes in and will seek to advance all American interests.

We favor an effective system of rural credits as opposed to the ineffective law proposed by the present Democratic administration.

We favor the extension of the rural free delivery system, and condemn the Democratic administration for curtailing and crippling it.

In view of the policies adopted by all the maritime nations to encourage their shipping interests, and in order to enable us to compete with them for the ocean-carrying trade, we favor the payment to ships engaged in the foreign trade of liberal compensation for services actually rendered in carrying the mails, and such further legislation as will build up an adequate American merchant marine.

The protective system is essential to our national prosperity. Tremendous new pressure will be thrown upon our industries after the war by the highly mobilized production of Europe. At all times conditions of competition must be equalized between our own and foreign countries. We can only get the protection we need through the use of exact and complete knowledge, unaffected by prejudice and politics. We can only secure that knowledge at all times, and when needed, through such a commission.

The industrial issues are chiefly national. The present and certain future make it imperative that the regulation and promotion of industry, and especially of transportation and foreign trade, be national, not local. Only federal power can work justice to capital and labor throughout the nation. Only national authority can mobilize industry for defense as a nation's needs demand it.

Beneath a structure of military and economic strength must be the spirit of the people, a deep loyalty and undivided allegiance to America, the land which has welcomed us and our immigrant forefathers. If that foundation ceases to endure we shall no longer be a nation.

We have set forth in this platform plain essentials of national existence. They are not new in principle. Most men agree with them. Any man may propose them. The urgent and immediate need is for their performance. We have had ample experience with the promiser; with words and a bitter taste of words retracted. We must choose a man who not alone by words but by past deeds gives guaranty that he can and will make these good. The issue is one of men. In the midst of world changes unparalled in history, we cannot forecast the problems which will confront our government during the war, and at its end. We therefore need as president a leader who knows that nation, a man who acts. If we continue longer to stand for words as above deeds, for fancy above facts, we shall receive and merit the fate that surely awaits the man of the people who do not face the truth. We will meet and work with any man or party who sees a nation's need and puts forth a leader fit to meet it. We will accept no less in plan or in the man, and we hereby solemnly charge upon those who place party and politics above country the responsibility for a nation's future, sacrificed for self interest and spoils.

The Story of Rubber

What a tale of romance of Spanish conquerors and English explorers, of discoveries of the chemist rivaling the tales of the Genii, of Aladin's Lamp; what visions of the tangled maze of tropical forests, the twisted and turbulent currents of mighty rivers; what stories of elementary man in the struggle for very existence; what dreams of avarice of the explorer lie in the story behind the production of the simplest article made from that magic substance—rubber.

Rubber, the substance that even today is only on the threshold of its possibilities; that has made possible the ocean cables, conserved the health of millions through its use in footwear and done much to remove the terror of infection from the surgical operation. Consider the ice cap for the fever patient; the invalid cushion to the bedridden; the hot water bottle to the pain racked; nipples to the babies; surgeons' gloves to the surgeon, and who will say that rubber has not contributed to the sum total of human comfort?

To Christopher Columbus is generally credited the discovery of this great country of ours, but few are aware that he is also given the credit of being the first white man to observe the use of rubber by the natives of the new land.

The Spanish historian, Antonio Herrera, writes in his early memoirs, that Columbus reported having seen the natives of Haiti playing with balls made from the gum of a tree, the first observed use of rubber. This was confirmed by the Spanish conquerors, who found the Indians using elastic balls in their games.

In 1615, Juan de Torquemada issued a report on a milky liquid which Spaniards used to make their clothing water-proof. It was, however, left to the American to make the use of rubber a commercial possibility, and, like many other great discoveries, it was brought about by accident. Rubber, at the time of the discovery, was mostly used for making overshoes, and the wearer of these shoes was always in trouble. In summer the heat made the substance sticky, no doubt on many occasions making their removal from the feet difficult, if not impossible, while in winter it became hard and brittle, and it was not unusual for the wearer to have his shoes crack and fall off his feet.

The discovery of vulcanization, or curing of rubber, changed all this. Goodyear, while wearing an apron coated with uncured rubber, accidentally spilled some sulphur on it and leaned against a hot stove. Later examining the apron, he was surprised to observe the change which had taken place, the rubber being no longer sticky, but smooth and entirely changed in its characteristics. His quick mind grasped the cause and experiments soon proved the feasibility of curing or vulcanizing rubber with sulphur.

Many, no doubt, like the author of the famous saying that "eggs is eggs," believe that "rubber is rubber," and associate all rubber with the product of the great Amazon region in South America; the far-famed and justly celebrated Para rubber. There are, however, upward of one hundred varieties of crude rubber known to commerce; Mexico, South America, Africa, India and the Islands of the East Indian Archipelago all contribute their quota.

Crude rubbers are divided, roughly, into groups according to the species of tree from which they are gathered.

The standard among rubber sundry manufacturers is that known under the general name of fine Para. Even the name Para does not express an even quality, as there are numerous grades of this variety. The finest of all rubbers is generally conceded to be the grade known as Suarez, Beni Bolivian; fine Para from the Hevea tree, produced under most favorable conditions along the upper Amazon river.

Crude rubber is gathered today in much the same way as when first collected by the natives. Large forest tracts where trees grow wild are owned or controlled by Seringuerios, or proprietors; the tracts being known af Seingols. The natives gather the rubber and turn over to the Seringuerios a certain share for the privilege.

First a path is cut through the forest until an estrada, or trip is laid out. Then the trees along this trip are tapped by making a small incision by a machette about six feet from the ground. Below the incision a tin cup is hung on the tree to catch the latex or milk as it flows from the wound. The gatherer proceeds from tree to tree tapping and hanging the cups until a trip is completed.

He then pours the contents of each cup into a large vessel. This is carried to his hut, and a fire is built of boughs and a certain nut which gives a dense smoke, said to possess anticeptic qualities in the form of creosote.

The native takes a wooden paddle with a broad blade and from three to six feet long, holds it over the smoke, then dips it into the latex, again holding it over the smoke, and revolving it slowly, repeating the dipping and rolling operation until a ball or ham weighing about sixty pounds is formed. These hams consist of a number of layers, each slightly blacker on the outside from oxidation. Each layer usually represents a day's work; the oxidation taking place over night. Para rubber has an odor like that of a smoked ham, from which the ball rolled by the natives takes its name. The hams are collected and started in native boats down the Amazon on their long trip to the markets of the world.

Ceylon, or cultivated rubber, is gathered in Ceylon and India, from the cultivated hevea tree, originally brought from Brazil, and is fast becoming a very considerable factor in the rubber market.

The method of collecting cultivated rubber and preparing it for market is more scientific than that just described. The latex is collected and coagulated by acetic acid, washed, creped and dried the same day. It is sent to the market in creped sheets of a most beautiful amber shade, much lighter than the South American rubber, owing to the natural oxidation being eliminated.

Rubber so treated has the advantage of practically no shrinkage after washing. Fine Para shows a shrinkage of from 15 to 20 per cent. Cultivated rubber is not conceded by some manufacturers to be equal to fine Para, although the quality of Ceylon rubber is improving rapidly, and as a whole is graded very high: other manufacturers placing the grade known as Highlands smoked sheets on a par with Upriver fine Para.

Crude rubber reaches the factory in hams. The initial process in its manufacture is a thorough washing to remove foreign substances like dirt, tree bark, etc., which are mixed with it.

The hams are first softened in tanks of hot water; then sliced up with knives. The pieces are then ready for the washing mill, consisting of two cast iron rollers resting horizontally side by side, having groved ridges running lengthwise, and revolting inwardly at different speeds. Slices of rubber are dropped between the rolls, on which a stream of cold water is constantly running. The gripping action of the rollers tears the rubber to pieces while the water removes the impurities. This is known as "breaking down" and is frequently done many times to remove all impurities.

From here it is carried to the refining mill, where it is rolled into sheets, or crepes, as it is known.

From the refining mill it is taken to the drying room. There are two drying processes—steam drying and air drying. Air drying takes longer, is generally considered more satisfactory and is allowed by manufacturers who can afford to tie up a large quantity of valuable rubber for the time necessary. The rubber is hung on bars in darkened rooms for about thirty days. Fresh, dry air circulates about it, while the moisture-laden air is carried away. When properly dried it is conveyed on mechanical carriers to the compounding room.

Rubber in its crude form is not practical for use in rubber sundries. Ingredients must be added to fit it for the purpose for which it will later used; to give it strength, resiliency, durability and and proper color, to permit vulcanizing. Compounding rubber is a most intricate process and on the skill with which it is done depends the service of the finished article. When you consider the almost endless variety of colors and grades of finished rubber products, and that each requires different compounding ingredients, you will get some idea of how important expert compounding is.

Compounding is done on a mill having smooth rolls. A batch of rubber is fed between the rolls, spreading out over the entire surface. Compounding materials are sprinkled between the rolls and ground into rubber. It is fed in, cut, sliced and inserted again and again; this kneading being carried on to thoroughly distribute the compounding ingredients throughout the body of the rubber.

When the compounding process is completed, the rubber is taken from the mill, rolled up, dusted with fine powder, designated according to its finished quality, and stored away against future use.

The next process is calendering, or rolling the rubber out into sheets of proper thickness. Rubber can be calendered to tissue paper thinness, and from that up to a sheet as thick as required. After calendering it is rolled between strips of muslin to protect it.

From the calenders the rubber goes to the cutting room, where it is cut by hand or machine dies to the proper shape for the article to be made.

These operations bring the crude rubber through the first stage of factory operations. From this on, the processes vary according to the article made, the following being descriptive of the leading ones.

There are three generally used processes for the manufacture of water bottles and syring bags, as well as a great variety of smaller sundries, these being moulded, dipped and hand-made. Of these, the moulded process seems to be the one most favored for the two articles mentioned.

From the cutting room, the stock is carried to the press room, where it is placed in the moulds.

These moulds, in the case of a bottle or bag, are constructed of heavy steel and are usually in three parts: the core, around which the bottle is made, and the outer part forming the front and back of the bottle. The sheet for the back is first placed in position in the lower half of the mould, then the upper sheet over the core and finally the upper half of the mould.

The mould is then placed in the press and pressure gradually applied, live stram being injected all around the mould. The enormous pressure, together with the high temperature, renders the stock so plastic that it follows the conformation of every portion of the mould.

The process of vulcanizing or curing is carried on at the same time, and when the mould is opened and the bottle lifted out with the core inside, it is complete except for the various finishing operations necessary to fit it for use in the home; a bottle in one piece, without seams or bindings and strongly re-enforced with thicker rubber at the edges.

The bottle is removed from the core and sent to the trimming tables where the surplus edges are removed, thence to the hanging or ageing room where it is hung up, to remain a period of time to permit it to become acclimated, so to speak.

The dripping process is necessary in the manufacture of many items of rubber sundries, and that department is generally an important one in the average factory making sundries.

Favorable atmospheric conditions are essential to the dripping process and the writer knows of one factory which has assured uniformity both of temperature and humidity, by spending thousands of dollars in installing a humidifying plant. All outside air entering the factory is washed and treated and moisture added to or taken from it as conditions demand.

As the dripping process necessitates the use of rubber in liquid form the preparation of the stock is carried on in an entirely different manner than when used in the moulded process. The rubber is taken to the mixing room, where it is placed in revolting mixers, with proper solvents and mixed until it has become liquid.

From here it is taken to the dip rooms and placed in tanks having a reversible upper structure, from which the forms are suspended.

The forms used are shaped to faithfully reproduce the article required which may be a nipple, a glove, a bulb, a cap or a rubber balloon. They are carefully cleaned and mounted on boards; the boards then fastened to the reversible rack above the tank. They are lowered until the forms dips into the rubber solution. Every precaution must be taken to avoid agitating the liquid causing air bubbles, which forms blisters in the finished article. After the dip, forms are raised and allowed to drip, the rack reversed to bring the forms right side up and the forms dry. Then the dipping is repeated until the proper thickness has been obtained. Some goods require more dips than others, from 10 to 15 not being unusual. Between dips, the tanks must be covered to keep the solution clean and free from dirt specks, and such foreign matter.

When the dripping is completed the boards are carried to the finishing room, where the various finishing touches are given them. From here the goods, still on the forms, go to the curing rooms. Here they are subjected to a number of cures depending on the nature of the goods.

Before the curing or vulcanizing is effected, the goods are utterly useless for service, as they do not have elasticity, strength or any of the properties usually associated with rubber, the curing process being necessary to bring them out. From the cure the goods pass to the strippers who remove them from the forms and send them on their way to the clearing house for examination and packing ready for market.

You may well wonder why it is that water bottles, for instance, vary in grade inasmuch as they are all made of rubber, and in more or less the same way. They are all made of rubber, true, but not all the same kind of rubber; not all have the same compounding ingredients and not all are made with the same degree of skill. Rubber itself is one of the most inconsistent of raw materials. It may be said to never be the same, and give the same rubber, the same ingredients and the same facilities, two men will secure widely different results.

"Pure Para" is a misleading term—and a much abused one. Practically all rubber is "pure" commercially after being refined as it is now-a-days. But all the refining in the world will not make a rubber that is low grade in the first place high grade after the refining is done. Appearances are deceiving, too. Goods that look fine may not wear fine because it is one thing to manipulate the rubber to get a fine appearance and quite another to manipulate it to secure the strength, substance and "life," as the rubber man would call it, upon which wearing qualities depends.

My Auto, 'Tis of Thee.

My auto, 'tis of thee, short cut to poverty—of thee I chant. I blew a pile of dough on you two years ago, and now you refuse to go, or won't or can't. Through town and country side, you were my joy and pride—a happy day. I loved thy gaudy hue, thy nice, white tires so new, but now you're done and through in every way. To thee, old rattle box, came many bumps and knocks; for thee I grieve. Badly thy top is torn, frayed are thy seats and worn; a whooping cough effects thy horn—I do believe. Thy perfume swells the breeze while good folks choke and weeeze as we pass by. I paid for thee a price, twould buy a mansion twice, now all are peddling ice—I wonder why? Thy motor has the grip, thy spark plug has the pip, and woe is thine, I, too, have suffered chills, ague and kindred ills, endeavoring to pay my bills, since thou were mine. No more 'twould choke the cow as once before. Yet if I had the mon, so help me, John—amen, I'd buy a car aghin and speed some more.—Trestle Board.

Can't Convince The Women.

Customer: You can't improve on nature.

Druggist: That may be, but you'd be surprised at the amount of complection dopes we sell.

The Rosebush.

The bush whereon the blushing rose, when things are favorable, grows, is looking sick and blue; to keep the bush from going dead, I give it arsenate of lead and London purple, too. I wash the stem with kerosene, and dope the leaves with Paris green, and other compounds weird; and as I use the poisoned dope, I feel the shriveling of hope, and tears stream down my beard. And as I toil I wonder why the lovely things must always die, without a good excuse; the jimpson and the mullein thrive, the cockleburs are still alive—you cannot cook their goose. A Keats will perish in his youth, while some old cross-roads bard, forsooth, will live two hundred years. a hero dies early, as a rule, but for a century the mule will wag its misfit ears. The cow that gives all kinds of milk, whose butterfat is fine as silk, will seek the railway track, and there she'll stand and chew her gums, until a locomotive comes, and telescopes her back. With thoughts like these I stand and spray my dying rosebush every day, and know it's all in vain, for everything that's lovely dies, and man can only swat the flies in sorrow and in pain.—Walt Mason, The Poet Philosopher.

It is not the drinker, but the man who has just stopped drinking, who thinks the world is going to the dogs.

BRISCOE

"The Best-liked Car in the Country"

A Power-Plant That's Full of "Pep"

The marvelous responsiveness of the long-stroke motor in the Briscoe Twenty-four is the wonder of everyone who rides in the car.

A quick pick-up on the getaway; an effortless smoothness of operation—and when you come to a hill or a bad stretch, a plentiful reserve of power that carries you through with never a falter.

With a 3½-inch bore and a 5½-inch stroke, this Briscoe-built motor develops the last atom of power from a gallon of fuel—and the Briscoe design has reduced friction—and wear—to a minimum.

Come in and see this "latest Briscoe beauty"—it's a record-maker at the price.

A Meal for Every Hour's Work

WE never claimed that a Mogul 8-16 kerosene tractor would take the place of horses entirely, but we do claim that a Mogul 8-16 and a few brood mares will make more money for a farmer than he makes when he uses horses for all his work.

You may not realize it, but work horses are expensive. Do you know that in the course of a year, you give each one of your horses a square meal for every hour's work he does for you. It's a fact.

Get a Mogul 8-16 for all the hard work, keep a few brood mares for the light work, and to raise colts, and see what a difference there will be in your net profits at the end of the year. And now is the time to decide. Come in and see the tractor, and find out what it is doing for other farmers.

WILSON ONLY HIRTORICAL.

Now that the Republican nominations have been made and the Democratic nominations need no occultism to predict, the Republicans of the country can estimate the task before them in its full proportions. It will be a task to unseat Mr. Wilson and to seat Mr. Hughes. But this task has nothing like the portentiousness that might be superficially supposed. The stars in their courses are fighting against the retention of the Democrats in office. Mr. Wilson is not simply in the hands of the voters. He is in the hands of fate. Fate, in its ordinations, has made multitudes of men like Mr. Wilson the disappointed Moses of their times. Mr. Wilson has met the burden and the heat of the day. He has performed service of which history will not be oblivous and may approve. He will be found to have deserved well of the republic. There is no manner of question but that he will receive his just deserts—whatever they may be—from the impartial future chronicle who takes the long perspective view through the vistas of time. But the election will not turn upon what history will say of Mr. Wilson. It will turn upon what the present exigencies demand for the nation. Were the German controversy in an active stage there doubtless would be much present force in the adage of Mr. Lincoln as to the peril of swapping horses in the middle of a stream. But in the settlement of the submarine issue Mr. Wilson cut the stick to break his own back. He settled that issue in a way that history may approve. But it will require a generation to determine whether history will not approve. It will only require the coming election to disclose that he indeed settled it, but not to the satisfaction of hosts of the American people. The vote will so register.

To the contemporary view the Mexican policy has been of the character of the Mexican conditions—namely, a mess. History may say that no one could deal with a mess like that and not get messy himself. This is for history to determine.

Contemporary opinion is that the Mexican policy has been reprehensible from start to finish, with only a few stray gleams of consistency, settled intelligence and effectiveness. So that the vote in November will not be the dictum of history, but the expression of the people as to the attitude of the nation in relation to Mexico.

History may approve the slowness of Mr. Wilson to awake to the preparedness needs of the nation. In the general relations of the times it may find that this was the attitude of superior wisdom. But contemporary opinion holds that the slowness of the Presdent in this respect constituted a real peril to the nation which may not yet have been abated. The vote in November will be a vote of disapproval of the preparedness "slacking" as contrasted with the undoubted readiness the Republicans would have displayed.

Even in the matter of domestic policies, history, now inscrutable, may discover some reson in the administration's effort to turn the Philippines adrift amid the war-churned currents of the world. It may find some support for the Democratic contention that the Republican party in its domestic positions is unprogressive. But contemporary opinion will point to the so-called war tax, the depleted Treasury, the blow to American industries and the falling off before the war created abnormal conditions of the nation's exports and the high cost of living, unreduced and still soaring. And contemporary opinion will be registered at the polls and this will be decisive.

Thus the contest that will soon be on will be that of the contemporary judgment as opposed to an appeal to the unknowable verdict of history. As Americans do not elect presidents according to auguries drawn from the flight of birds and the like, but according to their estimation of the needs of the nation and the men to fill those needs, the Republicans may look for success—even omitting from view the normal superiority of their party at the polls.

A BIT OF HISTORY.

As has been previously stated no other highway in this country is so replete with interesting history as is the National Road, or more properly, the Old Cumberland Road, as it is designated in all the acts of Congress at the time the building of the road was under discussion. Although the construction of the road was begun during the fall of 1812, it was not opened for use to the public with elaborate demonstrations in all the towns through which it ran between Cumberland and Wheeling, until the year 1818.

Referring to the road at a later time Searight, in his history of "The Old Pike," says: "Its numerous and stately stone bridges with handsomely turned arches, its iron mile posts and old iron gates, attest the skill of the workmen engaged on its construction, and to this day remain enduring monuments of its grandeur and solidity, all save the iron gates which have disappeared by process of conversion prompted by some utilitarian idea savoring in no little measure of sacrilege. Many of the most illustrious statesmen and heroes of the early period of our national existence passed over the National Road from their homes to the capital and back at the opening and closing of the sessions of Congress. Jackson, Harrison, Clay, Sam Huston, Polk, Taylor, Crittenden, Shelby, Allen, Scott, Butler, the eccentric Davy Crocket, and many of their contemporaries in public service were familiar figures in the eyes of the dwellers by the roadside. As many as twenty four-horse coaches have been counted in line at one time on the road, and large broad-wheeled wagons, covered with white canvass stretched over bows, laden with merchandise and drawn by six Conestoga horses, were visible all the day long at every point, and many times until late in the evening, besides innumerable caravans of horses, mules, cattle, hogs and sheep. It looked more like the leading avenue of a great city than a road through rural districts."

The pen-picture that the historian of today may draw of life on the "Old Pike" is as different in character and variety as beautiful automobiles that spin over the smooth surface of the old highway differ from the old stage coaches that jolted over the lime-stone covering of the "Old Pike" in its primitive days. The study of these different characteristics in the old highway of the long ago and that of today, is one of the charms that the tourist may now enjoy to his or her heart's content.

THE "OLD PIKE" IS THE TOURIST'S MECCA.

Election Supervisors' NOTICE OF APPOINTMENTS OF Judges of Election and Registers of Voters

OFFICE OF
THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF ELECTIONS OF GARRETT COUNTY, MD.
OAKLAND, MD., JUNE 14, 1916.

By virtue of and in accordance with the provisions of Section 7 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of the State of Maryland, as mentioned by Chapter 202, of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed at its January session, 1896, notice is hereby given by the Board of Supervisors of Elections for Garrett county, Maryland, that said Board has selected the following named persons to be Registers of Voters and Judges of Election in and for the several Election Districts of said county, said officers to serve for the term of one year from the date of their appointment unless excused or removed from office. Notice is likewise given of the postoffice address of each person so selected and also the political party which the Board of supervisors of Elections intends each of said persons to represent, respectfully.

The law makes it the duty of the Board to examine promptly into any complaints which may be referred to them in writing concerning the qualifications of any of the above named appointees and to remove them from office if in their judgment they are unfit or incapable of discharging the duties incumbent upon them as election officials.

May H. Cassidy, Plaintiff v. Rosco C. Cassidy, Defendant.
No. 2087 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant.

The bill states that on the 6th day of March, 1912, the plaintiff was married to the said Rosco C. Cassidy at Grafton, West Virginia, with whom she resided in said town for about a month after their marriage, and then moved to Cleveland, Ohio, and there resided with her husband for a period of about eight months, at which time the plaintiff was to make a visit to her parents in Garrett county. On this trip her husband accompanied her as far as Wheeling, W. Va., and then told her that he would follow her in two weeks, and upon her return to her home in Garrett county she received a letter from him dated Illinois stating that he was going as far away as he could and that he would never live with her again.

The bill further states that the conduct of the plaintiff towards her husband has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, and that the defendant has without just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and declared his intention to live with her no longer.

That such abandonmhnt has continued uninterruptedly for at least three yeaas and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond hope of reconciliation.

That there was one child born of said marriage, Viz., Cora, about three years of age.

That the plaintiff has resided in Garrett county more than three years prior to the filing of this suit, and that the defendant is a non-resident of the state of Maryland.

The bill prays for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii by the plaintiff from the defendant, guardianship and custody of said infant child, general relief and an order of publication.

It is thereupon, this 31st day of May, 1916, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in Equity that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county once in each of four successive weeks before the 1st day of July, 1916, give notice to said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 17th day of July, 1916, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Porter L. Custer, et al., vs. Amanda Custer et al.
No. 1691 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this petition is to procure an order from the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in equity, authorizing and directing the Trustee named in the decree in this cause to pay over a certain amount of money audited to Ora Crissie to the petitioner, Patrick S. Fazenbaker.

The petition, after setting out the filing of the original bill, the passage of a decree of sale and the appointment of the trustees, states, that after the passage of said decree, but before the sale of said real estate to-wit: on the 1st day of November, 1915, the said Ora Crissie, together with her husband, sold and conveyed to the said Patrick S. Fazenbaker, all their rights, title and interest in the real estate in the proceedings meneloned, and executed and delivered a deed therefor, which deed has been already filed in this cause with the petition of the said Fazenbaker praying that he be admitted as a party defendant therein, and is now prayed to be taken and considered as a part thereof.

The petition further states that there has been an audit stated in said cause, and prays that the amount audited to the said Ora Crissie may be paid over to said petitioner.

It is thereupon, this 2nd day of May, 1916, ordered, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, in equity, that the petitioner, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett County, once in each of four successive weeks, before the 24th day of June, next, give notice to the said Ora Crissie of the object and substance of said petition, warning her to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 1st day of July, next, to show cause, if any she has, why an order ought not be passed as prayed. And it is further ordered, that in lieu of such publication, a copy of this order may be served personally upon the said Ora Crissie, on or before the 20th day of June, 1916, in accordance with Section 127 of Article 16 of the Code of Public General Laws of the State of Maryland, warning her to appear and show cause as aforesaid.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL SYSTEM FOR THE FARM

H. GWINNER,
Maryland Agricultural College Extension Service.

Following a recent announcement that the Division of Engineering of the Maryland Agricultural College was preparing plans and details for a sewage disposal system for the average farm, such a system has been put into working operation and a description of its construction and operation prepared.

The question may be asked why go to the expense of installing such a system on the average farm? In reply to this, it is only necessary to say that such a system does away with the unsanitary and unsightly privy and the pollution of the soil and wells due to the leaching of the liquid waste; producing typhoid and kindred diseases. A properly designed sewage system discharges only clear water; the solid matter in general having been consumed by certain mechanical and bacterial action in such a system. Any insoluble wastes may be easily removed from the system at little expense.

The system in question is designed to care for ten people and consists of two anti-freezing hoppers or toilets, about two hundred and sixty feet of six-inch vitrified sewer pipe and a dark, air-tight concrete tank; this latter being known as a septic tank. The water for flushing the toilets and the system when necessary is carried to the spot by a three-quarter inch galvanized pipe from the college main.

As the toilets are used in an outhouse, which has no heat, they are made frost proof or anti-freezing. This desirable arrangement is brought about by the water storage tank over the hopper or toilet being filled while the hopper is being used and it flushes automatically immediately the seat of the hopper rises.

The excreta or sewage, after leaving the toilets, is conveyed through the six-inch pipe to the septic tank. This pipe was laid in a carefully graded ditch, and owing to the lay of the land two grades were necessary; eight feet being on a 10 per cent grade and one hundred and twenty feet was laid on a 4½ per cent grade.

The septic tank, which receives the sewage, is made of a mixture of one part of cement, two parts of sand and four partsof gravel. The top, sides and ends and bottom were reinforced with steel rods. The tank has two compartments or chambers; one of which is the settling section and the other the discharge section. The sewage is descharged into, settled and partially purified in the settling chamber. It slowly seeps around the baffle boards over the concrete partition wall into the discharge chamber and when sufficient has collected in this chamber, it is intermittingly discharged from this chamber by an automatic siphon.

This septic tank has a capacity to take care of the flushings of forty gallons per person and to discharge at intervals between twelve and twenty-four hours. There is no advantage in having a tank larger than necessary to properly perform the work, for then the liquid sewage remains too long and putrefaction is likely to occur. If the siphon fails to discharge during the proper working periods, owing to not having received sufficient sewage, flush sufficient water through the toilets to make it do so.

The most difficult portion of the system to construct was the septic tank, owing to the steel reinforcing rods. The forming was of pine, one inch stuff, six inches wide and dressed both sides, while the bracing was two by four stuff. The top of the tank is not separate from the sides, but is molded with the sides and ends. Time consumed in completing tank by three laborers, carpenter and helper was four and one-half days and the cost, complete, was $82.10.

Anyone desiring more detailed information relative to the design, cost, details of construction of the system and blue print drawings of the tank, may obtain same by communicating with the Extension Service, Maryland Agricultural College, College Park, Md.

Synopsis Of Cost Of System.

Plumbing, including two anti-freezing Kemp toilets	$ 48.65
Two hundred and sixty feet of six-inch sewer tile in place	51.46
Septic tank complete	82.10
Mechanics, overseeing time	36.00
Total	$218.15

To this should be added the amount which would have to be paid a surveyor and assistant. It requires about two hours to run the proper lines by these two men.

The Extension Service of the Maryland Agricultural College, in co-operation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is prepared to conduct a limited number of co-operative spraying demonstrations. These are for the purpose of teaching the methods of mixing and applying the spray materials and for demonstrating the value of the operation. In these demonstrations, the obligations of the growers are to furnish the equipment chemicals, labor and to keep a record of the quality and quantity of fruit produced on both the sprayed trees and the unsprayed or check trees. On the other hand, the Extension Service will arrange for a man to go to the orchard as often as is necessary to supervise the work at no expense to the grower.

Pharmacy and National Preparedness.

Just now when the subject of National Preparedness is uppermost in men's minds it behooves the pharmacists of Iowa to give some thought to the position they they will occupy in case of war.

Dean Teeters of the Pharmacy College at Iowa City writes as follows:

"The College of pharmacy of the University of Iowa has decided to require regular drill in the batallion of all first year students in the College, beginning September, 1916.

The first half of the second year will be given up to theoretical instruction in hospital corps work.

We maintain that military training is a good thing for any man. He learns to take and obey orders, a very essential thing in life.

The exercise for anyone who has long laboratory hours is a good thing in itself.

If the time comes when the pharmacists of the state need to offer their services to our country the most natural place would certainly be in the hospital corps work. The knowledge they have of drugs is of value and their service in this field would be greater than any other."

The following extracts taken from a recent editorial in the Pharmaceutical Era contain much of value:

"From the very nature of the calling, pharmacy is closely allied to all of the great agencies which lieclose to the equipment of armies, to the manufacture of munitions, the food supply, the sanitation of camps, the care of hospitals; in short, the pharmacist is an important available factor in the maintenance of the health of the soldier, both on the firing line and in the battle against the insidious foe of disease incident to wounds of camp life in general.

"Every well regulated pharmacy has a more or less complete line of these necessities which could be made easily available if the government only said the word. Anesthetics, antiseptics, surgicaldressings, and most of the remedies and paraphernalia of hospitalwork are here ready to hand, and what is more, are made directly available by the fact that such supplies are in the hands of the man who is to use them. He comes to his assignment with a full knowledge of his responsibilities, the extent and condition of his stock, and is therefore an immediately effective unit in any mobilized force.

"Here then is a trained force whose power for valuable service needs only intelligent direction to make it a most important factor in the defense of country. The needs of the hour call for the co-operation of all citizens, and of each individual the best service he can render according to his training and education."

The program committee for the Iowa City Convention, June 21st, 22nd, 23rd, is planning on having an army officer address the pharmacists on the subject of the Pharmacist's Duty to his country in case of war.

CONTROL THE CODLING MOTH BY SPRAYING

T. B. SYMONS,
Maryland Agricultural College Extension Service.

Now that the dormant season spraying is over, orchardists must prepare for the control of the Codling Moth, which causes wormy apples, by treating their apple trees just as the blossoms fall.

The Codling Moth passes through the winter as a full grown larva in a small, white cocoon beneath or in crevices of the bark. About the time that apples bloom, the larva transforms to the pupa, from which the moth emerges.

The female lays from 50 to 60 eggs, mostly upon the foliage. The eggs hatch in from five to ten days, depending upon the season and temperature. The young larva usually feeds a little on the tender parts of the leaves before it crawls to the nearest young apple, which it attacks by entering the calyx cup. Some will enter the stem end or on the side. The larva continues to feed into the young fruit, its work being indicated by the well known excreta thrown out from the calyx, showing the worminess of the apple. The larva reaches maturity in from three to four weeks and eats its way out usually through the side of the apple, and seeks a secluded spot, where it spins its cocoon for transforming to the adult. In this region there is a partial second brood occurring about July 1st.

Controlling The Moth.

The Codling Moth is controlled by spraying with an arsenical such as Arsenate of Lead, Paris Green, etc.

Usually a combination spray is applied, using concentrated lime-sulphur solution, diluted at the rate of one and one-half gallons to a barrel of water for diseases, to which is added the arsenical—two pounds Paste Arsenate of Lead, or about one-third pound Paris Green. Most growers use Arsenate of Lead. If the powdered Arsenate of Lead is used—one pound to the barrel is sufficient.

Many commercial firms are selling Arsenate of Lime in place of Arsenate of Lead. This is a little cheaper and there is no reason why it should not be equally as effective on apple, but should not be used on peach and similar tender foliage plants.

Apply Properly.

It is very important in spraying for the Codling Moth that the work be thorough, and that the spray be applied with good power. Power sprayers are, of course, most desirable for this as well as other spraying. The foliage should be covered with the spray and special effort made to lodge the solution in the calyx cup of the blossoms.

Through extended tests it has been found that the Codling Moth can be usually controlled with one thorough spray applied just before the calyx cup closes, or as the blossoms fall.

With the high cost of arsenicals this season, we would recommend one spraying for this pest this season. Of course, it may be necessary to spray later on for the control of some diseases, such as Bitter Rot.

The above treatment for Codling Moth should also suffice to prevent injury from the Curculio on Apple.

EARLY SPRAYING FOR PEA LICE IS NECESSARY.

E. N. CORY,
Maryland Agricultural College.

The pea and melon lice are the most serious aphids with which the trucker has to deal. Pea lice live for approximately eight months of the year on clover, preferably on crimson clover, hence the first measure against the pea louse should be to remove the pea field as far from clover as practical or if it is necessary that both be close together, the clover should be turned under early in the spring.

Careful watch should be made in April for the first aphids, which are light green and about one-eighth of an inch long, and spraying should take place immediately after they are first observed.

A tractor sprayer with nozzles so arranged as to direct the spray over the top and both sides is the best machine to use. Four rows can be sprayed at once with such a machine. Use "Black Leaf 40," 1 to 640 parts of water or 10 ounces to 50 gallons—plus 4 pounds of fish oil soap. Using 75 gallons per acre, one application will cost approximately $2.80 per acre, including labor of two men, team and materials. The same mixture is effective on the melon aphis, a small black aphis, but the cost will be higher as the vines must be turned over and back again, since the aphis cluster on the under side of the leaves.

Weeds take out of the soil plant food which should be utilized by the desired crop. Everyone knows, also, that a good, clean, well cultivated garden with straight rows has a much better appearance than a garden full of weeds. Sometimes the ground between the rows of certain vegetables is mulched with straw, strawy manure or sawdust to prevent the evaporation of moisture and keep down weeds.

At Last--A One-Adjustment Cream Separator

BEFORE you buy any cream separator, come in and look at the Primrose. But one adjustment is needed to keep it in perfect operating condition. This adjustment is a simple one for keeping the bowl at the correct height—an adjustment that you or your wife can safely make.

The adjustment is made from the outside of the separator by either raising or lowering the bearing containing the hardened steel point, upon which the spindle revolves. A slight turn with a screwdriver, perhaps once a year, does the work.

The Primrose is a well-constructed, close-skimming, durable cream separator, one it will pay you well to buy. When can you arrange to see it?

NATIONAL GUARD ORDERED OUT

Approximately 90,000 Men to Be Mustered Into U. S. Service and Rushed to Border

44 STATES GET SUMMONS

New York Guard Organization Will Be Mobilized as a Tactical Division and Will Be Recruited to Full War Strength of 22,500 Men.

Washington.—President Wilson issued a call to National Guard organizations of every State in the Union for service on the Mexican border.

According to the last reports of the Division of Militia Affairs of the War Department, the "paper" strength of the entire National Guard exclusive of coast artillery was something over 117,000 enlisted men.

The total number of enlisted men called for in the summons, exclusive of signal corps and medical corps, is 93,518, divided as follows: Infantry, 76,115; cavalry, 6,435; field artillery, 9,928, and engineers, 1,040.

Although the purpose of the action as set forth in the formal call is for the protection of the American frontier from invasion, the opinion prevails throughout Washington that it marks the first step of intervention in Mexico. For more than three years President Wilson has exhausted every other expedient practically in an effort to avoid such a step.

The action is understood to have been precipitated by a despatch from Gen. Funston predicting trouble all along the Rio Grande in an effort on the part of the Mexicans to force the Americans to withdraw from Mexican soil.

Under Section 8 of he Constitution of the United States, the militia may be called out only "to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions." In the present instance it is said the last specified purpose is intended.

It is declared to be a debatable point in law whether, in an effort to repel an invasion, the militia could be sent across the Mexican frontier to meet an advancing foe. In army circles the opinion was expressed that if the Mexicans attempt any aggression Gen. Funston will need all of the National Guard to defend the border owing to the tremendous stretch of the international boundary line.

It is anticipated that the Mexicans would first aim in the direction of the Big Bend district of Texas, where most of the recent raids have occurred and where it has been extremely difficult for the regular army forces of the United States to patrol.

Gen. Pershing, with headquarters at Namiquipa, is believed to have sufficiently established himself to overcome any force that may attack him. His weakest point has been at Pulpit Pass, an opening in the mountains, dividing the states of Sonora and Chihuahua, through which Mexican force might attack his line of communication. Recently, however, he has placed a large force at the eastern end of the pass and Gen. Funston has concentrated another large force, including the Sixth Field Artillery, at Douglas, Ariz., where it could be rushed to the western entrance to the pass.

Although every State in the Union and the District of Columbia is affected by the call, not all of the organizations of each State are called out. None of the coast artillery units of the National Guard is affected.

The New York State contingent called out, the largest of any summoned, includes one division of three brigades of three regiments each of infantry, one regiment, one squadron and one machine gun troop of cavalry, two regiments of field artillery, two battalions of engineers, one battalion of signal corps, three field hospital companies and four ambulance companies The New York forces are to mobilize at the State camp at Beekman, about sixty miles north of New York City on the Central New England Railroad.

CALIFORNIA SHAD IN EAST.

Cost Four Cents to Ship Each Fish of Frozen Carload.

Philadelphia.—A carload of frozen shad arrived here from the Sacramento River, California. The freight charges averaged nearly four cents for each fish. Along the Delaware River and in the bay the present shad season has been one of the poorest in 30 years, and dealers found it necessary to bring the popular fish across the continent. Oil and acids, polluting the Delaware, are responsible.

Chief Justice White, for the Court, held that the point was one for Congress to consider and not for the courts.

U. S. TROOPS HUNT SAN IGNACIO BAND

Three 14th Cavalry Soldiers Killed and Five Wounded in Early Morning Raid

"HOT TRAIL" NOW SOUGHT

One Hundred Maurauders Are Surprised by Cavalry, Who Kill Eight in Moonlight Fight—Six Americans Are Wounded.

Laredo, Texas.—One hundred Mexican bandits made a moonlight raid across the Rio Grande River, forty miles southeast of here, and made an attempt to pass the American border patrol near San Ignacio.

They expected to find a very small detachment of American soldiers. Instead, they ran into Troops I and M of the Fourteen Cavalry, numbering 140 men, under Major Alonzo Gray, "dug in," or entrenched.

Three American soldiers were killed and six wounded. Two were fatally wounded. Eight Mexicans are dead and as many more were wounded.

The wounded are Privates Thomas H. Ewing, James E. Rouch, William Minnett ,Tony Havlina, Henry Matasoff and Corporal William Oberlies.

The raiding party broke up into groups of twos and threes. Some of them fled back across the Rio Grande, but many are believed to be hidden in the mesquite on the American side.

In the meantime the cavalry detachments of the border guard are compelled to ignore other forces of the Luis de la Rosa command, concentrated across the river, waiting for similar opportunity to make surprise night attacks or ranch raids.

De la Rosa boasted he would make four raids. He has made two.

FATAL PIER FIRE AT BALTIMORE

Men Trapped in Burning Elevators and Steamers.

Baltimore.—About 10 men went to a horrible death, nearly 35 were more or less severely injured by burns and falls, about $2,000,000 in property was destroyed and the grain industry of Baltimore given a severe blow when No. 3 elevator of the Northern Central Railway, the superstructure of the vast grain dryers, and the big ore pier at Canton were burned. Two steamships and several schooners were partially destroyed.

Estimates of the actual loss of life vary. From best posted authorities it seemed assured that 10 men died by fire in the grain elevator itself or died in leaps of from 150 to 180 feet to the pier and water, while many sailors were injured. The side walls of the elevator crushed upon the Dutch steamer Wilhelm Van Driel, Sr., smashing the superstructure of the ship.

Most of the men who leaped from the elevator windows did not do so until the flames were so close upon them that they saw all other means of escape were entirely cut off. In fact many of them were licked by tongues of fire before they could make up their minds to jump.

The big grain elevator, which is a total loss, was valued at about $400,000 while the grain dryers of which the superstructures burned, was damaged to the extent of about $200,000. The contents of grain of the big elevator, nearly 1,000,000 bushels in all, is a total loss of about $1,000,000. The grain in the dryers, about 500,000 bushels in all, with 1,000 gallons of gasoline in a contiguous structure, is believed to have been saved from serious damage .

RUSSIANS TAKE 170,000 TEUTONS

Austrians, Reinforced by Prussian Guards, Attempt Great Offensive and Are Repulsed

INACTIVITY AROUND VERDUN

Petrograd.—The great drive into Galicia seems to gather momentum as it progresses. The last report by Army Headquarters chronicles a series of fights along the 600-mile battle-front, several of which under other circumstances would be ranked as important battles.

The report records also the capture of 100 more Austro-Hungarian officers and 14,000 troops, bringing the total up to date to about 170,000.

At several points on the line the Austrian resistance seems to be stiffening, notably northwest of Buczacz, on the Stripa.

The Russians, however, report the capture of 6,000 men in this region, together with guns and machine guns.

In the Sokul region the Austrians launched a powerful counter-attack, but it failed to check the drive. North of Rojitche the Russians captured 20 officers and 1,750 men.

Near Kremenez there was another desperate fight, in which the Austrians were finally dislodged from fortified positions on the river Bluichevka.

This battle afforded one of the most picturesque incidents of the movement. Young troops, in the face of fierce Austrian resistence wereordered to cross the river, and rushed in, with the water up to their chins. An entire company was engulfed and disappeared, but the remainder pressed on, and under their fierce attacks the Austrians broke and fled in disorder.

About 5,000 Austrians and seventy of their officers were captured in this action, besides many machine guns and an enormous amount of barbed wire.

A dispatch from Bucharest confirms the astonishing efficiency of the Russian artillery and armored automobiles. The latter have in one sector of the front replaced the cavalry, pursuing the Austrians and creating terrible havoc with their machine guns.

Petrograd advices state that the first German reinforcements sent to help arrest the Russian advance from Lutsk were a division of Guards, which failed, however, to check the advance and was obliged to retire, suffering serious losses.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg also sent his chief of staff, Gen. Ludendorff, to help Archduke Friedrich. Both came too late, however.

AUSTRIAN ARMY CUT OFF.

Paris.—The enormous Russian armies led by Gen. Brusiloff continued their great offensive into Galicia, Volhynia and Bukowina, taking and investing numerous additional Austrian positions. Attacking in dense waves the Czar's troops, regardless of losses in men, forced Gen. von Bothmer's army further back, near and north of Przvloka, Gen. Pflanzer's army in the Bukowina was cut off from Lemberg on the north.

The Czar's soldiers advanced along the Pruth practically to the gates of Czernowitz and immediately to the north of it have taken several points along the direct line of railroad running toward Lemberg, the Galician capital. Kolomea is the objective of the north of Czernowitz attack.

Military experts in London believe that the Russians now occupy the entire line of the Strypa, and that a wedge has been driven into the enemy's front in Volhynia, 40 miles deep and 75 miles wide, separating the Austrians from the Germans and threatening Kovel.

The wedge south of the Dniester, which is 30 miles deep and 35 miles wide, isolates the Bukowina.

PITH OF THE WAR NEWS

The Russian army, advancing in the region of the Pruth river captured Czernowitz, capital of the Bukowwina, a city of 70,000. Its evacuation by the Austrians had been in progress for a week.

To the north, in Galicia and Volhynia, the Austro-Hungarians and Germans are contesting every foot.

Fresh attempts by the Germans against the French positions northeast and northwest of Verdun met with no success says the French War Office, and the Germans suffered many casualties in their attacks.

Two attacks by the Germans on the east of the Meuse in the Verdun region, one against the Thaumont farm and the other against French trenches on the southern edge of the Bois de la Caillette, southwest of Fort Douaumont, failed.

The Austrians, reinforced by the Germans, have attempted to take the offensive on many sectors of the long front, but failed at every point. WARNS U.S. WAR WILL BEGIN IF DRIVE EXTENDS

Trevino, Carranza General, Commanding 50,000 Troops, Sends Word to Pershing

AMERICAN TROOPS IN EL PASO UNDER ARMS

Punitive Expedition, Well Equipped, Guards Road From Namiquipa to Columbus—Excitement in El Paso.

El Paso, Tex.—General Jacinto Trevino, commanding fifty thousand Mexican troops in Chihuahua, acting upon specific instructions from President Carranza, sent an ultimatum to General John J. Pershing, commander of the American punitive expedition in Mexico.

Trevino's dispatch to the commander of the American forces says:

Any movement of troops of the American forces now in Mexico in any of the directions of south, east or west, will be considered an overt act against the sovereignty of the Republic of Mexico and will be the signal for a general attack by the Carranza forces.

News of the ultimatum reached El Paso in the form of a telegraph dispatch which was permitted to pass uncensored over the Carranza military wires between Chihuahua City and Juarez. With apparent eagerness Carranza officials in Juarez forwarded the dispatch across the river.

Troops Held in Camp.

General Bell, commanding at Fort Bliss, issued orders at 4 P. M. to the commanders of the various troop detachments which are encamped about the city, instructing them to hold all officers and men in camp in readiness for any development.

At the same time the Provost Marshal sent patrols through the streets, ordering all soldiers to their camps or posts. In the motion picture theatres announcements were flashed on the screens, informing all soldiers in the house to report to their commanders at once. Officers were called from clubs, and several social affairs were indefinitely postponed.

In the Mexican town across the river the streets were thronged with motley crowds of soldiers, recently arrived from the South, and thousands of refugees, who have been arriving daily from the famine-stricken areas in the interior. Agitators addressed the crowds with strong anti-American sentiments from the street corners.

"We have rifles," they said. "Plenty of rifles. Good rifles and ammunition. Good lead; not for our brothers this time, but for the Gringos."

Under Pershing's command at present there are nearly 15,000 troops, about one-half of the entire mobile army of the United States. The remainder is strung along the 3,000 miles of Mexican border.

The length of the line from Namiquipa and the topography of the surrounding country make the present position of the American troops in Mexico a particularly hard one to maintain. There are many points along the side where a surprise attack would cut the advance guard off from the base at Columbus. The force under command of General Trevino is estimated at 50,000 men.

14 GERMAN SHIPS SUNK.

London.—An important victory by the Russians in the Baltic Sea, near the Swedish coast, is reported in news dispatches, which say it is believed a German auxiliary cruiser and destroyer and twelve merchantmen were sunk.

A message from Nykoping, Sweden, reports thirteen German merchant vessels which were coming from the north, convoyed by an auxiliary cruiser and torpedo boats and armed trawlers, were attacked by a squadron of Russian destroyers, torpedo boats and submarines.

Library Board Adopts Resolutions

At a meeting of the Library Board on Thursday night of last week the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased God in His Infinite Wisdom to call to her home Miss Cora Weimer,

Be it resolved, That we, the Library Board of Garrett county, deeply regret her early death and that we extend to the bereaved family our sincere sympathy.

Resolved, That we greatly appreciate Miss Weimer's faithful and efficient services as librarian and also as treasurer of the Library Association.

Be it further resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Association, that they be published in the local papers, and that a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

The Board elected Mrs. Nettie Thrasher as new librarian and Mr. Joseph Harned as treasurer.

It was decided to open the library on two days of each week, Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, from 1:30 to 9:00 o'clock. The Reading Room will be open as usual every day except Sunday.

The library is proving itself a splendid success. During the month of March 395 books were taken out; April, 356; May (a busy month) 275, and during the first two days of June, 66. There are about 500 volumes in the library, and 244 persons have drawn out books besides the large number using the reading room.

Tell your friends about the library. Don't forget to bring in your new magazines when you have read them.

MRS. O. A. BREMER, Sec'y.

SAXON "SIX"

big touring car for five people

Dramatic Editor of New York Journal Praises his Saxon "Six."

I have been driving a Saxon "Six" for the past month, and wish to offer an unsolicited recommendation.

To begin with, I own a seven-passenger car and have owned $5,000 cars for the past seven years. It is a remarkable fact, but I have never had any desire to operate a car myself, and have always employed a chauffeur. When I bought the Saxon "Six" I took one lesson, and then went forth in the "City of Gasoline" as my own chauffeur.

The car itself is a masterpiece in mechanism. It answers every call of the foot and hand. In short, it runs itself.

When you are stopped by traffic, and you want to start, it is off so fast, you are compelled to hold it back. Going up a hill, is the same as coasting down one. In appearance, no car for the money can approach it. When you pass others, whether they are in autos, or are walking on the street, they look upon this six-cylinder wonder in admiration, and only pass the most pleasing remarks.

Every man that owns a big car should own a Saxon "Six," and operate it himself to and from his office. Of course, it is hard to convince some men that they could run a car, but, if they tried once, it would settle the question.

I consider the Saxon "Six" a wonderful purchase for the money.

C. F. ZITTEL, Dramatic Editor, New York Journal.

For a Demonstration of this wonderful car, call at Liller's Barber shop or Kelly's Livery, Oakland.

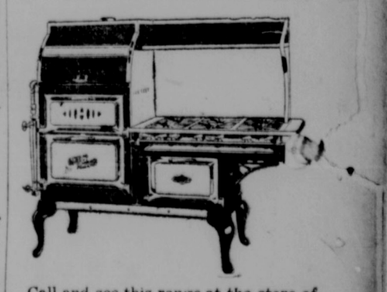
Do You Use Gas?

If you do come to W. E. Shirer and inspect and have demonstrated to you the Direct Action Gas Range, with the regular cooking top, and the Direct Action Oven with the fireless cooker convenience added. The oven is the most essential part of all ranges and this range possesses the most marvelous oven yet produced which is a cooking oven as well as a baking oven and can be used to boil and bake at the same time.

The oven of this gas-range is operated on a distinctly new principle. The burners are placed in the oven itself; hence the name, "direct action." In design the range is on efficient cabinet type with a comfortable working height of thirty-two inches. Connected with the oven is a thermostat which reduces automatically the amount of gas allowed to flow through the burner at any temperature indicated. Thus at 200 degrees F. only a sub-flame burns, while if the thermostat is set for a temperature of 300 degrees F. the furners show a full flame until 325 degrees F. is reached, when the supply of gas is cut off and the flame is reduced to a mere pin-point, capable of maintaining the temperature set. With this arrangement an oven of known temperature can be indefinitely maintained, and this is a marked advance in gas-cookery. The food is first placed in the oven, the gas is then lighted, and the thermostat is set for the desired temperature. The practical results obtained in this oven, as well as the temperature readings, show it to be an excellent investment.



Call and see this range at the store of W. E. Shirer any day or if you phone W. E. Shirer he will demonstrate to you any evening. This range must be seen to be appreciated.

DELBERT LICHLITER, FARMER, TOOK HIS OWN LIFE

Went to Field For Cows and Never Returned—Body Found By Daughter.

Delbert Lichliter, aged about forty-five years, a farmer of Garrett county, who bought the Sampson Custer farm near Hoyes five years or more ago and moved on it with his family from Connellsville, Pa., committed suicide on Monday morning of this week by shooting himself through the left side, the bullet, fired from a 38-calibre revolver, entering his heart and killing him almost instantly.

A statement made to State's Attorney Jones and Sheriff Ashby, who had been summoned immediately after the discovery of the body, by Mrs. Lichliter, is substantially as follows:

"Mr. Lichliter arose about half past five as waa his usual custom went to the pasture field for the purpose of bringing in the cows. Not returning I sent my eldest daughter to the field and just as she reached the top of the slight rise separating the pasture lot from the house she heard a shot and going to the spot where the explosion had occurred she found the body of Mr. Lichliter lying by the side of a fallen log, a revolver some four of five feet from him and his outer shirt on fire, presumably from the explosion of the powder when he fired. My daughter came running back to the house and acquainted me with what she had witnessed."

The State's officers were notified of the sad occurrence shortly after and State's Attorney Jones, in company with Sheriff Ashby and Justice of the Peace West went in an automobile to the Lichliter farm and there impannelled a jury of inquest, examined several witnesses and the jury rendered a verdict that the man came to his death by reason of his own act.

No apparent good reason has been assigned why the unfortunate man took his own life except that last fall he lost a number of cattle as the result of a disease breaking out among them, after which he became dispondent and was later taken ill, but seemed to have regained his health to some degree.

He is survived by his widow and seven children, two of whom are married. One of the married children is at home along with five younger ones whose ages range from 3 to 13 years.

The remains of the deceased were taken to Connellsville, his former home and interred yesterday.

John Brown, the negro murderer of an aged white woman, who is to be hanged in Hagerstown on Friday, "seems oblivious to his fate," says the Morning Herald. He is smiling and talkative and asks frequently how the negro troops are making out in Mexico. His appetite is good and he sleeps soundly. Sheriff Long says the execution will be surrounded with the privacy required by law. This will be the third hanging in Washington county. At the first many years ago three men were executed for murder, and the second was in 1899, a negro being hanged for rape. One of the most noted crimes in Western Maryland was that of Sheriff George Swearingen, of Washington county, who killed his wife, and was hanged at Cumberland in 1828.

ONE BLOOMINGTON MINER KILLED; ANOTHER INJURED

Fall of Roof In Pattison Mine Fatal to Emory Weimer.

Emory Weimer, 35 years old, the father of three children, the youngest of whom is five days old, was killed instantly on last Friday morning when more than two tons of rock fell upon him from the roof of the Pattison mine at Bloomington just as he was preparing to begin his days work.

Weimer, in company of Ray Paugh, 21 years old, married and the father of a three months' old child, had just gone into the mine and were in the act of getting a car ready to load with coal, when the fall came, catching the former immediately beneath it and crushing him to death. Paugh was out of the direct range of the fall, but was caught by the fall and his spine injured to such an extent that it is feared he will die.

The injured man was taken from the mine as quickly as possible and rushed to a hospital where he is receiving treatment, while the remains of Weimer were taken to his home and on Sunday interred.

MOTORISTS COME TO GRIEF AT WEBER CROSSING

Two Young Men of Davis, Returning Home, Run Into Moving Freight.

Two young men, named Dayton and Boozman, respectively, came within an ace of losing their lives beneath the wheels of a west bound freight train at the Weber crossing on the State road east of Oakland at an early hour Tuesday morning when their automobile crashed into one of the cars of the train and the occupants of the machine were hurled with much force through the windshield and out upon the wreckage of the automobile.

The two young men, both of whom had driven from their homes at Davis on Monday, were returning about three o'clock Tuesday morning over the State road, and reaching the top of the hill at the entrance to the Weber farm they allowed their antomobile to drift down the incline toward the Baltimore and Ohio tracks unaware of the fact that a long freight train was passing owing to the heavy blanket of fog at the time. At the crossing the car came into contact with the train and as a result it was hurled to one side and almost completely wrecked, the occupants being thrown through the windshield, the flying glass cutting Boozman severely about his head, while Dayton escaped with minor bruises notwithstanding the fact that he catapulted through the shield and found himself lying on top of the car's motor.

Dr. Hinebaugh was summoned by telephone and going to the Weber place he brought both men to the hospital here and gave them treatment. Later in the day they were taken home by some friends at Davis who came here for that purpose.

The forward part of the automobile they were driving is a complete wreck.

Orphans' Court Proceedings.

The semi-monthly session of the Orphans' Court was held on Tuesday of this week with all members of the court present, when the following business was transacted:

Gilmor S. Hamill was appointed administrator of the estate of Mrs. S. O. Sawyer.

Walter D. Smith appointed administrator of the estate of Mrs. Minnie Smith.

Several accounts of administrators were presented and passed.

Mrs. N. C. Guthrie, of Brooklyn, N. Y., sister of the late Gov. Wm. M. O. Dawson, of West Virginia, and cousin of Dr. H. M. Kemp, of Bloomington, was the guest for several days last week of Prof. and Mrs. F. E. Rathbun at their home in Oakland.

County Commissioner George Warnick and Postmaster Jacob Stump, both of Bloomington, were in Oakland last Friday, driving from here to their home in an automobile which was recently purchased by Mr. Stump at Sheriff's sale.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MRS. MARIAH JAMESSON.

Mrs. Mariah Mountz Jamesson, wife of Mr. William T. Jamesson and mother of Mrs. James A. Delawder, died at the home of the latter in Oakland Tuesday morning at eleven o'clock after an illness of several months due to the infirmities of old age. The deceased lady was eighty-three years of age. She is survived by her husband, the venerable William T. Jamesson, and by two children, Mrs. Jsmes A. Delawder and Mr. Frank Jamesson, the latter of Piedmont, W. Va. Both Mr. and Mrs. Jamesson have made their home with Mrs. Delawder for the past year. The remains of the deceased were taken to Piedmont yesterday morning and the interment will occur at that place today. Mrs. Jamesson was a most excellent lady, a member of the Presbyterian church and her death is sincerely regretted by a large circle of friends.

Married.

HAUSER—SANDERS—Last night at the Red House Lutheran church, eight miles south of Oakland, Miss Laura E. Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sanders, became the bride of Rev. Ernest Roy Hauser, a young Lutheran divine who until recently was stationed at Somerset, Pa., but who will take a new charge at Altoona, Pa., very shortly. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the Red House church, the Rev. Sloop, assisted by the Rev. O. A. Bremer, pastor of St. Mark's church in Oakland. The bride was beautifully gowned in white satin and was attended by maids likewise gowned. The groom wore black. Both are well known and highly esteemed by a large circle of friends.

Porch Party for Library Benefit.

Arrangements have been completed for holding a porch party at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Sincell, Second street, this evening, the proceeds of the affair to be devoted to the public library. The citizens of Oakland and also of Mountain Lake Park are cordially invited to attend. Ice cream strawberries, cake, etc., will be served.

EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION ENDS SESSION

Twenty-Fifth Annual Gathering of Representatives in Oakland this Week

The twenty-fifth annual convention of Oakland Epworth League which began its sessions in St. Paul's M. E. church in Oakland Tuesday evening at eight o'clock closes this morning after electing officers for the ensuing year.

The session Tuesday evening opened with a praise service and an address of welcome delivered by Mr. E. R. Jones, which was responded to by Rev. Paul Flanagan, of the Park, after which Rev. J. W. Bickford, of Frostburg, delivered an address to the assembled delegates.

Yesterday morning's session opened with a praise and prayer service and an address by Rev. Dr. U. S. Wright, of Mt. Lake Park, who has earned considerable reputation as a public speaker upon bible and topics of the day. Dr. A. Moore conducted the round table, assisted by the Rev. W. E. Craig, of Elkins. The afternoon sessions were interesting and full of interest not only to the delegates assembled but to all who attended.

This morning the session was largely devoted to the experiences as related by the delegates in attendance, closing with the election and installation of officers.

Road Commissioner Clinton Uhl, of Allegany county, accompanied by Engineer Downey of the Commission and Mr. W. E. G. Hitchens, of Frostburg, spent Tuesday in the vicinity of Oakland on road business, the principal object of the gentlemen here being for the purpose of going over and locating the route for the new State road leading from Oakland to the West Virginia State line near Hutton. The routes by Crellin and by the Mackin farm were both gone over by the officials. As yet they have not decided which route will be adopted for the proposed new road.

ROOSEVELT FOR HUGHES; SOUNDS CALL TO PARTY

Declines Nomination of Progressives Finally in Long Statement.

Chicago June 26.—Theodore Roosevelt National Committee in session at Chicago Monday finally declined to accept the Presidential nomination of the party and strongly urged the organization to support Charles E. Hughes. The Colonel's letter was read by Oscar King Davis, secretary of the Committee.

The Colonel's letter, which is very lengthy, says, in part:

To the Progressive National Committee:

Gentlemen—In accordance with the message I sent to the Progressive National Convention as soon as I had received the notification that it had nominated me for President, I now communicate to you my reasons for declining the honor which I so deeply appreciate. Since the adjournment of the Convention I have received between 2000 and 3000 letters and telegrams from men who had supported me for the nomination, the majority expressing the desire that I would refuse to run, while a minority urged that I should accept the nomination. As it is a physical impossibility to answer these letters and telegrams individually, I beg of the courtesy of the senders that they will accept this public statement in lieu of such answers.

Events have shown that the Progressive party in 1912 offered the only alternative to the triumph of the Democratic party. Moreover, these events have shown that the application of the principles which we then advocated is even more necessary to this nation than we at the time supposed.

Sooner or later the national principles championed by the Progressives of 1912 must in their general effect be embodied in the structure of our national existence. With all my heart I shall continue to work for these great ideals shoulder to shoulder with the men and women who in 1912 championed them; and I am sure that these men and women will show a like loyalty to the other, the fundamental, ideals which the events of the past two years have proved to be vital to the permanency of our national existence. The method by which we are to show our loyalty to these ideals must be determined in each case by the actual event. Our loyalty is to the fact, to the principle, to the ideal, and not merely to the name and least of all to the party name.

The Progressive movement has been given an incalculable impetus by what the Progressive party has done. Our strongest party antagonists have accepted and enacted into law, or embodied in their party platforms, very many of our most important principles. Much has been accomplished in awakening the public to a better understanding of the problems of social and industrial welfare.

Yet it has been entirely evident that the people under existing conditions are prepared to accept a new party.

It is impossible for us Progressives to abandon our convictions. But we are faced with the fact that as things actually are the Progressive national organization no longer offers the means whereby we can make these convictions effective in our national life. Under such circumstances, our duty is to do the best we can, and not to sulk because our leadership is rejected.

That we ourselves continue to believe that the course we advocated was in the highest interest of the American people is aside from the question. It is unpatriotic to refuse to do the best possible merely because the people have not put us in position to do what we regard as the very best. It remains for us, good-humoredly and with common sense, to face the situation and endeavor to get out of it the best that it can be made to yield from the standpoint of the interests of the nation as a whole.

This was the situation at the opening of the present year. It was clearly evident that unless a cataclysm occurred the Presidential election would result in the choice of either the Republican or the Democratic nominee. The present administration during its three years of life had been guilty of shortcomings more signal than those of any Administration since the days of Buchanan.

From the standpoint of national honor and interest, it stood on an even lower level than the Administration of Buchanan. No Administration in our history had done more to relax the spring of the national will and to deaden the national conscience. Within the Republican party conflicting forces were at work. There were men among the organization leaders who advocated a course of action such as offered no improvement upon the Democratic position, and advocated the nomination of candidates whose election would have represented no improvement upon the continuance in office of Mr. Wilson.

If such a course were followed, it would obviously become our duty to run a third ticket. But it was plainly our duty to do everything honorable in order to prevent such a necessity; to do everything short of sacrificing our most sacred convictions in order to secure the alignment under one leadership of the forces opposed to the continuance in power of Mr. Wilson and the Democratic party.

In my judgment, the nomination of Mr. Hughes meets the conditions set forth in the statement of the Progressive National Committee issued last January and in my own statements. Under existing conditions, the nomination of a third ticket would, in my jugdment, be merely a move in the interest of the election of Mr. Wilson. I regard Mr. Hughes as a man whose public record is a guarantee that "he will merely stand for a program of clean-cut, straight-out Americanism before election, but will resolutely and in good faith put it through if elected." He is beyond all comparison better fitted to be President than Mr. Wilson.

It would be a grave detriment to the country to re-elect Mr. Wilson. I shall, therefore, strongly support Mr. Hughes. Such being the case, it is unnecessary to say that I cannot accept the nomination on a third ticket. I do not believe that there should be a third ticket. I believe that when my fellow Progressives cooly consider the question they will for the most part take this position. They and I have but one purpose—the purpose to serve our common country. It is my deep conviction that at this moment we can serve it only by supporting Mr. Hughes.

It is urged against Mr. Hughes that he was supported by the various so-called German-American Alliances. I believe that the attitude of these professional German-Americans was due not in the least to any liking for Mr. Hughes but solely to their antagonism to me. They were bound to defeat me for the nomination. The only way by which they could achieve this object was by supporting Mr. Hughes, and they supported him accordingly, without any regard to other considerations.

I need hardly repeat what I have already said in stern reprobation of this professional German-American element—the element typified by the German-American alliances and the similar bodies, which have in the prenomination campaign played not merely an un-American but a thoroughly anti-American part. These men have nothing in common with the great body of Americans as those of any other ancestry.

Mr. Hughes' character and his whole course of conduct in public affairs justify us in the assured conviction that the fact that these men have for their own purposes supported him will, in no shape or way, affect his public action before or after election. His entire public life is a guarantee of this.

The events of the last three and a half years have shown that as much cannot be said for Mr. Wilson. In Mr. Wilson's case we do not have to consider his words but his deeds. His deeds absolutely contradict his words; and for the matter of that his words absolutely contradict one another. It is folly to pay heed to any of the promises in the platform on which he now stands in view of the fact that almost every important promise contained in the platform on which he stood four years ago has since been broken.

We owe all of our present trouble with the professional German-American element in the United States to Mr. Wilson's timid and vacillating course during the last two years. The defenders of Mr. Wilson have alleged in excuse for him that he confronted a difficult situation. As regards Mexico, the situation which Mr. Wilson confronted was nothing like as difficult as that which President McKinley confronted in connection with Cuba and the Philippines at the time of the Spanish War.

Under the actual circumstances we could with only a minimum of risk have protested on behalf of Belgium, a small well-behaved nation, when she was exposed to the last extremity of outrage by the brutal violation of her neutral rights; this violation being itself a violation of The Hague conventions to which we were a signatory power.

As regards the foreign situation generally during the great war, the fact of the existence of the war made it far easier and safer for Wilson to assert our rights than if he had had to deal with some single strong Power which was at the time unhampered by war. During the past 20 years questions have arisen with Powers of the first rank, such as England, Japan and Germany, each of which has necessitated far greater courage, resolution and judgment on the part of the President dealing with it than President Wilson need have shown in order to put a complete stop to the continually repeated murder of American men, women and children on the high seas by German submarines—the Lusitania being merely the worst of many such cases. The same feebleness that was shown by President Wilson in dealing with Germany abroad was also shown by him in dealing with the organized German outrages within our own land, and, finally, in dealing with the organized German-American vote. The continued existence of the German-American menace at home is directly due to Mr. Wilson's course of action during the past two years.

Certain of my friends who feel that the Progressives should run a third ticket base their feeling on objection to the character or actions of the Republican National Convention. As regards this point it is sufficient to say that the members of the Republican National Convention were unquestionably induced to nominate Mr. Hughes primarily because of the belief that his integrity and force of character and his long record of admirable public service would make him peculiarly acceptable, not only to the rank and file of the Republican party but to the people generally. I do not believe that Mr. Hughes would have been nominated if it had not been for the fight on behalf of public decency and efficiency which the Progressive party has waged during the last four years.

In any event, and without any regard to what the personal feelings of any of us may be as regards the action of the Republican Convention. I wish very solemnly to ask the representatives of the Progressive party to consider at this if, in this grave crisis of the nation's life, we permit ourselves to be swerved from the one prime duty of serving with cool judgment and single-minded devotion the nation's needs.

The world is passing through a great crisis, and no man can tell what trial and jeopardy will have to be faced by this nation during the years immediately ahead. There is now no longer before us for decision the question as to what particular man we may severally most desire to see at the head of the Government. We can decide only whether during these possibly vital years this country shall be intrusted to the leadership of Mr. Hughes or Mr. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson and his party have in actual practice lamentably failed to safeguard the interest and honor of the United States. They have brought us to impotence abroad and to division and weakness at home. They have accustomed us to see the highest and most responsible offices of government filled by incompetent men appointed only for reasons of partisan politics. They have dulled the moral sense of the people. They have taught us that peace, the peace of cowardice and dishonor and indifference to the welfare of others, is to be put above righteousness, above the stern and unflinching performance of duty whether the duty is pleasant or unpleasant.

Yet in Mexico they have failed even to secure the peace which they thus sought; and they have failed, in spite of the most ample opportunity and most ample warning, to prepare in any real fashion to meet the crisis which their own policy invited. They have taught us to put "safety first," safety before duty and honor; to put that materialism which expresses itself in mere money making, and in the fatted ease of life, above all spiritual things, above all the high and fine instincts of the soul. They have taught us to accept adroit elocution as a substitute for straightforward and efficient action. They have raised indecision, hesitancy and vacillation into settled governmental policy.

Mr. Hughes has shown in his career the instinct of efficiency which will guarantee that, under him, the Government will once more work with vigor and force. He possesses that habit of straightforward thinking which means that his words will be correlated with his deeds and translated into facts. His past career is the warrant for our belief that he will be the unfaltering opponent of that system of invisible government which finds expression in the domination of the party boss and the party machine.

His past career is a guarantee that whatever he says before election will be made good by his acts after election. Morally, his public record shows him to be a man of unbending integrity; intellectually, it shows him to be a man of original and trained ability. We have the alternative of continuing in office an Administration which has proved a lamentable failure, or of putting into office an Administration which we have every reason to believe will function with efficiency for the interest and honor of all our people, I earnestly bespeak from my fellow-Progressives their ungrudging support of Mr. Hughes.

Yours truly,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT.
